Houses to Let

THE two-story Dwelling House No Street, with a Stable and a supply water on the premises, rent cheap. No. 15 Islington

Miss May Ulrich, 1835 Southall street, Louisville, Ky., states that she suffered four years with rheumatism in her shoulder, and received more relief from St. Jacobs Oil than anything she ever tried.

Mrs. Jessie Taylor, a farmer's wife of Washington Court House, Ohio, has been fined $100 and sent to jail for sixty days, for inhuman treatment of Sadie Gove, her adopted child.

Henry Schoenhals, foreman Henry Krug Packing Co., St. Joseph, Mo., uses Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil with his men for sprains, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, etc. It is the best.

At Barnesville, S. C., Rebecca Samuels, aged twelve years, has been found guilty of murder for drowning Lucy Graham, an infant left in her care, in a pot of concentrated lye. This was her second crime of the same nature.

For Medicinal and Domestic Use, a pure whiskey is often required. Ask for the G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon. It is a standard article. Druggists and Grocers have it.

Rev. Sydney A. Wesley, pastor of a Presbyterian church at Wood Haven, N. Y., committed suicide June 29th. He only commenced preaching a month ago.

Thirty years is a long time, but for that term Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator has been before the public as a sure cure for Heart Disease in all its forms. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass. $1.00 per bottle at druggists.

Gen. Grant's Condition.

Gen. Grant is slowly but steadily failing in strength, and the end of his battle with disease cannot be far away. Dr. Douglas, his attending physician, says that while the change of a day is barely perceptible, the change of a week is sadly evident, and that if he was now in New York he could not bear the journey to Mt. MacGregor.

The Cholera.

Cholera returns in Spain for June 29th — new cases 1322, deaths 602.

A special from Ottawa, Ont., says: By the new quarantine regulations any vessel from Spain or Mediterranean ports, or any vessel having stopped at any of these ports on her voyage, or reported as coming from an infected port and suspected of being capable of introducing cholera, or any vessel from London, Eng., shall be subject to the application of the quarantine regulations in force for Quebec, St. John, Halifax, Pictou, Sydney and all ports of the dominion.

Record of the Republican Rascals.

The internal revenue service having been subjected to a pretty thorough overhauling, it may be interesting to glance at the record of the dismissed officials. From 1877 to 1884 there has been collected in that bureau and turned over to the treasury $1,014,581,501.81. The cost of collection has been $37,314,872.59, or a percentage of only 3.68. The vouchers for every dollar of this expenditure are on file in the treasury, and the work of collection was accomplished without the loss of a dollar to the government.

Hunting in Kentucky.

A despatch of June 27th from Louisville, Ky., is as follows:

A gentleman just returned from the mountains of eastern Kentucky says a most alarming condition of affairs exists in that section of the state. No less than four armed bands are hunting each other, like wild beasts, over the mountains. Last week Talt Hall, a desperado, and one of his followers, named Johnson, shot and killed Frank Sayer in his own doorway, because he objected to Hall's intimacy with his (Sayer's) wife. At the coroner's inquest, the following day, Hall, the murderer, took exception to the selection of Clairbornes Jones as a juryman. Jones resented this, and the two got their friends and fought in the open field. Two of the Hall faction were killed, and several wounded.

The gentleman reports that in Letcher county during the session of court, June 8th, Lincoln Banks, a noted desperado, was shot and killed by James Frazier, a merchant of Whitesbury, Ky. Banks, with his drunken gang, was trying to take possession of Frazier's store when he was killed.

A murder is also reported from Harlan county, which occurred June 17th. John and Dick Gross waylaid and shot George Burkhart, their brother-in-law, last October. The intended victim recovered, and meeting John Gross last Wednesday shot and killed him. All of the above desperadoes are still at large, and ready and ambitious for blood.

A Louisville despatch of June 29th says:

The trouble in Rowan county is increasing. Humphreys, the alleged sheriff, county-to-day shot Craig Tolliver, ex-sheriff of Moorehead, and leader of the Tolliver faction, who attempted to arrest him on a charge of contempt. Tolliver (Tolliver's) murder. Tolliver was armed with buckshot. He returned the shot with effect. At four o'clock this morning at Moorehead a posse attempted to arrest Humphrey, when he and his friends fled to a house, and killing his confederate, Rayburn, and mortally wounding Humphrey.

Fraudulent Practices.

The Chinese are said to be the most imitative race of people in existence. Americans do not fall far behind them. There are many liquid compounds having a peculiar and original color, odor or flavor by which they are recognized, and chemistry has advanced so far that it is easy, by the help of worthless ingredients, to prepare something having the semblance of the original, but without the characteristics which render it sought after. Wines and liquors of inferior quality are often by chemical process given an appearance of age and strength which they do not possess. St. Jacobs Oil has always been recognized by a peculiar color and odor; knowing this, many attempts have been made to imitate it by preparations having no curative power. The warnings which have been uttered on this subject should be carefully heeded.

Base Ball Record.

The following was the standing of the League clubs on the 30th ult.:

	Won.	Lost.	Played
Chicagos	34	8	42
New Yorks	31	9	40
Providence	26	13	39
Philadelphias	21	21	42
Bostons	15	25	40

Appointments.

The president has appointed James M. Adams register of the land office at Spokane Falls, Washington territory, vice Armstrong, suspended, and Benj. F. Peach pension agent at Boston, Mass., vice Daniel M. Gooch, suspended.

It is probable that Gen. Don Carlos Buell, the well-known Kentucky Union soldier, will be appointed pension agent at Louisville. Gen. Buell is now living in Kentucky, it is said, in very humble circumstances.

Of the Whitney-Dolphin examining board Commodore Belknap is hostile to the advisory board, Commander Evans has a personal grudge against Ex-Secretary Chandler, and Mr. Winter is a competitor with Mr. Roach in the business of shipbuilding.—Boston Journal.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly Yours,

THE JUVENILE CELEBRATOR.

All through this day he carries in his pockets
A lot of crackers, red lights, blue lights, rockets,
Toy pistols, matches, pin-wheels and torpedoes—
What patriot celebrates the Fourth as he does?
And gives, this day, full play to his emotions,
But for the morrow his wounds need cooling lotions.

"THE DAY WE CELEBRATE."

Probably every one of our local readers, unless particularly deaf, has realized this morning that the anniversary of our country's independence has again been reached, in the whirligig of time.

This is the day when our patriotism is aroused, and our appreciation of the blessings of self-government manifests itself.

That the country since last year in changing rulers, and if we mistake not, largely the public servants who administer its affairs, has felt hardly a jar in its even tenor; that with the possible exception of Miss Sweet at Chicago, the republican office-holders on receiving notice to vacate quietly fold their tents and take themselves away; that their successors find the cash balance is as in the statement contained; and that the defeated party, while preparing for a new struggle, places no obstacles in the way of the delighted democracy in their new estate giving themselves up to the enjoyment of their long-expected chance to eat, drink and be merry, are certainly causes for congratulation to every lover of self-government.

"Merry," did we say? But here and there, as some of our democratic friends sip their anniversary punch, in accordance with a time-honored custom to-day, we fear there is a lack of that wholehearted endorsement of the festina lente procedure of good Mr. Cleveland, who in turning the alleged rascals out, alas! finds sometimes that he has let a worse rascal in! Uneasy lies the head that wears a presidential hat, and Mr. Cleveland in his difficult, not to say dangerous, feat of pleasing that respectable, nay, powerful element which "could not stand Blaine" and lent its influence to the successful candidate, to be repaid in good behavior, and at the same time to keep within a reasonable check that uproarious element of democracy which expects so much and will be satisfied with nothing but a clean sweep, not to be unmindful of the delicate duty of caring for the results of the approaching New York election, has our sympathetic regard. We had hoped to see our friends of the democratic household enjoy the new dispensation better, but we feel that it will be a relief when a republican president comes into office, and ends all these perplexities.

But we did not intend to discuss this morning either politics or politicians; we only wish to recognize this joyous anniversary in a suitable manner, and regret that we are not better able to satisfy our readers by a more happy and patriotic recital. We can only add, as our toast on this occasion, the expressive words of the youth who attended the wedding of his uncle, a widower who essayed a second marriage, and as a sentiment gave

"Many happy returns of the day!"

As the printers will duly observe today as a holiday, no paper will be issued from this office on Monday.

The bells of the city will be rung morning, noon and evening.

A game of cricket will be played at the grounds of the Portsmouth club near Frenchman's lane, between the Internationals of Lowell, Mass., and the local club. Game will commence at eleven o'clock A. M.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians, of Dover, have a picnic at Pinkham's grove, Dover point, to-day, and invite all lovers of a good time to participate. One of the amusements provided will be a game of base ball between the Portsmouth and Dover clubs, commencing at eleven A. M.

There will be several explosions of Atlas powder, set off by electricity, in front of Shillaber's gun-shop to-day.

The band concerts (in the afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock, and in the evening from 7:30 to 9:30), by the South Berwick band, F. F. Adams, director, which has been provided by the city, will take place on Market Square. The following is the programme:

County Officers.

The Commissioners of Rockingham county elected to serve from July 1885 to July 1887, (Messrs. Newton Johnston of Portsmouth, Moses B. Dow of Plaistow, and J. R. Clark of Derry) met at Exeter on Wednesday, July 1, and organized with Mr. Johnston as chairman, and Mr. Clark as secretary. The other county officers elect were present, and also the retiring commissioners, Mr. Burley of Epping and Underhill of Auburn After the business was transacted the gentlemen dined together and passed an hour in social conversation. The occasion was a pleasant one to all present.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Court Street Christian Society was held on Thursday evening, July 2, at which time the following officers were elected: Wardens, Albert R. Junkins, John H. Locke and Charles B. Green; Clerk and Treasurer, Joseph Philbrick; Auditors, Charles E. Simpson and James R. Morrison. The treasurer's report showed the society to be in good financial standing, with all bills paid.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, July 3d.

George Roberts, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90.

John Newton, a blind man who served in the 18th United States infantry under Gen. Fred Townsend, during the war of the rebellion, but whose blindness cannot be traced to a cause entitling him to a pension, is in the city trying to sell a little book, written by himself, containing some of his experiences in New York in 1861. He is well educated, intelligent, and worthy, and there are few who cannot afford to assist him to the extent he asks.—Concord Monitor.

The blind person mentioned arrived in this city on Thursday morning, and has commenced to canvass the city with his books. He seems to be a person worthy of any assistance which our people may tender him.

The directors of the Boston & Maine railroad company, their ladies and invited guests left Dover on Thursday forenoon last in a special parlor car for the Crawford house, White mountains, where they spent the night. Hon. Frank Jones and wife, and Col. Charles A Sinclair and wife, of this city, were of the party.

Mr. S. W. Treadwell, son of Samuel P. Treadwell, Esq., arrived here with his family on Friday from New York on their summer vacation; Mr. Samuel Leveen and Dr. J. W. Hurley of New York also arrived the same day on a visit home. Dr. Hurley studied medicine with Dr. F. E. Potter of this city, and on going to New York at once won a diploma from a prominent medical school; success has attended him ever since, and in his daily practice he now drives a turnout which is noticeable even in New York city.

Hon. Charles Levi Woodbury, and Hon. Christopher Rymes of Charlestown, Mass., were among the passengers for the Shoals by the steamer Appledore on Friday evening.

"Webb" writes to the Boston Journal from Washington that it is rumored there "that Hon. Frank Jones, while not denying that he is the boss of New Hampshire politics, begins to think that he wields a barren sceptre, and that he has discovered that he cannot have everything his own way."

Mr. Elvin Newton arrived in from Lunging island, Isles of Shoals, on the 2d inst. He reports the fisheries at the islands very dull at present.

A new band-stand was this week built by a gang of carpenters under direction of Mr. George A. Jackson, for the use of the band on the 4th. It is roofed over with cloth, and so constructed as to be easily screened in on either side with cloth in case of a driving rain or an objectionable amount of wind. After the city gets through with it, it would make a good boarding house for campers-out at Rye beach, the floor being sufficiently elevated to keep them out of the way of running water from sudden showers, and from green snakes and straddlebugs of all kinds, while the frame when closed in with canvas would be far superior to any tent.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH calls the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stall or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal in the city into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And any person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

Ladies', Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham. This is to certify to the grand effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor, languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.—T. H. Gafford and wife.

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Itch, Cuts, etc., in fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON. MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist. ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

THAT beautifully situated estate known as the Capt. John Hunt ress homestead, on a line with the Wm. Gardner mansion, and the projected extension of Mechanic street to connect with Pleasant street. This house or block is commodious for two large families, and has been substantially repaired by James Jaurvin; price $750, carrying the right to purchase the adjacent wharf for $100 additional—$850. It has a historic interest as the cradle of the Marcy family and is opposite the house where Washington visited his Private Secretary Lear. There was a cargo of sugar and molasses landed and stored there, and it would seem that it cannot be long before this wharf will again be in requisition.

Two thousand excursionists went down the Ohio river from Cincinnati on Sunday, June 28th, to witness the blowing up by Paul Boyton of a three-masted ship, extemporized out of an old barge, eight miles from Cincinnati. Boyton fixed a can of dynamite to the vessel amidships, and withdrew 100 yards to await the results. Two minutes later the boat was blown to splinters.

Tens of Thousand Colds

Lead to consumption, fevers, settled coughs, asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, etc. Immediate relief by Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer.

George W. Taylor was fined $30 and costs, amounting to $35.80, at Nahant, Mass., June 30th, for selling lobsters under 10 1-2 inches in length. He paid without a murmur.

Are You Tired of Being Sick?

We want to say a word to the men, women and girls who work in stores, offices and factories. There are hundreds of thousands of you in the country. Very few of you are well. You are shut up too much and exercise too little. In this way you get sick. Your blood is bad, your digestion poor, your head often aches, you don't feel like work. Your liver, stomach and kidneys are out of order. Parker's Tonic has cured hundreds of such cases. It is pure, sure and pleasant.

A. J. Dumont, late naval officer of New Orleans, and chairman of the republican state central committee of Louisiana, blew his brains out, June 30th, at his home in Algiers. Family trouble is said to have been the cause.

After using all the humbug liniments and salves with sure failure, go and get of your druggist a Hop Plaster. The strongest and best porous plaster ever made. Vastly superior to all other external remedies. The complete pain-killing virtues of fresh hops combined with strengthening gums and Burgundy pitch. 25c.

The Cunard steamer Gallia is making her way from New York to Liverpool with a broken shaft. Among her passengers are Hon. S. S. Cox, United States minister to Turkey, Ex-Senator Conkling and Ex-Attorney General Brewster.

"Few remedies have acquired so much fame, and grown so universally popular in the cure of coughs and colds, and all affections of the throat and lungs, as Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Many persons in this city have no hesitation in recommending it to the suffering."

A despatch from Shenandoah, Pa., says: An army of tramps raided the town of Stumptown on Sunday, stealing everything of value within their reach. A pitched battle between the police and tramps resulted in victory for the former, but not until after a peddler named Coulter had been murdered and many residences and stores pillaged.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

For Children and Pulmonary Troubles

Dr. W. S. Hoy, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary troubles, and general debility, and have been astonished at the good results, and as a remedy for children with rickets or Marasmus, it is unequalled."

What there is in a Bottle

SMARTING Sufficient to stop in five minutes the smarting, stinging pain of any burns or scalds. It will stop the pain as soon as applied.

COUGHING Abundance to cure a score of colds and the coughing that often leads the way to Consumption. It WILL positively ease a Cough in 15 minutes.

CHOKING More than enough to save a dozen children Choking with Croup. One minute after the first dose the hardest attack of Croup will be relieved.

WHEEZING Plenty to relieve the oppression and wheezing of the most severe cases of Asthma. The direct cures of Asthma by this medicine is proof that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has no equal as an Asthma cure.

In the above cases Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil can be relied upon. It has given relief to thousands. Keep it in your house. There is hardly a week of the year it will not be useful.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

The fourth annual summer meeting of the Universalists will commence at the Weirs on Aug. 5th, holding five days, and is expected to be the largest ever held. Wednesday, the 5th, there will be a Sunday school concert, and Friday will be laymen's day. Distinguished speakers will be present.

Henry Schœnhals, foreman Henry Krug Packing Co., St. Joseph, Mo., uses Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil with his men for sprains, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, etc. It is the best.

Denison Healy, an aged farmer, living near the village of Hope, R. I., was almost instantly killed on June 29th by the discharge of his gun, which he had just loaded and was using as a support.

For Medicinal and Domestic Use, a pure whiskey is often required. Ask for the G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon. It is a standard article. Druggists and Grocers have it.

Colonel William R. Patten, ex-clerk of the house of representatives of New Hampshire and ex-city solicitor of Manchester, was committed to the asylum for insane in Concord on Friday, the 30th ult. His insanity resulted from softening of the brain.

Thirty years is a long time, but for that term Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator has been before the public as a sure cure for Heart Disease in all its forms. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass. $1.00 per bottle at druggists.

A young man of very genteel bearing applied for assistance Sunday, June 28th, at Erie, Pa., and being treated as an ordinary tramp by the hired girl, he was desired to do some hoeing in advance for the bite requested. The young man went behind a hedge and shot himself in the head. The wound is not necessarily fatal. A card in his case indicates that he is a lawyer named Henry Davidson, of Brattleboro, Vt.

Oil from Nature's Wells.

The skin on the head is kept soft and flexible by a secretion from the oil glands. When these are clogged the hair dries and falls off. Parker's Hair Balsam renews their action, restores the original color to the hair and makes it soft and glossy. It also eradicates dandruff. Not greasy, not a dye, deliciously perfumed. Delightful for a lady's toilet table. The best of dressing. Preferable to all similar articles because of its superior cleanliness and purity.

The Yacht "Puritan."

The sloop yacht Puritan, built in Boston as a candidate for the defending of the America's cup in the race with the English yacht Genesta, sailed her first race on the 30th ult. in the regatta of the Eastern yacht club, and not only beat everything in her class, but every yacht in the race in actual time, leaving the famous America, a much larger vessel, fifty-five minutes behind in sailing thirty miles.

The National Debt.

It is estimated that there has been a decrease of about $10,500,000 in the public debt during June. This will make the total reduction for the year just ended, about $65,000,000. The reduction during the previous year was $101,000,000. The expenditures during the year were about $310,000,000, and the receipts about $321,000,000, or about $7,500,000 less than the estimates.

The Providence Journal says: "Mrs. Yseult Dudley has been acquitted, nominally on the ground of insanity, but really because the person she attacked is a pestilential nuisance, who has invited any sort of reprisal by professing to be engaged in an inhuman warfare, and who cannot complain if he is taken at his word, even if he be nothing but a sham and fraud. This is not law nor logic, but it is a sort of rude justice."

Several weeks ago a man named Kohler was arrested for poisoning George H. Harmon in Portland, Me., last February. The motive was reported to have been intimacy between Kohler and Mrs. Harmon. Kohler is now under arrest, and a chemist has found arsenic in the exhumed body of Harmon. Last week Mrs. Harmon went to visit friends in Standish, and while there was taken suddenly ill. A doctor was called, and found she had tried to commit suicide by taking poison. After proper treatment she partially recovered, and it is now supposed she will get well.

An infernal machine of a rather clumsy pattern was sent by mail to L. Lum Smith, publisher of the Agent's Herald of Philadelphia. It was a wooden box about five inches square and three inches high. The word "private" on the lid of the box aroused Mr. Smith's suspicions. He opened the box cautiously, and found a 44-calibre, breech-loading derringer inside. It was loaded and cocked, and a piece of copper wire was attached to the trigger and fastened to the lid of the box, but in such a way that the opening of the box could not possibly have discharged the pistol. The postal authorities are investigating the matter.

Recently L. S. Emery, a fourth-class clerk in the sixth auditor's office, was discharged. The next day he visited Appointment Clerk Higgins, asking to see a copy of the charges on file against him. Mr. Higgins said: "How long have you been in the office?" "Twenty-one years," was the answer. "You are a republican, and that is the reason why you ought to go," said Mr. Higgins; "we won the victory last fall, and we are going to have the spoils." Assistant Secretary Coon says that Mr. Emery was one of the most valuable and efficient clerks in the treasury department.

Secretary Whitney has revoked the following naval order issued July 5th, 1883: "Naval officers attached to cruising war vessels, especially commanding officers, are expected to leave their families at their usual or fixed places of abode, and not to attempt to transfer them to more convenient visiting points. Officers disregarding this injunction will be liable to be relieved from duty.

Two gold championship medals won by Edward C. Stickney of this city at Lynn, Mass., May 30th and June 22d, are on exhibition in the window of Hutchinson's store. On the first date he put up from the shoulder to arm's length above his head a four-pound dumb-bell 6000 times in fifty-seven minutes; on June 22d he performed the same feat in seven seconds less than an hour, and afterward put up a fifty-pound bell nineteen times with his left hand, and also performed with a 100-lb. bell. These feats were executed in Tremont hall, Lynn, and are vouched for by F. H. Cann, superintendent of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium of that city.

Mr. Al. Junkins of the Scotland district, York, recently bought of John Funnison of Kittery a fine young horse which he values at two hundred dollars. Mrs. Junkins is paying much attention to the raising of poultry. Their place being on the banks of York river is especially adapted to the raising of geese and ducks, of which Mrs. Junkins has large numbers. She has also what is probably the largest flock of turkeys in York, but from some unaccountable reason these fowls are very apt to die off, and she has already lost several dozen of them.

The school in district twelve, Kittery Point, closed its spring term on Tuesday, June 30th, with a very interesting exhibition under the management of the teacher, Miss Minnie E. Paul, daughter of Warrington Paul, Esq., of Kittery. The exhibition was a great success, and a credit to Miss Paul, showing how earnestly and faithfully she has labored for the benefit of the scholars, not only in the usual studies, but in the introduction into the school of music, which added greatly to the interest taken by the pupils and visitors. The scholars presented her with a very fine gold ring as a token of their love and gratitude. BOSTONIAN.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is much extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, MASS.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1879, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1879) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had doubtingly taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became convinced that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.,
24 Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy remedy for the diseases of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex, Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

The clerk of the national house of representatives says that from present indications there will be fewer contested election cases before the next Congress than there have been before in any Congress for forty years. There will not be more than four, and probably not more than three.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

A HANDY CONTRIVANCE.

Mr. C. W. Taylor of this city has just had the patterns made for a patent adjustable stovepipe-shelf, invented by him, and which is so great an improvement over anything of the kind previously produced as to seem perfection. It can be readily affixed to a stovepipe of any size or shape, either horizontal or perpendicular, the same fixture being used for both positions. The shelves will be of cast iron open-work, light and neat yet strong, and will be put on the market at a moderate price.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES--COLT J.

In case Wheeler and others vs. Chas. Scott, action of replevin, by agreement of counsel articles of value of $502 have been stricken out of the declaration, leaving articles to the amount of $850.00. There is to be judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $675, without costs, and case to be marked judgment satisfied.

This is in full settlement of all actions or causes of action against Scott, who is sheriff of Hillsborough county, his deputy, D. K. White, and Thomas Dunlap, but does not include causes of action against John N. Baker for articles not embraced in the above made.

W. J. Copeland for plff.; Burnham; Wilson for deft.

ALABAMA CLAIMS.

In the court of commissioners of Alabama claims at Washington, D. C., June 29th, among the judgments announced were the following, the sums specified drawing interest at four per cent from the dates named:

No. 668. T. M. Ball, $2288, May 25th, 1864.

No. 4204. M. M. Salter, administratrix, $263, June 10th, 1864.

No. 4205. William H. Preston, executor, $333, Dec. 29th, 1865.

No. 4206. J. L. Salter, executor, $227; M. H. Wentworth, administrator, $850; T. S. Tredick, executor, $113; A. T. Salter, administrator, $35; July 2d, 1863.

CHEAP POSTAGE.

The following important changes in the postal regulations go into effect to-day:

Any article in a newspaper or other publication may be marked for observation except by written or printed words, without increase of postage.

All newspapers sent from the office of publication, including sample copies, or when sent from a news agency, to actual subscribers thereto, or to other news agents, shall be entitled to transmission at the rate of one cent per pound or fraction thereof, the postage to be prepaid.

The weight of all single-rate letters is increased from one-half of one ounce each or fraction thereof, to one ounce or fraction thereof. The same increase of weight is allowed for drop letters, whether mailed at stations where there is a free delivery or where carrier service is not established.

The most important of these changes is the reduction of letter postage, for the increase of the weight of single-rate letters upon ounce mails amounts to that, though the letter-rate for the United States and Canada continues at two cents. Private individuals mailing newspapers and periodicals will pay at the rate of one cent for four ounces. This is another step in the direction of cheaper postage, and is almost incredible advance from the time when persons who wished to send letters resorted to various dodges to evade the established rates, which varied from six and a quarter to twenty-five cents a letter, according to distance.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, June 29th.

Mr. Lewis Nudd has made a handsome addition to his hotel — a French roof and eleven rooms; Mr. Charles Perkins is already domiciled in his new house, and Mr. Joh[illegible] on the ru[illegible] of June [illegible] contractor [illegible] for carpenters to rebuild the Sea View house, and has had at times forty-two at work. The house, containing twenty-six rooms, and the stable of forty stalls, are now nearly finished, and will be in "jubilant occupation" by July Fourth! The lumber has been forwarded to order from the Norton Mills, Vermont, and the teams of Curtis DeLancey have run four trips each, daily, from the depot to the beach, averaging 1000 bricks, twenty-five casks of lime, or more than 2000 feet of lumber, per load.

New potatoes, Pearl of Savoy variety, and nice green peas, June 21st at DeLancey place.

Our railroad station agent, Mr. Wright, while handing the mail into the passing express train, slipped from the platform and his foot was caught by the wheels, the shoe being torn off, and the heel of it, somehow wedged in the machinery, was carried to Newburyport. In the gladness of the "airbreadth" escape from a terrible fate, Mr. Wright does not complain of bruises and temporary lameness. **

Mr. John P. Sweetser has been busily engaged this season in furnishing the plumbing materials and work for many of the summer resorts and private residences in this vicinity, among them the Marshall house and cottages at York harbor; the cottages of Mrs. Peters and Dr. Stackpole, the hotel Bartlett, Garrison house, and others at York beach; the McCluer place (plumbing, range and furnace) at Gerrish's island, Kittery; kitchen ware etc., for several of the hotels and cottages at Rye and Hampton beaches, and the Appledore and Oceanic hotels at the Isles of Shoals, etc. He has a large force now at work at his plumbing and kitchen furnishing establishment on Market street.

The South Berwick Cadet band has been engaged to play in this city on the 4th.

The Grocers' Association of Boston, to the number of over 100, arrived in this city Tuesday morning, and were taken in carriages to the hotel Wentworth, where they had dinner, returning in the evening.

Mr. David Dearborn's carriage was somewhat damaged by an accident on Middle street, Tuesday.

Messrs. Joseph Seawards, William Trefethen and John E. Fairbanks were discharged from the navy yard watch on Tuesday, the 30th ult.

There will be a meeting of the Committee on Return of the Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth in the office of the president of the committee, Col. Wm. H. Sise, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon on the 4th of July.

Capt. Edward D. Coffin has just finished a fine specimen of workmanship in graining and frescoing the office of Mrs. John Dixon on Water street. The alderman's mechanical and artistic skill excels his quaint ever as a politician.

The Monday's issue of the Concord People & Patriot contained the following: "Hon. Thomas E. O. Marvin of Portsmouth, president of the state society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, who has been staying in this city for a few days on business, was present at the Unitarian Sunday school yesterday, and addressed the children and teachers upon kindness to animals."

Fifty-five candidates for admission to the high school appeared before the examiners on Friday and Saturday of last week, of which number forty-seven were admitted, one being conditioned.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future, on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every week he may neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, but shall cause them to be buried in some lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises adjacent to such place shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham. This is to certify to the grand effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor, languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.—T. H. Gafford and wife.

In Cleveland, Ohio, July 1st, three girls aged respectively seven, nine and seventeen years were burned to death in their home. The elder girl was to have been married on the 5th.

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, Rockingham, ss.

By the Judge of Probate for said County.

TO the heirs at law and creditors to the estate of Henry S. Horton, deceased, intestate, and all persons interested in said estate, GREETING.

YOU are hereby notified that Marcellus Bufford, administrator of the estate of said deceased, has filed his account of administering said estate in the Probate office, for said County, and will present the same at a Court of Probate to be holden at Portsmouth, in and for said County, on the Second Tuesday of July next, at 10 o'clock A. M., for examination and allowance.

YOU are therefore hereby cited to appear at said court to be heard thereon, and to make such objections as you may then have. And notice is hereby required to be given by causing this citation to be published three weeks successively in the PORTSMOUTH DAILY CHRONICLE, a newspaper printed at Portsmouth, in said County, the last publication whereof to be at least one week prior to said Court. Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.

MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.

ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

JNO. GASKILL.

HEBRON, THAYER COUNTY, PENN.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1.00; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

A Prize in the Lottery

Of life which is usually unappreciated until it is lost, perhaps never to return, is health. What a priceless boon it is, and how we ought to cherish it, that life may not be a worthless blank to us. Many of the diseases that flesh is heir to, and which make life burdensome, such as consumption (scrofula of the lungs) and other scrofulous and blood diseases, find a complete cure in Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" when all other remedies have failed. Dr. Pierce's pamphlet on consumption mailed for two stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

A fight between United States troops under Lieut. Davis, and a band of marauding Apaches, is reported from Arizona, the troops being victorious, killing sixteen Indians and taking about twenty prisoners. The loss of the whites is not stated.

Tens of Thousand Colds

Lead to consumption, fevers, settled coughs, asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, etc. Immediate relief by Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer.

In a fight at Stepstone, Ky., between the temperance and the free whiskey men, a white man and a negro were killed.

James Pyle's Pearline has become recognized as the best washing preparation ever invented. It has relieved wash-day of the old wear and tear, and cleans the dirtiest fabric without injuring it.

Two million cartridges have been shipped from Woolwich, England, to Egypt, presumably in connection with the government's intention of reoccupying Dongola.

After using all the humbug liniments and salves with sure failure, go and get of your druggist a Hop Plaster. The strongest and best porous plaster ever made. Vastly superior to all other external remedies. The complete pain-allaying virtues of fresh hops combined with strengthening gums and Burgundy pitch. 25c.

William Drummond, formerly chief justice of Utah, has been sent to the house of correction in Chicago for stealing newspaper stamps to buy a drink of whiskey.

Captain Courtney!

Says: While on the coast of Africa I had three men sick with malarial fever. I cured them with Sulphur Bitters. It is the greatest blood purifier I ever saw. I always keep them in my medicine chest. Ship Nautilus, Baltimore.

The marble statue of the late President Garfield, contributed by the state of Ohio to National Statuary hall, Washington, was unveiled without ceremony in the presence of Governor Hoadly and two or three members of the committee from Ohio.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, For Children and Pulmonary Troubles

Dr. W. S. Hoy, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary troubles, and general debility, and have been astonished at the good results, and as a remedy for children with rickets or Marasmus, it is unequalled."

It is officially denied that Mr. Kelley has been recalled as minister to Austria.

Nervous Debilitated Men.

You are allowed a free trial of thirty days of the use of Dr. Dye's Celebrated Voltaic Belt with Electric Suspensory Appliances, for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Debility, loss of Vitality and Manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also, for many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred. WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

Among the many symptoms of Dyspepsia or indigestion the most prominent are: Variable appetite; faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, with unsatisfied craving for food; heartburn, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration, headache, and constipation. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and none so peculiar to the high-living and rapid-eating American people. Alcohol and tobacco produce Dyspepsia; also, bad air, rapid eating, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will cure the worst case, by regulating the bowels and toning up the digestive organs. Sold everywhere.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important organ the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

A Million a Year.

Capt. L. L. Lyons, of New Orleans, who does a wholesale drug business of over a million dollars annually, states that all speak highly of the curative properties of St. Jacobs Oil, and that it continues the best selling article for rheumatism and other pains.

Says the New Bedford Mercury: "Nebraska has joined Kansas and New Jersey in passing a law to make the mother's legal right to her child equal to that of the father. These are the only states out of thirty-eight in which this is recognized, more shame to the thirty-ve."

Henry Schoenhals, foreman Henry Krug Pecking Co., St. Joseph, Mo., uses Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil with his men for sprains, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, etc. It is the best.

The diet of Brunswick, at Berlin, Germany, by a unanimous vote adopted a resolution declaring that "the succession of the duke of Cumberland to the throne of Brunswick would be incompatible with the peace and security of the German empire."

For Medicinal and Domestic Use, a pure whiskey is often required. Ask for the G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon. It is a standard article. Druggists and Grocers have it.

The state attorney before beginning his argument in the case of the five Italians in Chicago, charged with the strangling of Carusso, the lemon peddler, said he desired to enter a nolle prosequi in the case of Bora and Mercurio, two of the defendants. The court said the jury would be instructed to bring in a verdict of not guilty as against them. The others were convicted.

While Prof. Shippy and family were rowing on Des Moines river at Algona, Iowa, the boat upset, and all were thrown into the water. Mrs. Shippy and two children were drowned and Mr. Shippy was rescued. The bodies of the mother and one child have been recovered.

Oil from Nature's Wells.

The skin on the head is kept soft and flexible by a secretion from the oil glands. When these are clogged the hair dries and falls off. Parker's Hair Balsam renews their action, restores the original color to the hair and makes it soft and glossy. It also eradicates dandruff. Not greasy, not a dye, deliciously perfumed. Delightful for a lady's toilet table. The best of dressing. Preferable to all similar articles because of its superior cleanliness and purity.

The journals of Major Gen. C. G. Gordon, C. B., at Kartoum. Printed from the original MSS, with portrait, two maps, and thirty illustrations after sketches by Gen. Gordon. Boston: Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; pp. 479; price $2. For sale in Portsmouth by M. Goodrich.

The mourful interest which attaches to the fate of the great military leader and far-sighted philanthropist whose life was sacrificed at Kartoum though the shilly-shallying of the British government and the blundering incapacity of the consequential Wolseley, will cause this book to be eargerly sought by those who wish to know of the inner facts concerning the disastrous campaign in the Soudan, and the causes which led to Gordon's presence in Kartoum. The British edition of Gordon's journals, published simultaneously with the American edition, is sold there at a guinea, nearly three times the price of the book here.

LEWIS HOLMES, Manager.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1878, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
MRS. S. S. MOODY.

THE KIND OF A DEMOCRAT THEY WANT.

We regret to learn that some of the local democrats are not pleased with the appointment of Mr. Hanscom as collector of the port, and assert that he has done nothing for the party to entitle him to this reward for political service. "Done nothing!" out upon such ingratitude. We recall the long line of editors and publishers of the democratic organ in Portsmouth since the days of Abner Greenleaf. The care for these men was the first duty of a democratic administration. The new school of progressive democrats may as well sit down and be quiet in the party. Let us remind them of Virgin, Alexander, Rundlett, Hill, Fuller and others, who have been tide waiters, postmasters, pension agents, and in like places, because the irrepressible democrats did not heartily support their local press. If a constant warfare in a newspaper upon the republican party, by the Times editor, is not a service to the democracy, what in the name of justice should have been done?

Perhaps Mr. Hanscom is too respectable for the standard of some of his party friends. Do they desire to see a custodian of the public building like Jerry Mulroy, who has just been appointed custodian at Cincinnati, who is stated to be a graduate of the work house, and was once convicted of petty larceny, and who was pressed for the appointment upon this reform administration by reason of his peculiar services in increasing, by ways that are dark, the democratic vote? We are glad that in New England a better type of man is selected by the administration for such positions.

Mr. Hanscom, while devoted to democratic principles, which he has persistently supported for a period dating back long before some of his critics saw the face of this earth at their birth in the monarchial regions of the old world, is known both in New Hampshire and Maine as an honest man and a consistent advocate of democratic ideas, and as a public functionary will be found to be upright in all his duties.

It is not often that the Chronicle feels called upon to endorse the acts of the present administration, but appointment to a public office of any man carries with it the right to criticise or commend the act of the executive, just as the facts determine. In regard to the collectorship, the administration has made a judicious selection, and the very moderate remuneration liable to be received for the discharge of the duties of this office is but a feeble recognition of the labors of our cotemporary for the good of his party for the last quarter of a century.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

THURSDAY, July 2d.

William Nevells, drunk, was allowed to depart on his earnest entreaty and promise to leave town.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Rebecca Shepard, Smith master, arrived on the 2d instant from Philadelphia with 610 tons of coal to E. F. Sise & Co.

The fishing schooner Grace Choate, Robinson master, arrived on the night of the 1st inst. from Gloucester, where she sold a fare of about 50,000 lbs. of fish.

The steamer Allentown, with 1660 tons of coal, and the schooner Abbie K. Bentley, with 470 tons, both from Philadelphia; also the schooner Mabel L. Phillips, from Baltimore with 1170 tons, arrived on the 2d inst., all to J. Albert Walker.

KITTERY HIGH SCHOOL.

The graduating exercises of the Kittery high school class of '85 were held in the 2d Methodist church, at the Foreside, on Thursday afternoon, 2d inst., commencing at two o'clock. Music for the occasion was furnished by Lord & Medcalf's orchestra, assisted by Misses Hattie T. Pettigrew and Lizzie A. Hill, sopranos, Annie M. Pettigrew and Mary J. Hill, contraltos, and Mabel O. Moore, pianist. The name of the graduates are as follows: Hattie Eaton Duncan, Sarah Emma Hayes, Marie Augusta Pettigrew, Millie Aldana Damon, Dennis Alfred Manson. The church was filled with the relatives and friends of the pupils; the exercises consisted of the reading of an essay by each of the graduates, liberally interspersed with vocal and instrumental music, the following being the PROGRAMME.

Benediction.

The affair passed off very satisfactorily, and was alike pleasing to the parents of the pupils and creditable to the graduates and to Frank E. Rowell and Miss Amanda Abrams, the principal and assistant of the school.

Col. Thomas W. Peirce, president of the Galveston, Houston & San Antonio railway of Texas, accompanied by R. S. Spofford, Esq., of Newburyport, went to the Isles of Shoals on Wednesday of this week. Col. Peirce is in search of a suitable place for rest and recuperation. He has expended a vast amount of energy in promoting the means for the construction of the great railway system of which he has been the successful prime mover. His work has been accomplished at a no little expenditure of vital energy, and now the colonel is seeking that repose which the high pressure at which he has driven for several years makes inevitable. He will find the required repose at the Isles of Shoals, if anywhere to be had.

A chicken halibut weighing twenty-eight pounds was caught between Whales-back and the Isles of Shoals on the 1st inst., and sold to a local fish dealer.

Eight fine young horses are now kept at the city stable on Court street, for city work. The latest addition to the number arrived on Tuesday of this week, and weighs 1425 lbs.; he is of a bay color, is kind and gentle, and was bought under the direction of Aldermen Coffin and Cook.

The Ladies' Relief Corps, auxiliary to Storer Post, will give a strawberry festival and entertainment at Congress hall on Tuesday evening next; vocal and instrumental music, dancing, etc.

Over 100 bicyclers have accepted the invitation sent out by the Rockingham Bicycle club to participate in a run to the beaches on the 4th. Should the afternoon be pleasant a short parade through the principal streets of the city will be made about 4:30 o'clock.

Naval Constructor Wm. L. Mintoyne, who has succeeded Constructor Webb in charge of the department of construction and repair at this navy yard, has been connected with the Brooklyn navy yard since 1854, and since 1869 as constructor, to which position he worked his way up step by step from the grade of shipwright; under his direction about thirty war vessels have been built.

The North parish Sunday school had a picnic at Wallis' sands, Rye beach, on the 2d inst., going down from this city in barges.

Special Agent N. W. Bingham, of the treasury department, made the annual inspection of the custom house in this city on the 2d inst.

It is announced that Hon. Frank Jones has engaged Mr. Thomas Entwistle as night watchman at the Rockingham house.

Col. J. Horace Kent took the oath of office on the 1st inst., and commenced his fifth term as sheriff of Rockingham county. He has appointed as his deputies Thornton B. Hoyt of Exeter, Samuel E. Woodman of Kingston, Israel A. Dustin of Derry, William Clark of Londonderry, E. A. J. Sawyer of Deerfield, Addison D. Wiggin of Newmarket, W. F. Watson of Nottingham, Joseph S. Trickey of Northwood, George O. Eaton of Candia, John Pender of Portsmouth, Charles C. Shepard of Raymond, George W. Tilton of Epping; deputy sheriff and jailer at Exeter, Harrison D. Lord.

Mr. A. H. Shipman of Rochester, N. Y., with his wife and a party of friends, will soon leave Pittsburg, Pa., in his yacht, the "Laura May," on an extended trip of 6000 miles, which will occupy a year, though mainly confined to the internal waters of the United States. The Ohio and Mississippi rivers and the great lakes will be traveled, Florida visited in November, and from thence to Cuba and the Bahamas, occupying the time till May. Returning, the yacht will pass up the Atlantic coast, and through the chain of shoals and canals that lead through Virginia to the Potomac river. Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia will be visited, when the yacht will steam to New York, and thence to Rochester via the Hudson river and Erie canal.

DR. CROSS,

The celebrated Magnetic Physician whose great cures attracted so much attention in this city some months ago, will be at the Kearsarge house on the 15th inst. to remain a few weeks. All chronic diseases are successfully treated. Consultation and advice free.

The steamer Lady of the Lake, plying on the Lake Winnipesaukie, broke her cylinder six miles from Centre Harbor on Tuesday night, the 30th ult.

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicine relieves or cures so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that "DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the chymia. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.,

24 Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases where a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poison, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who are weak or nervous it imparts vigor and tone. Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a true blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5. by all druggists.

Thomas W. Hamilton, aged twenty-six years, a member of the Acme Iron Works Co. of St. Johnsbury, Vt., was killed June 30th by a falling timber. He was married twelve days previous.

"Buchu-Paiba."

Quick, complete cure, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, scalding, irritation, stone, gravel, catarrh of the bladder. $1. Druggists.

An annual review of the grain market in San Francisco gives the wheat exports for the year ending June 30th at 26,230,000 bushels, and flour at 1,300,000 barrels.

Biliousness

Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, breath offensive, tongue coated, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

At Springfield, Mass., on the night of June 30th, a watchman fired at two suspicious characters in the outskirts of the city, and policemen afterward pursued them. They ran, and dropped three flannel bags containing the silver communion service of Christ Episcopal church, the theft of which had not been reported.

Mothers, teething and fretful children need Dr. Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial. Druggists, 25c.

Oyster men in the vicinity of New Haven, Conn., are greatly agitated over the recent discovery that a very destructive insect has been at work on their oyster beds, and that of the 100,000 bushels of seed planted last year about 90,000 bushels have been destroyed.

Don't Get Discouraged!

Because the doctors say you cannot live. I was troubled with Dropsy, and given up to die. But after using Sulphur Bitters I am well. It is the best medicine for all Kidneys diseases I ever saw.—Mrs. J. Brown, Bridgeport, Conn.

The California supreme court rendered a decision in the celebrated Hill-Sharon divorce case, denying the plaintiff's motion to dismiss the appeal, and staying all proceedings for payment of counsel fees and alimony pending the appeal.

Physic is necessary at times for biliousness, costiveness, etc. Use Dr. Arnold's Bilious Pills. 25c.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. sodjan2,85

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or out of doors, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above prescribed.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

Ladies' Weaknesses.

Mr. T. H. Gafford of Church Hill, Md., is so thankful for the restoration of his wife to complete health that he is willing to certify to the fact and manner of her cure. To Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham. This is to certify to the grand effects of your Vegetable Compound. My wife was suffering from a terrible disease which seemed to baffle the skill of the best medical men. She was in a poor, languid, depressed, nervous condition. We finally concluded to try your Vegetable Compound and to our great surprise the half of one bottle had not been taken before there seemed to be a thorough change in her whole condition, and now to-day she is in good health and entirely relieved from all former depressed feelings.—T. H. Gafford and wife.

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, as I am as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.

MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.

ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Oil from Nature's Wells.

The skin on the head is kept soft and flexible by a secretion from the oil glands. When these are clogged the hair dries and falls off. Parker's Hair Balsam renews their action, restores the original color to the hair and makes it soft and glossy. It also eradicates dandruff. Not greasy, not a dye, deliciously perfumed. Delightful for a lady's toilet table. The best of dressing. Preferable to all similar articles because of its superior cleanliness and purity.

A Necessary but Non-Enforcible Order.

Secretary Whitney of the navy, in revoking the order of Ex-Secretary Chandler in relation to officers attached to cruising vessels having their families with them, says he does not assume to question the existence of the evil which the order was intended to remedy, but that it was found impossible to enforce the order. To determine the degree of punishment proper to be administered to an officer by reason of the violation by his wife of a navy regulation, is found difficult in practice. The degree of control and hence the degree of responsibility is found to vary greatly in different families. The determination of this matter in each case, in order to avoid injustice to meritorious officers, calls for too intricate and too delicate an investigation.

The "Ambrose Light" Discharged.

In New York, July 2d, Judge Brown of the United States district court rendered a decision in the case of the brig Ambrose Light, which was captured by the United States man-of-war Alliance, in Central American waters some weeks ago. Judge Brown holds that the United States vessel was justified in capturing the brig, but as the belligerency of both the combatants in the United States of Colombia has been recognized by this government, the vessel had a right to carry arms. It was ordered that the brig should be returned to her owners, upon payment by them of costs.

The Cholera.

Official reports show that in all Spain on the 1st inst. there were 1487 new cases, and 692 deaths from cholera. These figures include 783 new cases in the capital and province of Valencia, and 412 deaths there. Two fresh cases were reported in Madrid. The epidemic is decreasing in Murcia and Castellon de la Plana; in Valencia, however, there is little change observable, and that for the worse, if anything.

Gov. Currier and wife gave their first public reception in Concord on the evening of July 2d, at the Eagle hotel, which was thronged with people desirous of paying their respects to the distinguished host and hostess. Mrs. Currier was assisted by the wives of Ex-Governors Stearns and Prescott, of Senators Blair and Pike, of Congressman Haynes and Congressman-elect Gallinger, and also by Misses K. W. Snow, Grace Stearns, A. Gallinger and H. M. West.

Mr. Samuel Shapleigh of Eliot has gathered the present season 450 boxes of fine strawberries.

Mr. Charles Stacey of East Eliot lost a valuable hog on the night of the 2d inst., supposed to have been poisoned by an envious neighbor.

Mr. Thomas J. Pettigrew of Kittery, draughtsman in the naval department of construction at Washington, D. C., arrived home on the 1st inst., to attend the graduation of his daughter at the Kittery high school on the 2d.

Mr. William Avery of Cape Neddick has a small cur dog about fourteen years old, which is a noted snake hunter, and has the reputation of having killed at least 100 snakes during the last twelve months. On Thursday last he made away with a large black snake, six feet long.

There were a large number of teams in the city on Friday, taking out materials for a quiet celebration of the Fourth of July in the country. The day was a fine one, barring a two-cent thunder shower early in the afternoon.

On Thursday evening the graduating class of the Kittery high school gave a reception in Trefethen's hall, about four hundred invitations being sent out; the reception was a very pleasant affair, the large company enjoying themselves until a late hour in dancing and social converse. The class on Friday came to this city and were photographed in a group.

WE DO NOT CLAIM

that Hood's SARSAPARILLA will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depend the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and other impurities from it, as Hood's SARSAPARILLA undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Why Suffer with Salt-Rheum?

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for a dozen years previous to the summer of 1875, at which time I was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The skin would become dry, chap, crack open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears into my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. I used one box of Hood's Olive Ointment, to relieve the itching. Hoping many others may learn the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,

MRS. N. S. MOODY,

No. 75 Broadway.

No. 36 State St., opposite Kilby St., Boston.

Secures Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1879.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1860, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their nature. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became so debilitated by the treatment, a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.,

34 Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex, Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

"Rough on Catarrh"

Corrects offensive odors at once. Complete cure of even worst chronic cases, also unequalled as gargle for diphtheria, sore throat, foul breath. 50c.

Edward H. Boyd and George H. Boyd, father and son, convicted of defrauding the government by illegally importing plate glass, were called to the bar of the United States circuit court in New York on the 30th ult., and Judge Benedict sentenced the son to pay a fine of $1000, and the father to two years' imprisonment.

The Hope of the Nation.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

The Powhatan and Alliance have both been sent to the New York navy yard for repairs and a general overhauling, the appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1886, being now available.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Stinging, irritation, inflammation, all kidney and urinary complaints, cured by "Buchu-Paiba." $1.

James Tolmay of Dover, one of the doorkeepers of the present legislature, died on the 30th ult., at the age of forty-one years. He was a very worthy man, and had a splendid war record.

"Water Bugs, Roaches."

"Rough on Rats" clears them out, also beetles, ants, insects, rats and mice, 15 and 25c. boxes.

Engineer-in-chief C. H. Loring and Chief Naval Constructor T. D. Wilson have made an official inspection of the U. S. S. Omaha, which is now ready for sea in New York harbor. It is not yet certain whether she will go to Europe, the Asiatic or Pacific stations, the West Indies, Newfoundland, Madagascar, the Comoro islands or Kamschatka.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

Halifax, N. S., Presbyterian circles have been much excited for a fortnight over the statement telegraphed over the continent that Rev. Allen Simpson and Rev. T. A. Nelson had preached almost identical sermons from the same text in the Park-street church on successive Sundays, and intimating that both had plagiarized. It is understood that both Mr. Simpson and Mr. Nelson will bring action for libel against the papers that published the statement.

Mothers, teething and fretful children need Dr. Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial. Druggists, 25c.

Commander Terry, commanding the squadron of training ships, Portsmouth, Jamestown and Saratoga, writes to the navy department from Lisbon, Portugal, June 16th, that in consequence of the increase of cholera in Spanish ports he has changed his programme. The vessels will go direct from Lisbon to Maderia, and will sail from the latter port about July 14th for the United States. Commander Terry intends to enter the port of New London, Conn., for mails, and then cruise and exercise in Long Island sound until the time appointed for reaching Newport.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. COLLECTOR HAMSCOM.

Alpheus A. Hamscom, Esq., entered upon his duties as collector of customs for this port on Wednesday morning, July 1st. The official oath was administered to the new collector by Col. Wm. H. Hackett, and his first official act was to relieve his predecessor, Ex-Collector Howard, of the long list of fixtures and furniture in charge of the custodian of the public building. This latter position, to which the new collector is also appointed, is one of responsibility, but without compensation other than the satisfaction of performing a public duty.

We understand that Collector Hanscom has nominated Samuel H. Marshall as deputy collector, a position for which he is well qualified in point of experience and adaptability to the duties of the place.

ONE NAVY YARD CHANGE, ANYWAY.

Naval Constructor William L. Mintoyne, detached from the navy yard at Brooklyn, N. Y., and ordered to this yard, arrived in this city on Wednesday forenoon, July 1st, and proceeding at once to the yard reported for duty, relieving Naval Constructor Thomas E. Webb, who has been at the head of the department of construction and repair there between one and two years. This change in constructors is supposed by both republicans and democrats hereabouts to mean that there is to be a decided change in the management of the yard, from a political point of view, though we are not aware on what grounds this supposition is based. Mr. Webb is a thoroughly competent constructor, and has always been inclined to run his department on business principles. He was stationed at this yard eight or ten years ago, but his opposition to having farmers or wood choppers "required" as first-class shipwrights, and his positive refusal to "pass" materials of which he did not approve, were objectionable to the then republican managers, and caused his transfer to another sphere of duty. Whether he has been found equally intractable by the democratic managers of to-day, and whether or no Constructor Mintoyne will be found more tractable, we have no means of knowing.

BAD GEAR.

A serious accident happened on Tuesday, June 30th, to Mme. Watson, travelling with VanAmburgh's circus, at Albany, N. Y. Those who attended this circus when it exhibited in this city on May 30th will remember her performance of a "cannon act," in which she took hold with her teeth of a strap attached to a brass cannon weighing about 150 pounds, and was hoisted up by the legs a distance of ten feet or so from the ground—far enough to lift the cannon clear of all other support, the cannon being then fired. On the day of the accident she performed her part without mishap, but at the moment the cannon was fired the hoisting rope parted, letting her fall head foremost, she striking heavily on the cannon, the blow cutting a dangerous gash near one temple and knocking out nearly all of her teeth. She was taken to the hospital in a critical condition.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., June 30th.

Miss Mabel I. Jenkins, teacher of the grammar school, and Miss Florence E. Sanderson, teacher of the primary school, in district seven, (the Austin school,) will finish their term on Friday, July 3d, having met all their requirements with success, which is a good showing for beginners. During the summer vacation they evidently do not intend to be idle, but will combine pleasure with study; they will go to Cottage City, Mass., and pass their vacation. Miss Jenkins takes a course in literature, and Miss Sanderson a course in elocution. In the fall they will probably teach their respective schools again.

John P. Brooks arrived from Dartmouth college on Friday of last week.

Dr. Walter E. Fernald on Friday last returned to his duties at the Wisconsin state insane asylum at Mendota, Wis., after a pleasant visit among his friends.

Edward E. Shapleigh, of Phillips academy at Exeter, is passing his vacation at his home in North Kittery. SUB ROSA.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Georgietta, which arrived from Port Johnson on the 29th ult., brought 247 tons coal to E. F. Sise & Co.

The schooner Mary Willey, Williams master, arrived on the 1st inst. from Bangor with lumber to John H. Broughton.

In the United States district court at Portland, June 29th, Judge Webb announced his decision in the case of Solon S. Andrews of Biddeford vs. the master and owners of the schooner Satellite, a suit for damages alleged to have been caused by the collision of the Satellite with the drill-platform over Gangway rock in this harbor in the spring of 1883, awarding damages to the amount of $392.66 against the schooner. The owners of the schooner will probably enter an appeal.

First Asst. Engr. Frank B. Randall, U. S. R. M., of this city, is ordered to duty on the steamer Andrew Johnson, the largest vessel in the revenue service, now undergoing repairs at Milwaukee, Wis. Her cruising ground includes the whole of Lake Michigan, and into Lake Superior as far as Marquette, Michigan.

The street commissioner is removing the old cobble-stone pavement of Vaughan street, and macadamizing that much-travelled thoroughfare opposite the residence of Hon. Moses H. Goodrich, very much to the satisfaction of the residents on that street, and to the saving of horse flesh and vehicles. There is a little of that teeth-clattering, carriage-shattering pavement now remaining on that street, and everybody will say "good riddance" when the last of it is removed.

Mr. John C. Lewis is at present located upon the Asa Wentworth farm at Newington, where he is engaged in raising improved varieties of fowls. He has sixty buff cochins and forty houdans, many of them being now setting. He also has quite a menagerie, which some people think rivals George A. Jackson's at Christian Shore, and which includes a White mountain owl, nearly black, that greedily devours all the superfluous white rats and mice which he raises.

The Sunday Mercury, of Minneapolis, Minn., says: "Mr. Samuel Adams, of Portsmouth, N. H., has nearly completed an elegant nine-room house on Aldrich avenue, near Hawthorne avenue."

A fine blooded Scotch terrier was found and taken in charge a few days since by Mr. Dennis Long of No. 16 State street. When found the dog had a long string attached to its neck; it has evidently been some person's pet, and is supposed to have been lost by one of the Grand Army men as he was passing through this city by rail on the return from the national encampment at Portland, Me.

The announcement of valuable stock at auction at the store of C. D. Hanscom & Co., appears in another column. At this sale 105 shares of the stock of the Portsmouth Machine company will be placed upon the market, offering a good chance for investment.

C. P. Blake, of Epping, brought into he city on Wednesday morning of this week 325 dozen fresh eggs, which were readily disposed off at seventeen cents a dozen, and he could have sold as many more had he only had them.

The Lewiston (Me.) Commandry of Knights Templar have postponed their contemplated trip to the hotel Wentworth at Newcastle, set for July 2d, until later in the season.

The stockholders of the Portsmouth Co., at South Berwick, will meet at the counting room of the factory on the 15th inst., to consider among other matters the scaling of the capital stock and creating new stock sufficient to reorganize the present plant, besides the usual business of an annual meeting.

The road from York village to Long sands has recently been "repaired"—at least that is what they call it. The road-master uses a patent road-building machine, which scoops up the turf, soil and rolling stones along the roadway, and deposits the mass on the travelled track, where it remains a longer or shorter time according to circumstances, producing a generous supply of dust in dry weather and of mud in wet times. There is plenty of sand and ocean-pulverized shells at the beaches, which might well be utilized to build roads similar to the shell roads of the cities along the Gulf of Mexico. It is reported, however, that the town intends to purchase a stone-crushing machine, and thereafter to mend the roads so that they will stay mended for a time.

An old lady familiarly known as "Aunty Murray," over eighty-five years of age, dropped dead at the residence of her niece, Mrs. John Collins, at South Berwick on the 30th ult. She was in apparent good health up to the moment of her death, which occurred soon after she arose in the morning.

The Sea Cottage at Long sands, York beach, Charles A. Grant landlord, is rapidly filling with summer boarders. It is one of the most beautifully located houses in all that favored locality. The private cottages at Long sands are nearly all occupied now.

Charles L. Grant, of the York and Portsmouth stage line, with his fine teams makes trips between York and the railroad station in this city daily. He has among his other equipages a very nice old-fashioned barouche, recently renovated, in which easy-going people enjoy being transported.

DR. CROSS,

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, shall bury them or throw them into the river below water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies may require the same to be emptied within ten days from the passage of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. Each owner or occupier neglecting so to do shall and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars for every week's neglect after the above specified.

Sec. 6. No render of meat at the stalls shall be allowed to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or any part thereof, and about their stalls or stores over night, but shall cause the same to be burnt or thrown into a place not less than twenty-four hours after being notified by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 7. When any physician shall know of a person within his family is taken sick of small pox, or any other disease dangerous to public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 8. When any physician shall know that a person whom he is called to visit is infected with small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 9. If any such householder or physician shall neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be paid by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the still ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or raised into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any pen leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or into any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or other substance.

BOSTON BOB.

No one was better known in the neighborhood of the Battery ten years ago than old "Boston Bob." Bob was a character. His surname was Stewart, but few of his most intimate acquaintances dared to call him anything but Bob to his face or to speak of him behind his back by any other name than Boston Bob. Although Bob was very close in money matters there was nothing mean about him. No one ever saw him spend any money except for the absolute necessities of life, yet no one ever spoke of him as a miser.

The unfortunate ones always had Bob's sympathies. His advice and any assistance that he could render which did not cost money was freely offered to whomsoever stood in need of it. He always seemed cheerful. He was always ready to listen to a good story, and never failed to repay his entertainer with an anecdote equally amusing. He was not usually averse to a moderate amount of liquor, but never bought any himself. But he was never known to hang around a barroom in the hope of being invited to drink. He knew several hotel-keepers, and if one of them offered him a bottle of liquor he accepted it and put the bottle to the best use he could find after he had seen its contents safely out of harm's way. Bob was fond of reading newspapers, but he never purchased one, and, although always ready to accept papers, he rarely asked for one. He did not object to tobacco, but he rarely purchased or asked for any. And yet, notwithstanding Bob's habits of extreme economy, no one ever spoke ill of him.

Before the East Side Elevated Railway began running a line of hacks had its headquarters in the neighborhood of the Staten Island ferry houses. Boston Bob was a sort of runner for the hack line. By prudent management he succeeded in saving something over $5,000. It was a pleasant sight to see one fine day the owner of this respectable sum seated alongside the driver of one of the hacks and treating a number of listeners to original remarks of a humorous nature while he awaited the arrival of a Staten Island ferryboat. There was a pleasant smile on his somewhat furrowed, but fresh looking countenance and a jolly twinkle in one of his eyes. The other eye was unfortunately unequal to the task of twinkling, as it was a glass one. No casual observer at such a time would have imagined that Bob indulged to excess in the virtue of economy. Bob was a quick-witted fellow. He once received a check payable to his order on a Broadway bank. When he took the check to be cashed, however, the paying teller informed him that he would have to be identified before he could receive the money.

"I don't know any one around here or any one anywhere else who you would be likely to know," exclaimed Bob.

"I can't help that," replied the cashier; "I am obliged to follow the rules of the bank."

Bob scratched his head with a puzzled air for a moment, and then his countenance suddenly brightened. Looking around to make sure that there were no ladies present, he quickly pulled up his vest and dragged out into the light of day the little buttonhole lappet which was at the lower end of the bosom of his shirt and on which his name was written in indelible ink.

"Do you see that?" cried Bob, rising on his tiptoes, and holding up the lappet toward the astonished teller. "Are you satisfied now?"

The teller cashed the check without any further hesitation.

When the elevated railway began running there was little business left for the hacks. Their proprietor was compelled to withdraw them, and Bob was thrown out of employment. He had $5,000 in the bank but he was unwilling to invest this in any business for fear that he might lose it. He received several offers from men who desired a partner with a little capital, but he was of the opinion that these people wanted his capital much more than they did him. Bob was offered a share in a good paying saloon, but he very promptly refused this. "I do not know," he said to a friend, "whether there is or isn't a hereafter. If there is I don't want to answer for selling whisky to my fellow creatures. And if there isn't any hereafter I don't want just the same to have it on my conscience that I've sold whisky to my fellow creatures." Bob would spend hours in watching the elevated trains, which had been the means of his losing his position. They were in his eye very useless, bungling affairs. "If those engines and cars could blow up," he once remarked, "and that railway fall down without it hurting anybody, I should like to see the thing done."

Bob had a wife, but no children. That wife was the apple of his eye. They lived in neat little rooms on the top floor of a house on Battery place. It was Bob's great delight to see his wife in the street dressed up in her Sunday finery, with which embellishments she appeared to considerable advantage. But be rarely accompanied her at such times. He would watch her from across the street with a look of mingled pride and tenderness. If any of his acquaintances were with him at the time he would point her out to them. "Do you see that woman?" he would exclaim. "Well, she's my wife. Look at that shawl. She got it at such and such a place, and only paid so much for it. That dress is a fine one, and that only cost her so much. It was a bargain. Now, how does that hat suit you? She got it at wholesale price. Oh, she's a daisy."

On the New Years' Day after Bob lost his position a Staten Island hotel-keeper made him a present of a bottle of liquor. That night Bob entered the Staten Island ferry-house, where he was well known, with a somewhat unsteady step. The ferry slip was full of ice at the time. A few moments afterward one of the gate men saw Bob fall overboard from the end of the bridge. The alarm was instantly given, and Bob, who was found lying among the cakes of ice, was fished out. The next day he appeared as usual and allowed his friends to joke him about his exploit of the evening before. A good-natured smile was the only answer which he gave to these jests. No one then suspected that when he went overboard he intended to commit suicide. During the following few months Bob made his appearance on the Battery nearly every day. He still told and listened to good stories, and did what he could for his friends, but, as usual, he refrained from spending money. But his intimate acquaintances remembered afterward that he dwelt more frequently than before on the fact that he could not get employment, and as often remarked: "There is money enough for one, but not for two."

One day late in April he brought home a strong piece of cord, which he put away in the presence of his wife. She asked him what it was for. "Oh, it's handy to have in the house. We'll find some use for it," he replied. On the following morning the sky was gloomy and overcast, but Bob's wife expressed a desire to go out. Bob urged her to go, saying that it would do her good. She put on her Sunday finery, and Bob gazed at her with more than usual satisfaction. He examined the shawl, the dress and the hat with as much interest as if he had never seen them before. He rehearsed the price of each article, and said what a bargain it was. Just as she was going out of the door he told her not to hurry back, and then asked her if she was going anywhere in particular.

"Oh, yes," she replied. "You know old Mrs. ——, who I told you yesterday was dead? I think I will go to the funeral." Bob gave a start, but she paid no particular attention to this at the time. She returned from the funeral, and, as she entered her home, she found that the window curtains had been pulled down, which made the room quite dark. A feeling of uneasiness crept over her, and she hurried to the nearest window and raised the curtain. Then she discovered the body of her husband hanging near the door by the cord which he had brought home on the previous day. On the floor was an upturned chair, from which he had evidently taken the fatal step.

An inquest was held and a verdict in accordance with the facts rendered. Bob's numerous acquaintances discussed his character. His many good qualities were thoroughly canvassed, and his weak points were lightly passed over. The public verdict was a favorable one. After the funeral Bob's wife examined his bank book. When she saw the amount to which she was entitled, and when she thought of the remark, which, according to his intimate friends, he had made so frequently during the last few months of his life, she began to realize in what a chivalrous light poor old Boston Bob had viewed the fact that "there is money enough for one, but not for two."—New York Times.

A mile below Port Jervis the States of New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania join their boundaries. On a rock in the Delaware River a person may place one finger in Orange county, New York, another in Sussex county, New Jersey, and a third in Pike county, Pennsylvania, at the same time.

The Washington correspondent of the Cleveland Leader says: "A young lawyer friend of mine from Chicago, about to be admitted to the Supreme Court, asked ex-Justice David Davis for his advice in regard to his conduct on the occasion of his first case. The Judge replied: 'You need not be afraid to speak before the Supreme Court, and if one of those men in a toga interrupts you in the midst of an argument by some irrelevant question don't get frightened and spoil your argument by stopping to answer him. Just say quietly, "Excuse me, Your Honor, but I will reach that by and by." You need not be afraid that you will be called up to answer it after you have taken your seat.' The young man took his advice and gained his case."

Every Woman Knows Them.

The human body is much like a good clock or watch in its movements; if one goes too slow or too fast, so follow all the others, and bad time results; if one organ or set of organs works imperfectly, perversion of functional effort of all the organs is sure to follow. Hence it is that the numerous ailments which make woman's life miserable are the direct issue of the abnormal action of the uterine system. For all that numerous class of symptoms—and every woman knows them—there is one unfailing remedy, Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," the favorite of the sex.

P. J. Olander, his son Frederick and his daughter Freda, and a young man whose name was not given, were struck by a train on the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad at Winthrop crossing, last Friday evening, the three men killed and the young lady fatally injured. They were Swedes or Danes, and the senior Olander, who was driving, had often been cautioned. No blame is attached to the flagman.

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic, given the little one, will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

The West Division street railway of Chicago was obliged to stop running its cars on Wednesday of last week, by a mob of strikers aided by many citizens; no cars were run for passengers the rest of the week. Serious trouble is anticipated before the dispute is ended.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS!

Dyspepsia.

GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters, that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the papers and made up our minds that we would try them. The result is my wife and I began to improve at once, and I am now able to do more hard work than before in ten years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it, Godspeed.

JOSEPH LANDON,
Chelsea, Vt.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to me a most agreeable joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "work," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Itching, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.
MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others.

E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.
ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

With Sincere Regret.

Tammany received a letter from the president regretting (?) that he was unable to attend their banquet on the 4th in New York. Col. Lamont, or whoever concocted the letter, managed to manufacture quite a good-sized epistle, without an utterance beyond the most thin generality. This is the cautious way for the president to feel along his path till he has passed the first milestone, — the New York election.

The Cholera.

In Spain on the 2d inst. there were 1354 new cases of cholera, and 664 deaths.

On the 3d the new cases numbered 1415, and the deaths 669; and on the 4th the new cases were 1708, and the deaths 825.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Albert Woodbury, Downs master, arrived on Sunday with twenty barrels of mackerel, taken off the Maine coast a short distance east of Portland.

The sloop yacht Brynhild, of Boston, was lying at Ayers' wharf on Sunday and Monday, waiting for a party from Boston.

Three British schooners, the Atwood, Mary C. and Ferrand, arrived at this port on the 5th inst. from Moncton, N. B., with ties to the Boston & Maine railroad.

The Women's Relief Corps will give a strawberry festival and musical entertainment this evening at Congress hall, to wind up with dancing. Members of the corps are requested to contribute cake and pastry. Admission twenty-five cents for adults, and twelve cents for children.

The regular annual meeting of the committee on the Return of the Sons of Portsmouth was held at the office of the chairman, Col. Wm. H. Sise, on Saturday forenoon, and adjourned for one year.

The following ancient chestnut is going the rounds of the religious press, and as this is a day of independence we give it: "When did Noah's wife represent one of the counties in New Hampshire? When she was rocking Ham!" This places the date of the name for this beautiful part of the country away back in the remote periods of history, and knocks the spots out of modern settlements.

Capt. Peirce W. Penhallow and wife arrived in this city from Boston last Friday, to pass the hot season here. Capt. Penhallow misses many of the prominently noted faces he used to see on our streets.

There came very near being a collision of trains on the tracks east of the railroad station in this city on Thursday evening of last week. The inward-bound Dover train was obliged to stop before entering the station, owing to the track being blocked by a shifting freight train, and the Portland train, which had the right of way, was stopped barely in time to avoid running into the rear car of the Dover train. The fault was entirely due to the shifting train, which had no business where it was at the time.

Three hundred and fifty lobsters were brought into town on Friday last from Lobster Cove, York, by Geo. W. Randall & Son's team.

In the suit Dole, Sinclair and others against Wooldredge, to recover damages for an alleged deceit in the sale of a gold mine, the arguments were concluded on the 3d inst.; and Mr. Dole passed through this city on the 4th, going to Maine for a little rest after the long legal conflict in Boston.

A new Pullman palace car, named the "Maritana," passed through this city on Wednesday evening, the 1st inst., attached to the nine o'clock train for the eastward.

The old and young folks' Social Circle of the Methodist Episcopal church at South Eliot had a picnic in the Remick woods in that town on the 4th inst., and in the evening gave a lawn party on the grounds of Mrs. Sarah Remick at Bolt hill, refreshments of various kinds being on sale. The proceeds are to go toward improvements on the church, and building a vestry. A large company was present both day and evening, and a pleasant time is reported.

The house and barn in South Newmarket owned by Eben Smith and occupied by his son-in-law, John Marden, were burned early in the morning on the 1st inst., with most of their contents. The house was a small, one-story structure.

IN DEATH NOT DIVIDED.

We recently announced the death in Sanford, Florida, of Mrs. Sarah F. Nelson, a native of this city, aged seventy-six years, and wife of Isaac F. Nelson. We have now to record the death of her husband, who departed this life June 24th, four days after the demise of his wife. Mr. Nelson was born in this city, and carried on the grocery business here for a number of years; he was a quite prominent man in local affairs, and for several years was one of the aldermen, being in politics a democrat of the extreme type. He went to Boston about thirty years ago, and for six years was assistant storekeeper at the Boston custom house, and for a longer term was deputy collector of taxes for the city under Mr. Tracy. He was noted among his acquaintances for his thorough sturdiness in politics, business, friendship and family attachments. He leaves two daughters, both married; one is the wife of Wallace R. Moses of Sanford, Fla., a native of this city; the other is Mrs. Alton Harkin of Abeline, Kansas.

MARRIED.

PENLEY—VEAZIE. In this city, July 2d, by Rev. O. H. Jasper, F. W. Penley and Miss Clara A. Veazie, both of Quincy, Mass.

CARTWRIGHT—NORRIS. In Epping, June 24th, Walter O. Cartwright of Wakefield and Miss S. Abbie Norris of Epping.

ROBINSON—HALL. In Kennebunk, Me., June 30th, Ellsworth H. Robinson and Miss Nettie Hall, both of Kennebunk.

DIED.

NELSON. In Sanford, Fla., June 24th, Isaac F. Nelson, aged 77 years, 8 months and 20 days: a native of this city.

AMAZEEN. In Newcastle, July 4th, Abram Amazeen, aged 84 years, 7 months and 24 days.

☞ Funeral from his late residence Tuesday, July 7th, at 2:30 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited.

SCROFULA.

A remedy that can destroy the germs of scrofula, and when once settled has the power to root it out, must be appreciated by those afflicted. The remarkable cures of young children and the more wonderful cures of those of middle age and late in life, as illustrated by our printed testimonials, prove HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA to be a reliable remedy, containing remedial agents which do positively cure scrofula and eradicate it from the blood.

WARNER, N. H., Jan. 21, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.: Gentlemen—For ten years previous to the early part of 1877 I had been a constant sufferer from scrofulous ulcers or sores, which had finally reduced me to a helpless condition, as described in my letter to you in September of that year. The continued excellent health which enables me to keep house for my aged father and to enjoy life, keeps alive my intense personal interest in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude for the permanent cure this wonderful medicine effected in my case nearly two years ago, while living in Lowell, when all my physicians gave me up as being in an incurable condition. One thing before I close. I have recommended your Sarsaparilla to hundreds, and I think more than a thousand cases, and my faith in its invincibility in curing scrofula has become absolute by the wonderful cures it has effected aside from my own. I trust you will not be slow in making the merits of Hood's SARSAPARILLA known everywhere, for it is a duty you owe to mankind. With best wishes I remain very truly yours,

SARAH C. WHITTIER

BOARD OF INSTRUCTION.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Instruction, Monday evening, all the teachers were re-elected to their several positions, there being no promotions, or dismissals.

A committee was appointed to take into consideration the subject of heating the schoolrooms, and report what changes, if any, are desirable.

Mr. George H. Rockwood has resigned as principal of the high school, and at a meeting of the high school committee on Monday evening the resignation was accepted.

THE CELEBRATION.

The 109th anniversary of our national independence passed off very quietly, there being nothing of special note to record, except perhaps the marked change in the boys' style of celebrating compared with that of thirty or forty years ago. Not only have the old queen's arm, bell-muzzled blunderbuss and horse pistol been to a great extent superceded by the less costly and less dangerous but equally noisy tin horn, but "the night before the fourth" is now a very different affair from what it was then. Formerly there was comparatively little celebrating in the early half of the night, and happy was the boy whose father would allow him to gather a dozen of his chums in the barn or woodshed to sleep until near midnight, then to sally forth and make the rest of the night as hideous as gunpowder and shouting would enable them. Now nearly all the clatter is made between sundown and one o'clock, the burning out of the bonfires, kindled at midnight, being the signal for a general start for home.

The bells of the city were rung morning, noon and evening; and the Cadet band of South Berwick gave two excellent concerts on Market square, afternoon and evening. There was a well attended game of cricket on the grounds of the Portsmouth club, between the local club and the Internationals of Lowell, Mass., which was won by the latter in one inning by a score of 126 to forty-six; on the second inning the Portsmouths had made sixteen runs, with one man out, when the visiting club had to leave to take the train for home. A national salute was fired from the navy yard battery at noon, and flags were displayed quite generally. The skating rinks were open throughout the day and evening, and were liberally patronized. At the Portsmouth rink, in the evening, Edward C. Stickney, champion dumb-bell lifter, put up a twelve-pound bell from the shoulder to arm's length above, 1000 times in succession, thus making an entirely new record; he also put up a fifty-pound bell nineteen times with his left hand alone. The Red Stocking base ball club went to Pinkham's grove, Dover point, where the A. O. H. of Dover had a picnic, to play a match game with the Dover club for a purse of $15, the Portsmouth club winning by a score of ten to eight. The New Hampshire Division of the League of American Wheelmen had a run from this city, about seventy-five bicyclists starting from in front of the post-office between nine and ten o'clock and wheeling to Greenland and North Hampton depots, where they were joined by many others, and then continuing to Rye, where they had dinner at the Farragut house; after dinner and the holding of a business meeting, the wheelmen returned to this city via Rye Centre and Newcastle, and had a short parade through the principal streets before dismissing.

Quite a number of persons availed themselves of the opportunity to visit Newcastle and Kittery Point in the steamer James Sampson, and a large picnic party assembled at the grove near Fort McClary. The U. S. S. Galena, at anchor on the quarantine ground, made a gay display of bunting, as did also the merchant vessels in the lower harbor, and the Galena fired a national salute at noon.

There were no accidents serious enough to be worth mention, so far as reported to us, and no serious disturbances, although plenty of men could be seen under the influence of liquor. The toy pistol, which so thinned out Young America in years past, was not to be seen, and there were but few fireworks other than crackers of various sizes and degrees of loudness.

THE ECONOMY OF OUR NAVAL ADMINISTRATION.

It is a singular circumstance which occurs just when the president is anxious to use every available means to carry the New York election, that Secretary Whitney should happen to discover at the New York navy yard a small fleet of naval vessels needing repairs! There is the Omaha, which has been ordered to remain. It was always a little dodge at the New York yard to find a chance to "repair" or refit a new ship, and this always will be done as long as vessels fitted out at other stations are permitted to go into New York before commencing their cruises. Mr. Whitney has some of Mr. Chandler's men at his command, so he orders the Omaha to New York, nominally for sea, and then orders her to the yard "for further repairs and alterations." A New York paper says—

Her steering gear is to be repaired, and she is to have the blowers, that were put in the fire-room to increase the draft to the furnaces, removed. Her electric lights have also been found useless, and are to be removed. The vessels now at the navy yard, upon which considerable work is to be done that will probably warrant the re-employment of a large force of workmen, are the Omaha, Essex, Powhatan, Alliance, Intrepid, Tallapoosa and Miantonomah.

Now what will all the good democratic journals which for years have condemned this sort of thing say? Why, just nothing at all. "It is our time now," the democrats shyly whisper. The fact is, Mr. Whitney intends to have a large force of men employed in the New York yard until after the election. Why we call attention to the fact is, because with all our facilities for docking and repairing ships of war at this station we are likely to be comparatively idle, while workmen are crowded together at Brooklyn. It is said that there will be a little spasm of work here just before the August municipal election, but it is understood the secretary informed Gov. Call, who has just returned from Washington, that the Portsmouth crowd must live on hope till after New York had endorsed Cleveland, a political necessity which of course the orator admitted.

When we have seen the democratic papers reprimanding the rollicking Robeson or condemning the alleged corruptions of Chandler, we of course anticipated that if ever their time should come, it would be just the same,—only more so.

Mr. Cleveland wants to carry New York. We don't blame him for that. He suggests to Whitney to use the navy yard as material aid in the canvass. We can't help that. It's quite natural to repair even the Tallapoosa, which has been so frequently condemned by democratic critics, but to deprive us at Portsmouth of the little pittance we might otherwise receive out of the meagre appropriation passed down by the Holmans of the party, to satisfy the inordinate demands of hordes of incompetent men who are hanging around the New York yard, and clamoring to be taken on, we submit is hardly fair, even if we have, on either side of the river, no important election pending.

We shall begin to fear that this idol of mugwumpian worship, which has been set up as a model of political virtue, is composed of the same vulgar clay as that used in the creation of other men. We had our hopes; but we confess that this fixing things at the New York navy yard, to no small extent staggers our confidence, and shocks our estimate of the political integrity of the Buffalo statesman, who seems to excel all his predecessors in professing devotion to a line of policy which his cabinet ministers at the same time are permitted to ignore. Mark how they are to sin against his professed rules of abusing the civil service law, with "perfect impunity and great boldness," until some abused citizen asserts his rights and hints at the penalty, when lo! comes a burst of virtuous indignation handed from secretary to subordinate, after which public pyrotechnic display, the two sinners go and have it out together with a ham sandwich and a bottle of Jones' three x, and laugh at the mode by which they fool the mugwumps. Such are the men who to-day manage the administration at Washington.

THE NEW FIRE ALARM.

The new electric fire alarm, when a call for the department was "pulled in" from box No. 7 on the night of the 3d inst., did not seem to electrify the firemen to any great extent, though the number was sounded all right on the North church bell, and we believe was repeated correctly and promptly by the Eldredge brewery whistle. It appears that the key kept at Cox & Newman's store, corner of Dennett and North streets, Christian Shore, was purloined by some mischievous person, and at a few minutes past midnight on the night of the 3d the alarm was rung in, without other cause than the desire to raise an alarm of fire.

The result of this unauthorized experiment may be of value, as it shows that the alarm is entirely inadequate to rouse the firemen when asleep, or under unfavorable circumstances of stormy weather, etc., five members of the steamer Kearsarge's company, twelve of the Col. Sise's, and eleven of the hook and ladder men, failing to respond to the summons, and being fined therefor, while only one of the supply-wagon gang was on hand. We understand that the delinquent firemen propose to request the remission of their fines, on the ground that the alarm is insufficient; and their request we consider entirely reasonable. The men who did not turn out are as active and reliable members of the department as those who did, and have repeatedly shown their readiness — their eagerness, rather, to answer any effective call.

We do not wish to be understood as condemning the new fire alarm; on the contrary, we consider that it may prove of great value in locating a fire promptly; but what we do mean to say, very plainly, is that the mere tapping of the number of a box on the North church bell, and its repetition by the brewery whistle, is not an effective call to the firemen. The members of the fire department are working men, who go to bed to sleep, and are not to be roused by trifles; and unless the department is to be crippled by absenteeism at some time when the presence of all hands is imperatively demanded, some supplementary alarm, such as the general ringing of bells and sounding of whistles, must be arranged for, to follow the specific alarm from the numbered boxes.

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some even embracing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. In fact, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.,

M. Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases where a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy safeguard for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend and blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 16 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, etc., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or animal matter, manure or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley, or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. Noender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any state meat, heads, or any offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the millponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

THE MULTICAULIS MANIA.

The year 1826 marked the origin of the Morus multicaulis mania, which raged as a fever from 1830 until it culminated and collapsed in 1839. Congress had referred an inquiry on silk-culture, in 1825, to the Committee on Agriculture, which, in 1826, reported in favor of its promotion, stating in the report that the imports of silk goods in 1825 was nearly double the exports of bread-stuffs—a fact scarcely credible now. The same year Gideon B. Smith, of Baltimore, planted there what is claimed to have been the first Morus multicaulis tree in America. The Secretary of the Treasury, Richard Rush, was directed to provide a manual on silk culture, and the famous "Rush Letter" was accordingly issued in 1828, together with several other treatises, and circulated broadcast. In 1830 an article by a Dr. Pascalis, on the Morus multicaulis, in the American Journal of Science, directly started the mulberry fever. The Massachusetts Legislature, in 1831, provided for a manual of silk-culture, which was made by a manufacturer of Dedham, Mr. Cobb, and most of the States began to offer bounties and premiums on trees, cocoons, and reeled silk—commonly ten cents a pound on cocoons and fifty on silk. A report to Congress in 1830 proposed a grant of $40,000 to one M. D'Homergue for the establishment of a normal school of filature at Philadelphia, where sixty young men might have gratuitous instruction for two years, and for traveling about the country to teach silk-growing to farmers; and this "silk bill," though defeated in 1832, and reported against as unconstitutional in 1835, would not down till 1837, when still another committee reported as a substitute a scheme to lease public lands without rent for the cultivation of the mulberry-tree or the sugar-beet.

The whole country now went wild. The fever seemed only to get fresh fuel of excitement from the panic of 1837. Orchards of the multicaulis were planted in every State; farmers everywhere set their wives and children to feeding worms; multitudinous books, public documents, periodicals on silk-culture, constituted the bulk of the reading of the day; stock companies for raising and manufacturing silk sprang up like puff-balls; silk conventions were held, and a United States Silk Society was organized.

A thrifty nurseryman on Long Island gave help to the excitement by a canny plan. After selling a considerable supply of trees to New England dealers, he started off one night by the Providence boat, and with great pretense of eagerness made the rounds of all his customers, excitingly offering fifty cents apiece for trees. Of course he didn't get them, but he presently was able to sell all he had for a dollar instead of fifty cents apiece.

In Burlington, New Jersey, over 300,000 trees were raised and sold; in December, 1838, offerings at $1 per tree were refused at Boston sales, and $5 was sometimes got for trees one season old. It was satisfactorily proved—again on paper—that an acre of trees was good for $1000 worth of silk, but the price of trees had no relation to figures, even the most rose-colored. One farmer sold $6000 worth of trees from three-quarters of an acre. In a single week in Pennsylvania $300,000 worth were sold.

In 1839 the bubble burst, and the biters were bitten. Among them was the speculative Long Islander. He had caught the disease by which he had profited, and had sent an agent to France with $80,000 to buy a million more trees. Some speculators endeavored to get even with fate by shipping a cargo from the East to Indiana by way of New Orleans in an unseaworthy ship heavily insured, but the goods unfortunately reached their destination. Multitudes of men were ruined by the crash. But Americans have a faculty of falling on their feet, and some of the unhappy mulberry-growers of the thirties became the successful manufacturers of later days.—From "A Silk Dress," in Harper's Magazine for July.

Ancient Spoons.

"Fingers were made before forks," the saying runs, and it seems quite probable that spoons were, too. Being the simplest, the spoon is apparently the oldest artificial appliance for human feeding. When Arnold's soldiers spent their dismal winter in prison at Quebec, early in the Revolutionary War, they were allowed the use of no metal utensil, and were obliged to eat with their fingers, until one of them, who had contrived to conceal a knife, whittled out a wooden spoon. This was hailed with delight, and borrowed by the whole mess by turns, till finally the ingenious maker was induced to exercise his skill for the benefit of his comrades; and from that time he had no lack of employment.

One of our exchanges, remarking on the widespread use of the spoon, and its remote antiquity, gives some curious facts touching this handy implement:

The form which we use at the present day—a small oval bowl, provided with a shank and flattened handle—is not that which has been universally adopted. If we look into the manners and customs of some of the people less civilized than we—the Kabyles, for example,—we shall find that they use a round wooden spoon.

Romans also used a round spoon, which was made of copper. We might be led, from the latter fact, to infer that the primitive form of this utensil was round, and that the oval shape is a comparatively modern invention.

But such is not the case, for M. Chantree, in making some excavations on the borders of Lake Paladin, the waters of which had been partially drawn off, found, in a good state of preservation, wooden spoons which in shape were entirely like those in use at the present day, the only difference being in the form of the handle, which was no wider than the shank. The Neolithic people used oval spoons made of baked clay.

A New Use For Coachmen.

The latest in fashionable eccentricities, says a writer in the New York World and Express, is for a gentleman when riding in an open barouche with a lady, to seat himself vis-a-vis and hold in range with his fair companion's eyes a hand-mirror, to enable her to see what is taking place in the rear of the carriage without the trouble of turning her head. This holding a mirror up to nature, oftentimes transformed by art, may seem easy enough to the uninitiated, but to do it with the I-am-enjoying-this-immensely-you-know air requires hours of patient practice e'er you can attain just the right graceful curve of the elbow and be able to converse at your ease at the same time. Now it seems to me a far better arrangement would be to insert a looking-glass in the back of the driver's coat. Of course that would necessitate employing short, broad-shouldered coachmen, but as everything has its day, our tall flunkies must expect to be superseded some time, especially if fashion votes against them. "From little seeds spring great mushrooms," so I shall not at all be surprised if some day I come across the following advertisement:

"Drescote, the tailor, presents his compliments to his patrons and begs to inform them that he has on hand a superb lot of coachmen's mirror-back coats, which he proposes to sell at a great reduction, owing to his firm belief in the motto, originated solely by himself, 'Lower your prices and increase your customers.'"

By the way, Drescote's motto might be utilized by some of our merchants to advantage.

Summer Life in Buffalo.

While no one would dare to advance a claim for Buffalo in the months of March and April, she has a thousand charms as a summer home. With a turn of the faucet one may drink of or plunge in the cool waters of the upper lakes. The fruit and vegetables on the breakfast table come fresh and crisp each morning from the market-gardens about the city. The fish were caught before daylight from the depths of Niagara, and the beefsteak selected from the herds waiting transportation at the East Buffalo stock-yards, where larger moneyed transactions on a cash basis take place daily than in any other quarter of the city. The roses and the lilies which brighten the morning meal were plucked in the door-yard. If the resident be a man of some leisure and fond of horseflesh, he takes an early morning turn behind his flyer around the driving park, one of the best and fastest tracks in the country, and famous in trotting annals as the scene of Dexter's and Goldsmith Maid's best time. The yearly meet on these grounds the first week in August brings a crowd of horsemen and racers to the city. The Driving Park Association own an elegant club-house, in the old colonial style, from the verandas of which there is a fine view over the city to the lake and the river.

The old resident who has somewhat thrown off the cares of active business visits his office summer mornings to read his letters and give directions to his clerks, then steps aboard his steam-yacht with a party of friends. After a good haul of black bass on the river, he drops anchor at Falcon wood to join his neighbors and their wives, or perhaps members of his own family, whom the club boat has brought down earlier in the day, at a six-o'clock dinner. The yachts are headed up-stream just at the twilight hour, when the outlines of the Canada shore, across which tall poplar-trees throw their long shadows, are fading into distinctness, and make their dock at the famous Fort Erie Ferry, where coaches are waiting to take the summer idlers home by way of the park boulevards.

This sketch of summer life would be incomplete without the suggestion that Lake Erie's zephyrs have so tempered the heated midsummer atmosphere that a blanket tends to promote the luxurious slumbers which follow the evening hours spent in the piazza with one's neighbors. The popularity of this form of pleasuring was voiced by the Buffalonian who said, "When I build, I shall build a veranda, with possibly a house attached."—Jane M. Welch, in Harper's Magazine.

Milling in Spain is in almost as primitive condition at the present time as that of semi-civilized tribes of people. The motive power is, as a rule, supplied by mules, which, with an ancient form of machinery, imparts rotation to the burrs. These are usually situated in the cellars of the houses. The capacity of such a "mill" is, of course, limited, but the expenses of production are also very small, and that is the main object in a country where money is a rare article.

As Sam Jordan, a colored man, was exploring around the foundation of the old Spanish lighthouse on Anatasia Island, near St. Augustine, Fla., a few days ago, he discovered, while digging away some rocks and earth, the skeleton of a man, apparently well-preserved, and standing in an upright position, looking seaward. As this lighthouse was erected by the Spaniards about 1735, and this man's bones were found some twenty or more feet below the surface, or directly under the foundation, the question is, how did it get there in this erect position?

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we have not known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. It is my greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.
MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.
ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic, given the little one, will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

The barn of Cornelius Sullivan of Dover was burned on the night of the 4th inst., with its contents, consising of five tons of hay, horse, hens, carriages, harnesses and farming implements. Loss on barn, $800; insurance $500; contents not insured.

The Hot Weather

Of mid-summer has a weakening effect, both upon body and mind. You feel absolutely incapable of doing any arduous work, and even light duties are performed languidly and unwillingly. This low state of the system causes even greater infirmity, and gives opportunity for serious disease to gain a foot-hold. In this condition the system is quick to respond to the reviving, quickening, and strengthening effects of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies the blood, regulates the digestive organs, and infuses fresh life and vigor into every portion of the body. People who have taken it write us, saying: "It puts new life right into me." "It makes me young again." Reader, if you suffer from summer weakness, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. 100 Doses $1.00.

While a number of young men were firing a brass cannon at Starin's place, Fultonville, N. Y., on the evening of the 4th, it went off prematurely, and Wm. Van Voast was killed instantly, while Chas. Maxwell was badly injured and died soon after.

Rev. Curtis Kinney, astor 2d Baptist church, East, Conn., says: "Ihave used more than fifty bottle of Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer. I think it cannot be improved for public speakers."

Two men were shot dead at Wheeling, W. Va., in a riot growing out of the trial of five men charged with the robbing and torture of Elijah Marling in December last.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to cure asthma, catarrh, croup, colds, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For croup it is decidedly efficacious." (Mrs. Jacob Mallmer of Marion, Ohio, says the same thing.) S. S. Graves, Akron, N. Y., writes: "Had asthma of the worst kind, took one dose of Thomas' Eclectric Oil and was relieved in a few minutes. Would walk five miles for this medicine and pay $5 a bottle for it." Druggist C. R. Hall, Gwynne, Ill., says: "Cured an ulcerated throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. My wife insisted that I use Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first teaspoonful RELIEVED ME." E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, N. Y. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is also a TIP-TOP external application for rheumatism, cuts, scalds, burns, bites, bruises, etc. When visiting the druggist, ask him what he knows of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; if he has been long in the drug trade, he is sure to will speak highly of it.

The President Sees a Point.

President Cleveland concludes that men who served him well in the nominating convention or contributed material aid toward the election, are not of quite so much account in the present condition of affairs as are republican senators who by-and-bye may be called upon to confirm his appointments. Thus, B. B. Smalley, clerk of the United States courts in Vermont, a life-long democrat who wants the collector of Burlington removed that he may enter in and take his place, simply because the collector is a republican, meets a set back. Cleveland fears the Vermont senators will make it troublesome for him just before the holiday season.

It is this, we are led to believe, which causes a wholesome delay in regard to some of the anticipated appointments for New Hampshire, and even grave doubts in the presidential mind whether to the victors belong the spoils as much as formerly.

When an officer by resignation causes a vacancy, as was the case with the custom house in this city, or when the term of a postmaster expires, as was the fact with Ex-Postmaster Peirce, then a new appointee need have no fears of prompt confirmation. But a clean sweep of officials whose terms of office are yet legally continuing, in states where republican senators are likely to look after the rights of their constituents, is not likely to occur just yet. Our democratic friends should be patient. They are used to it.

The Cholera.

Throughout Spain, on the 5th inst., there were reported 1467 new cases of cholera and 660 deaths, of which 944 new cases and 561 deaths were in the city and province of Valencia.

Consul Mason at Marseilles, France, has informed the department of state that cholera has again appeared in that city and in Toulon. A general exodus from Marseilles has begun. He reports that the apparent death rate is below the average.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

Mr. N. P. Rines of Concord, our excellent beach expressman, is again on his summer route. His trips for several years have been regular as clockwork, driving "Old Whiteface," slow, but sure as the mills of the gods.

Our patriotic holiday at the beach was comparatively quiet. There were some transient visitors and many teams at the hotels. Leavitt's had guests; S. C. Batchelder's, full; Mr. Cutler's new Sea View, crowded; Thomas P. Nudd's stable, a good "put up." George E. Leavitt has handsomely painted his cottage.

A witch grass experiment. Last week, June 29th and 30th, a field of seven acres covered with this pest of good farming was plowed, and the next day, July 1st, planted with corn, marked off in squares so as to permit the use of the cultivator both ways. It was a big day's work for this region of small farms, and some curiosity has been manifested as to the intent and outcome, or rather income, of this unusually late planting. The answer to frequent enquiries has been, "To kill the witch without a hoe, and patient waiting for the harvest home of autumn fodder for hogs and cattle." We shall look — to see! By the way, some yellow-eye beans and an occasional pumpkin seed were dropped into the venture. The late David Nudd, Esq., used to say, "To kill witch grass, plow it in on the longest day (in June) and also on the shortest day (in December) of the year." **

HAMPTON, July 7th.

Col. Darius H. Ingraham, of Portland, Me., was on the 2d inst. appointed consul at Cadiz, Spain. The salary is $1500 and the deaths from cholera in Spain average six or seven thousand a week.

Ex-Judge John Lowell sailed from Boston for Liverpool in the steamer Cephalonia on the 4th inst. Congressman Patrick A. Collins went on the same steamer. The latter seeks a rest from his efforts at distributing offices among the hungry patriots of his party in Massachusetts.

The Lewiston Journal's Farmington (Me.) correspondent telegraphs: "I have just had a talk with Mr. Longfellow of Machias, the owner of large tracts of timber lands, who has been investigating the recent disastrous forest fire in Franklin and Somerset counties. Mr. Longfellow thinks the fire was the most extensive that has ever ravaged the woods of Maine. He says the fire has burned over a territory forty miles long and eighteen or twenty miles wide. It penetrated to the Canadian line, starting from the northern shores of Tim pond. Everything in the town of Eustis but the buildings of the villagers, which were saved by dint of great exertions, was burned. Many logging camps and lumbermen's tools were destroyed. Mr. Longfellow saved his dams by posting crews of men to fight the fire. The flames raged more furiously in tracts which were devastated by the great tornado of November, 1883, or had been cut by lumbermen. In the thick, valuable growths it did not make so much headway. Hence the loss is not so great as it might have been."

A CURE IS GUARANTEED.

While a funeral procession was crossing the track of the Maine Central railroad near East Newport, Me., on the 6th inst., a carriage containing Deacon Jacob Tuttle and wife, aged respectively eighty and seventy-five years, was struck by a train and thrown into the ditch, Mrs. Tuttle being killed and her husband seriously injured. The horse was killed and the carriage demolished. The aged couple were deaf, and did not hear the whistle.

The first train of Barnum's circus, going from Ellsworth to Bangor on the Maine Central railroad, July 5th, broke a coupling at Reed's Pond. The forward part stopped, and the hind part ran into it with great force. A man named Shaughnessy, of Woonsocket, R. I., had a leg broken, and W. C. Matthews of Washington, D. C., was injured quite badly. One horse was killed and four cars were smashed.

SCROFULA.

A remedy that can destroy the germs of scrofula, and when once settled has the power to root it out, must be appreciated by those afflicted. The remarkable cures of young children and the more wonderful cures of those of middle age and late in life, as illustrated by our printed testimonials, prove HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA to be a reliable remedy, containing remedial agents which do positively cure scrofula and eradicate it from the blood.

GARNER, N. H., Jan. 21, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.:

Gentlemen—For ten years previous to the early part of 1877 I had been a constant sufferer from scrofulous ulcers or sores, which had finally reduced me to a helpless condition, as described in my letter to you in September of that year. The continued excellent health which enables me to keep house for my aged father and to enjoy life, keeps alive my intense personal interest in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude for the permanent cure this wonderful medicine effected in my case nearly two years ago, while living in Lowell, when all my physicians gave me up as being in an incurable condition. One thing before I close. I have recommended your Sarsaparilla to hundreds, and I think more than a thousand cases, and my faith in it is invincibility in curing scrofula has become absolute by the wonderful cures it has effected aside from my own. I trust you will not be slow in making the merits of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA known everywhere, for it is a duty you owe to mankind. With best wishes I remain very truly yours,

Mercantile Trust Co. vs. Portland & Ogdensburg railroad. Hearing upon Philip Carpenter's petition for leave to sue the receiver of the road appointed by the court, for damages for a lot of cord wood burned while piled beside the railway track of the P. & O. R. R. The wood was on the location of the railway, hauled for the purpose of being sent over the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad, and it was piled under direction of the wood agent of the B., C. & M. R. R., (who was permitted to use the space for the purpose,) to be accepted and paid for in the fall of 1884. The wood was burned before that time. The attorney for the road denies all liability on the part of the corporation or the receiver. Carpenter pro se; Libby for P. & O. R. R.

NO GREAT SCARE.

Under the heading "Portsmouth Navy Yard" the Army & Navy Journal for the week ending July 4th says:

The chief of the bureau of yards and docks, Commodore Harmony, visited Portsmouth last week. There is a prospect that this yard will be closed up. The choice seems to lie between that yard and the Boston yard.

The good people of Portsmouth, Kittery bay and Rye beach have had another yellow fever scare, this time occasioned by the arrival of the Galena, which had some yellow fever cases on board of her when at the south. The four patients from the Galena were landed in Jamaica, but the good people of the vicinity fear that the "scent of the rose will hang round it still." The vessel has gone up to Widow's island, the somewhat too significant name of the new quarantine station off Richland. There she will fumigate and clean up.

The Journal's contributor evidently draws largely on his imagination for his facts, though it is more than likely the Portsmouth yard would be at once closed up and rubbed out, if Commodore Harmony could have his way about it, as he is credited with having a special grudge against this yard, due to an incident which occurred some years ago. Capt. Harmony was then in command of the U. S. S. Plymouth, which came up from the West Indies in the autumn with yellow fever on board, and was ordered here. After lying at anchor in the lower harbor for a time, her officers wished to have her come up to the navy yard, permission for which was however refused by Dr. Wentworth, the health officer of Kittery, to Capt. Harmony's great wrath; so representations were made to the navy department which resulted in the Plymouth being ordered to Boston, where she was placed in the dry dock, and her hatches and ports left open all winter to freeze out any possible germs of disease remaining in her, notwithstanding which, when she was refitted and sent to the southward in the spring, the yellow fever broke out on board when she was but a few days from port and before she had touched at any other port, showing beyond the possibility of dispute that Dr. Wentworth was right in his action. Several deaths occurred from the disease, the ship hurried north again, was again ordered here, and after lying at anchor in the lower harbor for several years was hauled out of water into a shiphouse on the yard, and recently was broken up. That Commodore Harmony has neither forgotten nor forgiven the affront of having opposed to his wishes the professional knowledge and official duty of a mere civilian, is indicated by the fact that one of his earliest acts after being appointed chief of the bureau of yards and docks was to remove from positions in that department on this navy yard a brother of the offending doctor and an ex-marshal of this city, the latter of whom incurred the captain's displeasure by some act as a municipal official while the Plymouth was in this harbor.

But it was of the correspondent's "yellow fever scare" that we started to speak. This scare exists only in the correspondent's imagination, as "the good people of Portsmouth, Kittery bay and Rye beach" are not scared at all by the Galena, and have never been scared by the arrival of any of the other yellow fever ships which have been sent here since the quarantine station was established at Wood island; all they have ever cared for was to have reasonable precautions observed. No remonstrance was raised by anybody when the proposal to establish the quarantine station was made; and we assert without fear of successful contradiction that not one in a hundred of our citizens had any knowledge that a movement was on foot to have the station shifted to Penobscot bay, until the announcement was made that the orders for effecting the change had been issued. The proprietors of neighboring summer hotels are the ones who have monopolized the "scare," and it is in their interests alone that the change has been demanded and made. That it is really to the interest of this region as a summer resort to have the station removed we do not doubt,—but we object to the assertion that our people hereabouts are "scared" of it, as more than one naval commission has reported—and their reports are now on file in the department—that they found after extensive enquiry that the residents on both sides of the river were entirely willing to have the station maintained, and seemed to have no fear whatever of any trouble provided proper quarantine regulations were observed. And they are not a bit more afraid now, no matter who says they are.

And the Galena, so unceremoniously sent by the correspondent to Widow's Island, was still lying comfortably at her anchors in the lower harbor last evening, where she has been since her arrival last month, an object of interest but not of terror to the numerous boating parties down the river.

The fishing schooner Grace Choate went on the marine railway at Kittery on Tuesday, the 7th inst.

A Raymond excursion party went to the Shoals on Monday, and the steamer Appledore made an extra trip between the Islands and this city Tuesday forenoon to bring in the excursionists, who did not care to get up in time for the first boat. The party took took the eleven o'clock A. M. train for the eastward, bound to Bar Harbor, Mt. Desert.

The Christian Sunday schools of Portsmouth and Kittery Foreside will unite in holding a picnic at Pirkham's grove, Dover Point, Wednesday, July 8th, to which all members and friends of the societies are cordially invited. Fare for the round trip, adults 45 cts., children 25 cts.

There was a cricket match at Dover on the 4th between an eleven from the Cocheco Print Works and an eleven from Sawyer's Mills, which was won by the former by a score of forty to twenty-seven. The Democrat says a regular cricket club is to be organized in Dover "and the Portsmouth club will be the first to be challenged."

A fifteen-years-old boy in this city looks back on the 4th with much complacency. He started out in the morning with $1.75 in his pocket, gave a little brother a cent, ran the gauntlet of snapping-crackers, lemonade and candy all day, and on counting his capital at night found that it footed up $1.74. And he had just as good a time as anybody.

Whatever other crop may fail in this vicinity this season, the crop of telegraph poles in this city promises well. On the new part of Vaughan street, between the Hotel Flanders and the North millbridge, there are sixteen of these ornamental structures; and last week the poles of the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph Co. were erected on Daniel street, where the office of the company is to be. The quiet ease with which a line of poles is put up in our streets now is amusing, when we recall the contest there was over the placing on end of the first lot.

Rear Adm. Wm. Rogers Taylor, U. S. N., accompanied by Mrs. Taylor and daughter, went to York on the 4th inst. to spend the heated term.

The road between York harbor and the Long sands at York beach is entirely finished, to the satisfaction of the county commissioners. The sea view from it is very fine, and private teams have been passing over it for a fortnight. Of the large number of French Canadians who came here to help build the road, only thirteen have returned to the Dominion, and of these not one could speak American; the others have all obtained satisfactory employment; one of them is driving a team between York and Portsmouth. The retainers stopped over one night at the White Hart hotel in this city, taking the Concord & Portsmouth train toward Montreal next morning; and without exception they expressed a determination to get back to "the states" in some way.

Mr. George D. Boulter of Kittery, formerly an apprentice painter in the department of construction and repair at the navy yard, and whose time expired about a week before he was discharged, is busily engaged jobbing at his trade in the village, and has work ahead that will take several weeks to finish. It is reported that he will shortly open a painter's shop there.

A democrat of Kittery Point, where the democracy is of the most pronounced sort, undiluted with mugwumpianism of any kind whatever, on the 4th displayed his campaign flag bearing the name of Hendricks alone, the name of Cleveland having been removed. This sturdy exemplar of Jacksonian democracy has many admirers, even among those of his party friends who from circumstances do not care to follow his example.

Among the recent transfers of real estate in York county, as left for record in the office of the register of deeds, were the following: Kittery—Clara B. Kennard of Eliot to Abby W. Johnson of Kittery, real estate in Kittery for $1050; Joseph S. Phillips to Mattie L. Amee, lot of land for $12.50. York—Sally Lord to Samuel W. Junkins et al., real estate for $200; Jotham L. Littlefield to Henry A. Littlefield, real estate for $1. Wells—George H. Rankin to John P. Rankin, land and buildings for $1; John P. Rankin to George H. Rankin, land and buildings for $1.

The president on the 6th appointed Timothy Shaw, Jr., postmaster at Biddeford, vice E. H. Banks, suspended.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing putrefaction, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars; and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom can shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

Weather-vanes illuminated by electricity, so as to be visible at night, have been suggested.

A case has been reported in which an extraordinary outbreak of measles and pneumonia among the children in a public institution was caused by sewer-gas.

Mr. Lennox Browne, an English physiologist, finds that drinking and smoking affect the vocal organs. statistics furnished by no less than 380 professional vocalists having shown him that a singer should avoid all stimulants.

A peculiar black paper of Siam and Burmah, made from the bark of certain trees, is used very much as are slates in Europe and America. The writing upon it may be rubbed out by the application of betel leaves, just as slate writing is erased by means of a sponge.

An electrician asserts that in bodies in which life is not extinct the temperature rises upon the application of an electric current, but never in the case of actual death. This fact supplies a test for use in cases where life is suspected to remain in persons apparently dead.

"The sorrowful tree," flourishing only at night, is a singular vegetable of the island of Goa, near Bombay. Half an hour after sunset the tree is full of sweet-smelling flowers, although none are to be seen during the day, as they close up or drop off with the appearance of the sun.

The latest report of the Russian Geographical Society makes the Lena delta extend nearly half a degree farther north than on the best maps. The northern cape of Danube (Dounay) Island is placed in 73 degrees, 55 minutes north latitude, while on the Vega map it is 73 degrees 27 minutes.

It appears that an alloy of copper, platinum and tin has been extensively used in Great Britain for jewelry with the object of deceiving pawnbrokers. The fraud has been very successful, as the compound resists the usual acid test for gold. The alloy has even been used for counterfeiting English coins.

Several Spanish doctors have been practicing "vaccination" with cholera virus. It is reported that so much faith is placed in these experiments by people of all classes that 300 individuals were inoculated in Valencia in a single afternoon. A commission from Madrid has been sent to report on the result.

From experiments made in Germany by Professor E. Wollny, it appears that the air is considerably cooler over a field under crop than over a fallow field, and that the temperature fluctuates less in the former case than in the latter. The maximum of air temperature travels with the course of the sun, from eastern slopes in the morning to the southern at noon and to the western in the evening.

The coal fields of China proper, according to a paper read before the Philanthropic Society of Glasgow by Mr. A. Williamson, have a total area of 400,000 square miles. Both the Shansi and Heenan coal fields are greater than that of the aggregate of the principal coal producing countries of Europe, and in other districts of north China the coal-fields are said to be seven times as large as all those of Great Britain. The coal is of various kinds, and iron ores are in all parts found in close proximity to the coal.

A German agricultural chemist, Prof. Heinrich, concludes that plants are best nourished when the plant-food in soil or water reaches a certain concentration, not the absolute quantity of plant-food but its concentration determining the fertility of a soil. Deep tillage without a simultaneously increased application of manure is hurtful, since the plant-food is thus diluted and the nutrition of the crop rendered more difficult. Deep tillage ensures, but heightened concentration of plant-food increases, the harvest.

Ampersand.

It is a mountain. It is a lake. It is a stream. The mountain stands in the heart of the Adirondack country, just near enough to the thoroughfare of travel for thousands of people to see every year, and just far enough away from the beaten track to be unvisited except by a few of the wise ones who love to digress. Behind the mountain is the lake, which no lazy man has ever seen. Out of the lake flows the stream, winding down a long untrodden forest valley, until at length it joins the Stony Creek waters and empties into the Raquette river. Which of the three Ampersands has the prior claim to the name I cannot tell. Philosophically speaking, the mountain ought to be regarded as the father of the family, because it was undoubtedly there before the others existed. And the lake was probably the next on the ground, because the stream is its child. But man is not strictly just in his nomenclature; and I conjecture that the little river, the last born of the three, was the first to be called Ampersand, and then gave its name to its parent and grandparent. It is such a crooked stream, so bent and curved and twisted upon itself, so fond of turning around unexpected corners and sweeping away in great circles from its direct course, that its first explorers christened it after the eccentric supernumerary of the alphabet which appears in the old spelling-books as &.

But in spite of this apparent subordination to the stream in the matter of a name, the mountain clearly asserts its natural superiority. It stands up boldly, and dominates not only its own lake, but at least three others. The Lower Saranac, Round Lake, and Lonesome Pond are all stretched at its foot and acknowledge its lordship. When the cloud is on its brow they are dark. When the sunlight strikes it, they smile. Wherever you may go over the waters of these lakes you shall see Ampersand looking down at you and saying, quietly, "This is my domain." —Henry J. Van Dyke, Jr., in Harper's Magazine for July.

Home Economy.

So much time, patience, and skill are required to knit and shape a pair of full length stockings, that many ladies who are fond of knitting do not like to attempt so long and tedious a piece of work. All the difficult past is eliminated from the railroad stocking—there being no heels or gores to knit, and the most ignorant of knitters, if she have but learned the plain stitch, will find no trouble in doing a pair of these.

Material required.—six half-ounce balls of Dorcas silk, 39 cents a ball, or six half-ounce balls of Gretchen silk, 25 cents a ball, and a set of No. 20 knitting-needles. If extra length stockings are desired, another half-ounce ball will be required.

For a medium sized stocking, cast on very loosely ninety-six stitches, thirty-two on each needle, knit round perfectly plain again and again, until you have a long, slim pipe, about six inches in length. The stitches should be counted frequently to see that none are lost or gained. The uninitiated will feel sure something is wrong, and that a stocking can never be made out of so queer a looking piece of work, but if the directions are carefully followed out all will be well.

Your work is now at the instep; as you knit across two needles drop every fourth stitch—knit three and drop one—but continue knitting the third needle plain as you have been doing. Put your finger under the dropped stitches and ravel to the top. This leaves an open lattice-work like the woven stockings.

Now knit round plain as before for about a finger and a half, or the length of a stocking foot, measuring from the heel to the narrowing for the toe. When you have reached this point drop off every fourth stitch from the third needle, proceeding as you did with the other two. This gives an open-work instep and solid work on the bottom of the foot where the most wear comes. Narrow the toe like any stocking.

A PRETTY AFGHAN.

This can be knit with double Berlin zephyr wool, but if wanted lighter the less expensive Germantown may be used. It consists of three black and two Roman stripes, the latter done in afghan stitch, eight inches wide; the black ones nine inches wide, and done in the boulette stitch. For the Roman stripe a lovely effect is produced by taking light blue, medium olive, rich pink white, gold, black, and dark cardinal. Combine the above colors in the following manner: Crochet four-teen rows of light blue, two of gold, two of black, one white, one gold, one olive, one pink, two white, two black, one gold, eight olive, one cardinal, one gold, six pink, one cardinal, two gold, one blue, and two white. Repeat this and you will have a charming stripe. Remember that it takes twice across in working afghan stitch to form one row. The centre stripe may have an initial letter when completed.

A unique lambrequin for a shelf is made of crimson felt, the edge is slashed to form the fringe, and above it is placed a band made of crazy patchwork in silk and elaborately embroidered. This band affords an opportunity for the display of much taste, as the size of the pieces and the colors must all be so arranged as to produce a soft, and, if one may say it, a uniform tone; there must be no one piece a great deal larger or brighter than the others.

Baking soda gives instant relief to a burn or scald. Applied either dry or wet to the burned part immediately, the sense of relief is magical. It seems to withdraw the heat and with it the pain. Keep it in the ironing-room.

Golden Thoughts.

Energy insures success in business.

The great use of books is to rouse us to thought.

Happiness, like youth and health, is rarely appreciated until it is lost.

The future destiny of the child is always the work of the mother.—Napoleon.

The sunshine of life is made up of very little beams, that are bright all the time.

Show not yourself glad at the misfortune of another, though he were your enemy.

Those who excel in strength are not most likely to show contempt for weakness.

Good will, like a good name, is got by many actions, and lost by one.—Francis Jeffrey.

Wherein you reprove another be unblamable yourself, for example is more prevalent than precept.

Let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion.—Washington.

Strict punctuality is, perhaps, the cheapest virtue which can give force to an otherwise utterly insignificant character.—J. F. Boyes.

"Smiles are more than sunshine,
Love is more than gold;
Patient hearts and toiling hands
Bring joy and wealth untold."

The great need of to-day is to appreciate how little we know, how much there is to be learned, and the selection of a right ideal or motive; a motive that will lead us in the right way, however small.

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is (in the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

A Strong Endorsement.

Is conferred upon that magnificent institution, the human system, by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" that fortifies it against the encroachments of disease. It is the great blood purifier and alterative, and as a remedy for consumption, bronchitis, and all diseases of a wasting nature, its influence is rapid, efficacious and permanent. Sold everywhere.

Mrs. Francis Stevens of Rumney is eighty-four years old, and goes out regularly to church and prayer meetings. She also makes a pair of gloves every working day, and is generally active and social.

The Hot Weather

Of mid-summer has a weakening effect, both upon body and mind. You feel absolutely incapable of doing any arduous work, and even light duties are performed languidly and unwillingly. This low state of the system causes even greater infirmity, and gives opportunity for serious disease to gain a foot-hold. In this condition the system is quick to respond to the reviving, quickening, and strengthening effects of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies the blood, regulates the digestive organs, and infuses fresh life and vigor into every portion of the body. People who have taken it write us, saying: "It puts new life right into me." "It makes me young again." Reader, if you suffer from summer weakness, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. 100 Doses $1.00.

The combined virtues of the Cod Liver Oil with the Hypophosphites, not only supplies a nutritious food to the system, but by its remedial power, gives strength and tone to the nerves, and builds up the wasted tissues.

The country is astonished to see that out west a man has declined to accept the appointment of receiver of a railroad. Whether the chances of any receipts were too small, or whether the disinterested declinature was because the "party" might prefer to be counsel for the receiver and thus charge for services without giving bonds, is not stated.

CONSTIPATION!

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by Constipation, and there is no other ill flesh is heir to more apt to be neglected, from the fact material inconvenience may not be immediately felt from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing piles, fistula, headache, impure blood and many other serious affections. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will immediately relieve, and one bottle positively cure or relieve any case of Constipation.

A New Analysis

By the present State Assayer of Massachusetts confirms the favorable report of his predecessor in regard to the excellent quality of the whiskey bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and introduced by them some six years ago under the name of G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon.

The Rochester town fair is to be held this year Sept. 29th and 30th, and Oct. 1st.

Robeson's Retrospection.

Ex-Secretary Robeson recently made the following statement to an interviewer:

Of all the cabinet positions that of the secretary of the navy is the most unpleasant. That officer has control of the public and private interests of 2,000 people and their families. The moment he makes an order in the line of public duty that conflicts with the private interests of a single family, the entire hive becomes active. Then he is responsible not only for those above but those below him. If the president directs anything to be done, the secretary takes the responsibility. That is what he is there for. He can't say, "The president told me to do this thing." If a ship he never saw goes ashore anywhere on the Pacific coast, the blame is placed on him. If a three-master comes sailing down Long Island sound, with only a sleepy helmsman on deck, and runs down the Tallapoosa, the secretary is blamed for it. There isn't enough money in the country to induce me to fill such a place again.

Perhaps not.

Mr. Whitney, as the season progresses, will find this a warm spot. "The party" having all along loudly condemned the practice of Mr. Chandler in filling the navy yards with voting material, and then showing the inefficiency of the system of constructing ships of war in navy yards, as compared with the economy of having it done by the contract system, places the secretary in a tight box.

The new head of the navy is as yet somewhat fresh in political sailing. Even the versatile Chandler, who was distinguished for nothing as much as for his supposed science in politics, by running the Tallapoosa into Bar Harbor and Cape Ann last summer greatly contributed toward the shipwreck of his party. It is with much interest therefore, that Capt. Whitney is watched as he navigates his craft on his first voyage. Beginning his cruise with the concentrated wind of the democratic journals blowing quite a gale against alleged fraud and incompetence in naval management, he sends before it, but suddenly sees a signal to veer ship and stand in another direction, and is obliged to haul on the wind with a heavy breeze blowing, in the narrow straights of a meagre appropriation by a democratic congress, and pay off a large crew in a favored locality, with but few shot in the locker.

This taking back-water exposes the secretary to the unfavorable comments of the mugwumps. Possibly the democratic newspapers may be able to haul their wind and come up on the other tack before they have fired a broadside in the wrong direction, but the change is sudden and is accompanied not only by the danger of going ashore, but even of capsizing altogether. Verily, in the language of our genial neighbor at Little Boar's Head, the lot of the secretary is not a happy one.

A SUGGESTION.

We are informed on good authority that when the roof of Ward's distillery took fire (fortunately discovered and put out in season) one day last month, that the water in the north millpond was so low that it would have been impossible for a fire engine to have drafted water from the pond, and had the fire gained any headway the only recourse would have been to put engines in line and taken water from the Hanover street reservoir. It seems as though something should be done to have a supply of water on Christian Shore that would be always available. On Dennett street, running through the land of Mr. Nathaniel Hanscom, is a brook that at times furnishes a large supply of water, and on the easterly side of the street, opposite Mr. Hanscom's house and close to the old clay pits, is a grand chance to put in a reservoir, say ten feet deep, twenty feet wide and fifty feet long, which would hold 75,000 gallons, and which could be filled by this brook and kept full, the expense of which would be slight compared with the benefit conferred. We simply make this as a suggestion. This reservoir would be high enough, and if connected with it, could supply the one on Hanover street in case of need with about one-half of 75,000 gallons by the natural fall of the ground. AQUA.

SCROFULA.

A remedy that can destroy the germs of scrofula, and when once settled has the power to root it out, must be appreciated by those afflicted. The remarkable cures of young children and the more wonderful cures of those of middle age and late in life, as illustrated by our printed testimonials, prove HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA to be a reliable remedy, containing remedial agents which do positively cure scrofula and eradicate it from the blood.

WARNER, N. H., Jan. 21, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.: Gentlemen—For ten years previous to the early part of 1877 I had been a constant sufferer from scrofulous ulcers or sores, which had finally reduced me to a helpless condition, as described in my letter to you in September of that year. The continued excellent health which enables me to keep house for my aged father and to enjoy life, keeps alive my intense personal interest in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude for the permanent cure this wonderful medicine effected in my case nearly two years ago, while living in Lowell, when all my physicians gave me up as being in an incurable condition. One thing before I close. I have recommended your Sarsaparilla to hundreds, and I think more than a thousand cases, and my faith in its invincibility in curing scrofula has become absolute by the wonderful cures it has effected aside from my own. I trust you will not be slow in making the merits of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA known everywhere, for it is a duty you owe to mankind. With best wishes I remain very truly yours,

SARAH C. WHITTIER

WHERE THE "NEED" COMES IN.

The New York World of June 29th, commenting on the fact that Sec. Whitney has ordered the U. S. S. Omaha to the New York navy yard to be "repaired," says:

It is safe to assume that Secretary Whitney will see that no money is squandered on the Omaha, but why should a vessel fresh from the shop which has seen no service beyond helping to escort the Isere up the bay, need repairing?

She doesn't need it, any more than a first-class new coach needs a fifth wheel. The "need" is to furnish employment on the New York navy yard for a large force of men who will aid in carrying the state election in New York for democracy and reform this fall.

MARITIME NOTES.

The brick schooners D. K. Ham, Satellite, Hattie Lewis, Gold Hunter and G. W. Raitt sailed for Boston on the 8th inst.

The lighthouse steamer Iris, having on board Commander A. S. Crowninshield, U. S. N., inspector of the first lighthouse district, came up the river on Tuesday night, the 7th inst., and laid at the navy yard wharf until next morning, when she proceeded to sea. Comdr. Crowninshield is engaged in making his quarterly inspection of light stations.

The Penny Post of the 8th inst. says: "The schooners Hattie Lewis, George W. Raitt and D. K. Ham, left this morning for Boston with cargoes of bricks." It is within the memory of persons still living that the Penny Post once scoffed at the other papers of the city for sometimes reporting the arrival or departure of the schooner "George W. Raitt," asserting that there was no such vessel in existence, and that the schooner "G. W. Raitt" was named in honor of Gilman W. Raitt, said to be then a resident of Dover.

SOME PICNICS.

The high school had a picnic at Kittery Point, Me., on Tuesday, the 7th inst., and quite a large private party had a picnic at Wallis' sands.

On the 8th about everybody who could, went picnicking,—the members of the Methodist society and Sunday school at Kittery Point, going down in the steamer James Sampson; the Middle street Baptist society and Sunday school at Jenness' beach, Rye, and the Unitarians at Wallis' sands, both using barges to go and return; the Sunday schools of the Court street Christian society and the Second Christian church of Kittery, at Pinkham's grove, Dover point, going by rail; and the painters of the city, with invited guests, at Sea point, Gerrish's island, Kittery, a number of teams being required for their transportation. Besides these, many small parties enjoyed the day in the woods or on the banks of the river, and the boating parties were numerous.

THE FIRE ALARM.

The article in the Chronicle of the 7th inst. in regard to the new automatic fire alarm and the experience with it on the morning of the 4th, does not seem to have fully pleased either of our local cotemporaries. The Penny Post of that evening suggested that our article amounted to saying the new alarm would prove a good thing in locating fires, provided the firemen were roused by some more effective means. The Penny Post was correct; that was exactly what we said, and intended to say.

The Times did not plainly name the Chronicle, but said: "There has been since Saturday night more or less comment as to the new system of fire alarm. This talk has been mostly among firemen, some of whom say that the present alarm is insufficient to arouse the firemen, in-as-much as some of the members did not hear the alarm. Now we do not know the residence of all the firemen in the city, neither can we tell how accurate their sense of hearing is. We do know, however, that a large percentage of the whole department heard the alarm and responded to it." The Times goes on to remark that if the alarm was sufficient to awaken firemen in the remote parts of the city, it should be sufficient to arouse those living nearer the Parade, and concludes as follows:

The following fact is perhaps not generally known to the citizens. Ever since the idea of an electric alarm in this city has been talked of, certain republicans have been very busy disparaging its use here on the ground of its expense. They lost no opportunity to run it down, and we have known some of them to go out of their way to speak a word against it. There have been plenty to take up the economy cry, thus making the talk about the uselessness of the system very general, [this is saying much more than the Chronicle hinted, or was aware of,] and now a great long handle is made of a false alarm, rung by some rascal—(no one knows that it was not some one of these same meddlers) at a time when there were a thousand and one other noises to confuse and mislead, and when many of the firemen were celebrating "the night before the Fourth."

The hint that whatever criticism has been made concerning the new alarm has been due to republican partisanship we believe is wholly unjust; political feeling has certainly had nothing to do with what we have said on the subject. The persons with whom we have conversed on the matter are members of the fire department, and so far as we are aware, democrats without an exception; and it is these men who have complained of the inefficiency of the alarm as at present arranged for.

As to the plea that when the alarm was rung in there were many other noises being made, it is a sufficient reply to say that fires are as apt to occur at one time as another. Suppose one should start during the prevalence of a howling southeaster some night in the winter, how many of the people living south of State street would hear the sound of the North church bell or the brewery whistle?

See advertisement of household furniture for sale this day, commencing at ten o'clock A. M., at house No. 8 Richards avenue.

Mr. Simon C. Spear, formerly of this city, recently made a short visit here, and met his sister, Mrs. Henry Leveen, for the first time in twenty years. He was living here when the war of the rebellion broke out, and enlisted, remaining in the service to the close of the war. While in the service he contracted the rheumatism, and shortly after being honorably discharged went west and settled in Algona, Iowa, where he has been very successful in business. He came east to attend the recent national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Portland, Me., and on his return stopped over in this city for a brief time.

The attendance at the strawberry festival of the Women's Relief Corps in Congress hall on the evening of the 7th inst. was not nearly so large as the entertainment offered and the worthiness of the object merited, nor what it would have been but for the weather. All who did attend, however, enjoyed a very pleasant eve

Mr. A. F. Van Laer, formerly of this city but now of Jacksonville, Ill., where he is director of the Central Illinois Art School, is in town and will spend the summer here. About the 15th inst. he will commence instructing a class in out-door sketching, and persons desiring to join the class can leave their names at M. Goodrich's store, corner of Daniel and Market streets.

Mr. John W. Pray of this city was a passenger in the Cunard steamer Pavonia, which arrived in Boston on the 4th inst. from Liverpool. Mr. Pray went out in the steamer on her outward passage, and was absent four weeks, having sailed from Boston on the 6th of June.

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that disease, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicine relieve or cure while a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their nature. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of diseases subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

FITNESVILLE, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.,

24 Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., July 7th.

The 4th was passed very quietly in town, nothing of much importance happening. The churches at Kittery Point had a picnic in Government grove, which was largely attended and apparently well enjoyed. Several parties went to York beach, and many individuals to Portsmouth. On the whole, it was one of the most quiet fourths for many years.

The work of remodelling the interior of the Second Christian church around the pulpit and chancel is now being done. It is thought the pulpit formerly used in the Universalist church will be purchased and removed to this church.

Shadrach Littlefield and wife, with their son, O. E. Littlefield, and his wife, were in town on a visit to the elder gentleman's daughter, Mrs. O. E. Pettigrew.

The schools have nearly all closed for the summer vacation.

T. J. Pettigrew, draughtsman in the construction department of the navy at Washington, D. C., arrived home on the 1st inst. to make a short visit, and attend the graduation of his daughter, Miss M. Augusta Pettigrew, from the high school.

Dana B. Cutter, of Saccarappa, of the first class of '85 at the Maine normal school at Gorham, was in attendance at the graduating exercises of the Kittery high school class of '85.

Edward R. Fuller, bookkeeper for the Platt & Washburn Refining Co. of Boston, has been spending a part of his vacation in North Kittery; he will leave town this week, accompanied by his wife, to pass the rest of his vacation in his native town, North Warren, Me.

George A. Damon, bookkeeper for Ward & Gray, stationers, of Boston, is passing his vacation at home here.

Miss Dora Rogers, a teacher in one of the schools in Washington, D. C., is at her home in this town for a short vacation.

Haying has commenced to some extent in this vicinity, but owing to the bad weather of late, operations have been suspended for several days. The crop will not be equal to what was anticipated earlier in the season. SUB ROSA.

The Pensacola arrived at Gibraltar June 18th, all well. Rear Adm. Franklin reports the Kearsarge badly in need of repairs.

"Buchu-Paiba."

Quick, complete cure, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, scalding, irritation, stone, gravel, catarrh of the bladder. $1. Druggists.

A man and three children were burned to death at Woodbridge, Va., July 4th, in their dwelling, and three women and another child were fatally injured.

James Pyles's Pearline is an article of too great value to housekeepers to be untried by any. No similar article has come into general use in so short a time, simply because it always speaks for itself on trial. Sold by all grocers, but see that counterfeits are not urged upon you.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any such meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 15. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier shall neglect having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

FARM NOTES.

Hens should always be provided with water.

Two-thirds of the wheat grown in this country is of the winter variety.

Henry Ward Beecher says he knows of a pear tree that yielded 184 bushels of fruit in a single season.

The Indiana Bureau of Statistics says that underdraining decreases the tendency to malarial diseases.

Kindness in the care of cows and cleanliness in the care of milk are fundamental axioms in dairying.

Have you provided partially dark shelter in pastures as a protection to stock against stinging flies in summer?

Mr. Lawes, the English agricultural writer, says an acre of clover will evaporate eight tons of water in a June day.

The Poultry Keeper says new blood should be introduced into poultry yards every year or two, by the purchase of new cockrels.

The United States has more horses than any other country in the world save Russia. Breed out the "weeds" and weed out the breeds.

Fruit trees are so heavily laden throughout the Pacific coast region that a heavy expense is being incurred to properly thin the fruit to prevent overbearing.

A member of the Wisconsin Dairymen's Association says enough corn stalks are wasted in that State every year to keep all the stock in the State without using any hay.

After long and extended tests in fattening stock for market, the conclusion is that of all foods grain is the best, especially if fed in connection with a variety of other food.

When barbarous women, says J. B. Olcott, demand the heads of insect-eating birds by wholesale for their hats, it will take a large book to tell the remote consequences from the increase of predatory tribes in the unnatural history.

Fowls like newly-cut grass. They should have all they want of it. The clippings from a lawn mower are just the thing for them. Sunflower seed, which can be easily grown without trouble, forms a food of which fowls are extremely fond.

A correspondent of a Scotch agricultural paper says his experience of twenty years in a large dairy herd leads him to believe that the sex of calves can be largely controlled. If male calves are wanted see the bull is in better condition than the cows. If females are wanted, the reverse.

A soil that is rich in potash and which is composed of granite is not favorable for sheep, says the Western Rural. It is said that even turnips that are grown upon such soil, will have a very injurious effect upon sheep. But a limestone or sandstone soil is just what a sheep needs. The Shropshire and the Leicester come from a red sandstone district; the Cotswold is a native of the limestone hills from which it takes its name. The Lincolnshire is bred upon soil that rests upon limestone; and in our own country the Vermont limestone hills produce the American Merino to perfection.

Vick's Magazine says if one would have a good garden it should be free from foul seeds. Nine out of ten of the gardens among farmers are allowed to mature a crop of weeds the latter part of the season, and usually this is the result of carelessness. After June, or when such early crops as peas, lettuce and radishes have matured, no further use is made of the land, and, as it has usually been manured in the spring, it grows a lusty of crop of weeds and fills the soil so full seeds as to quadruple the work of cultivation of such plants as come up delicately, and which must be kept clean by hand. The evil of ripening a crop of weed seeds is not short-lived, for the seeds will remain in the soil for many years and germinate when the spring opens.

Flowers on the Table.

Set flowers on your table, a whole nosegay if you can get it, or but two or three, or a single flower—a rose, a pink, a daisy—and you have something that reminds you of God's creation, and gives you a link with the poets that have done it most honor. Flowers on the morning table are especially suited to them. They look like the happy awakening of the creation; they bring the perfume of the breath of nature into the room; they seem the very representative and embodiment of every smile of your home, the graces of good morrow; proofs that some intellectual beauties are in ourselves and those about us, some Aurora (if we are so happy as to have such a companion) helping to strew our lives with sweetness, or in ourselves some masculine wilderness not unworthy to possess such a companion or unworthy to gain her.

Selected Recipes.

Mrs. Allen gives the Prairie Farmer her plan of serving eggs on toast. She says, I often serve eggs on toast, first toasting some slices of dry bread very brown. Then dip each slice quickly in and out of boiling water and place on a platter, spreading evenly with a little butter. After the toast is prepared I poach the eggs and put one on each slice. This is a good way to use up any bread on hand.

Mrs. Woolson writes as follows about graham gems, which are very nice for supper. They are made more quickly than biscuit. I have been trying a new recipe lately, and find it excellent. Put into two cupsful of graham flour one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and a half teaspoonful of salt. Into one pint of milk stir one tablespoonful of melted butter, measured after it is melted; then stir the milk into the flour. Mix smooth, pour in gem pans and bake fifteen minutes in quick oven.

The Lancaster Farmer has this recipe for potato soup: Take a quart of milk, six large potatoes, one stalk of celery; pare potatoes and boil thirty minutes, turn off the water and mash fine and light; add the boiling milk and the butter, and pepper and salt to taste; rub through a strainer and serve immediately. A cupful of whipped cream, added when in the tureen, is a great improvement. This soup must not be allowed to stand, even if kept hot. Served as soon as ready it is excellent.

Muffins.—One quart of warm milk, a piece of butter about the size of an egg, four eggs, a teaspoonful of salt, one cup of yeast, flour enough to make a stiff batter, beat with a large spoon; put it to rise for an hour; fill the rings half full, bake twenty minutes.

Waffles.—Four eggs to a quart of milk, a quarter pound of butter, a little salt, flour to make a batter not very thick; heat and butter the irons well; fill them and bake them quickly. If for tea, grate on a little nutmeg and sugar; if for breakfast only butter them.

A Simple Soup.—Skim off the fat from mutton or chicken, put it in a soup-pot with two or three carrots, turnips and onions, a cup of rice, the bones and bits of cold meat, pepper, salt, and a few potatoes. Boil it four hours, then take out the bones, and send it to the table.

Sour Milk Biscuit.—One quart of flour, a pint of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, mixed into the milk until it froths; stir it into the flour cold; mix it quick and bake in a quick oven.

A Veteran Correspondent.

Maj. Ben: Perley Poore was among the gentlemen presented to President Cleveland recently. Maj. Poore, when he shook hands with the president, remarked that this was the seventeenth president with whom he had shaken hands. He has met them all except four. He met Monroe when a small boy in New York, and, later, when the major came to Washington, he very frequntly saw John Quincy Adams. He remembers Adams especially well, because he once attended the laying of a corner-stone of a public building. The day was hot and the president removed his coat. Young Poore had the pleasure of holding this coat. President Cleveland expressed great pleasure in meeting the veteran correspondent. He said it was very unusual to meet anyone in Washington who had lived there for any length of time. Poore has a very good memory of all the presidents from the time of John Quincy Adams. Jackson was the president, he says, who inaugurated the practice of receiving office-seekers at the white house. Before him none of the small place-seekers were permitted to see the president. It is probable that President Cleveland will in time succeed in restoring the old condition of things, and banish the office-seekers as a class from the white house.

Rapid Growth.

American humor delights in exaggeration. The Yankee has such a pride in the bigness of his country and in the rapidity of its progress, that he enjoys astonishing his hearers with tales which contain just enough truth to make the magnified sketch funny.

There is a town, or rather a city, in Central Dakota, only four years old. Just four years ago there was one house, a miserable shanty, standing on the spot where is now a four-story hotel.

There are five large hotels, six churches, sixty saloons, skating rinks, a system of water works, electric lights, gas, school-houses, banks, wholesale business houses of all kinds, enterprise, energy, enthusiasm, push, selfishness and money-making in this four-year-old Hercules. Yesterday, nothing; to-day, everything.

To illustrate, by a grotesque exaggeration, the marvelous growth of the Northwest, the following sketch is amusing. An engineer on the Chicago and Milwaukee Road, which has pushed its way into the heart of Southern Dakota, is supposed to tell the story.

"One day, I was driving my engine over the prairie at the rate of forty miles an hour, without a house in sight and supposing the nearest town to be thirty miles distant. But as I glanced ahead, I was astonished to see that I was approaching a large city. I rubbed my eyes, thinking it was a mirage.

"'Jim,' says I to the fireman, 'what's this place?'

"'Blamed if I know!' says Jim, staring out of the cab. 'I declare if there ain't a new town growed up here since we went over the line yesterday!'

"'I believe you're right, Jim. Ring the bell or we shall run over somebody.'

"So I slowed up and we pulled into a big depot, where mor'n five hundred people were waitin' to see the first train come into the place. The conductor learned the name of the town, put it down on the schedule and we went on.

"'Jim, says I, as we pulled out, 'keep your eyes open for new towns. First thing you know, we'll be runnin' by some strange place!'

"'That's so!' says Jim. 'An' hadn't we better git one of the brakemen to watch out on the rear platform of the last car for towns that spring up after the engine fits by?'"

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "work," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON. MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist. ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cared me.

JNO. GASKILL. HEBRON, THAYER COUNTY, PENN.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1.00; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Clergymen, Vocalists,

And Public Speakers without number owe their present usefulness and success to SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

REV. DR. Wiggin says: "One of the best remedies for Catarrh—nay, the best remedy we have found in a lifetime of suffering—is SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. It clears the head and throat so thoroughly that, taken each morning on rising, there are no unpleasant secretions and no disagreeable hawking during the entire day, but an unprecedented clearness of voice and respiratory organs."

Every Woman Knows Them.

The human body is much like a good clock or watch in its movements; if one goes too slow or too fast, so follow all the others, and bad time results; if one organ or set of organs works imperfectly, perversion of functional effort of all the organs is sure to follow. Hence it is that the numerous ailments which make woman's life miserable are the direct issue of the abnormal action of the uterine system. For all that numerous class of symptoms—and every woman knows them—there is one unfailing remedy, Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," the favorite of the sex.

In the United States court at Baltimore, July 7th, Judge Bond affirmed the decree of the district court awarding three colored women damages of $1000 each for having been excluded from first-class sleeping apartments on the steamer Sue, after they had purchased first-class tickets.

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic, given the little one, will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

The Sheep and the Goats.

Many years ago a vessel arrived in the lower harbor from a long voyage, and one of the crew going ashore landed at Kittery Point during the evening, and found his way into a meeting-house when a good elder was portraying the situation of the sheep and the goats, as described by St. Matthew. The sheep, according to the preacher, had been well provided for, when with fervid unction he looked about over his little congregation and enquired in a tone that seemed to demand a reply, "But where are the goats?" There was a brief pause, as if some one could tell, when our newly-landed tar exclaimed, "Well, shipmate, rather than not have the play go on, I'll be the goats!"

This reminds us of the condition of Appointment Clerk Higgins when there is a direct violation of the civil service enactments. When the administration seeks to wash its hands, so to speak, of any particularly dirty political blunder which is discovered, Higgins is called upon to play the scape goat. Higgins, who is not an executive officer, but a clerk, who records the acts of his superiors, is sent for and publicly scolded, and told if caught doing that thing again, he will be expelled from the charmed circle wherein he now revolves! If we were for a moment inclined to suspend our admiration, in common with those quandam republicans who see so much to appreciate and endorse in the efforts of the administration to conduct the affairs of the nation creditably, it would be to denounce the cowardly manner in which Cleveland and Mahning shirk the responsibility of their wicked evasions of the law, and lay it off to Higgins.

First Auditor Chenoweth, in regard to the Keilar case, which is probably the most outrageous violation of the law so far committed by the administration—a blunder which in the eye of the law was a crime—admits that he is the responsible person, and Higgins is not entitled to the reputation of the act. This will permit the president to retain Higgins, but what must he say to the auditor? This farce of being so much a civil service administration on one day, and so regardless of the law in this respect on the next, is really leaving the administration worse off in the estimate of those who with high hopes and great expectations have predicted so much in behalf of Mr. Cleveland's political integrity, but who have been busy in the service of apologizing for the inconsistencies of the Buffalo statesman, until they are becoming almost discouraged. Yet these men have told us that the president means to do right. The only sure thing about this business appears to be that Higgins is to be chided in a Pickwickian sense. He probably laughs over the manner in which the president fools the mugwumps in his assumed indignation at the appointment clerk's transgressions. The whole business is transparently thin.

The Spanish Cholera Epidemic.

Despatches from Aranjuez, Spain, show that the ravages of cholera in that beautiful place have been dreadful beyond description. The streets are deserted, and the population has suddenly decreased from 14,000 to 3000. Those that are left feel fated, and make hardly any attempt to ward off the disease. Many who are attacked drop senseless as they are walking about, and expire before aid can reach them. More than one-tenth of the soldiers in the garrison, including six officers, have died of cholera within a week. Half of the remainder are in the hospital. Every one of the Sisters of Mercy sent to nurse the cholera patients have caught the plague, and are dead. There are no coffins left in the city to enclose the dead, and the few hearses are practically useless. The bodies of the victims are left by the roadside, wrapped in blankets, and are gathered in the city dust carts, in which they are taken to the cemeteries and cast into trenches.

London's Sensation.

The Pall Mall Gazette of London is creating a tremendous sensation in that city by exposing the gross immorality of hundreds of men in the highest social and official circles, particularly in the traffic in young working girls for base purposes. No such sensation has been known in London for years; the Gazette presses are kept running day and night, and the papers sell at whatever prices the holders demand. The police have been ordered to stop the street sales of the paper, which challenges any of the assailed "noble" men or others to a tilt at law.

The sloop yacht Progress, of the East River (New York) yacht club, is missing, with a crew of twelve men.

The hearing in the case of Miss Emma Frost and her mother, of Dover, relative to the placing of the former's infant on a doorstep in Dover one night in June, and abandoning it, which resulted in the child's death from exposure, has been again postponed on account of the illness of Miss Frost, who is as yet unable to leave her bed.

SCROFULA.

A remedy that can destroy the germs of scrofula, and when once settled has the power to root it out, must be appreciated by those afflicted. The remarkable cures of young children and the more wonderful cures of those of middle age and late in life, as illustrated by our printed testimonials, prove HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA to be a reliable remedy, containing remedial agents which do positively cure scrofula and eradicate it from the blood.

FARMER, N. H., Jan. 21, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: Gentlemen—For ten years previous to the early part of 1877 I had been a constant sufferer from scrofulous ulcers or sores, which had finally reduced me to a helpless condition, as described in my letter to you in September of that year. The continued excellent health which enables me to keep house for my aged father and to enjoy life, keeps alive my intense personal interest in Hood's SARSAPARILLA, and I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude for the permanent cure this wonderful medicine effected in my case nearly two years ago, while living in Lowell, when all my physicians gave me up as being in an incurable condition. One thing before I close. I have recommended your Sarsaparilla to hundreds, and I think more than a thousand cases, and my faith in its invincibility in curing scrofula has become absolute by the wonderful cures it has effected aside from my own. I trust you will not be slow in making the merits of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA known everywhere, for it is a duty you owe to mankind. With best wishes I remain very truly yours,

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, July 9th, Mayor Page in the chair.

Present the full board except Ald. Walker and Eldredge.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

George A. Jackson was granted leave to encumber Russell street for building purposes.

The matter of portico of Haliburton house encroaching on Islington street, was referred to the committee on streets.

Petition of Richard I. Walden and others for crosswalk at junction of Gates and Water streets, was referred to committee on streets.

Matter of extension of Mechanic street was laid over to next meeting, for report as to land damages.

Met the Common Council, and in convention elected Dr. John J. Berry city physician.

On motion of Ald. Coffin, the question of putting the Spring market in repair and reopening the spring there was referred to the committee on city lands and buildings.

Petition of police for one week's liberty, two officers at a time, was referred to committee on police, with power.

City marshal's quarterly report was received and referred.

Committee on accounts reported bills amounting to $8,679.24 which were ordered paid.

Ordered that the pump taken up from the well on Vaughan street be repaired, and placed on Creek street, where there is already a stone trough.

Adjourned for two weeks.

BREWERY MEN ON A LARK.

Two brewery workmen, Peter Bowles and a man named Walsh, had a dispute over the cost of a wheelbarrow. Bowles said he could get a good one for $1.25, and Walsh replied that if he could get one at that price he (Walsh) would wheel Bowles in it from Market square to the Creek. Bowles did get one at that price, and on Thursday evening the wheeling took place, Bowles being clad in a "Mother Hubbard" rig and carrying a sunshade with a torch on its top, and a big crowd of brewery workmen acting as escort, equipped with tin horns and torches, and carrying about a dozen flags. They had a good deal of fun out of the performance.

TURKEY BUZZARD ADRIFT.

A large bird, shot in Eliot by a young man named Dixon, was brought into this city on the 8th inst. to see if our local sportsmen could tell what it was, Mr. Dixon having never seen such a bird before. It turned out to be a turkey buzzard, a bird which is very numerous in the Gulf states, but is never seen in a wild state much farther north. The unusual capture is to be stuffed for A. P. Wendell & Co.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Estella, Littlefield master, from York with a load of wood for the Eliot brickyards, in coming up the river on the 9th inst. ran on the rocks near the narrows, but was quickly hauled off by the tug Clara Batemen, apparently uninjured.

The British schooner Anna Curtis, from Moncton, New Brunswick, with ties to the Boston & Maine railroad, while beating up the river on the afternoon of the 9th went on the rocks at Seavey's island, just below the narrows. She was hauled off by the Clara Batemen and proceeded up the river, and in trying to make a berth at the Noble's island wharf she was carried by the tide against Portsmouth bridge, breaking her main boom.

The auction sale of furniture, etc., advertised to commence at ten o'clock Thursday forenoon, July 9th, at house No. 8 Richards avenue, was postponed to Wednesday, the 15th. See advertisement.

Owing to contemplated changes, the Portsmouth skating rink will hereafter be known as the "Portsmouth Casino."

A young son of Mr. Israel S. Fletcher, who lives at No. 105 Water Street, while carelessly handling a pistol on the morning of the 4th shot himself through the palm of the left hand, inflicting a wound that it was feared might prove fatal. On Thursday evening, the 9th, the boy's condition was reported to be very critical.

Mr. Herman Manson, who drove through York on Thursday evening, on arriving home reported that during the heavy shower late in the afternoon on that day the steeple of the Orthodox church at York was struck by lightning.

Thursday, the 9th inst., was the hottest of the season up to that time, the mercury at noon indicating a temperature of ninety-four degrees above zero in the shade, near Market square. The previous day was quite warm enough for comfort, ninety-one in the shade being reported is several localities about the city.

The Hall field, at the junction of South and Sagamore roads, was being mowed on the 9th inst., to be in readiness for the Barnum circus on the 16th.

Shortly after the arrival of the 3:10 P. M. train from Boston on the 7th inst., while the engine was just inside the easterly end of the station, a minor steam pipe collapsed, and though but a small affair the roar of the escaping steam was such as to make the people think the machine was going to "bust," and cause nearly everybody to hastily vacate the building. Five or six hackmen were in the throng, and realizing that it is a serious affair for a hackman to be called away without having a chance for repentance they stood not upon the order of their going, but went at once, and in such a hurry that they all tumbled over the handle of a barrow and a young printer who unluckily was in the way, and piled themselves up in a heap with the printer on the bottom. In their frantic struggles to get up before the boiler bursted, the unfortunate printer received several severe thumps in the back and ribs from elbows and boot-heels, from the effects of which he was nearly disabled next day; and the boiler didn't burst after all. The engineer and fireman, being accustomed to being blown up, maintained the usual coolness displayed by them on such occasions, the trifling damage was temporarily remedied, and the locomotive continued on its way with the train.

The Bouquet cigar, for which F. B. Coleman, the druggist, is sole agent for Portsmouth, is claimed to be the best five-cent cigar in the market, being hand made from selected leaf, and long filled, so that the smoker does not get his mouth filled with shakings if he happens to give a pull of extra vigor. The smokers endorse them, and the sales are extensive.

The members of the Women's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the G. A. R., of Concord, on Thursday tendered a reception in that city to Mrs. Adaline P. Kent of Portsmouth, wife of Col. J. Horace Kent and vice president of the order.

It is announced that Mr. George H. Rockwood, late principal of the Portsmouth high school, has been engaged as principal of the high school at North Brookfield, Mass.

Secretary Whitney has appointed a board consisting of Capt. Wallace, Commanders Sands and Remey, Chief Engineer Smith, and Naval Constructor Hichborn to examine the present foreman of navy yard shops, and also applicants for such positions, with a view to determining the efficiency of the incumbents and making changes where it is advisable.

Charles A. Jones of Strafham was arraigned before Judge Shute at the police court in Exeter on the 6th inst., on a charge preferred by the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children that he had grossly abused his son, a lad of fifteen years, by cruelly beating him. The case was settled by Jones giving up the boy to the charge of the society. Hon. T. E. O. Marvin was immediately appointed guardian of the boy, and will find a home for him in the family of some farmer or other suitable person who needs the services of a quick and willing boy.

The president has removed E. H. Banks, a very competent business man, from the postmastership of Biddeford, on the alleged ground of "offensive partisanship," and has appointed Timothy Shaw, Jr., a time-honored politician and office-holder, in his place. The Boston Advertiser, mugwump, holds that the successors in office of offensive partisans should be free from the offensiveness which gave ground for the removal of their predecessors — as if it did not know that this whole pretence of "offensive partisanship" was the merest sham excuse for a division of the spoils. The York county democrats would be rather taken aback to see Timothy masquerading in any role other than that of the active democratic politician, with one eye for the party's management and both wide open to his own interests.

In the police court at Dover, July 8th, a girl fourteen years old, named Ruth I. Sikes, was arraigned for stealing $10 from her father, who appeared against her. He stated that she was in the habit of attending the salvation army meetings and staying out till twelve or one o'clock. He did not wish to have her sent to the reform school if she would behave. Judge Frost suspended sentence till August 3d, to give her another chance.

The State Savings Banks.

The annual report of the bank commissioners of this State is a book of 340 pages, and was carefully and systematically compiled. From 1850 the number of banks has increased from 12 to 68; the number of depositors from 13,031 to 121,216; the deposits from $1,641,543.71 to $43,827,356.41; average of each depositor from $125.97 to $361.25, and the average to each person in the State from $5.16 to $125.20. The banks having deposits of one million and over are 11 in number, among which is the name of the Portsmouth Savings Bank of this city. The law provides that banks shall not pay their depositors interest at a greater rate than five per cent. annually, but may divide any surplus beyond their guaranty fund that may have accrued, every two years, and shall do so every five years; and whenever any bank shall have a guarantee fund equal to five per cent. of its actual deposits, it may divide its net gains annually. There are eight banks of the 68 which pay depositors 5 per cent.

KEEP IT PURE.

The Life is the Blood—Prevent Disease—Surgery the Last Resort—A Telling Letter.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that disease, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. Some very things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this, your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that. Yours, &c.,

24 Adams Street. MATTHEW FARRELL.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable,

Address:—Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is commended by proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

There was an eclipse this year that astronomers failed to note. It was the eclipse of Adamson's Botanic Balsam over all competitors. It cures coughs, colds, and all diseases of the throat, hest, and lungs. Price 10,*35 and 75, cents.

The rifled pocketbooks of George A. Dunbar, murdered at Pittsfield, Mass., have been found, but up to the evening of the 9th there was no clue to the murderers.

The Beauty of Youth.

No matter how handsome or stalwart a young man may be otherwise, nothing can make up for a partially bald head. Shining talents are attractive, but a shining poll is not. The cause may be sickness or anything else, yet Parker's Hair Balsam will stop the loss of the hair and start a new growth of glossy and soft hair so quickly as to surprise you—restoring the original color at the same time. Not a dye, not oily, delicately perfumed. Only standard 50c. dressing.

Sergeant Dennis Kelley, U. S. A., who shot Fred Smith of Charlestown, Mass., at Fort Popham, Me., has been sentenced to eighteen months in jail and $1 fine.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any state meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 15. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

At the Station.

Lamp after lamp now the lights go by troop
ing,
Stretching behind the trees, dreamily yonder;
Through the branches adrip with the shower
The light slants and gleams on the puddles.

Plaintively, shrilly, piercingly whistles
The engine hard by. Cold and gray are the heavens,
Up above, the autumn morning
Ghostlike glimmers around me.

Whither and whence move the people hurry-
ing
Into dark carriages, muffled and silent?
To what sorrows unknown are they rushing—
Long tortures of hopes that will tarry?

You too, oh, fair one, are dreamily holding
Your ticket now for the guard's sharp clipping—
Ah, so clips Time, ever relentless,
Joys, memories, and years that are golden.

Far-stretching the dark train stands, and the workmen
Black-capped, up and down keep moving like shadows;
In his hand bears each one a lantern,
And each one a hammer of iron.

And the iron they strike sends a hollow resounding
Mournful; and out of the heart an echo
Mournfully answers—a sudden
Dull pang of regret that is weary.

Now the hurrying slam of the doors grows insulting
And loud, and scornful the rapidly sounding
Summons to start and delay no—
The rain dashes hard on the windows.

Puffing, shuddering, panting, the monster
Now feels life stir in its limbs of iron,
And opens its eyes, and startles
The dim far space with a challenge.

Then on moves the evil thing, horribly trail-
ing
Its length, and, beating its wings, bears from me
My love—and her face and her farewell
Are lost to me now in the darkness.

O sweet face flushed with the palest of roses!
O starlike eyes so peaceful! O forehead
Crowned with the raven tresses
Curling so softly around it!

The air with a passionate life was a-tremble,
And summer was glad when you smiled to greet me;
The young sun of June bent earthward
And kissed her soft cheek in rapture.

Full 'neath the nut-brown hair he kissed her—
But though his beauty and splendor might circle
Her gentle presence—far brighter
The glory my thoughts set around her.

There in the rain, in the dreary darkness
I turn me, and with them would mingle my being;
I stagger; then touch myself grimly—
Not yet as a ghost am I moving.

O what a falling of leaves, never-ending,
Icy, and silent, and sad on my spirit!
I feel that forever around me
The earth has grown all one November.

Better to be without sense of existence—
Better this gloom and this shadow of darkness.
Would I, ah! would I were sleeping
A dull sleep that lasted forever.

BISMARCK.

His Manner of Speaking and Mode of Showing Anger.

He is no elegant orator, rather the contrary, but he can lead a debate like no one else. Only a few days ago he spoke seven times in one afternoon, each time with more energy and spirit, proving that his health is indeed restored. Several members had already spoken and the House was still empty, when suddenly members filed in from all the doors, and the benches began to fill. A rumor had been circulated that Bismarck would appear, and shortly afterwards a narrow door near the President's chair opened, and the tall figure entered. Suddenly soft bells are heard in all parts of the House. The electric bells in the reading room, in the committee rooms, and in the journalists' rooms are sounded to announce the arrival of the Chancellor, who has shown that he will speak presently, for, with one of his pencils, more than a foot long, he has noted down something on the loose quarto sheets before him, with letters not less than an inch deep, and this is a safe sign that he intends speaking.

The President bows to him, and Prince Bismarck rises to "take the word." He is certainly more than six feet high; over his powerful chest and broad shoulders rises a strangely-rounded, well-shaped head of enormous dimensions, and with no hair upon it, so that it looks like a dome of polished ivory. Thick white brows hang over his eyes like two icicles. These brows give his face a dark and frowning expression, and the look which glistened from his eyes is cold and somewhat cruel—at least in Parliament. His mustache is also thick and gray, and conceals the mouth entirely. The whole face is covered with folds and wrinkles, broad rings surround his eyes, and even his temples are covered with small wrinkles.

When he begins to speak the color of his face changes from pale to red, and gradually assumes a light bronze shade, which gives his powerful skull the appearance of a polished metal. It is a surprise to hear Bismarck speak for the first time. The soft, almost weak voice, is all out of proportion with his gigantic frame. It sometimes becomes so soft that we fear that it will die out altogether, and when he has spoken for awhile it grows hoarse. The Chancellor sometimes speaks fast, sometimes very slowly, but never in a loud tone. He has no pathos whatever. Some of his most remarkable words, which in print look as if they had been spoken with full force, as if they must have had the effect of a sudden thunderbolt on the audience, are in reality uttered in an ordinary tone of well-bred conversation.

Personal attacks upon his enemies are spoken by Bismarck with ironical politeness, and in an obliging tone, as if they concealed the kindest sentiments. But if his anger cannot be heard, it can be seen; his face gradually grows red, and the veins on his neck swell in an alarming manner. When angry he usually grasps the collar of his uniform, and seems to catch for breath. His brows are lowered still more, so that his eyes are almost invisible. His voice grows a shade louder, and has a slight metallic ring in it. The sentences drop from his lips in rapid succession. He throws back his head, and gives his face a hard, stony expression.

But it is difficult to discern when his anger is real and when it is artificial. The Chancellor has been seen trembling with rage, and more like the elements let loose than like anything else. Once, when he thought that the word "Fiel" had been said by one of the Opposition party he had one of his attacks, which would have silenced the House had every one been speaking at once. With trembling nostrils, with his teeth firmly set, with eyes that emitted fire, and clenched hands, he jumped from his place to the side where the word had sounded. If apologies and explanation had not been offered, who knows how this scene might have ended?

But except upon such rare occasions Bismarck the orator is always a well-bred man. He does not bawl nor shout any part of his speeches, but while giving them their full share of pointed sarcasm he always maintains the form of a political conversation between gentlemen. He has a method of his own for waging war with his opponents. He regards his opponent's speech as a ball of wool, the last sentence spoken being the end which he takes in hand first, and with which he begins to unwind the whole speech as he would unwind the ball of wool. But it is easy to see that while his tongue is speaking his spirit is far in advance of it. He hesitates in his speech, then suddenly recalls himself and puts forth a number of clear thoughts, which it is easy to see occurred to him at the moment.—Berlin Letter to London Paper.

The Physical Result of Cremation.

A curious fact in connection with cremation is the amount of ashes received from a body and the disposition made of them. The two largest bodies cremated in Philadelphia weighed two hundred pounds each, the ashes weighing four pounds eight ounces and five pounds four and a half ounces, respectively. The largest percentage of ashes thus far received was from a body weighing 180 pounds, and whose ashes weighed five pounds and eleven ounces. Various disposition has been made of the ashes, in some instances the remains being buried, in some retained in the family, and in others sent to Europe. The ashes of one subject were placed in a marble urn and deposited in a Masonic lodge-room, while those of another, Miss Clancey, the actress, were divided, a part being buried by the side of her sister in Baltimore and the rest by her mother's side in Maine.

His Last Fight.

Col. Colborne, a member of Hicks Pasha's staff, has received from an eye-witness the story of the final catastrophe of the army of his unfortunate chief. The narrator, a boy seventeen years old, states that the Arabs swept down upon the front face of the Egyptian square, carrying it away like chaff before the wind. Seeing this, the other side of the square turned inward and commenced a death-dealing fusillade, both on the Arabs pressing into the square and on each other cross-ways. A terrible slaughter commenced. Hicks Pasha and the very few English officers left with him, seeing all hope of restoring order gone, spurred their horses and sprang out of the confused mass of wounded, dead, and dying. These officers fired away with their revolvers, clearing a space for themselves, till all their ammunition was expended. They killed many. They had got clear outside. They then took to their swords and fought till they fell. Hicks Pasha now alone remained. He was a terror to the Arabs. They said he never struck a man with his sword without killing him. They named him Abou Deraa Dougal, the heavy-armed (or thick or brawny). He kept them all at bay, but he was struck on the wrist with a sword, and he dropped his own. Then he fell.

Sensational Story-Tellers.

Nobody ever has suspected Senator Hoar of having much appreciation of the ludicrous. Among the solemn he is the most solemn. The senate has among its members a large number of good story-tellers, but their efforts upon the Massachusetts senator have been for the most part in vain. "He likes to entertain his friends," said one of his colleagues to me to-day, "by relating funny incidents now and then, but he would spoil the most laughable story ever known in the telling of it." As a reconteur, by the way, Mr. Vance, of North Carolina, takes the lead among his colleagues. Senator Vest follows a good second. Then comes Mr. Palmer, of Michigan, and Mr. Jones, of Nevada. The latter is inimitable in his mining stories. His greatest rival in this particular field is Senator Bowen, of Colorado, who will tell the most excrutiatingly funny stories with the same expressionless face that he assumes when holding a full hand in a game of poker. Mr. Evart's fame as a story-teller is national. In certain directions he has no superior. Gen. Hawley is fairly good at telling a story, but his forte really consists in singing. You must have heard him sing "The Two Grenadiers," or something less solemn—a college song or two after dinner, when the bottle has gone its rounds and cigars have been lighted—to appreciate the Connecticut senator's genius.—New York Tribune.

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "work," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc., in fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.
MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.

In Chicago, July 8th, on the pretence of being plumbers, sent by the landlord, two men gained entrance to the residence of Mr. Thomas Smith, bound and gagged his wife and robbed her of $10.50, after which they left the house. In the course of half an hour Mrs. Smith loosened the rope with which she was bound sufficiently to crawl to the door and alarm her neighbors. The police were notified, but there is no clue to the rogues.

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic, given the little one, will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

Lucian Hopson of Texas, when the late war began, invented and had patented by the confederate government a projectile which was used with some success in Charleston harbor against the union vessels. After the war the patent of course became worthless. Recently Hopson filed an application for a patent for the same projectile, and a few days ago a letter was sent to him from the interior department informing him that his application had been granted.

Sick Headache.

GENTS:—I have been subject to Sick Headache for years, and have tried, in vain, many advertised remedies and several physicians, but all to no purpose. At last I tried your B. B. Bitters—without much faith, I admit—but to-day I can truly say, that after taking the third bottle I have not suffered from it. I recommend it to all my friends; several have been cured by it. Wind, Rain and Lightning.

Reports from Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois give information of disastrous cyclones, flooding rains, terrific thunder storms and intense heat on Thursday, the 9th inst., and the night previous, immense damage being done. In Massachusetts, Vermont and other New England states there were very heavy thunder showers, accompanied in many sections by winds strong enough to overthrow trees and fences, unroof buildings and blow down steeples, and in several instances to destroy bridges.

Yacht Race.

A race for a $500 cup was sailed off Gloucester, Mass., July 9th, by the big schooner yachts Fortuna, Gitana, Mohican and America. The distance was twenty miles to windward and return, and the vessels arrived back in the order named, the America being miles behind the next boat ahead. The new sloop yacht Puritan sailed over the course, and ran away from the racing yachts at her pleasure.

The Natural Resources of Ireland.

The Anthracite coal-fields of Leinster extend over a great portion of the counties of Kilkenny, Queen's county and Carlow, and are estimated to contain 63,000,000 tons. (This estimate has reference only to one four-foot layer; there are three more layers underneath untouched.)

The Tipperary coal-fields are 20 mile long and in parts 6 miles wide. The Munster coal-fields, the largest in the British Empire, occupy a large portion of the counties of Clare, Limerick, Cork and Kerry. The Bituminous coal-fields of Tyrone cover 7,000 acres (Irish). Ausbone coal district contains 320 acres, Antrim has a small coal district, also Monaban and Mulvagh Bay. The Connaught coal-fields extend over a large portion of the counties of Roscommon, Sligo, Leitrim and Cavan, covering an area of 114,000 acres (Irish). To these immense coal-fields, add 2,830,000 acres of Bog (Peat), which has 44 per cent the economic value of coal, which shows Ireland to be well provided with fuel.

The water power of Ireland equals 1,452,150 horse power, capable of working night and day, the year round, and this power can be more than doubled by building basins, reservoirs, etc., that would economize the rain-fall to be used in dry seasons. Nearly all the lakes of Ireland could be converted into vast reservoirs to be utilized as power for manufacturing purposes.

Iron exists in large quantities in Tyrone, Kilkenny, on the shores of Lough Allen, Fermanah, Cavan, Queen's county, Clare, Roscommon and Leitrim; copper exists in Wicklow and Waterford. The lead mines of Wicklow, Waterford, Dublin and Clare, Cork, Kerry, Tipperary and north of Dublin are very extensive. Gold and silver mines exist in Wicklow and Cork; antimony in Clare and Armagh; magnesia and its sulphate exist in vast quantities; alum and slate in Clare and Kerry; pipe-clay, white, and fire clay, Fullers' earth, pipe and tile-clay in every part of Ireland; 600 different kinds of stone and marble and slate. It would seem from this partial enumeration of the resources that nature has supplied the island with more than an average quantity of raw material, add to which a rich soil, a climate neither hot in summer nor cold in winter, with harbors and commercial advantages equal, if not superior, to any country of her size in the world, and the wonder is that any power of man or demon could creat so much misery, where God has extended his blessings in such abundance.

SCROFULA.

A remedy that can destroy the germs of scrofula, and when once settled has the power to root it out, must be appreciated by those afflicted. The remarkable cures of young children and the more wonderful cures of those of middle age and late in life, as illustrated by our printed testimonials, prove HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA to be a reliable remedy, containing remedial agents which do positively cure scrofula and eradicate it from the blood.

WARNER, N. H., Jan. 21, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.: Gentlemen—For ten years previous to the early part of 1877 I had been a constant sufferer from scrofulous ulcers or sores, which had finally reduced me to a helpless condition, as described in my letter to you in September of that year. The continued excellent health which enables me to keep house for my aged father and to enjoy life, keeps alive my intense personal interest in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude for the permanent cure this wonderful medicine effected in my case nearly two years ago, while living in Lowell, when all my physicians gave me up as being in an incurable condition. One thing before I close. I have recommended your Sarsaparilla to hundreds, and I think more than a thousand cases, and my faith in its invincibility in curing scrofula has become absolute by the wonderful cures it has effected aside from my own. I trust you will not be slow in making the merits of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA known everywhere, for it is a duty you owe to mankind. With best wishes I remain very truly yours,

SARAH C. WHITTIER

PORTSMOUTH, THURSDAY, JULY 16th.

BARNUM and LONDON 9 UNITED SHOWS.

BARNUM RETURNS NO MORE.

GREETING AND FAREWELL TO HIS AMERICAN PATRONS.

With mingled regret and pride, I announce to my patrons that this is positively the last chance to see my GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH and the GREAT LONDON CIRCUS on American Soil.

I regret being forced to take away from my fellow citizens an exhibition which they have enthusiastically appreciated and lavishly patronized, but the amusement seeking people of Europe demand the opportunity of seeing this combination which has a world-wide reputation, and no counterpart in any country. I have made all arrangements and contracts for its transportation in its vast entirety across the Atlantic. My able and experienced partners, Messrs. James A. Bailey and James L. Hutchinson, will conduct this unparalleled enterprise under my personal supervision.

The Public's Obedient Servant, PHINEAS T. BARNUM.

PATRONIZED BY THE MOST FASHIONABLE AND ELEGANT AUDIENCES EVER SEEN AT ANY ENTERTAINMENT.

Greatest and Grandest Exhibition ever given by P. T. BARNUM, and certainly the Most Magnificent ever organized. The Press and the Public rivals in testifying their appreciation of these MIGHTY ENORMOUS SHOWS COMBINED IN ONE.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

THURSDAY, July 9th.

Thomas Murphy, drunk, was placed on probation.

John Aspinal, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90.

FRIDAY, July 10th.

Philip H. Kirby and Nellie Kirby, charged with keeping a disorderly house, waived examination, and were required to give bonds in $300 each for their appearance at the October term of the supreme court; failing to furnish sureties they will stop in jail until the court sits.

THE THUNDER SHOWER.

The brisk thunder shower which passed over this city on the afternoon of the 9th inst., at the close of the hottest day of the season, though accompanied by a high wind did no damage worth mentioning in this city; the lightning and thunder were nearly incessant, but the lightning was not very vivid nor the thunder very heavy, and we have heard of no case of the lightning striking. A peculiar crackling noise in the air was noticed by many persons during the prevalence of the shower, and was probably a manifestation of electricity.

At other places in this state, and in Massachusetts and Maine, considerable damage was done by wind and lightning.

A barn at Newmarket Junction was struck by lightning, and burned; and at Exeter a man who was driving in a team having two wagons in tow, had his horse killed and the wagons smashed by a bolt.

At York, Me., the Orthodox church, which had no lightning rod, was struck, the lightning entering the steeple and tearing off nearly all the boarding; then it ran all around the inside of the church, doing much damage to the ceiling, and entered the ground at the base of the steeple, throwing out the sides of the vestibule near the bottom. Damage estimated at $1500 to $2000. There had been a funeral in the church an hour previous.

One of the Mousam Manufacturing Co.'s mills at Kennebunk, Me., was struck by lightning, just after the operatives had left, and burned; loss $1500; insured.

NAVY YARD FOREMEN.

Hosts of men with countless recommendations are daily besieging the New York navy yard for positions. Many of them are accompanied by democratic politicians of alleged "influence," and all possible power is brought to bear. The examining board are engaged in testing the qualifications of foremen under the following law:

Applications to fill the position of foreman in any of the navy yards will be addressed to the secretary of the navy through the commandant, stating the name, age and station of the applicant, with testimonials as to his character, habits and professional skill, competency and physical ability. Whenever a vacancy shall occur in the position of foreman, the board at the navy yard where such a vacancy exists will under the direction of the secretary of the navy make a selection from the qualified candidates who shall have passed a satisfactory examination, irrespective of locality, no district or state being entitled to preference for these positions.

It is reported that when the examining board conclude their labors at the New York navy yard they will visit this yard, and if there are any foremen here who were appointed in violation of the provisions of the above law, they will be required to pass the required examination or at once vacate their positions.

Quite possibly they will soon be required to vacate their positions anyway.

THE CIRCUS.

Barnum, Bailey & Hutchinson's grand aggregation has been widely advertised and wall-papered throughout the country, and it is expected that on Thursday, July 16th, when it will spread its mammoth tents in this city, thousands of people from far and near will witness the performances. The show has three distinct and separate rings, and a huge elevated stage, upon which are given 100 acts at every performance by nearly three hundred actors called from the highest walks of the profession. Sensation succeeds sensation until the breath of the auditor is almost taken away. The double menagerie embraces a herd of elephants, exclusively of that curious Sacred White Elephant, bought from King Theebau for $200,000, and which comes, surrounded with the images, bronzes, fans, Burmese priests, Nautch dancing girls, Burmese musicians, idols, and everything it formerly had while in the king's chief city of Mandalay. Besides this, there is almost every natural variety of animal known to historians, presented in groups, as in their native conditions, to say nothing of the ponderous and majestic Jumbo. The hippodrome races are bewildering, and are contested in earnest for cash prizes by the riders, drivers and runners. There will be a procession through the principal streets of the city early in the forenoon, (about eight o'clock,) when the full strength and resources of the combined establishments will be unfolded.

ALABAMA CLAIMS.

Among the recent judgments announced by the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims are the following:

William T. Hamilton, executor of Richard Jenness, $950, with interest at four per cent from Dec. 16th, 1864.

Charles H. Chase, $494, with interest from March 26th, 1864.

J. Thomas Vose, administrator of estate of John S. Jenness, $3977, with interest from March 22d, 1864.

Capt. R. W. Huntington, U. S. M. C., with his wife and child, arrived in this city on Friday afternoon for a few weeks visit.

Mr. Henry C. Barnabee is to be one of the proprietors of the new Glen house at the White Mountains this summer. Mr. Barnabee it is said is forming a new Ideal Opera company, to take the stage the coming autumn — a report which every one who can appreciate music of a high order will hope is true.

Capt. Wm. O. Sides was on Friday superceded as inspector of customs at this port, by Mr. John W. Caswell.

It was reported on Friday that Mr. Howard M. Curtis had been re-appointed as postmaster at Newcastle. Mr. Curtis is a republican, as well as an excellent postmaster, and we hope the report is correct.

Rev. F. Owen, formerly pastor of the Pearl street Freewill Baptist church in this city, and of late years settled over a church in Lyndon Centre, Vt., has accepted a call to Meredith, in this state.

A letter has been received in this city from Philadelphia stating that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has been granted the right of way through that city by the councils, with the proviso that all the men employed (5000 in number) shall be Philadelphia men, which stipulation was accepted by the company, and work commenced. This is in marked contrast with the recent action in this city, where a citizen was discharged from the city's employ for introducing in the common council a resolution of similar purport.

A yacht boat eighteen feet long and four feet wide, with two masts, belonging to Mr. James Boyle, was launched by him and Mr. Eben McCombie at the south end a few days ago, and proves a good sailer.

In the Dover police court, on the 9th inst., Lucien B. Legg was arraigned upon complaint of State Agent Marvin of the N. H. S. P. C. A., for capturing bobolinks, against the peace and dignity of the state and the statute in such case made and provided. Mr. Legg stated to the court that he did not catch the birds, but a boy caught them for him, and as he had the birds, he would plead guilty. He was fined $5 and costs, making a total of $10.62, and as he paid the same Mr. Legg remarked that it was a little expensive—this making presents of native birds to friends.

The republican members of the legislature held a conference in Concord on the evening of the 9th inst. to consider what action to take in connection with filling the senatorial vacancy occasioned in the Nashua district by the death of Hon. Hiram T. Morrill, republican. There were about 100 present, and all but one voted in favor of supporting Frank G. Thurston, who was the candidate of the prohibitionists for the office. Elbridge P. Brown, who ran on the democratic ticket, was the only other constitutional candidate, and the republicans it seems preferred a prohibitionist to him. Mr. Thurston moved from this city to Nashua several years ago; he was formerly a member of the Portsmouth city council, and it is said voted for Blaine at the late election.

It is rumored that Hon. Charles H. Sawyer of Dover is intending to build a large summer hotel at Doverville, so-called, near the Nubble, York beach. Mr. Sawyer owns two cottages at that place.

James Pyles's Pearline is an article of too great value to housekeepers to be untried by any. No similar article has come into general use in so short a time, simply because it always speaks for itself on trial. Sold by all grocers, but see that counterfeits are not urged upon you.

The wife of Secretary Bayard was reported on the 8th inst. to be dying.

The Beauty of Youth.

No matter how handsome or stalwart a young man may be otherwise, nothing can make up for a partially bald head. Shining talents are attractive, but a shining poll is not. The cause may be sickness or anything else, yet Parker's Hair Balsam will stop the loss of the hair and start a new growth of glossy and soft hair so quickly as to surprise you—restoring the original color at the same time. Not a dye, not oily, delicately perfumed. Only standard 50c. dressing.

I. B. Williams, a noted citizen and a member of the firm of I. B. Williams & Sons, belt manufacturers, of Dover, died suddenly on the 9th inst.

Biliousness

Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, breath offensive, tongue coated, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

The social sensation in Augusta, Ga., during the close of last week was the marriage of Miss George Gordon Williams, described as a beautiful Texas belle with a fortune of $500,000, and a daughter of a well known ranch owner. She was upon a visit to the Misses Bessman, of that city, when she met her fate, Mr. Bessman, a brother of these young ladies, who is said to be a prominent young merchant of Augusta. The marriage was never dreamed of, it is said, by either the family of the young man or Miss Williams' father.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers, to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or animal substances or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stalls, meats, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

A PAIR OF LOVERS.

Sweet little Nettie Fay had two lovers. A very delightful condition of affairs, but a state of things which made Nettie a great deal of trouble; and as for the men, they rendered each other, as well as the girl of their hearts, very miserable.

So it wasn't so very nice after all.

It had been years since Nettie had been assigned by their friends to Warren Dormer, and she expected to marry him, for Nettie was of a gentle, yielding nature; but her step-father's son, whom she had never seen, Arthur Stevening, came to quiet Bevingdean, and fell so straightway and unmistakably in love with Nettie, as to alter greatly the situation, for Nettie did give him encouragement.

One day a party of young people had gone up to the cliff which overlooked the harbor, to see the great man of war the Sultan, come in, and Nettie had taken Arthur's arm, and laughingly climbed the hill with the best of them, though such a little thing.

And being a bright, magical sight—the white-capped, crisp, dancing waves, the long, gleaming decks; the small, active thronging figures of the seamen; —that and the splendid air was worth combing the ascent for, they all agreed.

And then this impromptu basket-party spread their lunch upon a rock among the crisp green moss, and discussed cold chicken and Italian cream, up among the clouds as securely as if sunshine and safety lasted forever.

Arthur Stevening had gone half-way down the cliff with his gun, and was banging away at the flying birds, when a sudden gust of cold air, and the darkening of the sun, reminded him that he had foretold a storm at sunrise.

He was not used to the locality, and was all unprepared for the suddenness with which the weather changed.

A mist spread over the landscape, the air grew humid, there was a distant growl of thunder, and the next moment a close flash of lightning.

It was followed by more vivid ones. Shouldering his gun, he turned to retrace his steps. He had ascended a few yards when he heard the distant voices of the descending party. Something in their tones—a cry of alarm or entreaty—made him hasten his footsteps, when, suddenly round the curve of a rock came the flying figure of a girl.

It was Nettie, who, born with a terror of lightning, was running at full speed down the mountain, her hat hanging by its blue ribbons down her back, her sweet eyes wide with fright, her gold hair blown over her face, a wild-rose color in the dimpled cheeks, stung by the sharp, salt air.

Arthur sprang forward and caught her in his arms, and retreated with her under the shelter of an overhanging rock.

The drenched and frightened party rushed by him like a meteor, and he made no attempt to delay them. He could hardly trust his head to keep his feet in the din and blinding light.

Yet, through it all, he could feel Nettie's heart beating faintly against his breast.

"Poor little darling!" he murmured, seeing that she was quite unaware.

She remained so until the storm began to abate.

She caught her breath, at last; and uttered a choking little cry.

"Nettie, wake up! The storm is almost over. Nettie, don't you know where you are?" shaking her a little.

She opened her eyes, and then slipped to her feet, shaking and clinging to him. Her broken and incoherent exclamation gave him some insight into the peculiarity which all her other friends were aware of—her terror of lightning—and the loveliness of her white cheeks and the sweetness of the tearful eyes, made the task of reassuring her not distasteful. Indeed, before he knew it, he had kissed the pretty lips, and brought the burning blushes to the young face.

"Nettie, dear little Nettie, I couldn't help it. You see I love you so. Tell me that you don't care for that other fellow!"

At that moment there was a hurried step and "that other fellow" stood before them.

To say that Mr. Warren Dormer was astonished, is but feebly to state the case. He stood looking at his sweetheart in the arms of another man in simply round-eyed wonder.

He had been absent from Bevingdean for the last three weeks, and though Se had been introduced to Arthur Stevening before his departure, he had never dreamed of him as a rival—or of anybody else for that matter. For two years he had considered Nettie securely his.

He had a nice farm and handsome country house to make Nettie mistress of, and—there could be no doubt of that—he honestly loved her.

"I—I came for you, Nettie," he said, in a rather smothered voice. "They said you were up the cliff, and the storm——"

The poor fellow's voice faltered and broke.

Nettie had hastily disengaged herself, breathless and frightened.

"When—when did you come home, Warren?" she asked, instinctively trying to avoid a scene.

But she was not quite successful, since Arthur Stevening still kept possession of her hand, and though evidently a little startled, looked from her to Warren Dormer unflinchingly. The painful silence that followed was broken by his voice.

"It may as well come out now as any time. You and I can hardly pretend to be friends since we are rivals, Mr. Dormer."

"No," returned the other, in the same smothered voice, moving uneasily, and not looking at Nettie, who, not having the least idea what she ought to do under such circumstances, began to cry.

"You understand that I love Miss Fay, the same as you do, I suppose, and she must choose between us now," went on Arthur.

"I—oh, I—I cannot now!" sobbed Nettie, confessing more than it was pleasant for one of her hearers to hear, since her words implied that a choice was not only possible, but imminent. "The storm is over now, and I must go home."

And gathering her skirts from her little feet, she literally ran away.

The only thing they could learn of Nettie for the next few days was that she had caught cold from her drenching in the storm, and could not leave the house.

The next was that Nettie whisked herself out of sight of her two admirers to spend a fortnight with her aunt Barbara, in the next town.

Arthur did not know what interview she might have had with Warren Dormer, but he was really not much afraid of "that other fellow"—not so much as he would have been had he known Warren Dormer.

Another week passed. At the end of that time, Nettie Fay was in receipt of two letters—one from Arthur, one from Warren Dormer. With sorrow and misgiving she pondered over these letters; but Nettie was sincerity itself, and at length wrote to both, explaining exactly the state of her feelings. The task was a hard one, and her hand shook so as she folded the sheets, that she let the portfolio upon which they lay fall to the floor. She picked them up hurriedly, placed them as quickly as possible in envelopes, superscribed, and sent them to the post.

When she reached home a fortnight later there was a lawn party, and her mother hurried her to her room; and Nettie came down from her chamber, at last, in a lovely silk costume. The girl had lost flesh and color, but had never looked sweeter.

And there was Arthur Stevening. He was going to and fro with camp-chairs and cups of tea for the ladies.

He would come to her side soon; but he passed, at last, with only a pale, constrained look, and barely a civil word. The next moment, Warren Dormer took the chair at her side.

"I thought you would come home to-day, Nettie."

One glance at his cheerful face bewildered her. Warren bent towards her, and affecting to look at her bracelet, whispered:

"I received your letter."

Nellie bent her head silently in response.

The silvery chat and the music around her seemed to make her head reel.

How strange she felt! The glance from Arthur chilled her heart.

Her eyes dwelt in bewilderment on Warren's flushed face. He looked actually happy.

"Warren," called Mrs. Fay, "will you go to the house and ask Lily for my shawl?"

When Warren Dormer had gone away, Nettie rose and, walking down the lawn, stood looking in a rather forlorn way at the tennis-players—really not seeing them at all. Suddenly there was a voice at her side.

"I think, Nettie, you might have spared me the pain of knowing that I was an object of pain and dread to you, or very much the same thing."

As Nettie lifted her blue eyes in pained surprise, Arthur Stevening was gazing very gravely down upon her.

She could not imagine he could look so stern. The color quite died out of her cheek.

She gave a broken murmur—what she said she did not know.

"Forgotten what you said!" he exclaimed, as if repeating her words. "I cannot forget so easily. And, then, I have them in black and white, you know," with a painful smile, as he passed on in response to a merry call—for Arthur was a favorite with the ladies.

Nettie could have thrown herself down on the grass, like a child, and cried in sorrow and despair.

Was this captious treatment all the reward she was to get for confessing the truth so bravely?

Her father's displeasure, her mother's disappointment, Aunt Barbara scolding, she had prepared herself to receive; but this was too much; the hot tears welled to her eyes.

There were other gentlemen in the party, who thought Nettie pretty and attractive; but she listened to everybody in an absent-minded way, and at last the festive afternoon was over.

"May I come up at eight this evening, Nettie?" asked Warren Dormer at parting. He looked at her in a cheerful, confident way, which bewildered her.

"He hopes to make me change my mind," she thought.

"Certainly," she said with visible reluctance.

She was not quite sure, as she glanced at Arthur's grave, averted face at the supper-table, that she would not take Warren after all, out of pure forlornness—it was so disheartening to miss the radient smile, the tenderness she had unconsciously anticipated.

But when her old lover's straw-colored beard brushed her cheek, she shivered.

"Please don't Warren—I told you!" she exclaimed.

"Yes—that you loved me best."

"No—that I love him best!" cried Nettie, hysterically. "I can't help it—I do!"

Poor Warren's eyes looked more like blue porcelain than ever as he stared at her.

"You told me——" he began.

"Oh what did I tell you?" cried Nettie desperately, as she tore the letter he presented from his hand.

She glanced over the sheet and turned red.

"I—I put the letters in the wrong envelopes," she faltered.

"Then this was intended for Arthur?" asked Dormer, stiffening.

Nellie nodded.

In vain he called her fickle, a coquette, a flirt. She only cried until he went away. Then she flung herself, face downward, upon the sofa, and the excitement and fatigue lulled her into drowsiness at last.

She went to sleep, thinking this a very forlorn world, and woke up to find it a very bright one, for Arthur Stevening was smiling over her.

"Dear little Nettie!" he cried. "I know all; I got the wrong letter."

"You did!" she answered.

Need we say how happy they were, how soon they were married, and what a long honeymoon their wedded life was, all through Nettie having had the courage to choose rightly between her "Pair of Lovers?"

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.
MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has seemed well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.
ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

There was a great land slide on Cherry mountain, near Jefferson depot, at nine o'clock in the morning on the 10th inst., at the point known as Owl's Head, which was stripped of a dense forest two miles long and fifteen rods wide. The debris extended half a mile from the base of the mountain, smashing the barn of Oscar Hanley and killing his cattle, and breaking both of Hanley's legs. He was milking at the time. The slide was caused by the heavy rains. It is probably equal to the celebrated Willey slide, except that no lives were lost, so far as known.

Must Accept the Dolphin.

A Washington despatch of the 10th inst. says: "Attorney General Garland has given an opinion to the secretary of the navy on the questions of law involved in the controversy with John Roach concerning the despatch boat Dolphin. Secretary Whitney declines at present to give the opinion to the press. It is understood, however, that it is of such a character that the secretary will accept the vessel." Well, the secretary has made all the political capital he could reasonably expect to make out of one vessel.

Indian Troubles.

Lieut. Gen. Sheridan, commanding the United States army, on the night of the 10th inst. left Washington for Fort Reno, Indian territory, to take charge in person of any campaign which it may be found necessary to prosecute against the Indians. The situation is so serious that Gen. Sheridan desired to be at the scene of possible conflict, and was instructed to proceed thither by an official letter from the president.

A Railroad Suit.

Marcus P. Norton, of valve-suit notoriety, appeared before the United States Circuit court at Portland last week as complainant in a suit in equity against the European & North American railway, the Maine Central Railroad Co., and Hannibal Hamlin and others, claiming that a foreclosure made upon the $6,000,000 bonds of the road secured by mortgage of the road and 1,000,000 acres of land, covering the line between Bangor and St. John, was made in collusion, and is void. He has two bills, one to recover possession of the road, as a bondholder; the other to recover damages for the unlawful possession and use of the road, and damages upon the real estate covered by the mortgage.

Mr. Norton has as counsel District Attorney Lunt, Clarence Hale, A. McNichol of Calais, and H. D. Hadlock. Hon. Wm. L. Putnam and C. P. Stetson represent the E. & N. A. R. R., and Hon. J. H. Drummond the Maine Central.

The complainant wants further time in which to take evidence. This is opposed by the defendants. The court held that the case could not be re-opened unless Norton's counsel could show by affidavit a good cause, and the case went over to the next rule day.

Mr. Norton has a good pile of the old bonds, which if he can succeed in having the foreclosure set aside might have a possible value.

AROUND HOME.

A prominent (and not long ago enthusiastic) young democrat of ward one has removed the picture of President Cleveland from his workshop to the woodshed, and hung it upside down.

One hundred and five shares in the stock of the Portsmouth Machine Co. were sold at auction on Saturday by C. Dwight Hanscom & Co., for $51.25 per share, Mr. C. M. Gignoux being the purchaser.

Mr. Edward C. Stickney, the Eastern Athlete, champion light-weight dumb-bell lifter of the world, will open a gymnasium in the Tebbetts building, corner of Ladd and Market streets, on the 1st of September.

Lovers of superior butter will find an announcement to interest them in Mr. Conn's advertisement. Mr. Conn knows a first-class article when he sees it, having always dealt only in such, and his assurance is a sufficient guaranty of quality.

Capt. Samuel Hiltz of this city is to start the business of dealing in lobsters and fresh fish at Rye beach, near the Farragut house. Capt. Hiltz is not only a thorough fisherman but an experienced dealer, and should drive a thriving trade, as least during "the season."

We are informed that the report that Mr. Henry C. Barnabee is forming a new Ideal Opera Co. is an error. The old favorite Ideals, under new management and with increased numbers, but with all the prominent artistes of last season retained excepting one or two, will start on the circuit again next fall.

Visitors to Smuttynose island, Isles of Shoals, find the hotel of Lemuel B. Caswell well arranged, and most neatly kept under the direction of Mrs. Caswell. The fish house is so cleanly that not the least offensive odor is perceptible, and one might eat off the floor if he wanted to. Mr. Caswell has now on hand 220 quintals of slack-salted cod, very nicely cured. The tongues and sounds put up on Smuttynose are unsurpassed.

John Hall of Cedar island, Isles of Shoals, has been the past week pulling up lobsters, but finds them somewhat scarce—that is, merchantable ones. Despite all the laws to the contrary, irregular fishermen all along the coast are continually catching small lobsters, which are immediately transported into the interior, where there are no fish wardens to notice the impropriety. Female lobsters of lawful size are also taken when carrying their eggs, in defiance of the law, the eggs being scraped off by the fishermen before sending the lobsters to market. In spite of all, however, the protective laws are doing some good.

Mr. Andrew Preble of York has two cows, one of pure Dutch stock and the other having a mixture of Ayrshire blood, which together have made eighteen pounds of butter a week, more than one week this season. Mr. Preble has also a fine flock of improved sheep, about fifty in number, which have attracted considerable attention; he only hopes they will not attract the attention of dogs.

The dining hall of the Hotel Bartlett at York beach has been enlarged so as to accommodate 175 persons at one sitting. The house has a large number of guests.

Mr. George Preble is at present keeping the meat and provision store at York village, which is carried on by a wealthy association. Mr. Preble, who is a son of one of the proprietors of the new Garrison house at York beach, is quite a popular young man, and many of the largest summer boarding establishments procure their meat of him.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it. The reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1882.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co.: Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. All I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

BARNUM and LONDON
9 UNITED SHOWS.

BARNUM RETURNS NO MORE.

GREETING AND FAREWELL TO HIS AMERICAN PATRONS.

With mingled regret and pride, I announce to my patrons that this is positively the last chance to see my GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH and the GREAT LONDON CIRCUS on American soil.

I regret being forced to take away from my fellow citizens an exhibition which they have enthusiastically appreciated and lavishly patronized, but the amusement seeking people of Europe demand the opportunity of seeing this combination which has a world-wide reputation, and no counterpart in any country. I have made all arrangements and contracts for its transportation in its vast entirety across the Atlantic. My able and experienced partners, Messrs. James A. Bailey and James L. Hutchinson, will conduct this unparalleled enterprise under my personal supervision.

The Public's Obedient Servant, PHINEAS T. BARNUM.

PATRONIZED BY THE MOST FASHIONABLE AND ELEGANT AUDIENCES EVER SEEN AT ANY ENTERTAINMENT.

Greatest and Grandest Exhibition ever given by P. T. BARNUM, and certainly the Most Magnificent ever organized. The Press and the Public rivals in testifying their appreciation of these NINE ENORMOUS SHOWS COMBINED IN ONE.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, July 11th.

Thomas Murphy was before the court for drunkenness. He was in a similar situation on the 9th, but was then let off on probation; on this second occasion he was fined $6 and costs, and furnished with transportation to Brentwood to earn the amount at haying.

VITAL STATISTICS.

The total number of births in this city during the half-year ending June 30th, 1885, as reported to City Clerk Goodrich for registry, was forty-five; the number of marriages solemnized during the same period was fifty-three, and the number of burial permits issued was one hundred and twenty-four, the registration by months being as follows:

	Births.	Marriages.	Deaths.
January,	7	11	21
February,	6	3	26
March,	7	4	21
April,	8	10	14
May,	10	6	20
June,	7	14	18
Total,	45	53	124

The record of marriages is probably full and correct, and that of burials unquestionably so; but the list of births is probably incomplete, the returns being often neglected in cases where a physician is not employed.

It will be noticed that the smallest number of marriages in any month was in March, when only four couples were united; and of these, one of the contracting parties in each case belonged out of the city. The largest number of marriages in any month, fourteen, was in June; and the largest number of deaths, twenty-six, in the shortest month of the year, February.

Of the 124 decedents sixteen (ten women and six men) had reached the age of eighty years, their names and ages as recorded being given below:

THE CIRCUS.

The Barnum and London Shows—nine big shows combined in one—will be here on Thursday, and to show what is thought of it in New York city, from where these united shows come, a few press extracts from the morning journals of that city are given:

The entertainment is certainly a wonderfully varied and interesting one. What with a stage and three rings, in all of which the exhibitions were going on at one and the same time, there was a bewildering embarrassment of riches, and the observer felt that something more than the normal allowance of eyes was necessary in order not to miss anything. The Hippodrome races after the circus was over were superb.—Herald.

Mr. Barnum gave the most entertaining show that he has ever given in this city.—Sun.

There was no dissenting voice in the opinion that the show was the best which Barnum has ever given.—Tribune.

A HISTORICAL ERROR.

In connection with the obituary notices of the late Chief Engineer J. Q. A. Zeigler, U. S. A., who died last week, a statement was made in the newspapers generally, which needs correcting. The statement refers to the stranding and relaunching of the U. S. S. Monongahela, and is to the effect that "this vessel was washed ashore at St. Thomas in November, 1867, and was launched by Chief Engineer Zeigler, who was placed specially in charge for that purpose."

The facts in the case are that the Monongahela was thrown ashore high and dry at Frederickstadt, Santa Cruz, forty miles from St. Thomas, and was launched by the late Naval Constructor Thomas Davidson, Jr., who was detached from the Portsmouth navy yard and sent to Santa Cruz for that purpose, and was given full authority over all the ship's company to that end, as well as over the gang of mechanics sent out with him, and which included Wm. F. Noyes, (now foreman shipwright on the yard,) Joseph Fletcher and Francis Patridge of this city, and Adam Lutts and Frank Littlefield of Kittery, the remainder of the expeditionary party being drawn from the New York and Philadelphia yards. The party sailed from New York by the barque Purveyor in January, 1868, and the ship was floated in May of that year, after overcoming many difficulties, the most serious of which was the breaking down of the ways when she was in six feet of water, necessitating her being shoved off bodily, broadside to the sea, by hydraulics and shores, for a distance of 250 feet before she floated.

Engineer Zeigler was attached to the ship when she was thrown ashore, was sent home with the official report, and afterward rejoined the ship; but she was not relaunched under his orders.

MISSING.

It was reported on Saturday that a youth about fifteen years old, cook on board the British schooner Mary C., which arrived at the Noble's island wharf on the 5th inst. from Moncton, N. B., was missing, having last been seen at ten o'clock at night on the 9th, when he was fishing off the wharf.

AFTER THE SPOILS.

The following despatch was sent from Washington to the Boston Globe under date of July 10th:

A New Hampshire delegation, consisting of Hon. Frank Jones, Ex-Governor James A. Weston, A. W. Sulloway and M. Eldredge, is here to look out for the offices that the Granite State is entitled to. The principal positions that they are interested in just at this time are the internal revenue collector, the pension agent, the superintendent of the railway mail service for the New England division, and the naval officer at Boston. The last appointment has been conceded to New Hampshire for many years, and the candidate, Henry O. Kent, is anxious to have the matter fixed without waiting for the consideration of the other custom house appointments. The slate arranged for the other offices is: Mayor Page of Portsmouth for internal revenue collector, Major T. B. Crowley of Nashua for pension agent, and George E. Dame of Newport for superintendent of the railway mail service. Hon. Frank Jones and A. C. Sulloway had an interview with the president to-day, and it is reported that some of the appointments were determined upon, though they may not be formally announced for some time.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser notes the presence in that city of Mr. Jones, Ex-Gov. Weston and Mr. Sulloway, and says:

The chief object of the visit is secure the removal of John Bigelow, superintendent of the railway mail service for New England. These gentlemen are very anxious to have George E. Dame, clerk of the court at Newport, N. H., given that place, which carries with it a good deal of valuable patronage. To-day they had a long talk about it with Postmaster General Vilas. The ground they give for asking Bigelow's removal is that he is one of the Blaine ring in Maine, and an unscrupulous partisan. They claim that the entire railway mail service in New England has been a notorious republican political machine, and ought to be cleared out. Colonel Vilas listened to them very cheerfully and said that he agreed fully with them, but gave them to understand that he could do nothing, as all these cases had to pass the careful scrutiny of the president. He said that they had better reduce their case to writing so that it could be sent up to the White House. The delegation will see the president to-morrow, express their unlimited confidence in the administration, say that they are in no particular hurry about other New Hampshire changes, but beg that Mr. Dame be looked out for at once and the route agents be put under democratic supervision.

Perhaps the administration may deem it expedient to exchange a man of Bigelow's capacity and familiarity with the postal needs, for Mr. Dame, who in point of snap, bears about the same relation to the present incumbent as the ex-governor does to Mr. Jones. Such a change of the postal clerks as is hinted here would so seriously derange the mail service of New England that the "valuable patronage" would only serve to make more solid the republican vote of New England. Postmaster General Vilas understands all about the probable results of placing a man like Dame in charge of the mail service of New England. The department must satisfy the public, who have been accustomed to an efficient mail service, and it is a mere question whether a few importunate office-seekers shall supplant trained and competent postal clerks, and the mail carriage be deteriorated by such a move. The delegation should have elected to have been in a hurry about the other places. In this matter of mail service, neither the president nor the postmaster general will be inclined to make a radical change, unless they secure a better man than Bigelow, and upon more commendable grounds than those specified.

MARITIME NOTES.

When the schooner Anna Currier went against Portsmouth bridge last Thursday afternoon she last both anchors, but recovered them the next day with the assistance of the tug Clara Batemen.

The fishing schooner Grace Choate came off the marine railway at Kittery on the night of the 10th inst.

The U. S. S. Galena was released from quarantine last week.

David Slaney brought in 1000 lbs. of haddock on Saturday. The schooner Albert Woodbury, Capt. E. H. Downs, on Saturday brought in ninety barrels of mackerel, taken off Portland. Elvin Newton came in from Lunging island, Shoals, on Saturday, with 3000 good mackerel. The schooner Agnes E. Downs, Capt. Levi Downs, was fishing off the Shoals last week, and made a successful haul of mackerel. The fireflies are becoming very numerous in the fields now; it is an old saying with the fishermen that "when fireflies are plenty, mackerel are plenty."

One of the best yachts on the river belongs to Comdr. Thos. H. Eastman, U. S. N., of this city. She is of the whaleboat model, twenty-seven feet long and eight feet beam, schooner rigged, and well found in everything needed for convenience and comfort. On the 8th inst. she sailed with a small party for the Shoals, and overhauled and passed all crafts in sight. At Smuttynose she took on board Mr. James Burke of this city, an experienced boat-fisherman of many years standing, and long located at the Shoals resorts during the summer months. Without hesitation Mr. Burke took the party to good fishing grounds, which he well knew, where an abundance of large cod was speedily obtained. After the discussion on board of a well prepared chowder, the boat returned to her moorings and the superabundant fish were distributed among the owner's friends.

Perforated Paper!

MEDICATED

FOR TREATMENT OF HEMORRHOIDS

More than twenty-five per cent of its weight is due to the best remedial agents known to the profession, by whom it is conceded that in incorporating them with Toilet Paper there is a certainty of application and benefit otherwise unattainable. Unsolicited letters testify to its remarkable curative properties. One thousand sheets contain more of these remedies than any fifty-cent package of Pile Ointment. Each roll is securely wrapped in Tin Foil, and where it cannot be procured of the Trade, we will Deliver Free on receipt of price.

1000 Sheet Roll 50 cts. | Sample Packet 10 cts.

☞ Clogged pipes with consequent impure air and disease prevented. Sold by all the leading druggists. Physicians and plumbers' bills avoided by using Perforated Paper. The Leading Druggists Sell our Goods. 8awtdec23

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular diligence, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. SULPHUR BITTERS

THE BEST AND GREATEST MEDICINE

It will drive the Humor from your system, and make your skin clean and smooth. Those Pimples and Blotches which mar your beauty are caused by impure blood, and can be removed in a short time, if you are wise and use the great blood purifier.

Why suffer with Boils? Why endure terrible Headaches? Why be troubled with Dyspepsia? Why let your nerves and body be racked with Rheumatism? Why and for what reason do you tremble and shake? Why do you tremble at the approach of a cheap sunrise, and feel so gloomy? What makes you feel so nervous? Why do you feel so miserable? What makes you so irritable? Why do you scold your wife? Why do you kick your dog? Why do you feel so cross? Why do you feel so mean? Why do you feel so generally? Why? Why? Why? Because your blood is impure and you need a good, reliable tonic to assist nature to repair the damage which has taken place in your system. Nothing can do this so well as SULPHUR BITTERS. It is composed of the purest and most valuable medicinal ingredients combined with the purest glycerine, like other preparations which have been so extensively advertised, but it is not a cheap Rum, Whiskey or Fusel Oil Bitters, but a scientific preparation which has been tested by the most eminent physicians of the country, and has proved to be the most powerful and wonderful tonic in the world. It is not a drunkard's drink, but a medicine to be taken by the sick, the feeble, the nervous, the dyspeptic, the rheumatic, the drunkard, the lame, the lazy, the fast-going, the slow-going, the hard-working, the hard-drinking, the hard-to-get-along-with, the hard-to-get-rid-of, the hard-to-get-anything-out-of, the hard-to-get-anywhere-with, the hard-to-get-anything-into, the hard-to-get-anything-out-of-and-into-and-through-and-around-and-about-and-everywhere-else-you-can-think-of-or-mention, the-man-who-has-tried-everything-else-and-been-disappointed-and-cheated-and-swindled-and-robbed-and-plundered-and-bulldozed-and-bedevilled-and-bewitched-and-bewildered-and-generally-speaking-been-to-the-devil-and-back-and-who-wants-to-know-what-he-ought-to-take-and-where-he-can-get-it-and-how-he-can-get-it-cheap-and-what-he-ought-to-do-and-who-he-can-see-and-what-he-can-do-and-how-he-can-do-it-and-when-he-can-do-it-and-how-he-can-do-it-so-as-to-be-sure-to-do-it-and-do-it-quick-and-do-it-right-and-do-it-so-that-it-will-do-him-some-good-and-not-do-him-any-more-harm-than-he-can-stand-and-live-and-who-has-spent-his-last-dollar-for-medicine-and-is-too-poor-to-buy-a-dose-of-Sulphur-Bitters-and-who-is-too-sick-to-live-and-too-mean-to-die-and-who-has-given-up-the-ghost-and-who-has-kicked-the-bucket-and-who-has-cashed-in-his-chips-and-who-has-shuffled-off-this-mortal-coil-and-who-has-turned-his-toes-to-the-daisies-and-who-has-gone-to-his-last-home-and-who-has-joined-the-majority-and-who-has-crossed-the-river-and-who-has-gone-to-the-land-of-the-hereafter-and-who-has-turned-to-clay-and-who-has-mingled-with-the-dust-and-who-has-become-food-for-worms-and-who-has-shuffled-off-this-mortal-coil-and-who-is-now-a-pale-and-silent-and-cold-and-clammy-and-lifeless-and-motionless-and-speechless-and-senseless-and-who-cares-not-what-anybody-says-or-does-or-thinks-or-cares-for-he-is-dead-and-we-miss-him-and-we-mourn-his-loss-and-we-shall-ever-cherish-his-memory-as-that-of-a-man-who-was-too-good-for-this-world-but-who-has-gone-to-a-better-where-he-can-be-happy-and-we-are-glad-of-it-and-we-are-not-sorry-for-him-at-all-and-we-are-not-sorry-that-he-died-and-we-are-not-sorry-that-we-saw-him-die-and-we-are-not-sorry-that-we-were-present-at-his-funeral-and-we-are-not-sorry-that-we-helped-to-bury-him-and-we-are-not-sorry-that-we-danced-on-his-grave-to-make-sure-that-he-was-dead.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of causing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal; and all about their stalls or premises over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

IN SEARCH OF A SKULL.

An Adventure at the Grave of a Famous Indian Chief.

The Indians who live on the Columbia river and subsists principally on salmon are not fighters, said a gentleman in a conversation with a representative of the San Francisco Alta, and are greatly the inferiors of the warlike Umatillas and fierce Nez Perces. In fact, they are contemtuously spoken of as "fish-eaters" and "cultus." Cultus is a term which conveys to the Chinook Indian an idea of the most boundless, ineffable, overwhelming, utterly indescribable, and complete contempt. There is no word in the English language that can equal it for contemptuous scorn. Associated with me at the Cascades was a clerk who rejoiced under the tremendous name of Josiah Isaiah Methusaleh Beach. By making use of his first three initials we reduced his name to the easily handled "J. I. M." Well, Beach was a Yankee, born in New Haven, and he had heard of the grave on Me-me-luse island, and wanted to inspect it, and if possible procure a skull, which he proposed to send east to a maiden aunt of his who was very partial to ethnological studies.

He accordingly broached the subject to me one warm, sultry August Sunday, and asked me to take a small boat, row over to the island with him, and go through the grave. I remember we were all sitting in the wharf-boat, lazily watching the placid flow of the river, as it gleamed and glimmered under the burning sun. The pilot of one of the big river steamers spoke up and said: "Well, boys, if you want to tackle that dead Injun over there just remember that there are a lot of live Injuns all around here now, smoking salmon and picking blackberries, and if they suspect or catch you at work at the grave you will have to do some lively running, that's all." We didn't think we were very much frightened by this advice, so we took a small boat and pulled over to the island, and, hauling the boat up on the sands, plunged into the brush in search of the grave, which we soon found. This tomb was the last resting-place of a once famous chief named Skookum Chuck, which means strong water or whisky, and, besides his own remains, contained those of his wife and child.

It was a more ambitious sepulcher than the Flathends generally take the trouble to construct, and consisted of a shallow, but wide, trench, over which was built a shake roof. The bodies, wrapped in blankets and beaded cloth, were inclosed in rough boards coffins, already fast decaying. I took a look in and concluded I didn't want anything to do with the business, but Beach sprang into the grave and began hastily to unwrap the blankets, but they fell to pieces in his hands, and he commenced pawing around amid the crumbling bones, picking up arms, heads and little brass trinkets. The skull of old "Skookum Chuck" was in good preservation, and Beach set it carefully to one side, intending to wrap it up in a handkerchief when he had completed his ghoulish work. Suddenly I heard a murmer of voices, the splash of a paddle, and the grating sound of a canoe as it struck the shore. I didn't wait to investigate; what the pilot had said flashed across my mind, and I sung out the one word 'Indians,' and started for my boat. With a wild shriek of fright and dismay Beach sprang out of that grave as if fired from a cannon's mouth, and headed for the river. I was always considered a good runner, and I am positive that when Beach passed me I was traveling at the rate of at least five miles a minute. In his haste and fright Beach had somewhat grabbed up the skull, and got his fingers of his left hand jammed into the eye-sockets in such a way that he couldn't free himself, and there he was frantically shaking that ghastly skull and yelling like a lost soul at every jump. An immense fallen log lay across our pathway, and my heart sank within me as I caught sight of it; but Beach, with a howl of rage and agony, leaped into the air, and I made sure he would clear the log, but his coat caught on a broken limb, and his wild flight was suddenly checked, for he hung suspended like a limp rag about five feet from the ground, unable to aid himself in any way, and aimlessly swinging to and fro. Just previous to this I had lain down to take a breathing spell, and also to disentangle my foot from a vine which had materially assisted me in assuming a recumbent position. Exhausted with fright and laughter, I finally scrambled up on the log, and was just about to assist my unfortunate companion when the limb broke and down he went. I fell off the log, and Beach, myself, and the hideous, grinning skull rolled down in terrified confusion among the dead leaves. Presently it dawned upon us that we heard no sound from our pursuers, and taking heart of courage we reached our boat and pulled rapidly away, only to find when we reached the wharf that our "Indians" were only some cabin-boys from the steamer who had pulled over to the island to get some clean sand for scouring knives. Beach hated the skull so that he made me bring it to California with me, and it now adorns the museum of a well-known academy in Oakland.

The Girl at the Front Gate.

Heaven bless the girl at the front gate with peach bloom on her cheeks and love-light in her eyes. Men would shut her out of literature but I am not of them. The girl at the front gate can never grow old to those who have been there with her. Years may come and years may go, but the music of the low voice at the front gate will not be stilled, and the memory of the cherry lips we kissed at the front gate will hold out faithful to the end. What if the old gate does sagg and its hinges rattle and its latch refuse to hold it shut? What if its posts are shaky and some of its pickets gone? We love the dear old relic still. We love it for the sake of the girl who used to stand out there by it with roses on her cheeks and nectar on her lips. We held the old gate up and counted the stars and bid good-by and then counted the stars again. How many times of a night was good-bye said? How many times did lips meet o'er the old dear gate? The old gate knows but it will never tell. The old front gate may have counted the kisses but I never did. And I am sure the girl with peach-bloom cheeks never did. And what of the girl with peach-bloom cheeks? Ah, me! she married another. She forgot her vows at the old front gate, as some girls, and married a richer and handsomer man. And I? Well, I went off to another front gate where there were other peach-bloom cheeks and other lips as sweet and just as many stars to count. And now I have a front gate of my own and a girl of my own with peach-bloom cheeks who counts the stars with the boy of the girl whose vows made with me at the first front gate were broken. But he is a true, good boy and my girl is a true, good girl and heaven bless them both as they stand to-night at the old front gate.—W. Scott Way, in the St. Louis Magazine.

A correspondent writes from Baltimore: The residence of Ross Winans, the defendant in the divorce suit recently brought in New York, is one of the finest in America and the costliest in Baltimore. The family homestead on West Baltimore street, built by old Thomas Winans, the founder of the family name, is still a handsome place, fenced in by a thirteen-foot-high brick wall. When the place was erected it was surrounded by light railing, through which the numerous statues in the grounds could be seen. The neighbors in the vicinity, through ignorance or jealousy, complained to the city council that the nude statues were objectionable. Old Thomas is a rage hired all the idle bricklayers in Baltimore and erected the mason wall around the whole square. The adjacent owners afterwards petitioned Mr. Winans to remove it, but he refused.

No More Contract Ships.

Attorney General Garland's opinion in the Roach-Whitney-Chandler-Dolphin matter is published, and is to the effect that the government not only is not obliged to accept the Dolphin, but that Roach can be compelled to refund the money paid him, and that there was and is no contract existing between Mr. Roach and the United States. We hope that this ultra-partisan decision will be sustained, as it would put an end to any possible building of ships for the government by contract, and force their construction where they should be constructed, in the government navy yards.

Gunner E. A. McDonald, attached to the Mare island navy yard, was drowned in San Francisco harbor last month.

Surgeon M. C. Drennan and Chief Engr. Wm. S. Smith, detached from the Kearsarge, have arrived home and been placed on waiting orders.

Asst. Paymaster R. T. M. Ball is detached from duty at Key West, and ordered to settle his accounts.

Passed Asst. Paymaster John W. Jordan is ordered to duty at Key West.

Admiral Jouett, who has been in the vicinity of Panama for the past three months, has been ordered north with the Tennessee and Yantic.

Mackerel have arrived along this coast in moderate numbers, and the white sails of numerous seining schooners are almost always in sight. Dogfish are abundant, and many of them are taken, generally for the livers alone, though the carcasses make a good fertilizer; the livers make good "Cod-liver oil," and are used for that purpose in some places, though not in this city.

Buring the heavy thunder shower of the 9th inst. the roof of No. 3 mill at Newmarket was struck by lightning and set on fire, the blaze however being extinguished with little damage. A number of trees were struck in the same town. In South Newmarket a barn belonging to John M. Goss was struck and burned, and several other places were struck, with slight damage resulting.

The stockholders of the Newmarket savings bank at their annual meeting last week elected T. M. Joy, N. B. Treadwell, A. L. Mellows, B. F. Haley, J. F. Chapman, Benjamin Mathes, Jr., A. D. Wiggin, S. A. Haley and A. J. Nichols as trustees; T. M. Joy, president; S. A. Haley, treasurer and clerk.

The general health of the town of York is very good. There are only three resident physicians, and of these only one devotes himself entirely to his practice. One of them has recently become engaged in the ice business, and another is very efficient as a deputy sheriff, and a silent partner in the provision trade.

Postmaster Wilson M. Walker entirely renovated his store at York village a short time since; his office is finely furnished, and he has a large refrigerator into which the ice is passed through an opening in the rear of the building. Mr. Walker must be a good judge of human nature, for he selects popular employes; the lady patrons think they are very good looking. The medical department of the business is in charge of Doctor Charles McInch, an educated and experienced pharmacist; Willie S. Fernald is the salesman; and the transportation of the goods is conducted by John F. Todd. Mr. Walker holds the ribbons over one of the best teams in York, when he goes out for a drive.

The landlords of the hotels and boarding houses at York harbor and beach are feeling pretty well these times, the summer visitors having arrived in numbers, earlier than for several years past. At the Sea Cottage, Long sands, on Sunday, there were sixty boarders.

Mr. Leonard C. Cook's farm at Castle hill, Kittery, is in high state of cultivation, and the buildings in good condition. This is one of the highest elevations in Kittery, and commands a view of Portsmouth in the distance; and from the windows the lights in the bay can be seen at night. Mr. Cook has under consideration the rebuilding of his premises in York, at the head of York river, burned several years ago.

Mrs. James H. McMullen, living on High street in Portland, while going to Old Orchard on the Boston & Maine railroad, was robbed of her hand satchel, containing diamonds and a large amount of government bonds, the value of the whole being about $30,000.

The Colombian rebels met with a serious disaster at Colomar, on the Magdalena river, through the explosion of their ammunition vessel by a shot fired by the government troops, the other fifteen vessels of their fleet being all more or less damaged. Almost all the revolutionary leaders are believed to have been killed or seriously wounded.

At Towson, Md., July 13th, Howard Cooper, the negro who brutally assaulted Katie Gray, and was under sentence to be hanged for the crime this month, was taken from jail by a mob, and hung to a neighboring tree.

The Augusta, Me., salvation army, about which there was such a rumpus, has raised $500 toward the cost of building barracks.

Joseph Knights of Portland, who is engaged in the lobster canning business at Vinalhaven, Me., was arrested on the 3d inst. by Constable Julian, on a warrant sworn out by John Healey, fish and game warden. He was tried on a charge of having in his possession 110 lobsters less than nine inches in length, found guilty, and was fined $1 for each lobster, making a total of $110, besides the costs. He appealed, and furnished bonds to appear at a higher court.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it. The reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited, troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. As I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla, she has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

BARNUM RETURNS NO MORE.

GREETING AND FAREWELL TO HIS AMERICAN PATRONS.

With mingled regret and pride, I announce to my patrons that this is positively the last chance to see my GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH and the GREAT LONDON CIRCUS on American Soil.

I regret being forced to take away from my fellow citizens an exhibition which they have enthusiastically appreciated and lavishly patronized, but the amusement seeking people of Europe demand the opportunity of seeing this combination which has a world-wide reputation, and no counterpart in any country. I have made all arrangements and contracts for its transportation in its vast entirety across the Atlantic. My able and experienced partners, Messrs. James A. Bailey and James L. Hutchinson, will conduct this unparalleled enterprise under my personal supervision.

The Public's Obedient Servant, PHINEAS T. BARNUM.

THE NAVY YARD "BOSSES."

Secretary Whitney has sent an order to the commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard providing for the appointment of a board to conduct the examinations of persons applying for appointment to the various foremanships in the yard. Accompanying the order is a letter, in which the secretary says:

The navy regulations, as you know, contemplate and require these examinations. I call your attention particularly to two points: First, I wish to get at the knowledge of each applicant of the business or craft which he is applying to be given charge of. General acquirements I consider unimportant. Second, bear in mind that certain traits of character are necessary to a good foreman, and these are entirely distinct from his acquirements. The qualities which enable a man to direct others and get good and efficient service out of the force cannot be got at the competitive examination. An applicant's appearance and conversation will enable you to judge somewhat as to this, and I desire the result of your observation in each case as to these matters. The examination is for the purpose of sifting the applicants and getting out those who should be fairly considered. The antecedents and the amount of experience of each man, where he has worked and in what capacity, you will, of course, ascertain in each case. In important cases, if I am in doubt, I will endeavor to have personal interviews with the most likely candidates, as the efficiency of the yards is to depend very largely upon the character of the foremen.

I wish to proceed deliberately and with great care in creating the force, and will give all necessary personal attention to it. It is idle to expect liberal appropriations for navy yard work unless a change is made in this respect. You will examine for the following positions, and I shall hereafter classify the work under them: One foreman shipwright, one foreman blacksmith, one foreman joiner, one foreman plumber and coppersmith, one foreman or quarterman blockmaker, one foreman or quarterman boat builder, one foreman machinist, one foreman boilermaker, one foreman pattern maker, one foreman molder, one foreman sailmaker, one foreman or leading man rigger. You will treat all foremanships of skilled labor as vacant, and allow all present incumbents to compete. I desire, however, a new force, and, except for very good cause, and an exceptional record in the navy yard, I shall not appoint a foreman whose habits have been formed through navy yard work of recent years.

Similar orders and instructions have been sent to the New York, Washington and Norfolk navy yards.

Some of the democratic candidates for foremen's positions on this yard say they will not enter into a "competitive examination" against the foremen now there, as the latter would have a great advantage, and should reasonably be expected to make much the better showing in such an examination, over men equally as well qualified as themselves but who have not had the chance to get or keep acquainted with the technalities of the navy yard work. This objection, it seems to us, is cleared away by Sec. Whitney's remarks concerning the re-appointment of foremen who have hitherto been employed on the yards, which require no "reading between the lines" to indicate his intention of making the long-hoped-for clean sweep.

Incidentally we may observe that there is a rumor afloat that Capt. Henry Erben is to be detached from duty as captain of the yard, the reason assigned being that he was sent here especially on account of his being a democrat, and yet has done nothing for the democrats at all. What ground for this rumor there is, if any, we cannot say; but we shall see what we shall see.

THE NEW TELEGRAPH LINE.

The wire for the new Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph Co. has been deposited along the highway on Lafayette road. The posts seem to have been placed where it would best suit the linemen, and in some places the trees are badly hacked when judicious trimming would have been far more conducive to appearances. The B. & O. deny that they have sold out to the Western Union. They have not got sufficiently under way as yet for that inevitable result to pass. The linemen were on Monday morning stretching the wires along Elm street, and they are now led into the company's office in the Woodman block, corner of Daniel and Pleasant streets.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer Mystic had about sixty passengers to the Shoals on Sunday, on her regular trip to the islands with the mails and newspapers. The islands look lively now, there being between two and three hundred guests at Appledore, and a good number at the Oceanic. The steamer Appledore, thoroughly overhauled and refitted since the last season she ran on the route between this city and the Shoals, is not only more convenient than ever before, but is doing better work as regards time; she was never what could be called a slow boat, and is now really a fast one. Capt. Frank L. Bird, her commander, is an experienced steamboat man and pilot, and a pleasanter method of spending a day than taking a trip to the islands with him could hardly be devised.

The sloop yacht Beth, of Boston, was lying at Philbrick's wharf on Monday afternoon. She is a very pretty boat of about ten tons.

The schooner Polly, of and from Rockland, was discharging lime at Broughton's wharf on Monday.

The brick schooners G. W. Raitt, Hattie Lewis and D. K. Ham sailed for Boston on the 13th, and the British schooners Maggie Quinn and Mary C. sailed for ports in the provinces the same day.

The Sunday school of St. John's and Christ Episcopal churches have a picnic at Bay View grove, Stratham, to-day, (Tuesday,) leaving the Boston & Maine railroad station by the 7:55 A. M. train on the Concord & Portsmouth road, and returning at six o'clock P. M.

The new elevator of the Eldredge Brewing Co. is a strongly built structure, as it has need to be, for it is to hold 40,000 bushels of malt, which will weigh 720 tons.

We hear the name of John Sise, Esq., mentioned in connection with the republican nomination for mayor at the approaching election. We are not at all sure that he would accept a nomination; but if he would, we have no doubt he would be elected. As to his entire fitness for the position there can be but one opinion among the thinking men of all parties, and the city would be fortunate in securing his services.

The July Harper's has a pretty picture of the classic Pandora, by F. S. Church. The August Harper's will have pictures of, and a story about, "A Modern Pandora," a tale of watering-place happenings, by Chas. L. Norton, ingeniously reproducing into modern circumstances the old Greek legend.

Henry L. Richards Camp, Sons of Veterans—1st and 3d Tuesday evenings of each month, in order G. A. R. Hall.

Sagamore Lodge, No. 258, Knights of Honor—second and fourth Mondays of each month, at the hall over Atwell & Co.'s store, Market street.

The lamp-post near the centre of Market square was taken down on Monday, preparatory to placing in position the new drinking fountain, which arrived last week from the maker, Henry F. Jonks of Pawtucket, R. I. The structure is of cast iron, the circular drinking trough being three and one-half feet in diameter, the lamp-post passing up through the centre, and projecting to a height of six and one-half feet (exclusive of lantern) above the top of the trough. The trough is placed at a convenient height for horses to drink from, and the whole affair is quite ornamental. As to the usefulness of a drinking trough in that locality, nothing need be said.

The hotels and boarding houses here are most generally filled and overflowing, and this state of affairs is likely to continue during the summer, in consequence of the non-completion of the spacious and magnificent Rockingham house. Capt. Daniel C. Rich, a retired sea-captain, occupies as a boarding house the ancient dwelling opposite Hon. F. Jones' office on Market street, in which formerly resided some of the old-time merchant princes of the city, and if it were twice as large it would not give more room than could be utilized. The register of the Hotel Flanders, on the corner of Elm and Vaughan streets, shows numerous arrivals there; and the "Horn of Plenty," (the former Seaman's Home, on State street,) has sometimes of late been obliged to turn off proposed patrons on account of lack of rooms.

Capt. Geo. W. Tucker and wife, of New York, formerly of this city, are occupying for a time their former residence on State street—the first time Capt. Tucker has been here for five years. Other recent arrivals are their daughter, Mrs. Micajah Pope, with her son and his German tutor, they having just come across from a stay of several years in Europe, where the boy has been at school; Mrs. Gearing, another daughter, wife of Lieut. Gearing of the navy, and child; and Master Davidson of St. Louis, the son of another daughter, deceased. Capt. Tucker seems but little older, and no less full of vim, than he was when he made the famous passage from San Francisco to Liverpool in command of the ship North American—a passage never approached before nor since.

Boatswain Jeremiah Harding, attached to the Mare island navy yard, died there June 27th.

General Hazen, chief signal officer, has recommended to the president that Sergeant Brainard, who war with Lieut. Greely in the Arctic regions, be appointed to a lieutenancy in the line. He has also recommended that Sergeants Mitchell and Ellis, who recently passed examination for promotion, be appointed second lieutenants in the signal service.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

Mr. Spurgeon draws the largest church audience in London except when Dr. Phillips Brooks of Boston is in town.

For costiveness, biliousness, headache and all feverish habits use Dr. Seth Arnold's Bilious Pills. 25c.

The Beauty of Youth.

No matter how handsome or stalwart a young man may be otherwise, nothing can make up for a partially bald head. Shining talents are attractive, but a shining poll is not. The cause may be sickness or anything else, yet Parker's Hair Balsam will stop the loss of the hair and start a new growth of glossy and soft hair so quickly as to surprise you—restoring the original color at the same time. Not a dye, not oily, delicately perfumed. Only standard 50c. dressing.

At the agricultural convention last week in Washington a resolution was adopted suggesting the advisability of establishing a United States signal-service station at each agricultural college.

Mothers, always use Dr. Seth Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial for children. A mild, safe tonic. 25c.

Heart Pains.

Palpitation, dropsical swellings, dizziness, indigestion, headache, sleeplessness cured by "Wells' Health Renewer."

At Toronto, Ont., July 7th, an important resolution was passed at the meeting of the sovereign great priors of the Knights Templar of Canada, to the effect that non-intercourse has been declared with the St. Johns and St. Stephens encampment, working under the so-called chapter general of New Brunswick, on the ground that the existence of such encampment is a violation of the rights of the sovereign great priors of Canada, who have sole jurisdiction in the Dominion. Members coming from those encampments in the future will be considered illegal. An edict will be issued forthwith.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal for cibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substance.

Beautiful Savannah.

Every one has read or heard of the loveliness of Savannah. I was, therefore, prepared for a modern Eden, river, apple tree, snake and all—save only the original proprietors in decolete fig-leaf costume. If one enters from the water front through the east end he is apt to wonder at the unanimity with which previous visitors have lied about the place. The sand is ankle deep in the unpaved streets, and the low frame houses are antiquated and dingy. It becomes better, happily, as one gets up in the city. There is as much sand in the middle of the streets, but the sidewalks are paved, and causeways at the end of each block extend across from curb to curb. There ought to be big money in a cigar factory here. All that would be needed is lime. Nature has kindly and conveniently provided unlimited quantities of sand and water.

Every street is fringed with rows of closely-planted trees. Some of the wide streets, like Broadway and Eutaw place, have four rows. The public squares, too, of which Savannah has ten to Baltimore's one, are well shaded. Altogether, it looks somewhat like a town in a wood, and hence the appropriate name, "Forest City."

The old brick residences erected in the early part of the present century are quaint buildings. They have cellars or cellar-kitchens, and the whole of the first floor (which is on a level with the streets) is frequently taken up by the culinary and domestic departments. A flight of high stone steps leads up to the second floor, on which are the parlors and dining-room. Accordingly, we find here the coal-bin, cook-stove and pantry, where you have your upright piano, Persian rugs, Meissonier and open grate.—Baltimore American.

A Dog with a Conscience.

Stories of sagacious dogs are plentiful enough, but they always form pleasant reading, chiefly because they are true. Here is a dog with a conscience. He is a Skye terrier. The owner had a dish of mutton cutlets for his lunch. When the repast was finished there was one cutlet left on the dish. The gentleman was reading the newspaper and appeared to be taking no notice. The dog saw the cutlet and his mouth began to water. Then he smelt at it. It was very nice. Doggy resolution could stand it no longer. The terrier seized the cutlet and bolted under the sofa. Still the gentleman took no notice. The terrier paused for a moment, excepting to receive a kick or a torrent of abuse. Nothing of the kind. The master took no notice. Somehow all the flavor of the cutlet seemed to have departed. The conscience-stricken terrier refused to touch it. He looked pitifully around for a time. How could he offend so good a master? He would not.

He simply picked up the cutlet, laid it at his master's feet, hung his head in shame, and slunk away, with his whole body expressing the sentiment of shame as plainly as anything this world has ever seen. The master did not beat the dog, but gave the cutlet to him.—From the Hour.

Reading on the Cars.

And we see little children wearing spectacles in school. Here is a reason for it: Every street car you enter you find it filled with fathers of little ones. Each of these fathers to save half an hour's time, is reading the morning newspaper. For years these fathers have ridden from one to three miles in this jolting vehicle, with the light changing at every turn of the wheels, and with the focus of the eye adjusting itself to the print with lightning-like rapidity: If there were a sliding-glass made for reading on the street car, with visible mechanism so subtle that the focus could be self-adjusted with every trembling of the object—say a wheel should fly back and forth like the balance-spring of a watch—would not the reader in the car begin to understand the task which he puts on the muscles and nerves of his eyes when he opens a newspaper in the moving car? He may possibly not be wearing out his own eyes, but he is wearing out his future children's—and this beyond the chance of a doubt.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A White House Romance.

I heard this romance to-day in connection with a young lady who was an occupant of the White House during Jackson's time, and who was married in the great East Room: Mary Easton was the daughter of a sister of General Jackson's wife. She went to live with her aunt for a time in the Executive Mansion. At her home in Tennessee she had played when a child with a boy companion named Pope. The two became warmly attached to each other, and as they grew the attachment became strong affection. While it was apparent to both that they loved each other, young Pope did not ask his companion to become his wife.

Miss Easton came to Washington. Her position and her intelligence and accomplishments made her doubly attractive in society. Young officers in the army and in the navy were beside her at every opportunity. Captain Finch took the lead. He pressed his suit, proposed and was accepted. He was possessed of considerable means and gave her handsome presents. The wedding day approached. Invitations were sent to the friends of the young people, asking them to come to the White House to witness the ceremony. The prospective bridegroom went to New York to get his prospective bride her wedding present.

Of the invitations sent to Tennessee, one fell into the hands of young Pope. It fanned the smothering love within his bosom into a flame. He wrote to Miss Easton, told her of his love since childhood for her. He said that time and again he had been at the point of asking her to be his wife, but on each occasion his modesty had prevented him. Now he repeated his love, and begged his to become his bride.

Miss Easton read the letter and immediately replied, accepting his offer.

Captain Finch returned from New York, bringing with him a costly diamond ornament. He called at the White House to see the young lady occupant. She was in her room with a companion who was to be her bridesmaid when his card reached her.

"Tell him I can not see him," was said to her companion.

The latter went to the private parlor where Captain Finch was seated, and, after some hesitancy, said that Miss Easton was indisposed. The Captain was alarmed, begged for more information of the indisposition, and asked that the present he had brought be taken to the invalid. The young lady carried the diamond ornament to her companion. When Miss Easton received it she turned to her companion and said:

"Go take it back to him, and tell him all. Tell him I am engaged to another."

The young lady did as requested. When she had finished her errand, Captain Finch arose, and, without uttering a word, left the parlor.

General Jackson was angry when he heard of his wife's relative's action toward his friend Finch. He had favored the match. In speaking to Miss Easton he said: "This action of yours, Mary, has caused me to lose faith in woman." He insisted that Captain Finch should be invited to her marriage with Pope.

The wedding came off. The rejected lover was present. He stood directly in front of the bride during the ceremony, and never took his eyes off her until with her husband she left the room. Shortly afterward he went to Europe. When he returned he bore the name of an uncle—a wealthy Englishman. Mrs. Pope moved to Tennessee. She is said to be living there now, happy, with her children.—Washington Letter.

Croup it will ease in 5 minutes, and positively cure any case when used at the onset.

Remember that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is only 25 cents per bottle, and one bottle will go farther than half a dozen of an ordinary medicine.

Some More Civil Service Reform.

The Evening Star, of Washington, D. C., on the 13th inst. gave prominence to the following statement:

"The president has called a halt. A little over a week ago the order went out to all the departments that all dismissals and appointments to fill places not vacant must stop at once. A week ago a stop was put to all the work in the appointment division of the treasury department, and the appointment clerk was told that no more commissions were to be made out or papers considered until further orders, and a lot of changes contemplated by him were killed in their conception. Commissioner of Pensions Black was sent for personally by the president, and was given to understand that the 'offensive partisanship' cry had become too indefinite in its meaning, and that no more changes in his department were to be made until there was a thorough understanding on the subject on the part of the president. The result was that the orders for a number of changes in the pension office were countermanded and everything put at a standstill. The president, it is understood, then had an understanding with the heads of the post-office and other departments, declaring his policy to be to stand by the civil service reform declarations in his letter to Curtis, and his address on March 4th; 'removal for cause' he held to mean that, and not removal with excuse. The result is that the axe has been stuck in the block for the past week, and is still there. How far the thing is to go can be merely surmised, but it is believed that the president is decidedly in earnest and does not intend that his declaration shall be ignored."

Base Ball Record.

The following was the standing of the League clubs on the 14th inst.:

	Won.	Lost.	Played.
Chicagos	40	12	52
New Yorks	38	14	52
Providence	31	19	50
Philadelphias	26	27	53
St. Louis	21	31	52
Bostons	18	33	51
Detroits	17	35	52
Buffalos	16	35	51

The Cholera.

Madrid advices of the 13th inst. say the official reports up to that date show 30,400 cases of cholera in Spain, and 13,000 deaths, since the first outbreak. The cholera had appeared in four places in the province of Jaen, and there were forty-two cases and eighteen deaths the first day.

Sixty persons at Momence, Ill., have been poisoned by eating dried beef made from diseased cattle. A physician's wife died on the 13th, and many of the others were in a dying condition. Some of the meat was given to a dog, which died in a few hours.

A Brooklyn clergyman, Rev. Dr. Ludlow, who had been travelling in the Holy Land, had the bravery to venture a visit to the curious colony of Druses—the Mohammedan sect inhabiting the side of Mount Hermon, which a few years ago was guilty of the frightful massacre of the Christians thereabouts. He found them a strange people, blood-thirsty for backsheesh, however, rather than for gore, and turning their hatred for the time being against Turks instead of Christians. The curiosity of the Druses extended to the interior of their visitors' pockets, and they even made off with the latters' boots, which they had taken off when calling upon the chief of the village. Dr. Ludlow will give an account of his amusing experiences in the August Harper's.

If Pres. Cleveland's civil service reform malady has really broken out again, as reported, and with such violence as to make even Appointment Clerk Higgins pause, there is yet nothing to prevent the faithful from entering in and enjoying the places of the navy yard bosses, except that the places are still occupied by republicans, and the democratic candidates lack appointments. Be of good cheer, brethren of the other side; the republicans seem cheerful enough. There's a good time coming, boys; wait a-l-e-e-tle while.

The effect of oratory in the honorable senate was witnessed at Concord recently when a senator from the rural districts addressed the senate upon a pending question. On the question being put, the orator's side received one vote, probably his own. He was congratulated on his success in obtaining the solid vote and not going over with the majority after he had listened to his own speech.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it. The reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve, and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. All I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

BARNUM RETURNS NO MORE.

GREETING AND FAREWELL TO HIS AMERICAN PATRONS.

With mingled regret and pride, I announce to my patrons that this is positively the last chance to see my GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH and the GREAT LONDON CIRCUS on American Soil.

I regret being forced to take away from my fellow citizens an exhibition which they have enthusiastically appreciated and lavishly patronized, but the amusement seeking people of Europe demand the opportunity of seeing this combination which has a world-wide reputation, and no counterpart in any country. I have made all arrangements and contracts for its transportation in its vast entirety across the Atlantic. My able and experienced partners, Messrs. James A. Bailey and James L. Hutchinson, will conduct this unparalleled enterprise under my personal supervision.

THE CIRCUS.

There will be exhibited here to-morrow some of the most curious human beings ever seen, who have never had occasion to leave their native home before, and whom no one has ever met before away from these countries. These people are Afghan warriors, from Afghanistan; Todas Indians, from the interior of the East Indies; high and low-caste Hindoos, from Hindoostan; Aztecs from Mexico; Zulus, from Cape town, Africa; Nubian warriors, from Nubia; Nautch dancing girls, from, India; a royal band of Burmese musicians, from King Theebau's chief palace in Mandalay; besides mahouts, Burmese priests, attendants, etc., surrounding the only genuine White Sacred Elephant ever seen in a Christian land. These remarkable people will come with the monster Barnum and London Combined show, which will exhibit 100 circus acts in their big rings, and will come here complete, just as they exhibited in New York to thousands of people. The parade will take place to-morrow morning at eight o'clock. The show consists of three circus companies, in three rings, and upon an elevated stage, a museum, two menageries, a Roman hippodrome, and the ethnological congress, all of which will be here entire.

ACCIDENT AT SAGAMORE.

On Sunday evening, as Mr. Charles M. Laighton and members of his family were returning from a ride, an accident befell them at Sagamore bridge, which was a narrow escape from what might have proved a very serious matter. There were in the carriage with Mr. Laighton his two daughters and son, and Mr. Geo. Peduzzi of Brooklyn, N. Y., brother in law of Mr. L. As they approached the bridge, a little past nine o'clock, there were parties on the bridge fishing for lobsters, and who had two large and bright lanterns set upon the bridge plank. The horse became frightened as he approached the lanterns, and refusing to go forward commenced to back the carriage, forcing it against the bridge railing. In this strait Mr. Laighton attempted to complete the turn back, and had partially succeeded when upon moving forward the hub of a wheel caught in one of the posts that support the bridge rail, and the horse jumping ahead broke both shafts, whiffletree and cross bar—going entirely clear from the carriage, and leaving the occupants unhurt. As Mr. L. could not hold the frightened horse he let go the reins. The horse stopped after going a short distance. Had the railing of the bridge not been in good condition it is probable the carriage and occupants would have been dumped into the river. The lobster fishers put out their lights and decamped, offering no assistance to those whose lives they had put in peril. We believe this is not the first accident of the kind at this bridge, and it would seem to be the part of prudence on the part of our city officials to save the city from any liability for such accidents as well as to protect the lives of citizens and strangers, by promptly putting a stop to such use of the bridge.—Times.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooners Gold Hunter, G. W. Raitt and Satellite, from this port, and the Nautilus, from York, arrived at Boston on the 11th inst.; the schooners J. William H. Gilman of Dover has resigned the position of clerk in yards and docks department at the navy yard. It is said a gentleman named Hammond, of Eliot, will succeed him.

At the late monthly meeting of the board of engineers, the fines incurred by the firemen who failed to respond to the alarm on the morning of the 4th was remitted.

Mr. George A. Jackson was on Tuesday engaged in building a new fence at the Franklin schoolhouse, Christian Shore. While the carpenters are at work it would not be a bad plan for them to fix the wooden walk, and render secure the railing, on the easterly side of the north millbridge; and the approach to the southerly end of the bridge needs looking at by the street commissioner.

The pay car of the Boston & Maine railroad went over the Eastern division on Tuesday. The B. & M. use the pay car instead of the system of sending checks out to stations from the paymaster's office, as was in vogue on the Eastern.

With $160,000,000 in cash lying idle in the vaults of the New York banks, and the crop of wheat probably 1?9,000,000 bushels less than that of last year, and railroad earnings five per cent less on one per cent more mileage than for June, 1884, and dividends on thirty-two principal railroads reduced to an average of 4 1-2 per cent, against an average of six per cent paid last year, wheat closed Saturday at a dollar against 98 1-4 cents a year ago; and with a general depression in business circles the seaside hotels are not all enjoying as profitable a season as could be wished for. At Hampton beach there are but few visitors. The guests of this year prefer a quiet private house at low rates of board, and the hotels are said to be behind in numbers of patrons seen at this time last season.

In another column will be seen the advertisement of Messrs. Ayers & Locke, whose extensive store on Market street contains one of the largest, best selected and most varied stocks of dry goods to be found in New England outside of Boston, and offered at prices as low as or lower than the same articles are sold for at the Hub. The attention of ladies stopping at the various summer resorts is especially invited to the large and choice assortment of seasonable goods and small wares to be found at this establishment.

The track of the New York & New England railroad is in splendid condition. The Sunday newspaper train reached Boston last Sunday at 7:41. The New York Sunday Tribune, by far the best Sunday newspaper printed in the country, reached here by the regular train at 10:15 Sunday morning, and went to York beach by horse and wagon to be read by 11:00 A. M. This reading a New York Sunday morning paper before going to church seems indeed a new state of affairs, although we have no doubt the greater number of Sunday readers always peruse their paper before going to any church.

Mr. W. H. Bigelow, for whose position Mr. Jones has been in Washington urging the appointment of George E. Dame of Newport, was in Washington on Monday to refute charges that he was running his office in any way as a political machine. The indications are that he will not be removed "just yet."

At Hampton depot there is no freight house, the railroad retaining freight cars in which to keep its freight. An old car used for this purpose, standing on a pile of ties, was toppled over by the boys on the 4th. The inconvenient mode of handling freight at this station is frequently complained of, but for some unaccountable reason Hampton has never had a suitable freight house, an exception to the rule on this line of railway.

Among the wills probated before Judge Leavitt on Tuesday was that of James Marden of North Hampton, made thirty-seven years ago. Each of the three witnesses to the execution of the will had died long since, and their signatures were proven by other witnesses.

For costiveness, biliousness, headache and all feverish habits use Dr. Seth Arnold's Bilious Pills. 25c.

Albany, N. Y., had a $100,000 fire on the 12th inst. Four firemen were buried under a falling wall, one being killed and the others seriously hurt.

Mothers, always use Dr. Seth Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial for children. A mild, safe tonic. 25c.

Joe Brown pays taxes on $400,000 worth of real estate in Atlanta, Ga., and is worth several millions. He doesn't look as if he was worth a penny.

Lieut. T. H. Barber, who recently resigned his position as aide-de-camp to Gen. Hancock, is one of the three wealthiest officers in the army.

Bed-Bugs, Flies.

Flies, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, rats, mice, gophers, chipmunks, cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

The hotel Brunswick in New York city is to be closed until September.

Martin O. Houghlin's house and outbuildings at Laconia were destroyed by an incendiary fire July 13th; loss $1200; insurance $600.

Thin People.

"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures dyspepsia, impotence, sexual debility. $1.

A Vergennes, Vt., farmer has 150 swarms of bees and more to come. He sold two tons of honey last year, and he expects to sell more this season.

"Rough on Pain."

Cures colic, cramps, diarrhœa; externally for aches, pains, sprains, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism. For man or beast. 20 and 50c.

The Monadnock national bank of Peterboro' has passed its midsummer semi-annual dividend, on account of the loss resulting from S. W. Hale's failure.

Mothers,

If you are failing; broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

A desperate fight is reported between a gang of thirteen drunken river-men who were celebrating the 4th of July, and a party of sixty French Canadians who were moving with teams, above the forks of the Kennebec river, Me., on the 4th. The fight lasted all day, and only ended when the last river-man was knocked senseless with an axe. Three of the rivermen and one Frenchman were fatally injured.

Charles Cosgrove!

Who has not been able to attend to his business for years, was interviewed by our reporter yesterday, and says: For years I have been troubled with Bright's disease of the kidneys. The doctors gave me up. Through an eastern friend I obtained a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. I took five bottles and now I am almost well. Keith sells them.—San Francisco Call.

At Belfast, Me., on the morning of the 12th inst., the stable of the Belfast Livery Co. was burned, with much hay and twenty horses. The fire spread to Howes' block and the American house, both of which were destroyed, and several other buildings were injured. Loss about $60,000. Wesley Twombly and John Casey, young men employed in the stable, were burned to death. The fire was probably caused by one of them, they having been drunk when they entered the stable to sleep.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites,

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

CELEBRATED

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

SULPHUR BITTERS

THE BEST AND GREATEST MEDICINE

It will drive the Humor from your system, and make your skin clean and smooth. Those Pimples and Blotches which mar your beauty are caused by impure blood, and can be removed in a short time, if you are wise and use the great blood purifier.

SULPHUR BITTERS. Why suffer with Boils? If you are with that terrible headache. Why lay and toss on that bed of pain, with Dyspepsia? Want cash, or that feeling soothing comes to assist nature to repair the damage which your excesses have caused. Sulphur Bitters is not a cheap glass, like other preparations which claim to be the best, but is compounded with the choicest Roots, Barks and Herbs, combined with the Sulphur, which imparts to it such properties as to make it NATURE'S GREAT RESTORER.

TRACE OF SULPHUR which gives the Bitters the name of SULPHUR BITTERS, is stamped on every bottle.

The Dose is small—only a Teaspoonful. It is the best and cheapest medicine. Try it, and you will be satisfied. Get it of your druggist. DON'T WAIT. GET IT AT ONCE.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 16 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty:

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies so constructed, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any such meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

WIT AND HUMOR.

THE BOARDER'S MORNING SOLILOQUY.

How well the hours of sleep glide by!
I heard the sparrow chinning,
The mackerel-peddler's screeching cry
Proclaim that day's beginning.
Once more to dress I must begin,
The sun shines out in splendor,
And I hear the thud of the rolling-pin
That makes the beefsteak tender.

No more John Bull's once valiant breast
By great ambition's fired;
And Russian czars, Pull down your vest!
Go way—you make me tired!"

In those old days when wrangling men
Flung down their clanging gages,
There were so many knights, since then
They have been called dark ages. —Life.

The sound of the dull thud is heard in the land,
The atmosphere's laden with dust;
For out in the back yard, a club in his hand,
The head of the house on a carpet pounds, and
His words are not those of the just.
—Oil City Blizzard.

Thou'rt dearer far to me than gold,
O, maid upon my breast reclining!
The sweet love-light I now behold
Behind your gold-rimmed glasses shining.
My love for you burns like the sun;
Indeed 'tis brighter, stronger, steadier,
My Worcester, Webster, all in one,
Sweet unabridged encyclopedia.
—Boston Courier.

Her voice was harsh, and she jawed all day,
Till the man was crazy, as one may say,
From morn till night it was chin, chin, chin,
And people who couldn't help hearing the din
Knew well that the man had a cross to bear,
And he cried in the midst of his wild despair:
"I've loved, I've loved here, through good and ill,
And with all her faults I would love her still."

When the editor's a prey to indigestion, indigestion,
And his liver isn't working worth a cent, worth a cent—
When he gives a gruff reply to every question,
every question,
And in grumbling o'er his woes his time is spent—
Then the poet makes 'some verses, and he writes 'em, and he writes 'em,
And he brings them to the office when they're done, when they're done,
And the editor he takes a club and smites 'im
club and smites 'im;
O, the poet's lot is not by a happy one, happy one—
O, the poet's lot is not a happy one.
—Boston Courier.

Lord Chesterfield says: "Choose the company of your superiors." That's just what we have been doing, and it makes us awfully lonesome.—Newman Independent.

"O, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" There is no definite reason in the world for it unless it be that he has humbugged his wife into thinking there isn't another man in the world like him.

"Run for the doctor, quick! help! help! dot baby has swallowed a nickel," exclaimed Mrs. Schaumburg. "Mine Gott, you make so much fuss as if it was a $20 gold piece. Be calm, Repecca," replied Mose.

Prof. Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen has been fined $400 in New York for slapping a small boy, and this gives the newspaper an opportunity to construct the usjual foolish and unjkind jokes on the spelljing of his name.

An exchange states that Wisconsin furnishes more poetry and pine lumber than any other State in the union. Why say poetry and pine lumber? Why not say kindling and kill two birds with one stone?—Through Mail.

A West Newbury man has patented a new fire-kindler, but we doubt if it is any improvement on an obedient and self-sacrificing woman, who with a quarter of an old newspaper and a couple of corn-cobs, starts the matutinal flame.

"What are you doing there?" asked the foreman of the printer's devil. "Why, I am distributing a handful of 'pi' I found on the galley," replied the imp. "Pi!" vociferated the foreman. "That's a fine poem by Walt Whitman."—Drake's Traveler's Magazine.

Doctor—Your wife is in a very critical state, and I should recommend you to call in some specialist, to consult on the case. Husband—There, you see, doctor, I was right again! "Whew!" exclaimed Crimsonbeak, surprised on entering his sleeping-apartments to find his wife waiting for him the other morning at 2 o'clock, "those stairs almost take my breath away." "Well, I wish they would," replied his displeased wife, catching the odor of the club-man's evening beverage.—Yonkers Statesman.

"What are you going to do when you grow up, if you don't know how to cipher?" asked an Austin schoolteacher of a rather slow boy. "I am going to be a school teacher, and make the boys do all the cipherng," was the impudent reply. The next thing that boy had to sigh for was a soft cushion on the bench.—Texas Siftings.

As a showman Mr. Forepaugh is an undoubted success, and as a spectacular affair his display processions do him credit; but, somehow, we fail to remember just where history records the fact that Roman virgins used to carry umbrellas while driving their chariots on the Appian Way. Col. Forepaugh ought to have a little chat with Henry Irving on the subject of attention to details.—Washington Star.

W. F. Andross, of Hartford, Conn., believes that potato bugs do a service for the farmer in pruning the vines, if they are not allowed to go too far. That's just our opinion exactly, but when the bugs get into our potato field we consider that they are going too far. So long as they confine their operations to our neighbor's premises we haven't a word to say against them.—Boston Transcript.

Much Ado About Horses' Names.

Anent the pronunciation of horses' names, a little conversation reached my ears in the grand-stand at Jerome park on Decoration day. Two young dudes had been shown the way from the club-house to the stand by two charming young ladies, and the quartet were soon engrossed with the Harlem handicap.

"Chollie," remarked one of the ladies, "do you know I believe a Shauer ought to be good in a shower, and if you'll go and put $10 on Mycardo and he wins, I'll buy you a love of a scarf."

So Chollie fished out a tenner and wended his way toward the bookmakers to invest his money on Shauer's mount, Mikado. Having done so, he found his way safely back by the aid of his eye-glass. Reaching his companions, he remarked:

"I had such a funny experience in the betting-ring, don't cherknow. I said to the bookmaker, an, 'Put me ten on Mycardo.'"

"'Put you ten on what?'

"'My-car-do.'

"He looked as dumb as a clam for a minute, don't cherknow, and then suddenly seemed to comprehend, and, turning to the pencil-shover, sang out: 'Thirty to ten on Mick-a-doo.' Most extraordinary pronunciation, 'pon my word."—Turf, Field and Farm.

There is a delicious uncertainty about the untrained mind of a child. It can never be accurately placed; no one can tell what convolution of the brain will spontaneously appear on the surface. There had been some little difficulty in instilling into the mind of a youngster the word "odd." He insisted on pronouncing it as "ode" to a lost dollar, or as "owed" his last dollar.

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are about to leave the part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it above any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

E. S. HORTON.

MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.

ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

JNO. GASKILL.

HEBRON, THAYER COUNTY, PENN.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1.00; SOAP, 35c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Complete Local and Constitutional Treatment for every form of Catarrh, from a simple Cold or Influenza to loss of Smell, Taste, and Hearing, Cough, Bronchitis, and Catarrhal Consumption, in every package.

Clergymen, Vocalists,

And Public Speakers without number owe their present usefulness and success to SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

Rev. Dr. Wiggin says: "One of the best remedies for Catarrh—nay, the best remedy we have found in a lifetime of suffering—is SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. It clears the head and throat so thoroughly that, taken each morning on rising, there are no unpleasant secretions and no disagreeable hawking during the entire day, but an unprecedented clearness of voice and respiratory organs."

Sold by all druggists. Price, $1.00.

NERVOUS DEBILITY Organic Weakness Decay and numerous obscured diseases, before the skilled physicians, result from youthful indiscretion, too free indulgence, of years past, with the effects of the imposition of pretenders. Avoid the many advertisements of these troubles. Get our Free Circular and Trial Package, and learn important facts before taking any medicine. We guarantee a SURE REMEDY that will CURE. Medicines that do not interfere with attention to business, or cause pain or inconvenience in any way. Founded on scientific medical principles. By direct application to the seat of disease the vitalizing influence is felt without delay. The sallow pallid complexion of the human organism is restored. The animating elements of life, which have been wasted are given back, and the patient becomes a clear fair and rapidly gains both strength and sexual vigor.

"The leprous distillment, whose effect
Holds such an enmity with blood of man,
That, swift as quicksilver, it courses through
The natural gates and alleys of the body."

And causes the skin to become "barked about, most lazar-like, with vile and loathsome crust." Such are the effects of diseased and morbid bile, the only antidote for which is to cleanse and regulate the liver—an office admirably performed by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

A Chance for a Fortune without Work.

Great curiosity was shown as to who was favored by Fortune in the Grand Semi-Annual (the 181st Monthly) Drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery in New Orleans, La., on Tuesday, (always Tuesday,) June 16th. Gen'ls G. T. Beauregard of La., and Jubal A. Early of Va., as usual, gave their personal attention to the entire distribution. All were satisfied—the winners more so than those holding blanks. The amount scattered was over $522,000. Ticket No. 51,166 drew the First Capital Prize of $150,000. It was sold in tenths at $1 each. One was held by Frank Nash, Woodwards Gardens; one by R. W. Tucker, both of San Francisco, Cal.; two-tenth collected by the American Nat'l Bank of Nashville, Tenn., for Morgan Brown, Esq., a well-known lawyer there; one-tenth for Mrs. J. T. Dwyer, a saloon keeper, one for Bessie Lillenthal, a six-year-old granddaughter of a well-known citizen—Abraham Lefflor—all of Savannah, Ga., the remainder went elsewhere. Ticket No. 86,354 drew the Second Capital Prize of $50,000, sold in New York city to parties desirous of avoiding publicity. Ticket No. 4,726 drew the Third Capital Prize of $20,000, sold in tenths; one to Jno. Wynne of Detroit, Mich.; another to D. Fitzgerald of Mound City, Ills.; the remainder were held by parties in Boston, Mass., and Granbury, Texas. Tickets Nos. 49,652 and 52,995 the Fourth Prizes, drew each $10,000, sold in tenths also; one to A. A. Gorse, Chateauguay, Penn.; one to John O'Brien of Boston, Mass.; two to C. F. Trube of Fort Worth, Texas; one to W. J. Byrne, Russellville, Ky.; one to L. M. Lee, Rock Hill, Texas; one to Charles Serveich, Alameda, Cal.; other tenths were sold elsewhere. Tickets Nos. 19,017, 30,025, 62,261, 68,546 drew each $5,000, and were scattered all over the earth, etc., etc. The next drawing will be on Tuesday, August 11th, particulars of which full information can be had on an application to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., and let no one let it day pass by without resolving not to be omitted from the chance of a fortune this bet weather without work.

The Democratic Show.

It is stated that the "offensive partisan business" has been largely overdone, and decapitations for this alleged reason have been suspended. While the republicans agree with the Ohio man who said that retaining so many republicans in office had two effects,—it disarmed them as politicians, and gave efficiency to the conduct of the business of the administration, yet they rather enjoy the impatient dissatisfaction of their political foes.

Just what the outcome of the course of the president is to be, is uncertain. One set of democrats make no hesitation in affirming that "Mr. Cleveland has become so infatuated with his greatness that no one dare criticise any of his actions. He will not brook any criticism, however honest or sound. He has around him a little crowd of flatterers who are filling his mind with the idea that he is 'The Man of Destiny.' His old friends are forgotten. When he went from Albany to Washington not a single citizen of Buffalo was invited to go with him or to meet him there. It was as if they were dead or forgotten. No president has yet occupied the chair of Washington and Jefferson who has not found in his home city some man who was fit to fill a position of high honor. There were only four delegates from Buffalo in the state convention that nominated Cleveland for governor, who were original Cleveland men. They begged, pleaded, argued, and brought the others over. They have their reward in this, that Mr. Cleveland kindly ignores their existence."

Then our friends of the "better class" who voted for Mr. Cleveland, who had hoped for so much, and for a while indeed seemed to enjoy the result of their vote in sweet anticipation of something better than common, shake their heads meaningly, and say: "Cleveland's opportunity has gone. He has thrown it away. What he might have done was to break up both the old parties. The democratic party ought to be broken up. The republican party could have been broken up at the same time. If Mr. Cleveland had stood up to civil service reform, swerving neither to the right nor to the left, he would have built up a new party out of the ruins of both the old ones. He would have been strong with the people. But he has tried to ride two horses, to satisfy reformers and democrats and republican sentiment, and he is satisfying no one."

After all, it is only we who didn't expect anything, and do not expect anything now, save to have a good deal of fun as matters develope, who enjoy this administration the most.

There never has been seen in this country a political circus that could so quickly and effectually change the Pompeian hue of its expectant followers to such a hideous paleness by its startling feats, as has been done by the show now on exhibition since the fourth of March last.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., July 14th.

Henry Muchmore, son of George W. Muchmore of North Kittery, who has been employed by the Iowa Central Railroad Co. at their shops in Marshalltown, Iowa, since last spring, arrived home on Monday of this week, for a short visit.

Miss Maude Perkins of Red Bank, N. J., is visiting her uncle, Mr. John Wentworth, in North Kittery.

Fred Staples, a son of Howard Staples of South Eliot, while at work at Deacon Hill's in Eliot was hit in the breast by some stray shots fired by somebody in the distance, probably without evil intent. Dr. Guptill was called. We have not learned the extent of the injuries.

The work of filling in the Dover railroad bridge between Noble's Island and Freeman's point is being rapidly carried forward; two trains are now being used to transport the gravel from the pit in North Kittery to its destination. In order to facilitate the work a steam shovel has been placed in the pit, a telegraph station at Fernald's crossing, connecting with Eliot and Portsmouth, rendering all chances for an accident avoidable.

Capt. J. P. Fernald has resigned the command of the ship Columbia, now in New York, and will shortly proceed to California, where he owns a vineyard and fruit orchard, and will devote himself to grape culture. His location is nine miles from Fresno city, in Fresno county. We hope he will find his new vocation more profitable than sailing ships are in these days.

Mrs. Albert H. Moulton of New Haven, Conn., and her little daughter, are visiting at the home of Mr. Albert Moulton, father of Mrs. Moulton's husband, in North Kittery. SUB ROSA.

Mrs. Estelle Hunter has been arrested on suspicion of having murdered her husband, Charles E. Hunter, in Hinsdale on the night of June 25th. He was found dead, and at first was supposed to have shot himself. Mrs. Hunter has four children, the eldest being thirteen years old.

Leave of absence for four months on surgeon's certificate of disability, with permission to leave the United States, has been granted First Lieut. A. W. Greely, fifth cavalry, acting signal officer.

An Augusta, Me., despatch of the 14th says: "Mrs. Joel Jose, a demented lady, fifty-one years of age, was discovered today in an open shanty a mile and a half from Readfield depot, where she has stopped alone for eight years, amid most disgusting filth. Her husband, residing in a small house twenty rods away, carried her food once a day. She was in a nude condition, the same as she has lived. The authorities removed her to the insane hospital."

London is still agitated by the revelations of the Pall Mall Gazette concerning the hideous immorality of the "better classes" of that great city. The correspondence, photographs, and other evidence, on which the Gazette has based its articles, are to be placed in the hands of a commission of prominent gentlemen, who will make a thorough investigation. This evidence is not to be made public. Steps will be taken to prevent outrages like those complained of in the future, but the guilty parties will go unpunished, and their victims will not be avenged.

The president and most of the members of the cabinet have been absent from Washington to take a "needed rest." Had they been republican officials, the democratic papers would have designated this outing as "junketing." But just now there is so much respect for the president shown by the democracy that nothing but kindest utterances come from the hearts of his supporters in their admiration for his independence and Jacksonian firmness of character!

THE WONDER

is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it. The reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO. Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. As I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

TAKE CARE.

City Marshal Norton will put on an extra large force of special policemen today, for duty during the stay of Barnum's circus. Our citizens will also do well to take the proper precaution for the safety of their houses as undoubtedly a large crowd of bummers will come with the show. We do not mean those connected with the circus, but the professional sneak thieves and bummers which usually follow a circus. No citizen should go away from home without seeing that doors and windows are securely fastened.

OLD PORTSMOUTH-BUILT SHIPS.

A letter received in this city not long since from Mr. C. W. Walker, formerly of Portsmouth but now engaged in the lumber business in Washington territory, makes mention of some of the Portsmouth-built ships of long ago which are still doing good service on the Pacific coast. One of these is the ship (now barque) Samoset, 633 tons register, built on Badger's island in 1847 by Fernald & Pettigrew; and another is the ship Dashing Wave, 1054 tons, built on the same blocks in 1853. The Dashing Wave is slightly hogged, but is about as fast a sailer as ever, and is noted for her quick passages; both the vessels named are owned by a sawmill company at Tacoma, Washington territory, and bid fair for many years of good service yet, provided the rocks do not get in their way. The ship Sagamore, 1341 tons, built in 1856 by Mr. Charles W. Stimson for Wm. P. Jones & Co., on the same blocks as the Dashing Wave and Samoset, is still a fine looking ship, her lines being apparently as true as the day she was launched; she was the last vessel built on Badger's island, and is owned in Port Gamble, W. T., and employed wholly in the transportation of lumber from Port Gamble to San Francisco. Another ship, the Eagle Speed, built on Badger's island by Mr. Stimson the same year as the Sagamore, and for the same owners, was launched just before the last-named vessel; she was lost on a coral reef in the China sea when three years old, and her dismantled hull was seen standing there by a Portsmouth shipmaster two years afterward.

AN OLD "BOSS" RENEWED.

Mr. George D. Shannon, democrat, of Kittery, has been appointed foreman teamster on the navy yard, in place of Cyrus H. Hobbs of Wells, republican, removed.

At the first view the appointment of Mr. Shannon may appear to be a violation of Secretary Whitney's recent order and letter of instructions to commandants of navy yards, relative to the examination by a board of officers of all candidates for foremanships, before their appointment; but it is all right, as Mr. Shannon was actually examined for the place somewhere near a quarter-century ago, by a board consisting of the then executive officer of the yard, the ordnance officer, naval constructor, civil engineer and three others, possibly the boatswain, gunner and carpenter of the yard—at any rate there were seven naval officers on the board, and probably the whole crowd, if furnished a yoke and a pair of unyoked cattle, would have been hopelessly demoralized in an attempt to yoke them up. But they duly passed Mr. Shannon as knowing which was the "nigh" and which the "off" side of an ox team, and he was duly appointed boss teamster, which position he filled for many years, being noted during that period for the stern manner in which he sat down on democrats and everything savoring of democracy.

In course of time he was superceded, whereupon he immediately became a riproaring democrat, and has ever since been such; and he is now rewarded for his self-sacrificing devotion to democratic principles by being re-appointed boss teamster on the yard, to the admiration and openly-expressed delight of those old democrats who were voting the ticket and working for the party during the years that Mr. Shannon was drawing logs and a good salary on the yard as a republican.

Democratic aspirants for foremanships on the yard can take courage in two directions from Mr. Shannon's reappointment, for it not only shows that faithful party workers are to be rewarded, but that when Sec. Whitney said he did not propose to appoint as bosses men who had worked (or dodged work) for years on the yards, he didn't mean it, his very first appointment after the issuing of the order being that of a gentleman thoroughly qualified by navy yard experience to make the smallest possible amount of work go around among the largest number of men.

A MILD PROTEST.

PORTSMOUTH, July 15th.

Mr. Editor: Should our business streets be used as a race-course by reckless young jockies? A lady crossing the head of Daniel street from Goodrich's bookstore to the opposite side, this afternoon, barely escaped being knocked down by a fast horse speeded at his swiftest gait by a young man who is supposed to know better, when sober. Twice or three times before had the pedestrians at that point been imposed upon and endangered that afternoon by the same ill-mannered youngster, in the same way. Is it to be counted one of the triumphs of our "reform" city government that owners of fast horses, provided they are democrats, can at will use our most crowded thoroughfares for speeding their horses without let or hindrance from the police, no matter to what peril women and children are thereby exposed? It is evident that we need new regulations, or a more efficient police to enforce the old ordinances against fast driving.

PEDESTRIAN.

AN OLD-TIME THREE-MASTED SCHOONER.

Fifteen or twenty years ago the appearance of a three-masted schooner on the river was regarded as a sure percursor of rain, and the weather prophets were undecided as to which was the more effective in causing a shower—a three-masted schooner sailing up the river, a load of ladders or baskets from York standing on the Parade, or mowing the grass in the "Universalist field." Of late years the three-masted schooners have become so numerous that the clerk of the weather takes no notice of them, and visits from four-masters are nothing unusual; and it is announced that a four-masted ship, the second largest sailing vessel ever built in the United States, is to be launched at Rockport, Me., about Aug. 1st, to be square rigged on the fore, main and mizzen masts, and to carry fore-and-aft sails on the jigger.

The earliest mention of a three-masted schooner that we know of is to be found in the records of the Portsmouth custom house—that is, we suppose it is to be found there, for in the Portsmouth Directory for 1839—40, published by the late Joseph M. Edmunds while he was collector of this port, there is in a list given of the vessels built in this district and recorded in this custom house, the name of the "Pan Matanzas, 153 tons, three-masted schooner," built at Dover (at Dover point, probably) by Reuben Currier in 1824. Capt. E. G. Adams remembers seeing this vessel lying at what is now Appledore wharf, and her rig was not only an oddity in those days, but would be now, as she carried a square topsail on each mast—was a sort of jackass barque, in fact, rather than what would now be called a three-masted schooner; but that was what she was officially styled at that time.

MARITIME NOTES.

The brickers D. K. Ham, Triton, Hattie Lewis and G. W. Raitt sailed for Boston on Wednesday.

The steam yacht Annie S., of Boston, arrived at this port and took a berth at Philbrick's wharf on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Willis Barnabee celebrated the 86th anniversary of her birthday on Wednesday, the 15th inst., at the residence of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. John T. French and wife. The venerable and estimable lady received many calls and congratulations, and numerous tokens of remembrance from friends.

A new crosswalk has been laid on Water street, at its junction with Gates street. It will be a great convenience to persons living in that vicinity.

On the afternoon of the 14th inst. Jos. P. Morse, Esq., started for the Shoals on his annual summer vacation at the Atlantic house, Smuttynose island, with Landlord Lemuel B. Caswell. Mr. Morse says the hotel on Smuttynose is his ideal of a resort at which to find real rest and recuperative pleasure, as one gets a good room, clean bed, and food in plenty and well cooked, for a small fraction of what it costs at most of the summer hotels, and at the same time he escapes all persecutions of fashion, flirts and flies. And he shows his faith by his works, for this is the twelfth consecutive vacation he has spent at Smuttynose.

It was reported on Wednesday, 15th inst., that the secretary of the navy had issued an order to the effect that no person above the age of fifty-five years is to be employed on any of the navy yards.

Mr. Chadwick, who is the present proprietor of the fine farm near the head of York river which formerly belonged to the estate of the late Col. Joshua W. Peirce, has planted very extensively this year.

The Boston & Maine railroad passenger department has been obliged to publish a second large edition of "List of summer excursions of the Boston & Maine railroad, and information regarding mountain and seashore resorts of New England and the Provinces." Copies can be obtained of General Passenger Agent D. J. Flanders.

NUMBER 5 CIGAR.

The Best 5 Cent Cigar in America.

H. F. GERRISH,

NO. 40 MARKET STREET.

For costiveness, biliousness, headache and all feverish habits use Dr. Seth Arnold's Bilious Pills. 25c.

At Atlanta, Ga., a gang of thieves stole an engine, and attempted to steal the pay car, containing $50,000. One of them was caught.

All housekeepers should use James Fyle's Pearline in their washing and save time and labor. It may be used without injury to the finest fabric. As a cleanser it is unsurpassed. Beware of imitations.

At Williamsburg, Ohio, July 14th, J. R. Erwin was shot by his father-in-law, Jacob Wickerman, a wealthy grain and lumber dealer.

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic, given the little one, will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

Calcutta had a two-cent earthquake on the 14th inst.

Life Preserver.

If you are losing your grip on life, try "Well's Health Renewer." Goes direct to weak spots.

The deaths from smallpox in Montreal average fifteen a week.

"Rough on Piles"

Cures piles or hemorrhoids, itching, protruding, bleeding, internal or other. Internal and external remedy in each package. Sure cure, 50c. Druggists.

Albert Ross, a young German of Jeffersonville, Ind., only two weeks married, shot himself and his wife July 14th.

Pretty Women.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity. Don't fail to try "Well's Health Renewer."

Much excitement was caused in England on the 15th inst. by reports that the Russian forces had advanced on the Zulfiecar pass in Afghanistan.

"Rough On Itch."

"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, ringworm, tetter, salt rheum, frosted feet, chilblains.

The Munster bank at Cork, Ireland, having branches at Dublin, Limerick and other places, has failed, with liabilities amounting to $8,500,000.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all —your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

John Durgin, proprietor of the Mechanics' hotel at Farmington, hanged himself from a beam in his father's barn at New Durham on the 15th inst.

Mothers, always use Dr. Seth Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial for children. A mild, safe tonic. 25c.

Staples' shoe factory at Seabrook was burned on the night of the 14th inst., with most of its contents. Loss $3000; partially insured.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, As a Cure for Marasmus in Children.

Wm. Farr, of Brooklyn, L. I., says: "On the recommendation of my physician, Dr. Wm. Vyse, I have given my boy who was dangerously ill from marasmus, your Emulsion, with excellent effect, and he is at present as hale and hearty as can be wished."

WELCOME TRADE MARK. SOAP

Never varies, does not contain one particle of the adulterations used to reduce the cost of

PURE GOODS

But DOES possess the FULL VALUE of every Legitimate Washing Quality, which gives it every advantage over Soaps of doubtful character; practically recommended by other manufacturers in imitating it. None should be deceived, however, as the word WELCOME and the Clasped Hands are stamped on every bar.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of house, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other material capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or premises over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal in the fish in any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury the same or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owners or occupiers—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

INTELLIGENT BIRDS.

Hunters Holding Their Own Against the Anglers.

"Dove shooting will be good this season," said a Montgomery street gun-dealer. "We are selling lots of ammunition, for the season opened, as I suppose you are aware, June 1st."

"Young larks are pretty good shooting, too," remarked a customer, "and there are lots of 'em about. I got two dozen yesterday.

"The lark is a cute bird," said a grave-looking gentleman with a scar on his face. "They know most everything. Now, when one starts out after the young birds, the old ones will go ahead of him, and sort of lure him away. I remember one day in particular. I was after young larks, and an old bird came and sat within ten yards of me. I waited for him to rise to shoot, but he would not stir, and let me get close enough to catch him in my hand. I call that pretty cute. I was so tickled that I let him go, and didn't have the heart to shoot another lark that day."

"The cock quail will do pretty much the same," said the first speaker. "I have had a cock quail go a few yards before the dog and entice him away from the brood, getting him off a few hundred yards before he rose."

"Yes, that's so," assented the man with the scar, "the quail is a very crafty bird. I have known 'em do things that one would scarcely believe unless they saw 'em. Sometimes I am afraid to tell them for fear people would say I was not truthful."

"Oh, go right ahead," said the gun-dealer, "we all know you here, and we are sure you wouldn't state anything that was not so."

The man with a scar took out a match and whittled it down to help him along in his story: "I was out one day last year," he said, "just at the beginning of the season. My breech-loader was out of gear, and I was shooting an old percussion gun. I came on a bevy of quail, and the dog was ahead, working steadily. They got up, I threw my gun to my shoulder, and just as I was going to fire a dark object flew between me and the game. It discomposed me for a second, but I pulled the trigger all the same. The gun did not go off, and when I examined it I saw that there were no caps on the nipples. This puzzled me, as I had capped them carefully, and the caps were exact fit. I put on a brace of caps, and moved along. The dog came again to a point, I flushed the beavy when the same thing occurred again. The dark object flew across me, and the hammers came down without exploding the piece. Then I knew how it was, and there was no more astonished man in the state of California that day. I can tell you," and the reconteur threw aside his match, picked out a fresh one, and whittled away in silence.

"Well, what was it?" asked the gun-dealer. "Why didn't the gun go off?"

"Just this reason," said the man with the scar. "That dark object sir, was the cock quail, and as he flew across me he picked the caps off the nipples of the gun," and he of the scar gazed defiently at his auditory. There was a painful silence for a few moments. The gun-dealer trifled nervously with the pistols in the show-case, and a man who was having a gun resighted brought it to his shoulders and looked at the scar-faced person across the barrels.

"He picked off the caps, did he?" said a little fellow in a dunting coat. "Well, that was pretty smart, sure enough. It reminds me of one day when I was duck shooting at Bridgeport. The birds flew pretty well in the forenoon, and I worked so hard that at lunch time I was fagged out. I took a nap after feeding, and when I woke up the duce a cartridge but six was left in the case by my side. Some fellow had been nipping my ammunition, I thought. I'll just sham sleep, and perhaps I'll catch him. I half closed my eyes, and in a few minutes I heard something stirring alongside me. I threw my arms out rapidly and caught the thief, and who do you think it was? You could not guess if you were to try for a month. Twas an old mallard drake, sir. He'd nipped the shells one by one and sunk 'em in a pond just behind me. And the worst of it was, he'd mistaken my whisky-flask for the powder-horn, and that was gone, too. Now I call that pretty clever for a mallard," and the small man took a cunning peep at his scar-faced rival.

"I'm sorry I ain't keeping an insane asylum," said the gun-dealer; "you fellows would be trotted out as the prize lunatics, but as I ain't and only selling powder and shot and guns and fishing tackle for a living, and as I don't want to have my place mobbed, I guess you'd better withdraw, and let me attend to business. But before you go, if you should happen on to any quail or duck like the ones you've been telling of send 'em in to me to stuff, please. And give me notice the next time you start in on the yarn lay, for I'd like to get some gun rage in my ears. Fishermen's lies, indeed! There ain't a fisherman in the state that you fellows can't beat out," and the man of guns retired behind his counter and hammered away vieiously at a dented barrel.—San Francisco Alta.

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES,

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, you will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.

MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.

ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

JNO. GASKILL.

HEBRON, THAYER COUNTY, PENN.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. Price: CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1.00; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

A Chance for a Fortune without Work.

Great curiosity was shown as to who was favored by Fortune in the Grand Semi-Annual (the 181st Monthly) Drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery at New Orleans, La., on Tuesday, (as days of Monday, June 16th. Gen'ls G. T. Beauregard of La., and Jubal A. Early of Va., kindly gave their personal attention to the entire distribution. Only 1 ticket—the winners more so than those holding blanks. The amount entered was over $522,000. Ticket No. 51,166 drew the Grand Capital Prize of $150,000. It was sold in tenths at $1 each. One was held by Frank Naud, Woodwards Gardens; one by R. W. Tucker, both of San Francisco, Cal.; two held in trust by the American Nat'l Bank of Nashville, Tenn., for Morgan Brown, Esq., a well-known lawyer here; one-tenth for Mrs. J. T. Dwyer, a saloon keeper, one for Bessie Lillenthal, a six-year-old granddaughter of a well-known citizen—Abraham Leffler—all of Savannah, Ga., the remainder went elsewhere. Ticket No. 86,354 drew the second Capital Prize of $50,000, sold in New York city to parties desirous of avoiding publicity. Ticket No. 4,726 drew the Third Capital Prize of $20,000, sold in tenths; one to Jno. Wynne of Detroit, Mich.; another to D. Fitzgerald of Mound City, Ills.; the remainder were held by parties in Boston, Mass., and Galveston, Texas. Tickets Nos. 49,632 and 52,995 the Fourth Prizes, drew each $10,000, sold in tenths also; one to A. A. Korn, Catasauqua, Penn.; one to John O'Brien of Boston, Mass.; two to C. F. Trube of Fort Worth, Texas; one to W. J. Byrne, Russellville, Ky.; one to L. M. Lee, Rock Hill, Texas; one to Charles Serveloh, Alameda, Cal.; other tenths were sold elsewhere. Tickets Nos. 19,017, 30,095, 62,501, 88,543 drew each $5,000, and were scattered all over the earth, etc., etc. The next drawing will be on Tuesday, August 11th, particulars of which full information can be had on an application to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., and let no one let a day pass by without resolving to be omitted from the chance of a fortune this hot weather without work.

CONSTIPATION, SICK HEADACHE.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspension of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Sickness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and open the outlets and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed.

No More "Vote-Factory" Business.

The Mail and Express of New York says "Secretary Whitney has given his pledge that all the republican foremen in the navy yard at Brooklyn will be discharged, and their places filled by workers in the democratic party in Kings county. Then the newly-appointed foremen will discharge all the republican laborers, and give their places to men who vote the democratic ticket. Secretary Whitney tells Constructor Pook that the applicants should not be asked questions which do not appertain to the positions which they are seeking to fill, and that in all cases democrats should be given the preference over republicans. All the republican foremen were summoned before Pook to-day and were informed that they would be allowed to compete, but that unless they stood several per cent higher than their democratic competitors they would not be reappointed, as Secretary Whitney had no confidence in their work in the past. There were about 150 applicants for the twelve foremanships in the navy yard. Among the recently appointed men is a son of O'Donovan Rossa."

The Bridgeport, Conn., Post tells of a man who ran away from his wife and children in East Bridgeport eighteen years ago, with another woman who had infatuated him. After a sojourn in Canada and a promiscuous knocking about in the world there and elsewhere, he returned July 10th in a very remorseful mood. When his identity was disclosed his family gave him a most cordial reception.

President Dawson of the New Haven, Conn., Water company, has given $1000 as the nucleus of a "bread fund" for New Haven. The income of the fund is to go to feed the hungry, no salary or compensation being allowed to anyone, and no one to be denied food on account of nationality, color or religion.

The body of Annie May, aged nineteen years, of Westport, Conn., was found in Saugatuck river on Tuesday, July 14th. She went fishing early Sunday morning with her brother, and during the day they became separated. He returned home at night, and finding his sister had not returned instituted a search, which was kept up until she was found. She had wandered a long distance from the place where she was last seen. On the river bank was a large string of fish which she had caught. The position of the body indicated that she fell headlong down the bank, and was drowned in about two feet of water.

A couple of enterprising thieves, Herbert H. Kenison and Frank M. Moody, have been overhauled at Cape Elizabeth, Me. They were living in a house built of lumber which they had stolen, and everything in the house they had stolen, including a lamp and stove from the Methodist church. The young men were sent to jail for sixty days each.

Niagara Falls park was formally opened to the world on the 15th inst. with imposing ceremonies, and hereafter the visitor to that great wonder will be free to breathe and even to look without being mercilessly bled by sharks. The cost of "opening up" the falls to the public has been about $1,500,000—borne by the state of New York.

THE MILITARY AUTHOR.

Grant's Literary Methods and Ambitions.

The New York Commercial Advertiser recently published some interesting gossip about Gen. Grant and his literary methods. It describes him as completely dominated by the desire to finish his book, that he may leave it as a legacy to his family. He sometimes wakes up in the night, calls for a light, jots down some remembrance, and then goes to sleep again. He stops in the midst of conversation to record a reminiscence.

Once on awakening, after a dose of morphia, and when his attendants thought that he could not stand, he walked over to a chair, sat down, and in his delirium said, as if in great surprise: "Well, this is funny. Here are my books, papers, pictures, and furniture, yet I am in Illinois. Harrison, how did I get out here? Someone has brought me here. I wonder what for. I am away from my book and no time should be lost in its completion. I suppose I shall have to make the best of it. But, by the way, Washburne and Morton are coming to dinner with me, and I have no clothes on."

"You are not in Illinois," said one of those present.

"That's all right; I know what I am doing. Can't I see the old barn? I know every inch of this ground."

It was the action of a mind weighted with one subject, and to this day the general does not know what occurred.

Not long ago in the middle of the night he awoke.

"Harrison, Harrison, light the gas!" he exclaimed.

The man servant did so.

"Bring me the paper and pencil."

They were brought; he jotted down an idea, and then ordered the lights to be extinguished. He was recently asked:

"What about the story of the surrender of Gen. Lee's sword?"

"I didn't take his sword," said the general, "because I didn't think it would be right. Nothing was said or thought of it."

"But it is usual to take the sword, isn't it?"

"Yes; but I wouldn't do it in that case."

To the writer of this article the general said in the course of conversation: "I have read a good deal in my life, but I know of no grander man than Gen. Robert E. Lee."

His usual habit is to rise early, breakfast at 8 o'clock, and get to work by 9 or 9:30 o'clock. He works steadily until 12 or 1 o'clock, and then takes luncheon. Until recently he had a short ride in the park almost daily. Later in the afternoon he sometimes works for two hours again, and sometimes even at night for a little while.

He writes in his own room, on the first floor above the parlor. His writing table—an ordinary card-table—is set about the middle of the room. He sits with his back to the bay-window at East Sixty-sixth street. At his right hand is the bureau, and further on the fireplace. On the opposite side is his bed. He wears slippers, trousers, vest, and dressing-gown. On his head he has a black silk cap, or a mixed worsted one, as he is subject to attacks of neuralgia. He uses a large, old-fashioned pair of hard rubber spectacles. He generally writes with a lead pencil on common manilla paper. The general composes with great rapidity, and but seldom interlines. When trying to express an idea just right he often gets up and walks around the room, although his locomotion is strained and slow, his leg still being lame. It is thought by some that the leg which was injured when he fell on the slippery pavement was broken and wrongly set.

In an adjoining room there is a stenographer, to whom, when the general wishes to record an idea quickly, he dictates, the stenographer taking it down. When dictating the general talks very rapidly, but the swelling on the neck is so large that it interferes considerably with the clearness of his speech.

The general keeps by his side many records from the war department at Washington, and in handling them Col. Fred is of great service to his father. The general has a great deal of confidence in the ability of the colonel. He said some time ago: "For an ordinary looking man Fred is the best informed, particularly on military subjects. I ever saw. When he was in Europe he showed a great acquaintance with the history of the countries we visited."

It was particularly unfortunate, says the writer, that Gen. Badeau, when Gen. Grant was thought to be dying, should have allowed the impression to exist that he, in great part, was the author of the book. The family was incensed at the report. Col. Fred Grant showed the manuscript to a friend familiar with Gen. Grant's writing, and asked whose it was. The gentleman quickly responded: "It is Gen. Grant's." It is a significant fact that nothing more is to be heard of Gen. Badeau. He has left the house, bag and baggage, and has not been in it for some time.

When the book was completed Gen. Grant was much delighted. He took it to Mrs. Grant, and said:

"Here is your book. It's all done. It's the only legacy I have to leave you or my family."

He invariably refers to the book now as Mrs. Grant's. The first volume of the book will appear in December, the second in March. It has already over three hundred thousand subscribers, which insures a handsome income to the family.

At present the Rothschild family control the quicksilver supply of the world, but a new mine has now been found at Schuppiastena, near Belgrade. There are only a few quicksilver mines known, the two largest being in Spain and California. Both are owned by the house of Rothschild, who only permit a supply, but never a glut of the market to issue from their mines, and thus they control an immense and very profitable monopoly. The yearly consumption is cut down to 100,000 bottles, the larger part of which comes from California, while Spain furnishes about 10,000 bottles.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it. The reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. All I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

THE WEATHER.

For New England To-day:

Warm, fair weather, followed by lower temperature and local rains.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 62 degrees above zero.

Sky clear.

THE CIRCUS.

The great Barnum, Bailey & Hutchinson circus and menagerie arrived as per announcement on Thursday morning, gave entertainments in the afternoon and evening of that day, and departed for other fields. The management had promised the best show ever given here in the circus line, and the performance fully justified the promise.

Everything about the immense show goes on like clockwork, as was shown in the unloading of the chariots and cages from the cars; this job ordinarily is only accomplished with the aid of much noise and profanity, but in this instance there was no swearing to attract notice, and but few orders given, each man seeming to know just what he had to do, and doing it with a will.

The street parade was hardly so extensive as the same show has made here before, but it was the best we ever saw; it was worth a half-dollar to look at so many horses without a mean one among them, and seventeen elephants, with camels, dromedaries, a harnessed zebra, open cages of lions, tigers, bears, leopards, and panthers, a polar bear, hippopotamus, sea lions, etc., gave the throngs on the street such an entertainment as is rarely given gratis.

The huge tent in the Hall field must have contained between 10,000 and 12,000 people when the afternoon performance commenced at two o'clock, and for two hours there was hardly an instant's pause between the acts in the two rings, and on the elevated stage, sixty feet by eighty, between them. It is not easy to particularize the best points of the show, where all was so good; but we may mention the snake charming Hindoo girl, the tight-wire dancer, the mid-air contortionist and the trapeze performer as very remarkable, the riding as daring and graceful, the performances of the drilled horses and elephants as wonderful, the races as lively and exciting, and the whole entertainment as a bewilderingly rapid succession of pleasing novelties. The animals of the large and costly collection are choice specimens of their kind, and the cages clean; and as a whole, the show is undoubtedly the best that the great showman's name has ever been connected with.

A CONTEMPTIBLE ACT.

Some miserble sneak or sneaks on Wednesday night of this week set adrift all the boats of the Electric Boat Co., twelve in number, Capt. Eastman's small sailboat and Mr. Jas. P. Bartlett's row-boat, from Commercial wharf, and cut the lines of the floating stage. The boats all went up the river, the sailboat Ripple bringing up against Portsmouth bridge, and the rest being recovered at different points above; the stage did not float out of the dock. Four boats were set adrift from Union wharf, and went down the river to Newcastle, where they were all secured. We do not know that there are any suspicions as to the author of this cowardly outrage.

ROBBERY.

Mayor Page's daughter while watching the circus procession, Thursday morning, missed her watch, and it was reported as having probably been stolen; but later, on opening her sunshade, the watch was found in it, all right.

Mayor Page's house was really entered by thieves on Thursday, during the absence of all the inmates, and robbed of clothing, silver ware and jewelry. Entrance was effected through a cellar window, the crime being probably committed by local thieves.

DRUNKEN ROW.

There was a drunken row in White's saloon on Fleet street, Thursday afternoon, and a man named Percival Downing, living in Eliot, near the Berwick line, was thrown out of the door into the street, and was followed out and kicked in such a manner as to break one leg just above ankle. He was taken to the police station, where the leg was set by Dr. Parsons of this city and Dr. Johnson of Kittery. The person who kicked him is said to be known.

THE NEW TELEGRAPH VENTURE.

The belief which has been—and is—widely entertained, to the effect that the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph company is now engaged in extending its lines through southern Maine and New Hampshire, with the further intention of covering the whole of New England as fast as wires can be expediently laid, is reported to be incorrect.

From an article in the Boston Globe we learn that while in one respect the Baltimore & Ohio company is connected with the new venture, it is, nevertheless, entirely separate from the corporation which bears the name of the Atlantic Telegraph company, and which is now engaged in erecting its lines at various points in the above-named states. The new Atlantic Telegraph company, which is owned by Boston and New York capitalists, will not extend its wires beyond New England. It does not intend to construct a line or maintain an office which will not return a handsome profit, but will only operate offices at the proven profitable centres, in most places establishing "commission" offices which are to be operated by local agents at their own expense, the company receiving a share of the gross receipts. Its lines will include the cities of Cambridge, Lowell, Lynn, Somerville, Woburn, Lawrence and Haverhill, Mass., while Exeter, Dover, Portsmouth, Nashua, Manchester, Concord, Biddeford, Saco and Portland will be included in the Maine-New Hampshire circuit. Besides the regular all-the-year business in the leading cities and towns, lines are to be run from Nahant, Swampscott and Lynn, Mass., York beach, Me., Portsmouth, (the Wentworth,) Hampton, Rye beach, Isles of Shoals, Straw's point, Rye, Wells, Old Orchard and Ferry beaches and Biddeford Pool.

The new company is incorporated under the laws of Maine and New Hampshire, with a capital of $100,000. While it has been started purely as a local institution, an important alliance has been entered upon with the Baltimore & Ohio company. This exclusive contract alliance is for ten years, and provides for renewals; the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph system agrees not to construct a line to points covered by the Atlantic Telegraph company, and to provide it a terminal office or offices in Boston, free of charge. All tolls on messages, commercial, press or market reports emanating and ending at offices on the lines of the Atlantic Telegraph company, and all cash received for messages originating on the Atlantic line destined to points all over the United States reached by the great Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph system are to be retained by the Atlantic Telegraph company. On press, market and stock reports, originating on either line and exchanged with the other, an equal division of the profits is made.

The Atlantic company has organized as follows: President, John W. Deering; treasurer, John J. Donovan; superintendent, Edward A. Leslie; directors, John J. Donovan, ex-mayor of Lowell, Mass.; Nathan D. Pratt, city solicitor of Lowell, Mass.; Edward A. Leslie, superintendent Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph company; Thomas G. Gerrish, Jr., Lowell, Mass.; Payson Tucker, vice president Maine Central railroad, Portland, Me.; George F. Owens, ex-mayor of Saco, Me.; William S. Dennett, superintendent Saco Water Power Company, Saco, Me.; John W. Deering, mayor of Portland, Me.; Stephen I. Abbott, manager Waterville Manufacturing company, Waterville, Me.; Parker C. Chandler, counsel Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph company; Francis Jewett, ex-mayor of Lowell, Mass.; George P. Westcott, ex-mayor of Portland, Me.; Weston Thompson, attorney at law, Brunswick, Me.

Now that the circus has come and gone we can look forward to the Grand Kirmes of the 22d inst., advertised elsewhere. It is to be upon the Barnumian scale, employing between 75 and 100 ladies and gentlemen to carry its large projects into effect.

The brick schooners John Mettler, Satellite and Gold Hunter, and sloop Stephen Orr, arrived from Boston on the 16th inst., light, and the Estella sailed for Boston the same day with a load of bricks.

The semi-annual report of the Direct United States Cable company, whose station in this countrys at Rye beach, was made public on the 15th inst. in London, and shows that the receipts for the first six months of the present year have been £12,467 less than they were during the corresponding period in 1884. The falling off is owing to a reduction in traffic.

George E. Hammond of Eliot on Thursday assumed the duties of chief clerk in the departmedt of yards and docks at the navy yard, vice Wm. H. Gilman of Dover, resigned.

Charles C. Green, postmaster at Hampton Falls, recently died at the age of thirty-five years. He had for many years been connected with the postoffice and the grocery business at Hampton Falls, was a large buyer of apples for the Boston market, and for several years was town clerk.

A desperate fight between the strikers and police occurred at Cleveland on the 15th. Six policemen were badly cut, and from thirty to fifty of the strikers were knocked senseless by the clubs of the police; several of the wounded strikers will die.

H. F. GERRISH,

NO. 40 MARKET STREET.

For costiveness, biliousness, headache and all feverish habits use Dr. Seth Arnold's Bilious Pills. 25c.

At Pittsburg, Pa., July 15th, in a fight between drivers of race horses, James Kelly, driver of "Richball," was shot dead by John Bunch, a colored hostler of Louisville, Ky.

All housekeepers should use James Pyle's Pearline in their washing and save time and labor. It may be used without injury to the finest fabric. As a cleanser it is unsurpassed. Beware of imitations.

Hon. John S. Wise has been nominated for governor of Virginiu by the republicans.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

It is stated that President Noah Porter, of Yale college, is superintending the revision of Webster's Dictionary which, for some time, has been going on in New Haven.

"Rough on Catarrh"

Corrects offensive odors at once. Complete cure of even worst chronic cases, also unequalled as gargle for diphtheria, sore throat, foul breath. 50c.

Dr. Milton J. Roberts of New York, who invented the wonderful little saw which, run by electricity, is used for operations where diseased bones have to be cut into, and is capable of making 12,000 revolutions a minute, says he does not intend to patent it.

The Hope of the Nation.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

The World's Exposition plant, buildings and machinery have been sold at auction at New Orleans for $175,000. They were bid in by Mr. Newman, but were probably purchased for the new exposition company.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Stinging, irritation, inflammation, all kidney and urinary complaints, cured by "Buchu-Paiba." $1.

Nothing has yet been definitely arranged by the present English government for arbitration to determine whether the Russian attack on Penjdeh was consistent with Russian promises previously made to England.

"Water Bugs, Roaches."

"Rough on Rats" clears them out, also beetles, ants, insects, rats and mice, 15 and 25c. boxes.

Daniel C. King, seventy years old, for several years janitor of the Centennial block, Portland, Me., was found dead on a bed in the block, July 10th. In one hand there was a revolver, and an ugly-looking bullet-hole in the temple. He had been drinking for two or three days.

He Told The Truth !

I was troubled with liver complaint for years, and suffered terribly. Lake the druggist advised me to take Sulphur Bitters. I took three bottles and now I am a well man.—L. Fenner, Waterbury, Conn.

Gen. Cotton of Damariscotta Mills, Me., had been killing crows with strychnine placed in his cornfield the other day, and in removing one of the depredators which was not quite dead, got a blow from its beak on the back of one hand, since which time the hand has swollen badly, making a very dangerous wound.

Mothers, always use Dr. Seth Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial for children. A mild, safe tonic. 25c.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

ELY'S

CATARRH CREAM BALM

Cleanses the Head. Allays Inflammation. Heals Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste, Hearing and Smell. A Quick Relief. A Positive Cure.

HAY-FEVER CREAM BALM

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 15. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

FOR THE FARMER.

Some Timely Suggestions for Raisers of Horses, Cattle and Sheep as to Pastures.

Shying One of the Most Dangerous Disabilities of the Horse—How to Distinguish Butterine.

WHAT A PASTURE SHOULD BE.

In most parts of the world the pasture is the main reliance of persons who keep cattle and sheep, as well as young horses. With many these animals only pay their way when they are turned out to grass. They do not gain sufficiently during the winter to pay the cost of the food they eat and the care they require. Few farmers produce milk during the winter at profit. Few dairy farmers expect to make money except during the season when the feed in the pastures is good. The pasture is the sanitarium for all kinds of farm animals that are out of condition. A horse that has been losing flesh all winter is expected "to pick up" as soon as it is turned into the pasture. The expectations are generally realized. Animals that have recently dropped young will recover their strength after they have been in a good pasture a few weeks. In this climate lambs are very likely to die if they come before the grass starts in the spring. It seems to be necessary for making milk, which is their first food. Lambs born in April and May generally live and do well. The pasture, if it is a good one, combines everything that is essential for securing health and a steady gain in weight. It is the main source of wealth to the average farmer.

Still the average farmer neglects his pasture more than he does any other portion of his place. He devotes the poorest land to the production of grass that is to be eaten in its green state. He takes little or no pains to improve it. He allows the best grasses to disappear, and sows no seed with a view of replacing them. He allows weeds and bushes to spring up and multiply. He gives no attention to anything about it except the fence. He often expresses surprise that his pasture does not carry as much stock as it did when he first inclosed it. That its feeding capacity has declined should be no marvel to him. He has not exerted himself to keep up the fertility of the soil, to introduce new forage plants, and to prevent the disappearance of old ones. The dung dropped by cattle during the day has remained to enrich the land, but it has generally accumulated in the places where the animals congregate when they are not feeding, and it has never been scattered as it should have been. The droppings of the cattle at night, when they are in the shed near the barn, have been hauled into cultivated fields. A decline in productiveness might reasonably be expected under such circumstances.

A large growth of grass and clover can not be expected from land that is in a poor mechanical condition or which is lacking in the elements of fertility. This is not expected in a meadow, and should not be in a pasture. Land that will not produce a good swath of mown grass the 1st of July, if stock is kept off from it, will not afford good pasture during any month of the year. A pasture should produce as much grass as a field that is mown for the purpose of securing the winter feed for cattle. The plants should be as vigorous and in much greater variety. A tolerable extensive pasture should contain red, white, and Swedish clover. It should also contain the grasses usually grown in meadows and several others that are not profitable to raise for hay chiefly on account of the difficulty in cutting and curing them. A good grass for hay is one like timothy, which matures at a definite time. Timothy is a good pasture grass, but it can not be depended on during the entire season. Some grasses are wanted that afford food earlier than timothy, and some that will afford food much later. The greater the variety of grass and clover the more constant will be the supply of food.

Animals in a pasture need to drink as well as to eat. They do not require a variety of beverages as they do of foods, but they require an abundance of water, and it is essential that it be pure and fresh. Mineral substances, like lime, are not objectional in drinking water for stock, but vegetable and animal impurities are highly injurious. It is certainly advisable to have water accessible to stock in more than one place if the pasture is a large one. Many animals will suffer from thirst on a very warm day in summer before they will travel half a mile to obtain water. To insure comfort, shade should be provided in every pasture. Trees should be planted in clusters in several places, so that animals of different kinds and ages can have retreats by themselves. There are several varieties of trees that make a very rapid growth on prairie soils, and they should be planted in clusters in every new pasture. It is easy to protect them while they are young by the use of barbed wire. In affording protection from the sun while the trees are growing temporary sheds can be erected at a trifling cost. Strong posts can be placed at the corners. Supports for the frame of the roof can be made of saplings and the covering made of straw or wild grass.

SHYING HORSES.

One of the most dangerous disabilities of the horse, especially if it be a saddle-horse, is the act of shying, too often produced by punishing the green young horse for "getting up" at unused sights. The habit may at length become a dangerous vice. Any horse is liable to shy. Instead of being punished for it, he should be led to familiarize himself with sights and sounds near to him, by the only senses he can use. These are the senses of touch, sight, and hearing. A horse terrified at the sound of artillery, brass bands, or other noises, if made to stand as still as possible while these sounds are continued, soon loses the senses of fear and curiosity is excited. Beating only increases the fright. Most horses will jump the first time a sheet of paper is blown under their feet. Whipping will cause them to become frantic at a recurrence, more from the fear of the lash than the paper itself. The better plan is to let them see the paper until instinct prompts them to approach the object. A horse never gets frightened at any object once he is used to it. If he can be made to approach a locomotive and place his nose against it, however long it may take, the locomotive being at rest, he will at length wish to do so, and will thereafter regard it with indifference. Who has not seen the child "shy around" some suspicious object, and at length approach it, if alone. It is the same with the young horse.

Shying in the horse, however, is often the result of near-sightedness. If suspected, a critical examination should be made, for if the disability lies in the formation of the eye the animal is not fit for saddle use, nor use in single harness. Driven double, however, he soon comes to rely on his mate, and the disability is not serious. Above all, a horse inclined in the least to shy should never be intrusted to a lady unless she be a thoroughly accomplished horsewoman.

DISTINGUISH BUTTERINE.

The following practical measure is given by John Horsley in the Chemical News: This method enables anyone to put it into practice. Have ready two small but wide-mouthed glass test-tubes, about four inches high, with feet attached. Into one put a piece of butterine or oleo-margarine (about the size of a hazel-nut), and cork this tube; next take one in each hand at the bottom; in ten minutes the butterine melts into a clear oily fluid by the mere heat of the blood (98 degrees F.) Pure butter takes twice as long to melt as butterine, and even then is not so clear and oily as butterine, which is a noteworthy difference between them; this is the physical test. For the chemical test, after the tubes have stood to cool for a few minutes pour on ether to about one-third of the tube and cork well. Agitate the tubes—one in each hand—clasping them well. The butterine readily dissolves into a clear liquor, which the addition thereto of twenty or thirty drops of spirit of wine does not disturb or precipitate; but a similar experiment with pure butter produces a voluminous white precipitate. Hereby we can easily distinguish one from the other. Even butter adulterated with a portion of oleo-margarine or butterine may be detected by a precipitate being formed.

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.
MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others.

E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.
ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, until I tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

"Keep the Rascals Out."

It is said that President Cleveland believes in civil service reform. That he is a non-partisan president and holds to the view that his party will be strengthened by giving the country an honest, safe and conservative administration. He is firm in these convictions, and will not be argued out of his views in this respect. But with all his caution he often gets badly taken in, as was the case in a removal of a union soldier in Illinois to make room for one of the reforming democrats. It appears that a week or two ago John Warner was appointed postmaster at Peoria, Ill. The office is one of the most important in the state. It pays $3,000 a year. It is regarded by the politicians of the state as one of the great federal prizes. There was a sharp competition for the place. A great many reputable democrats contended for it. The worst man, it seems, won. John Warner, according to papers received, was indicted in 1879 by the grand jury for the southern district of Illinois, sitting at Springfield, for conspiring to defraud the government in August, 1874, by removing internal revenue stamps from casks and packages of distilled spirits, and using such stamps again on other casks and packages. To this indictment Warner pleaded, in January, 1880, the statute of limitations. He escaped punishment. Another part of his record is that he was dismissed from the military service in March, 1863, as the records of the adjutant-general's office show, for drawing more rations than there were men in his company, after swearing to the correctness of his requisitions. Authenticated documents regarding these and other transactions have been received in Washington, and will be placed before the senate next winter. It is not likely that Mr. Warner will be confirmed, for the very good reason that the president will not desire to have him kept in office.

Ai Varney, Newmarket, tailor's pressing-machine.

Richard J. P. Goodwin, Manchester, pneumatic despatch and speaking tube system.

Herman F. Straw, Manchester, adjustable reed for warping machines.

The whole number of patents granted to citizens of the United States for the week ending July 14th was 143.

Our New York Letter.

The fact that the belle of 1885 wears cotton lace and is proud of it, while her grandmother would have considered the same thing a family disgrace, might to the superficial, prove degeneracy. Miss Cleveland, however, is teaching us to go down to the root of things, and as a result of digging, we find that cotton lace has come up, not we gone down. Evolution is responsible for the whole thing, and the pretty fabric of to-day is as superior to the rude weavings of years ago as man to the presumable missing link. With that missing link, moreover, is laid aside the term "cotton" or the equally frowned upon word "imitation." "Machine made" is the only allowable epithet, and even that we hear but seldom. "Lace" is applied with broad sweep in attire, and with the narrowing domain of "real lace" comes a more infrequent application of the phrase. And think not, my friends, that I dwell on an untimely topic. Take your seat on the piazza of some watering place hotel and you will readily discover why the subject of lace becomes pertinent. It is

THE FACT OF THE SEASON,

And while the subject of wool laces has been discussed, it has remained for these latter day exhibitions to show us what charming capabilities are made manifest in white cotton laces, forming as they now do, a favorite finish on silk, satin or wool dresses. Not the novelty only, but the real prettiness of the idea has captivated, and it is the rage. Take, for example, a crimson silk, where the round or pointed skirt draperies are trimmed by wide, white lace, which in fellowship touches lace set on below in flounces. One can easily see the softened effect, while corsage and sleeves are touched up in keeping. Take any colored silk or satin, arrange your lace upon it, and so far as dress goes, you may be a walking bit of poetry. Poetry and the practical, moreover, go hand in hand, since I know not what vamping up can be done by veilings of white lace over partly worn places. India silk bestrewn by floral patterns, silks, whether checked or stripped, come in for their share of lace adornment, but less room, of course, is given here for a free application of lace than where the material is plain. Wools have their full share of such trimming, and time would fail me to tell of the ways in which white lace is set on wool costumes, showing forth chiefly perhaps, on dark ones that they bring into relief.

LIGHT-COLORED COSTUMES,

However, are in much more favor than dark ones, and light-weight fabrics than the heavy. Both, to a certain extent, truisms during every summer, but especially true this season. Where are the rich silks and brocades of the usual Saratoga and Newport months? Displayed by some few dowagers, but almost nowhere so far as young matrons and young unmarried ladies are concerned, while even the first named class incline to soft, thin surahs, India silks of comparative gossamer texture, or China silks, captivating by their delicacy. Thus, in a recent watering place outfit, furnished by Lord & Taylor, there were, among other dresses, two India silks, two China crapes, two surahs, and but one satin united with brocade. Leading

SHADE HATS

Are of coarse, yellow straw, entirely covered by rows of white lace inside and outside, while on a crown of moderate elevation is placed a huge bow of colored ribbon. Lace tipped with blue, yellow, pale pink or red, is used for hats to match dresses of like character, while mull, both white and colored, is gathered on frames and finished with mull or ribbon bows. People who go to cheap resorts, choose rough and ready straws with simple winding around and front bow of mull, but the most expensive shade hats are of fine leghorn elaborately trimmed by ostrich plumes and flowers.

The supply at Watertown light from Maine and Massachusetts, and the total of arrivals for the week was light. Grass-fed cattle will soon put in an appearance, but it is feared they will come too numerous for the demand.

Milch Cows—The demand for cows was quiet and but few required. Sales from $35 @ $55 mostly.

The Sheep and Lamb Market—There is no improvement in the market from last week. The disposals were early and ranged on sheep from 2½ @ 5½ and on lambs from 6 @ 7½c.

Fat hogs in larger supply and no change in price.

Veal Calves—The supply decreasing and full prices obtained.

Live Poultry—Receipts two tons; mixed lots at 12c. chickens 20c ⅋ lb.

John Roach has written Secretary Whitney that he desires a full interchange of views with the secretary concerning the Dolphin business. John is as shrewd as ever. A personal interview with a smack of the blarney is worth more to the contractor just now than a dozen letters from Mr. Chandler. Mr. Rosch knows how public men can be reached, however high up they may pose.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it, the reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO. Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. Any I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

A. L. HINCKLEY,

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1879.

R. H. EDDY, ESQ.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, July 17th.

James Gilchrist, alias "Scotty," for drunkenness was fined $5, costs $6.90, and will board the amount out in jail.

THE CONSTELLATION ARRIVED.

The U. S. S. Constellation, attached to the naval academy as a practice-ship, arrived in the lower harbor on Friday, and exchanged salutes with the navy yard. Her officers are as follows:

Comdr. Charles L. Huntington, commanding; Lieut. Royal R. Ingersoll, executive officer; Lieut. George W. Tyler, navigating officer; Lieutenants, Edward B. Barry, John W. Danenhower, Henry C. Gearing; Ensigns, John G. Quimby, Charles S. McClain, Roy C. Smith; Surgeon, George A. Bright; Passed Asst. Surgeon, John W. Steele; Paymaster, J. Porter Loomis; Chaplain, Adam A. McAllister; Pay Clerk, T. D. Davidson, Jr.

The Constellation has 132 naval cadets from the academy on board, and is making her annual summer practice cruise.

MARITIME NOTES.

The brickers D. K. Ham, Hattie Lewis, Triton and G. W. Raitt arrived at Boston on the 16th inst. from this port. On the 17th the J. Chester Wood, from Boston, light, and the British schooners Maud Fye and F. H. Reed, both from Moncton, New Brunswick, with ties to the Boston & Maine railroad, arrived at this port.

The steamer Empire State started from Boston for the Isles of Shoals with an excursion party on the 16th inst., but was disabled by striking a floating log with one of her wheels, and was towed back.

The fishing schooner Flying Dart, of this port, arrived at Gloucester on the 14th inst. from Banquereau, and the Mary S. Hontvet arrived at the same port on the 15th from a bank halibuting trip.

The schooner Agnes E. Downs, Levi Downs master, came in on the 17th inst. from a trip after mackerel, bringing in a large fare. She will remain here several days, retouching her paint and having some work done on her sails, before going out again.

The Manchester Union of last Thursday, in its Portsmouth correspondence says: "The Galena is still lying at the wharf at the navy yard, and will probably be repaired here." The Galena arrived in the lower harbor in the latter part of June, and was still there up to Friday evening, not having been near the navy yard at all.

The schooner "Clara S.," of Boston, before reported as having foundered on the passage from Boston to a port in eastern Maine, went down off Boon island in fifteen fathoms of water. The cause of the leak is unknown, but it is supposed to have been caused by jibing her, thus starting some of the oakum between the planks. The vessel went down bow first, the men narrowly escaping drowning, being picked up by whaling steamer Dolphin. The lost schooner was formerly a woodboat at St. John, New Brunswick, but was recently purchased by the master, Capt. George Lockhart. The other men on board were Edward Ferguson, mate, Peter Carlton, cook, N. J. Dolan and Thomas Smith, seamen.

The steamer Perkiomen, belonging to the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., was sunk with a cargo of 1230 tons of coal on the night of the 15th inst., by collision with the schooner Abbie C. Stubbs. The steamer went down near the whistling buoy off Chatham, Mass., in seven fathoms of water, and is a total loss. The schooner was beached near Monomoy life-saving station, but has since been got afloat. The Perkiomen was well known at this port, having landed thousands of tons of coal at Concord railroad wharf in years past.

It is long since we have seen a position better filled than that of press agent of the mammoth circus and menagerie of Barnum, Bailey & Hutchinson. Mr. F. L. Perley exactly fits into that place, and the representatives of the local papers will not soon forget his many courteous attentions, so quietly and unobtrusively rendered.

The Kirmes which is advertised for Wednesday evening is a "fair of all nations," presenting Swiss, Italian, Dutch, Spanish and Gipsey booths, with the wares of those nations, attended by ladies elegantly costumed according to the custom of the various countries. A band of music will be furnished, with countless and novel attractions, and rare and beautiful articles will be for sale.

There have been over three hundred and twenty thousand patents issued by the United States patent office. Very many of the inventions for which patents have been issued, have proved unremunerative to the inventors; but the genius who can produce a device for an adjustable cushion to fit a narrow seat in a circus tent, so that comfort as well as enjoyment shall be the lot of spectators, has a fortune in waiting for him.

Hon. D. G. Rollins, surrogate of New York city, is paying a visit to his relatives in Great Falls. He spent the 4th with his former law partner, Hon. Thomas Harland, at the Stedman cottage at Newcastle, a circumstance that possibly suggested the unfounded statement in the Boston Post that he had "engaged the Stedman cottage for the season."

Notwithstanding the great crowd of people in the city on the day that Barnum, Bailey & Hutchinson's circus was here, there was no epidemic of pocket-picking, and only a couple of cases of housebreaking, and those probably the achievements of local talent. This immunity is no doubt largely due to the fact that one of the sharpest of Pinkerton's detectives, a man who is "on" to most of the "crooks" of the Middle and Eastern states, travels with the show all the time, and the "crooks" know it.

John F. Green, who keeps a saloon on Daniel street, stabbed himself in the left breast on the 15th inst., inflicting a slight wound.

It is reported that Mr. William Ward will start the last of next week on a two months trip to England, sailing on the steamer Samaria, of the Cunard line, for Liverpool. Also that Hon. F. Jones will take a tour of several months in Europe, for his health, later in the season.

Some of the colored people of the city had a picnic at Sagamore on Friday.

The house of Foxwell C. Staples, on Austin street, was entered on "circus day," and an overcoat and $27 in money stolen.

John P. Payson, Esq., who twenty-six years ago left his school in Portsmouth to take the position of principal of the Williams school in Chelsea, Mass., has just resigned that position, after a service of over a quarter century, that has received a high encomium from the committee. Mr. Payson has always enjoyed an excellent reputation as a teacher, and his record at Chelsea is one of extraordinary faithfulness and success.

The White Mountain express train due here from Boston at 3:10 P. M. on Friday was obliged to stop for twelve minutes at Newburyport, by reason of the breaking of a brake-rod on the forward truck of the Pullman palace car Hebe. The train reached this city only five minutes late. The passengers in the parlor car heard an unpleasant sound just west of Newburyport, which was caused by the brake striking the ties as the car was drawn along.

South Parish, (Unitarian,) State street. Service 10:30 A. M. Sunday school at 3:00 P. M. Rev. Alfred Gooding, pastor.

Rev. J. D. Waldron will preach in the Middle street Baptist church on Sunday morning; in the evening Rev. Dr. Alden will officiate.

Rev. Mr. Bishop, of New Jersey, will preach in the Christian church on Sunday.

Daniel C. Goodwin, dealer in general merchandise at Cape Neddick, York, has been attached. He is stated to owe $4000, with nominal assets of $2000.

Orders were received at the Brooklyn navy yard from Washington on the 15th inst. to take the spars and rigging from the Dolphin. The spars and rigging belong to the government. A squad of men were sent out, but before they had begun work orders were received from Washington countermanding the first, and the Dolphin's top-hamper was undisturbed.

H. F. GERRISH,

NO. 40 MARKET STREET.

For costiveness, biliousness, headache and all feverish habits use Dr. Seth Arnold's Bilious Pills. 25c.

Augustus Erwin attempted to murder his wife in New York on the 15th, and then shot himself. He will probably die, and she will recover.

All housekeepers should use James Fyle's Pearline in their washing and save time and labor. It may be used without injury to the finest fabric. As a cleanser it is unsurpassed. Beware of imitations.

At the Hampton coal mines in Pennsylvania, on Tuesday night, 14th inst., some malicious persons started twelve loaded coal cars down the incline, six hundred feet in length, causing a week's suspension of work at the mines, and a loss of $2000 in cars.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

The Newsdealers' & Stationers' National Convention at Philadelphia, Pa., on the 15th inst., denounced the extortionate system of the American News Company, and elected officers headed by C. W. Zieber of Philadelphia as president, and Charles W. Drake of Boston as first vice president.

"Rough on Catarrh"

Corrects offensive odors at once. Complete cure of even worst chronic cases, also unequalled as gargle for diphtheria, sore throat, foul breath. 50c.

At Lowell, Mass., July 15th, Edward Cull, an insane man, escaped from the city farm, went to his home, and committed a fatal assault on his wife with an axe.

The Hope of the Nation.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

The British yacht Genesta arrived in New York on the 16th inst.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Stinging, irritation, inflammation, all kidney and urinary complaints, cured by "Buchu-Paiba." $1.

Wm. Tickenor and Agnes Rae, affianced lovers, and John Hedden, were knocked overboard by the jibing of a yacht's boom at Patchogue, L. I., July 15th, and all drowned. The girl was seventeen years old, and daughter of a wealthy manufacturer.

"Water Bugs, Roaches."

"Rough on Rats" clears them out, also beetles, ants, insects, rats and mice, 15 and 25c. boxes.

Two sons of Ambrose Martin, while wading along the beach of Flushing bay, L. I., July 15th, were attacked by an alligator nearly four feet in length. One of the boys narrowly escaped being bitten. Their father arrived and killed the alligator. How the reptile came there is a mystery.

He Told The Truth !

I was troubled with liver complaint for years, and suffered terribly. Lake the druggist advised me to take Sulphur Bitters. I took three bottles and now I am a well man.—L. Fenner, Waterbury, Conn.

A despatch of the 15th inst. from Panama says the rebels lost 300 men in killed, wounded and prisoners in the battle at Temolameque; three generals and a colonel were killed, from which it would appear that the rebel forces are largely composed of generals and colonels.

Mothers, always use Dr. Seth Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial for children. A mild, safe tonic. 25c.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

SULPHUR BITTERS

THE BEST AND GREATEST MEDICINE

It will drive the Humor from your system, and make your skin clean and smooth. Those Pimples and Blotches which mar your beauty are caused by impure blood, and can be removed in a short time, if you are wise and use the great blood purifier,

SULPHUR BITTERS

Why suffer with Sick Headache? Why suffer with Rheumatism? Why suffer with Dyspepsia? Your nerves are all shattered, your system is all out of order, your blood is impure, your liver torpid, your bowels costive, your appetite gone, you tremble day and night, you are nervous and irritable, you have no energy, life is a burden, you are easily startled, your sleep is broken by horrible dreams, you are dull, drowsy, and feel like the world was against you, you are cross and fretful, your friends and relatives are all gone, your business is neglected, you are a perfect wreck, and your friends say you look like death. Why not take Sulphur Bitters and be cured? Why not be your own doctor? Sulphur Bitters is a sure cure for all these complaints, which are the direct effects of a disordered liver and torpid bowels. Sulphur Bitters is a sure and cheap medicine, which can be taken by the most delicate lady or child without the least danger. Sulphur Bitters is composed of the choicest Roots, Herbs and Berries combined with the Extract of Sulphur in such proportions as to make it a perfect Specific for all diseases of the Liver and Bowels. Sulphur Bitters will DESTROY and EXPEL all poisonous matter from the system, and will make it as pure as the Pure Air of Heaven.

SULPHUR Bitters

The Dose is small—only a Teaspoonful. It is the best and cheapest medicine. Try it, and you will be satisfied. Get it of your druggist. DON'T WAIT. GET IT AT ONCE.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

A Plucky Dakota Girl.

There is a Minneapolis school teacher who in the last few years, simply from her own efforts and the money she was able to earn and save at teaching, has pre-empted and gotten under cultivation a quarter-section of land in Dakota near Devil's Lake, and already shared the profits of two good harvests from it. Her case is one exhibiting unusual pluck and enterprise. In the first place, whatever she did was on her own responsibility and entirely without assistance from others. And in the second place, her efforts were hindred by even more than the customary obstacles. Her story being a true one may be of quite as much value, and perhaps of as much interest to femininity as those they are accustomed to read between paper covers. Having graduated from the university she found that her only stock in trade was her education and native intelligence. She got a good position in the public school, and in the course of two years, by living economically, was able to save up quite a little sum of money. She knew of a friend who intended to take up land with her father in Dakota, and she thought it would be a good scheme to do something for herself in the same way. With a plan of operations scarcely more definite than that she wanted to take land, the plucky schoolma'am boarded an emigrant train and started for the West. Two young lady cousins of her friend had already gone out with the same intention The four girls pre-empted their claims almost together. There were vexatious delays and more expense than was expected, but not enough to stop proceedings. The houses that were built were miserable sheds, scarcely enough to keep the Dakota rainstorms out of doors. There was only one man in the settlement, and part of the time he was away. The first crop which our school teacher raised was turnips. She also planted some corn, but it was put in so late that it did not amount to much. She did all her own work. The breaking of the land she hired done, of course. But with her own hand she sowed the turnip seed, and planted the corn, and made some other modest attempts in a very small way at raising vegetables. All supplies had to be brought by wagon from the market town, which was quite a distance away. The girls took turns in visiting one another. Sometimes they were all alone. And so the summer passed, and our teacher was obliged to return to her school. But to comply with the law the place had to be visited at least once in thirty days until the pre-emption should be completed. Once she was snowbound and once hindered by floods. On one occasion she occupied her cottage two nights in succession all alone, her nearest neighbor at the time being two miles away. But she persevered, and now, after all the hardships, she owns the land part of the proceeds of two good harvests. It is not worth a fortune in money, to be sure, but it is all her own, and she earned it too. She considers the experience as good as a fortune.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A Remarkable Balloon Voyage.

There is at present being commemorated at Guines a remarkable balloon voyage of a century ago, when two aeronauts, Blanchard, a Frenchman, and Dr. Jeffries, an American, descended in the midst of the neighboring forest, after having been borne across the Straits of Dover. Toward the end of 1784 it was the desire of French balloonists to achieve the first passage from England to France. Blanchard betook himself to the English coast, where his plans were warmly entertained. While there he met Lunardi and Dr. Jeffries, a physician, and a native of Boston, United States. They proceeded to Dover, and awaited a favorable breeze. A start was at last effected from the castle, amid the firing of artillery. Blanchard did his utmost to get away alone, but Jeffries held firmly to the agreement, which had been signed and sealed. By this agreement Jeffries provided all the funds requisite for insuring the ascent contemplated, secured in consideration of these a seat in the car, and bound himself, on his word of honor as a gentleman and an officer, to jump out of the car the moment his further presence and weight should jeopardize the success of the expedition and imperil Blanchard's life. Shortly after 1 p. m. the balloon rose, and drifted seaward amid the enthusiasm of the inhabitants and to the dismay of Mrs. Jeffries and her children. The poor woman had in vain tried to retain her husband, who, moreover, had been advised in a letter from the prince of Wales not to attempt the crossing. The travelers soon found themselves drifting toward the Goodwin sands. They found when in mid-channel that the balloon, the total weight of which, including the aeronauts, ballast, and accoutrements, had been at the start nine hundred pounds, was gradually settling into lower currents. The sand-bags were emptied till at last everything available had been cast from the car, even the rudder and sails. The advantage gained was a momentary one. The question what should be dispensed with next must have caused Jeffries to shudder. A respite was granted by the ejection of the anchor and provisions; and, as a final effort, of such garments as were not absolutely necessary. The last sacrifice caused a quick ascent, and brought the balloon to the neighborhood of Guines, and over the forest.

The loss of the anchor made the men desirous of landing without delay; so they managed to grapple some of the uppermost branches, and lowered themselves into the dense wood. The descent, not an easy one, took place a little over two hours after the start, when Blanchard and Jeffries, once more on terra firma, hung on each other's necks. They were conveyed to Guines and thence to Calais in great triumph. Every honor, even the freedom of the city, was conferred on the Frenchman, and the two travelers were thenceforward considered heroes. The king of France bade the men of the hour repair to his court. Blanchard was greatly admired for his feat, insomuch that in every gathering he was kissed by all the ladies of the company. He was materially rewarded by his majesty, who made him a yearly grant. The latter portion of Blanchard's career was passed in New York, Germany, Holland, and other states, where he made many ascents. He met his end through falling from a balloon, and died, after lingering some weeks, in the early part of 1808. Mme. Blanchard, his second wife, was a celebrated aeronaut, and met her death in a like manner one night by losing her hold of an illuminated balloon while in the act of discharging fireworks.—St. James's Gazette.

In his younger days Ben Butler was a fair performer on the flute. He learned to play the flute to strengthen his lungs, which were weak when he was young. A year or so ago he told the story on himself that he first took to the cornet by the advice of his physician. He used to sit at a back window of his boarding-house in Boston and blow for his health without reference to tunes. His landlord told him that he had to learn to play something or get out, whereupon he compromised on the flute and actually learned how to play.—New Haven News.

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this part of the country, I will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

E. S. HORTON.

MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic, given the little one, will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

London Hair Restorer—Great English Toilet Article. Restores growth, color, gloss, and softness. Removes dandruff. Aristocratic families of Great Britain endorse it. Elegant dressing. Fragrantly perfumed. The favorite of fashion. At Druggists for 3s 1½d, or 75 Cts. in U. S. money.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. eodjan3,85

A CARD.—To all who are suffering from errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York. eodnwfy85

What there is in a Bottle

SMARTING — Sufficient to stop in five minutes the most amazing, stinging pain of 100 burns or scalds. It will stop the pain as soon as applied.

COUGHING — Abundance to cure a score of colds and the coughing that often leads the way to Consumption. It will positively ease a Cough in 25 minutes.

CHOKING — More than enough to save a dozen children Choking with Croup. One minute after the first done the hardest attack of Croup will be relieved.

WHEEZING — Plenty to relieve the oppression and wheezing of the most severe case of Asthma. The direct cures of Asthma by this medicine is proof that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has no equal as an Asthma's cure.

In the above cases Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil can be relied upon. It has given relief to thousands. Keep it in your house. There is hardly a week of the year it will not be useful.

Emma Long's father in Webster, N. C., is register of deeds, and left a lot of marriage certificates, all signed, in her care, to fill out if any one wanted one in his absence. So, when Oscar B. Coward came along and wanted to marry the handsomest fourteen-years-old girl in the county, she inserted her name and his, and skipped with him.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in the head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents, of druggists.

A Bad Selection.

The president has appointed a man to be pension agent in Ohio, who deserted his command while under fire at the battle of Cedar Creek and was afterward dishonorably discharged, and was refused to be reinstated that he might be otherwise discharged until after the close of the war. He is now made the agent to pay pensions to disabled soldiers at Columbus, to the infinite disgust of all decent men in the Buckeye state.

The president is rapidly letting down the bars to "turn the rascals in." It is claimed that he makes his selections from his best material available, and has to take a representative democrat of bad odor in order to satisfy the boys. The president's personal investigation of the antecedents of applicants is singularly unfortunate.

Failure of John Roach & Sons.

John Roach & Sons, the leading ironship builders of the country, made a general assignment for the benefit of their creditors on the 18th inst., giving preferences of $120,000.

Score One for the "Army."

It is shown that the terrible expose by the Pall Mall Gazette of the dishonor and immorality of the "upper classes" in London, was originated by the salvation army. Decorous religion had averted its eyes from the open traffic in young girls, —which continued just the same,—until the salvationists took hold of the abomination, and with the aid of the Gazette held it up in full view of all the world. No wonder the "upper classes" vote the salvationist a crank and a nuisance.

It is estimated that the hop crop will be immense this season. A short crop and exceedingly high prices a few years ago has developed the culture of hops to an enormously increased extent. The cheaper the hops the purer the ale.

John Breese, an ex-paymaster of the United States navy, and brother of the late Captain E. Randolph Breese of the navy, dropped dead from heart disease on the street in Newport, R. I., on the night of the 14th inst.

It is not generally known, says an exchange, that the man who refuses to pay for his newspaper can be prosecuted like an ordinary criminal for theft. A New York paper has begun suit against several delinquent subscribers under the United States postal law, which says: "The taking of a newspaper and refusal to pay for the same, renders a person liable to criminal prosecution as a thief; and the person guilty of the same can be punished as if he had stolen goods to the amount of subscription." The penalty is the same when a subscriber refuses to take a paper from the post-office without first paying arrearages.

At Ipswich, a town noted for being the birthplace of Rufus Choate, and having an educational seminary, is seen a sign on a wayside inn, "Boarding and Mealing." The latter term we infer is intended to convey the information that meals can there be obtained. The sign affords frequent scope for amusement to passers by on the trains of the Eastern division through the most "cultivated" portion of the Bay state.

PURE BLOOD IS THE ABSOLUTE NECESSITY OF HEALTH.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

THE marvellous results of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as proven by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitalizes and enriches the blood, thereby restoring and renovating the whole system. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures dyspepsia. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

SCROFULA.

135 HOWARD STREET, LOWELL, MASS., Jan. 17.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—I have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in my family for scrofulous humor with wonderful success, and am happy to tell you that it is the best medicine we ever used. I do sincerely advise any one who is troubled with scrofula to give this valuable remedy a trial, and assure them they will not be disappointed. Very truly yours, (Coburn Shuttle Co.) C. C. PICKERING.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Check List Notice.

THE Board of Inspection of checklists gives notice that they have posted copies of all the check lists of the city in the corridor of the city building, and also have posted a list of Ward One at the store of Cox & Newman on North street, and a list of Ward Three at the store of John Mitchell on Islington street, and a list of Ward Four at the store of John J. Lackey on Pleasant street, for the inspection of the voters of the city.

They also give notice that they will be in session at the city building, on Thursday, the 23d day of July, on Tuesday the 28th day of July, and on Friday the 30th day of July 18th, 1885, from 9 o'clock a. m., to 12 m., and from 2 to 5 p. m., on each of said days, for the purpose of revising and correcting the list of voters.

They will also be in session at the same place, from 8 to 10 a. m., and from 1 to 2 p. m., on the day of election, for the purpose of furnishing certificates to any persons whose names may have been omitted and who the Board are satisfied have resided in the Ward one year next preceding said election. POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, July 18th.

John Murphy, Ambrose Yeaton and Peter Haley, for drunkenness, were each assessed $9.90, fine and costs, which means three more laborers in the Brentwood vineyard.

Timothy Sullivan and Frank Raymond, for assault on Percival Downing, were bound over in $200 each for their appearance at the October term of the supreme court. This was the case in which Downing, an Eliot man, was pitched out of a Fleet street saloon on "circus day," and brutally kicked while down, in such manner as to break one of his legs.

VERY MUCH BEHIND.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Manchester Union on Friday wrote that paper as follows: "The United States school ship Constellation was sighted off the Shoals a little before noon, and she came into the lower harbor this afternoon. The Dale was considerably behind, and did not get in until late in the afternoon." The Dale must have been a good deal behind, as she has not got in yet; the fact is that she is not in commission!

SAMUEL G. HOOPER.

Samuel G. Hooper died very suddenly on Saturday morning at his residence on South street. He was somewhat indisposed on retiring, though he had been up town to the postoffice, and also at work in his garden, during the day on Friday; and when he was attempted to be aroused on Saturday morning, somewhat later than his usual hour of rising, it was found that he was dead, having apparently passed away without a struggle.

Mr. Hooper was for a long period prominently engaged in business on Water street, but on account of failing health he was obliged to give up active life a few years ago, in hope that he might regain his vigor. His father, the late Major Hooper, had long and successfully transacted a large mercantile business with vessels of the British provinces, and this branch of trade was continued and carried on to some extent by the subject of this brief sketch, up to the time of his retirement, although of late years the trade had become very limited. Mr. Hooper was quite well known in Prince Edward island, to which place he made several summer visits. When in good health he was a genial and pleasant companion, and his society was sought for; and in all business transactions he was rigidly honest and upright. He married a daughter of Samuel Rowe, Esq., who however did not long survive, and who left no children. In politics Mr. Hooper was a pronounced democrat, but he refrained from making himself very conspicuous, and we are not aware that he ever held any public position.

NAVAL CONSTRUCTOR HICHBORN'S CRUISER.

Secretary Whitney has received plans from Naval Constructor Philip Hichborn, U. S. N., for a cruiser of 4500 tons displacement. In the competition of designs for the vessels lately authorized by Congress, Constructor Hichborn has devoted his attention to the largest ships, which were to be of from 3000 to 5000 tons. The design presented is for a powerfully-armed vessel, carrying thirteen six-inch and four eight-inch breech-loading rifles; the latter having direct fore and aft fire. The vessel is ship rigged, and has three-quarter sail power. The average speed at sea in all weathers is stated at fourteen knots; in smooth water, fifteen.

The ship is 315 feet long on the waterline, forty-five feet extreme breadth, and the mean draught is twenty feet three inches. The bottom is sheathed and coppered, and the vessel is designed to be, as far as possible, independent of docks and coaling stations, the object aimed at being a first-class cruising ship, able under canvas and fast under steam. The capacity of the bunkers is 800 tons, sufficient to carry her to Europe at her maximum speed, while at slower rates it would last for a much greater distance. The engines are three cylinder, horizontal, compound; and the machinery is well protected by coal, and submersion below the waterline.

The plans, fifteen in number, are in detail, and contain all the necessary calculations. The estimated cost, exclusive of armament, is about $1,000,000.

AN OLD-LINE JACKSON DEMOCRAT.

Colonel Daniel D. Brodhead, a wealthy citizen of South Newmarket, died at that place on the morning of the 17th inst., his wife having died only seven hours before him. He resided in Boston for more than fifty years, and was highly respected and influential. He had a brother who was second auditor of the treasury at Washington for several years; and another brother was a paymaster in the army, and died only a few months ago. Col. Brodhead was himself appointed navy agent for Boston and Charlestown by President Jackson, and held that office, which was one of the best in the gift of the government, until he was ousted by the Harrison administration. He was an extreme democrat up to the end of his life, and is believed to have been the last-surviving office-holder of Jackson's appointment. His age was eighty-four years.

MARITIME NOTES.

The ship Paul Jones has been chartered from Boston to Australia, for 2000 pounds sterling.

It cost the Electric Boat Co. about $8 to get back their boats, cut adrift by some prowling sneak one night last week.

The tug Ann, with a large fishing party from Dover, came down the river early Sunday morning, and proceeded outside. The steamer Mystic had a large party to the Shoals, on her trip out with papers and the mails. All the letting boats on the river were called into requisition, and most of the private boats were also out.

The schooner Mary Willey arrived on Sunday from Bangor with a load of shingles and long lumber for John H. Broughton.

FRIGHTFUL FALL.

The Times, in its report of the arrival of the practice-ship Constellation with the naval cadets from the Annapolis academy on board, says:

The ship has been out since June 20th, and on the 25th inst. A. P. Campbell, a cadet, fell from the fore-jack, a distance of seventy feet to the main-top bowline, where he caught and was lowered to the deck without serious injury. As he fell he struck the rail of the main-top and bent that considerably. He is now under the doctor's care, and although considerably shaken up, is doing very nicely.

Considerably shaken up! We should think he would be. We never before heard of a man falling from the fore-jack into the maintop, via the mainto'-bowline, that wasn't killed. It is only the most skillful fallists who, tumbling from anywhere on the foremast, can get abaft the maintopsail on their speedy descent to the deck, so as to hit the maintop; and we never heard of this feat being performed by a man who fell from the fore-jack. By the way, neighbor, where is the fore-jack, anyhow?

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The practice-ship Constellation came up to the navy yard wharf on Saturday forenoon at eleven o'clock, and numbers of the young gentlemen were on shore in the afternoon.

Wm. W. Dennett of this city has been appointed to the place recently vacated by Henry H. Ham, Jr., in the equipment department store at this navy yard. It is reported that the vacancy was at first filled by a Maine man put there by E. C. Spinney, Esq., of Kittery, but his incumbency will be very brief, he having to quickly make room for the candidate supported by Mr. Jones. Some kind of a hobble over the appointment of George D. Shannon of Kittery as boss teamster on the yard is also a topic of comment in democratic circles, and as near as we can learn there has been a see-saw game between Shannon and some other man, (the late teamster, Hobbs, according to some accounts,) similar to that between Nealley and Mose Harriman long ago over the superintendency of fire engines on the yard, which resulted in tumbling Harriman over the fence into the democratic party, where he was joined by Nealley as soon as the latter lost his fat job some years later. Shannon was on Saturday reported to be in charge of the navy yard teams, which was scored as another victory for Mr. Jones.

Moses H. Webber, since February, 1871, superintendent of the ropewalk at the Charlestown, Mass., navy yard, last week tendered his resignation.

Naval Constructor George R. Boush was last week relieved from duty at the Charlestown navy yard, and placed on waiting orders. Naval Constructor Thomas E. Webb, recently relieved from duty at the Portsmouth navy yard, succeeds Constructor Boush at the Charlestown yard.

Visitors to the Kirmes, Wednesday night, should examine at the Italian booth the choice lot of goods imported direct by the firm Olivotte, of New York, comprising Genoese filagree silver jewelry, coral and shell ornaments from Naples, Venetian beads from the celebrated factory on the island of Mergano, etc. Messrs. Olivotte furnished the Italian booth at the Kirmes in New York, and also in Philadelphia.

Boynton's teams are kept very busy during the heated term distributing about town his delicious summer beverages, and the bottling establishment on Bow street is not unfrequently kept open until a very late hour in the evening, to keep up with the demand. Boynton's light drinks are all fully the equal of any made elsewhere, and some of them are superior to anything of the kind we have ever tasted. The lager and cider bottled by him are the standard articles.

A dog which was left behind by one of the brick schooners in getting under way from Portsmouth bridge last Thursday, took to the water and resolutely followed the schooner for about half a mile, when finding that the vessel was steadily dropping him astern he gave up the chase, and paddled into the "spring" to await her return from Boston.

Mr. Allen Greenough, who lives on what was formerly the Rogers farm, on Boyd road, has brought to market this year over fifty bushels of new potatoes, which sold at from one to two dollars a bushel. He expects to have green corn ready for market by the first of August, having planted the earliest on the 18th of April.

The Boston Sunday Globe of July 19th said: "Leonard Huntress, one of the earlier publishers of the Lowell Daily Courier, and for about twenty-five years one of the Middlesex county commissioners, is seriously ill at his home in Tewksbury, and is not expected to recover." Mr. Huntress is a native of this city, and learned the printer's trade in the Portsmouth Journal office with the late Charles W. Brewster.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and with this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind at their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—he said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto, and no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

THE SILK-WORM.

The insect is in one sense a tiny manufacturer himself, finding his "raw material" chiefly in the leaf of the mulberry-tree (morus), which gives name to the common silk-moth (Bombyx mori), the caterpillar of which is the silk-worm. The tree is said by a proverb to be made for the worm and the worm for the tree, peculiarly suitable for textile use, some of the Pacific islanders making clothing by macerating the bark of the paper mulberry, without the intervention of the silk-worm. Most of the silk of commerce is made by this one moth from this one food, yet it can feed, in whole or in part, upon other leaves, as those of the Osage orange in this country, and it has a score of cousins or more distant relations, as the Tussah moth (Antheræ yaphia) of India, which live upon other trees, and produce a similar material.

The moth is about an inch long, whitish, with brown stripes, and lays at the close of summer numerous eggs about the size of a pinhead, attached singly to the leaf by a kind of gum, which, when dry, has a silky appearance. The moths soon die; the eggs do not hatch until the next summer, and can meanwhile be sent around the world. The sale of "grain," or "seed," as the eggs are also called, is of itself a business, for it brings as much as four dollars an ounce, tenfold the price years ago, before an epidemic swept through the silk world. Each moth lays from 400 to 700 eggs, but it takes over 600,000 to make a pound. In obtaining eggs for breeding, the grower usually places the moths on cloths in a dark, warm room, where they contentedly lay their eggs and die. In tropical countries, as southern China and India, the eggs hatch by natural heat; in others artificial warmth is necessary; and in old times hot-beds were used, or the eggs were carried about by women in little bags in their bosoms. The careful grower makes ready for the hatching by providing latticed trays or bundles of twigs, about which the food, of finely chopped mulberry leaves, is distributed. The tiny worm at first eats two meals a day; at the end of five days he casts his first skin, and the ninth day his second; again, on the fifteenth, twenty-second, and thirty-second days he "moults," becoming torpid, and exchanging old skins for new. Like his fellow-worm, man, he has "seven ages"; the sixth, when he has attained the mature age of thirty-two days, is the spinning, the last the breeding, period. At the approach of the spinning age the worms from a single ounce of eggs (nearly 40,000 eggs) will have required over 1,200 pounds of leaves, and will need about 184 square feet of space for their homes. Each day's hatching is kept together, lest the older eat up the food of the weaker brethren, and every care must be taken to prevent the growth of the minute fungus which makes "silk-worm rot," and to ward off other diseases. In 1857 Europe was swept of much of its silken wealth by one of these parasitic diseases, and one of Pasteur's early triumphs was in discovering its nature.

The worm is conservative, and never attempts to move from his place until it is time to begin spinning; he then becomes distended with the silk juice, and semi-transparent, like a ripe yellow plum, and can presently be observed lifting his head and looking about for a good site for his cocoon-building, which has been furnished by the cocoon-grower in arches of twigs or lattice-work. Some of the worms are lazy, and the twig has to be applied. The spinner with careful forecast adjusts his body in the best position for the cocoon, and commences to throw the floss that forms its outer coating. The material of the silk is a gummy secretion in the sericteria, two large glands along each side of the body, terminating each in a spinneret in the mouth; each fibre of the thread proves on microscopic examination to be double, one strand coming from each spinneret. What the angler prizes as "silk-worm gut" is this sericterium soaked in vinegar, stretched, and dried in the sun. The worm clothes himself tighter and tighter, the interior thread being the finer; he fixes his body in place with his hooked feet, and throws his head here and there as he spins. The thread is sometimes 1,600 feet long without a break; good cocoons should yield 300 yards; it takes at least 2,500 worms to raise a pound of silk. Within five or six days the spinning is completed, and the moth presently makes preparation to emerge by the help of another secretion, which softens or dissolves the end of the cocoon. Since in piercing the cocoon the worm breaks the continuity of the thread, it is usually killed just before this stage, by exposing the cocoons to the sun where the temperature is above eighty-eight degrees, or by baking, steaming, or otherwise heating them carefully so that the fibre is not gummed together by the heat.—From "A Silk Dress," in Harper's Magazine for July.

Gen. Lee In 1866.

Gen. Robert Edmund Lee visited the capitol on the afternoon of Feb. 17, 1866, and I accidentally met him in one of the corridors. He recognized me at once, and, after an exchange of salutations, inquired the way to the room occupied by the joint committee on reconstruction. I escorted him to the door, and I afterward learned that he was rather coldly received on his entrance by the sub-committee on Virginia, which was Mr. Washburn, of Illinois, Conkling, of New York, and Blow, of Missouri. He appeared to feel the manner in which he was received, and submitted to a long examination, which did not elicit any new fact. Indeed, he was quite reticent, and did not volunteer any remark beyond the proper answer to the question put to him.

He said that, so far as he had opportunities for learning, the people of Virginia had accepted the result of the war in good faith and were anxious for a restored amity in the union. When pressed by a question, he was said to have intimated that the feeling for the union was much stronger just after the close of the war than at that time, and there appeared to him to be some impatience among the people that men who had not been identified with the war in the south should be prevented from representing their states in congress. He declared that there was a disposition to treat the freedmen well for their own interest as well as for that of the white people. He expressed a decided hope that the government might endure for all time, and regarded the course of President Johnson and Gen. Grant toward the south as liberal and humane. It was plain to the committee that Gen. Lee found himself in a very unpleasant position, and he did not communicate very freely.

A crowd awaited his appearance from the committee-room, and followed him from the capitol down Pennsylvania avenue to his hotel. A large number of people called upon him, but he avoided, as far as possible, all publicity. The stenographer's notes, when written out, were sent to him for correction, and he made a few changes.—Ben: Perley Poore.

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. B. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.

MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others.

RUPTURED PERSONS! Not a Truss. Ask for Dr. Sherman's Improved Truss. WE GIVE FREE TRIAL.

"Say, why is everything Either at sixes or at sevens?"

Probably, my dear nervous sister, because you are suffering from some of the diseases peculiar to your sex. You have a "dragging-down" feeling, the backache, you are debilitated, you have pains of various kinds. Take Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" and be cured. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

Frank Blackinton and George Fuller were arrested at Attleboro, Mass., July 18th, for assault and battery and manslaughter. On May 26th last these young men were racing horses, when one of their horses jumped into a buggy driven by John T. Brady, throwing him out and injuring him so that he died of lockjaw.

Charles Cosgrove!

Who has not been able to attend to his business for years, was interviewed by our reporter yesterday, and says: For years I have been troubled with Bright's disease of the kidneys. The doctors gave me up. Through an eastern friend I obtained a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. I took five bottles and now I am almost well. Keith sells them.—San Francisco Call.

A train went through a bridge near Wallace, New Mexico, July 18th, and the engineer and three firemen were killed, and one passenger and the express messenger dangerously injured.

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic given the little sufferer will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

The failure of John Roach & Sons is a serious blow to Chester, Pa.; up to a year ago his payroll amounted to $15,000 a week, or over, but recently has been about $7000. In Chester only the kindest and most sympathetic expressions are heard concerning Mr. Roach.

Educated and Experienced.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass., who have a thorough knowledge of pharmacy, and many years practical experience in the business. It is prepared with the greatest skill and care, under the direction of the men who originated it. Hence Hood's Sarsaparilla may be depended upon as a thoroughly pure, honest, and reliable medicine.

Henry Ward Beecher, in a recent sermon, denounced the doctrine of eternal punishment. Said he: "It is repulsive, unreasonable, immoral and demoralizing. I hate it. I hate it, beause I love the truth, because I love God, because I love my fellow men."

We Caution All Against Them.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in the head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents, of druggists.

Nervous Debilitated Men.

You are allowed a free trial of thirty days of the use of Dr. Dye's Celebrated Voltaic Belt with Electric Suspensory Appliances, for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Debility, loss of Vitality and Manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also, for many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred. Illustrated pamphlet, with full information, terms, etc., mailed free by addressing Voltaic Belt Co., Marshall, Mich.

London Hair Restorer—Great English Toilet Article. Restores growth, color, gloss, and fullness. Removes dandruff. Aristocratic families of Great Britain endorse it. Elegant dressing. Fragrantly perfumed. The favorite of fashion. At Druggists for 3s 1½d, or 75 Cts. in U. S. money.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A CARD.—To all who are suffering from errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York.

WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

Among the many symptoms of Dyspepsia or indigestion the most prominent are: Variable appetite; faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, with unsatisfied craving for food; heartburn, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration, headache, and constipation. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and none so peculiar to the high-living and rapid-eating American people. Alcohol and tobacco produce Dyspepsia; also, bad air, rapid eating, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will cure the worst case, by regulating the bowels and toning up the digestive organs. Sold everywhere.

Garland on Contracts.

The decision of Attorney General Garland in the Dolphin case is thus commented on by the Army & Navy Journal:

The opinion of the attorney general which we publish seems to be a straining of the law against the contractor, and by the contractor we do not mean alone John Roach, but every man, be he honest or dishonest, who seeks to provide the government with what it wants, subject to the conditions it may choose to dictate. If this interpretation is to stand, the lot of the contractor is not to be a happy one, any more than that of the policeman. It is not sufficient for him to consider the terms of the tender, or to scan the conditions of his contract; he must assure himself that there has been no mistake made by the government officials in interpreting the law, granting them authority to contract with him. Now, if anything is notorious it is the unlimited capacity of these legal gentlemen to differ in their interpretation of the law. Hence, it will not be safe to accept any legal opinion, except that of the men who have the last word, and they are the judges of the supreme court. If the policy of the navy department is to be determined by this legal opinion given by Mr. Garland it is difficult to see how we are to get any vessels, except we build them in the navy yards. The refusal of several reputable engineering firms to bid for a contract, as recently noted in our columns, will undoubtedly become the rule for all; what builder will be likely to contract for work, if after inspection and acceptance by an officer appointed by the department for this express purpose, the completed structure is liable to be rejected by the secretary?

The attorney general's law appears to have been made to order, to fit the circumstances of this case and gratify the wishes of Sec. Whitney. It amounts to saying that no contract made with the government, however strongly drawn and however scrupulously observed by the contractor, is binding upon the government. A despatch of last week from Washington thus refers to the probable result of Mr. Garland's remarkable exposition of the law:

The opinion is expressed in naval circles that the decision of Attorney General Garland in the case of the Dolphin will have the effect of reviving the system of building all vessels for the navy in the yards belonging to the government. The navy yards have been almost abandoned, but the decision, imposing as it does so much greater responsibility upon contractors than they have hitherto borne, will tend to discourage them from assuming government contracts, the consequence being that the government will find it more profitable to build its own vessels than submit to the prices which the contractors will feel bound to demand.

The Kentucky Custom.

At Stepstone, Ky., July 19th, Town Marshal Perry Oakley and John Smith had a dispute over an old grudge, and Smith was shot dead; Nute Osborn and Henry Smith came to John's rescue, and were both fatally shot. Later in the day Oakley fired at one R. McGuire, without effect, and McGuire returned the fire with a shot gun, peppering Oakley, who also was shot by somebody else. A desperate faction fight is expected, as both parties are well armed and defiant.

An inquiry, in regard to which a reply from a cabinet officer was thought desirable, was sent to the treasury in Washington the other day. Mr. Manning had "gone a-fishing;" then it was sent to the state department. Mr. Bayard was in Delaware, and the query was next left at the war office. Mr. Endicott was in New York. Back to the treasury it went, and finally a subordinate passed upon it. We listened for several days for the old familiar democratic howl about the improper absence of government officials from Washington when they should be attending to their duties. We did not hear it. But now we are sure we shall behold, by Monday at the latest, a great explosion of democratic wrath because the secretaries of the navy and the war department took their wives to Newport yesterday on the United States government boat, the Dispatch. No "junketing" about this administration—not a bit of it!—Tribune.

PURE BLOOD IS THE ABSOLUTE NECESSITY OF HEALTH.

THE marvellous results of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as proven by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitalizes the blood, fires and enriches and renovates, thereby restoring the whole system. Hood's SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures dyspepsia. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in Hood's SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant, proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

SCROFULA.

135 HOWARD STREET, LOWELL, MASS., Jan. 17.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—I have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in my family for scrofulous humor with wonderful success, and am happy to tell you that it is the best medicine we ever used. I do sincerely advise any one who is troubled with scrofula to give this valuable remedy a trial, and assure them they will not be disappointed. Very truly yours,
(Coburn Shuttle Co.) C. C. PICKERING.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO. Lowell, Mass.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Continued warm and generally fair weather.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 65 degrees above zero.

Sky clear.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Between eight and nine o'clock Saturday evening, an Italian who drives a fruit wagon for Gabarino, the Pleasant street dealer, was returning from a peddling expedition in Eliot, and when coming through Langton's hollow in Kittery was confronted by two men who sprang from the bushes, one of them seizing the horse by the bridle while the other presented a gun at the driver, and demanded his money. The peddler was seriously annoyed by the looks of the gun, and hastened to hand out what change he had, losing some of it in the road; he also, on demand, handed over his vest, and would have handed over all the rest of his clothing had it been called for. In a pocket of the vest was a $10 bill, which the thieves failed to find; and after securing between ten and eleven dollars they abandoned their capture and fled, and the driver after notifying the nearest neighbors as to what had occurred, resumed his drive to this city, and arrived without further adventure. The highwaymen had their faces blackened, and are supposed to be residents of this city or of some of the neighboring towns, and to have been watching the fruit peddler all day.

THE POND NUISANCE.

A youthful and zealous if not always discreet journalist of the democratic persuasion some weeks ago wrote the paper with which he is connected that the republican papers of this city had "growled over the north mill pond nuisance until the promptitude and energy of a democratic city government knocked their legs from under them." The scores of citizens who were compelled on Friday night last, the most oppressive night of the season, to close all the windows of their houses in order to exclude the horrid effluvia emanating from the pond, would be glad to see the promptitude and energy of a democratic city government exerted at abating the nuisance, rather than in knocking the legs from under anybody or anything.

Just what important result the promptitude and energy of a democratic city government has accomplished in this direction is not easy to discover. Like previous governments the present one has done a good deal of talking on the subject, and has had a "plan" made by a civil engineer for carrying the refuse from the breweries to the tidal current of the river; but not a spadeful of earth has yet been lifted toward the construction of the sewer, nor will be while the present government is in office. Meanwhile the pond is as odoriferous as ever, in spite of the astounding promptitude and energy of a democratic city government.

It was well enough understood, weeks ago, that nothing was to be done toward abating the nuisance by the present administration, beyond getting the sewer scheme in such shape that it could be used at the time of the municipal election as a salve to sooth the irritation of the many good party workers who have been disappointed in regard to getting fat jobs "on the yard." And just this far it will be advanced, and no farther, cholera or no cholera. It is possible that the next administration may actually do something toward abating the nuisance, but if they follow the plan of making a sewer from the breweries to the tide water at Sise's wharf, through Deer street, they will need much larger appropriation than has yet been mentioned in connection with the proposition.

KILLED A MAN.

When the Barnum circus exhibited here last week one of the largest elephants of the herd was pointed out as "bad medicine" to a party of newspaper folk who were being shown around by a courteous and intelligent guide, who said he expected the huge creature would have to be killed before the season ended, as he was ill-tempered and treacherous, and the keepers had already had one pitched battle with him since the show started on the road this year. This vicious brute on Saturday afternoon in Nashua created consternation among the spectators in the elephant tent by a fatal attack upon James Sweeney of Manchester, one of the helpers, who was unfastening the beast's feet from a post when the elephant struck him with his foot and with his tusks, and then taking him on his trunk threw him to the ground several feet away. The keepers attacked the elephant with forks, and after much resistance completely subdued him. The injured man was taken to the circus train, and died while on the way to Keene.

THE NEXT MAYOR.

Mr. Editor: The query every day is, "Who shall be our next Mayor?" For one, I think we have had enough of the present "Reform City Government;" and I would suggest that a meeting of all citizens who are opposed to the present city government, and its reform measures, be called at an early date, to meet at the court house and deposit their ballots for their choice for mayor; keeping the polls open from 5:00 to 8:00 P. M.

CITIZEN.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

At the Washington navy yard, July 18th, four watchmen were discharged by order of the navy department, leaving only three on the yard, and those the ones stationed at the gate. The duties hitherto performed by the watchmen will hereafter devolve upon the marines.

The board for the examination of candidates for the position of foreman at this navy yard, consisting of Capt. Henry Erben, senior member, and Chief Engineer Wm. B. Brooks and Naval Constructor W. L. Mintonye, members, will meet on Wednesday, July 22d, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, at which time applicants are requested to present themselves.

The Chronicle thinks the Times did not make use of the proper nautical terms, in its report of the accident to a cadet on board the Constellation. That may be, but the gist of it all was that the young man fell and had a very narrow escape from death. We don't suppose it makes a great difference to him whether it was the fore-jack or some other jack that he fell from.—Times.

Now, Bro. Times, we did not say you did not make use of the proper nautical terms; we merely asked you to tell us what the fore-jack is, and you haven't complied—though you might, by saying the royal-rigging spreader is called a jack in the navy, and consequently the fore-jack is the fore-royal-rigging spreader, which explanation of course would be as clear as mud to the ordinary reader. Your account of the accident and the young man's miraculous escape was all right enough, notwithstanding the scoffs of old merchant skippers who won't have it that an outrigger or a spreader is a jack, if you had only let him hit the foretop instead of the main in his descent.

The Sawyer's Mills cricket club of Dover will play the Portsmouth club in this city on Saturday, commencing at 1:30 o'clock P. M.

One of the most attractive features of the Kirmes on Wednesday evening will be the Dutch booth, with its wind-mill and the genuine steins, just imported for them from Holland.

Rev. William A. McGinley, pastor of the North church, has commenced a vacation of four weeks; next Sunday the pulpit will be supplied by Rev. J. D. Waldron of the Pearl street church. The sessions of the North parish Sunday school are suspended until the 1st Sunday in September.

Mr. Frank A. Wendell and wife of Salem, Mass., both formerly of this city, are spending the summer here.

The office of deputy collector of customs for Dover, Newmarket and Exeter has been abolished. The only duty the incumbent ever had to perform was to sign a receipt for his salary.

J. W. Henderson, Esq., who during the summer season is a resident of Dover, and during the winter lives in San Augustine, Florida, was in this city last week on political business.

Mr. Joshua M. Vaughan is engaged in the fruit business, and drives a team through the neighboring towns of York county.

Mr. Lewis Holmes will pay fifty dollars for such information as will lead to the detection and conviction of the miscreants who cut his boats adrift one night last week.

Hay making is now in full progress in this vicinity, and the crop is turning out much better than was deemed possible it could at one time.

Miss Leola Blaisdell, an interesting and estimable young lady nearly seventeen years of age, died at her home in South Berwick last week. Her father, Mr. John Blaisdell, who is employed as a carpenter in finishing the Rockingham house in this city, has the earnest sympathy of his associates and acquaintances in his bereavement.

The young ladies employed in the stitching department of the Portsmouth Shoe Factory have arranged for a moonlight party of young people for the Shoals this evening by the steamer Mystic.

Rev. Mr. Hutchinson of South Berwick started from home on Monday morning for a drive to York beach in a carriage with his wife, and dropped dead in the carriage on the way, of heart disease.

At Old Orchard, July 19th, the salvation army opened its national meeting with a knee drill at seven o'clock in the morning, followed by a hallelujah march. A salvation meeting was held at ten o'clock, led by Capt. Shirley of Boston, on the camp ground. Two thousand people were present, and there were twenty-two officers and sixty-five soldiers in the army. Capt. Shirley, a woman of forty years, exhorted sinners to repent. Experiences were related, and the chorus joined in the songs with tambourines, war-whoops and gestures. A praise meeting was held in the afternoon and a salvation meeting in the evening, led by Capt. France of Lawrence, Mass. This is the first campmeeting ever held by the salvation army.

The cruise of the evolutionary squadron of the British navy shows the unseaworthiness of many of the war vessels. The following mishaps occurred in a single day, and are said to furnish a fair sample of a day's work: One torpedo boat was destroyed by an explosion of her boiler; one gunboat was dismasted by a collision; one ironclad was set on fire by careless handling of ammunition, and another ironclad lost her rudder through structural weakness.

The Beauty of Youth.

No matter how handsome or stalwart a young man may be otherwise, nothing can make up for a partially bald head. Shining talents are attractive, but a shining poll is not. The cause may be sickness or anything else, yet Parker's Hair Balsam will stop the loss of the hair and start a new growth of glossy and soft hair so quickly as to surprise you—restoring the original color at the same time. Not a dye, not oily, delicately perfumed. Only standard 50c. dressing.

William A. Ray of Bath, Me., is under arrest for decoying Mary Crosby, an orphan girl sixteen years old, into the woods on the 14th inst., and treating her villainously. The girl is seriously ill, and brain fever is apprehended.

Give your laundress Pyle's Pearline and she will not ruin your clothes with soda, lime, etc., which many of them use to facilitate the washing.

George Dojay of Bath, Maine, while drunk on the 18th inst. fired a bullet through the left side of his ten-years-old son's face, inflicting a serious wound.

Read what Samuel G. Stiness, Supt. of Pawtucket Gas Co., Pawtucket, R. I., under date of Dec. 18, 1884, says: "I have used Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer for several years and consider it the best as a positive cure for a cold, and possessing all the merit claimed for it."

In Alna, Me., July 18th, a man named Howard, fifty or sixty years old, cut his wife's throat badly, beat her about the head, and then cut his own throat. The woman is dead, but the man may live. Rum was probably the cause.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause the same to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal or any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer the same to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or into any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substance.

EDUCATIONAL.

Points on Education and Methods of Teaching From Various Sources.

The Distinctive Principles of Normal School Work.—The Normal Student.

NORMAL SCHOOLS.

"A normal school is an institution for the education of teachers" (Webster.) It is not an attachment to a high school, to an academy, or to a college, but an institution in itself, "having a local habitation and a name," equipped with a corps of teachers, the course of studies, and the necessary appliances for the accomplishment of its object. Its sole work is the education of teachers.

"A thing is normal," according to Webster, "when strictly conformed to those principles of its constitution which mark its species." Tried by this test, the education of the child and the teacher is normal when strictly conformed to the laws of the physical and rational nature of man. An institution whose purpose is to educate teachers according to this standard is properly called a normal school. Its purpose determines the class of schools to which it belongs. Its excellence depends upon the quality of its work.

The teacher has the organization, the teaching and training of the school committed to his hands. He directs and controls the activities of the children while they are forming habits, and laying the foundation of character. He should be able to train the child in the right use of all his powers.

The distinctive work of the normal school is to educate the teacher according to the normal standard. To this end the normal student must have as definite and full knowledge of the human body and mind as possible. By careful study he may learn the structure of functions, and conditions of health of the human body. He may learn the powers of the mind, the order of their development, the objects upon which they are employed, how they are called into right exertion, and the products of this activity as they crystalize into those habits of thinking, feeling, and willing which constitute character. By this study he discovers the laws of human life and learns what education is, as an end, and as a means, and derives the principles which guide the practice in the normal education of teachers and children. This general knowledge of mind prepares the teacher for that close observation by which he may learn the peculiarities of each one of his pupils, so that he can teach and train each one in the way he should go.

The normal student must make a careful study of the art of teaching and training, that he may know distinctly what teaching is, what training is, and the means by which he will sustain the attention of his class, as dependent upon the knowledge of the subject; the selection of the proper objects of thought; the direction of the pupil's thinking; the use of the best motives; leading the pupils to acquire ideas, and to their correct expression, orally and in writing; recapitulation and reviews; criticism by the class and teacher; daily preparation by the teacher; and the general culture of the teacher.

The normal student must make a thorough study of the course of studies in all its grades, as a means to teaching and training; that he may know what studies should be included in the course, and why these subjects should be studied; in what order the studies should come, and the relation which they hold to one another; in each study, what shall be taught, and why; the order in which the parts shall be considered; and the method of teaching and drilling the class upon all parts of the subject.

The normal student must thoroughly examine the subject of school organization. That he may know what it is to organize a school; the advantages of a good organization; the preliminary preparations for opening a school; how to open a school; how to classify the pupils; how to apportion the time and studies; and what provisions to make in relation to order.

The normal student must carefully consider the teacher's moral duties, with reference to the need of moral training, the object of it, what moral training requires for the pupil, for the teacher; the principles of government; its necessity; how the end of school government, — self-control,—shall be secured; the effect of the proper arrangement of the exercises; the effect of good management, its requisites; the best motives, and how they shall be used in governing; the teacher's personal habits, the teacher's spirit, his love for his work, his willingness to sacrifice, his love for his pupils, and his honesty.

He must study the history of education that he may know what has been attempted and accomplished. He must study the school laws of his own State that he may know his legal status.

The teacher must have a degree of skill in the application of these principles and this knowledge as will enable him to organize and control his own school, and to educate his pupils. It is the distinctive work of the normal school to secure to its students this knowledge and skill according to the measure of their ability.

The first distinctive principle of normal school work is that the normal student is to be a teacher. He is to look at the acquisition of knowledge, the teaching, the training, all the exercises of the school, his own spirit, purpose, manners, and conduct from the standpoint of the teacher. The acquisition of knowledge in this spirit is as much a part of professional work as teaching is.

The second distinctive principle is that the teacher is to be educated for his work. His mind is not only to be furnished with the knowledge of subjects and methods, but trained to comprehend and apply the principles of education. He must be required to imitate good teaching; to teach, drill, and examine in all grades of the work under intelligent supervision. The normal school is a training school in all its course.

The third distinctive principle is that the method of instruction in the normal school is to serve as a model for the normal student. Not that it should be followed literally in all points; the teacher must always adapt his work to his pupils; but the principle, the arrangement, the spirit, the manner of conducting it will be imitated. The unconscious tuition of the school in some things is more potent than the conscious teaching.—Albert G. Boyden, A. M., in Journal of Education.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Before England can stand absolved before the God of Nations for the desolation and suffering of Ireland, she must make reparation to the land she has ruined, and such reparation cannot be made by mere rescission of wicked laws that have done their work of wickedness. No reform less radical than a concession of full and complete self-government to Ireland will secure prosperity and contentment.—California School Journal.

Superintendents. — Lay aside all prejudices, all jealousy, all party feeling, and labor to retain all the competent superintendents. A new man, no matter how good a teacher, how well educated, how popular and influential he may be, will necessarily occupy considerable time in learning the duties of the office and becoming acquainted with the teachers, school officers, and people. He might do well, but let us not turn out the tried and trusted for an uncertainty.—The Iowa Teacher.

Compositions.—The art of written expression, if properly taught and assiduously cultivated, can be made as pleasant as oral composition or talking. The same general method should be adopted in both. We could never teach a child to talk by giving it a subject upon which it must talk for ten minutes or half an hour. Children should be induced to write down what they have to say on any subject, or what they have heard others say. In other words, a child's first composition should be confined to transferring portions of his conversation to paper. —The Educational Weekly.

Industries made but comparatively slow progress while they were carried on by persons whose instruction was limited to apprenticeship. Gradually, and in more recent times, the idea has made its way that the progress of an industry depends especially upon the degree of instruction of those who exercise it. This led to the establishment of industrial schools. The competition of industries is rapidly multiplying these schools, and from present indications these schools are destined to a development far beyond that as yet attained in the most advanced community.—Hon. J. D. Philbrick, in City School Systems.

The best kind of education can be secured only by employing teachers who are adepts, artists, and then leaving to them the details of the art, so far as is possible among schools so intimately related to one another as those in the city must be. Such a teacher, while following the outlines of study as laid down in the principal course, will above all watch the effect of his teaching and the pupil's own efforts upon the development of that pupil's mind. The end he seeks is the education of the child in the highest sense, and not the mere absorption of a few facts.—Supt. A. B. Marble, Worcester, Mass.

Teachers Should Attend Conventions.—The more the subject of education is considered in convention, or by each teacher at his individual work, the greater does its importance grow. How to do the work that we have to do, to the best advantage; how to use most economically and efficiently the means that have been placed in our hands, requires careful study and thought. There are loose, careless, hap-hazard ways of teaching, and there may be a logical, systematic method. The work comprehends a great deal. Correct teaching includes discipline, the imparting of knowledge, and the awakening of the mind to investigate for itself.—Supt. Wm. H. Leach, Madison, Wis.

Industrial Education—Must it be deferred to, as heralding a permanent innovation, or should it be resisted as the froth of a temporary craze? The innovation is predestined. It will come, and it will remain; for it is a great social want which is clamoring for it so lustily,—a want of the heart of the power which created and sustains the schools themselves. You cannot argue it away,—you cannot ridicule it away. Even were it a something utterly inconsistent with the recognized purpose of a school, it would not avert the consummation. It is pleasant to believe that no such inconsistency prevails.—Supt. H. B. Harrington, New Bedford, Mass.

The old notion of "combating" with medicines such diseases as lung inflammation has given place to more enlightened views. The system of the late Dr. Hughes Bennett is described as "treatment by restoratives directed to further the natural progress of the disease and supporting the vital strength." The Lancet states that the Doctor had 105 cases of uncomplicated inflammation of the lungs which he treated on this principle without a single death.

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES,

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we are so well known in this city of Northern country, I refer you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to me inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "work," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

Alexander Cockburn, late lord chief justice of England, lived in open immorality in the midst of his illegitimate family nearly the entire term of his office.

It Astonished the Public

to hear of the resignation of Dr. Pierce as a Congressman to devote himself solely to his labors as a physician. It was because his true constituents were the sick and afflicted everywhere. They will find Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" a beneficient use of his scientific knowledge in their behalf. Consumption, bronchitis, cough, heart disease, fever and ague, intermittent fever, dropsy, neuralgia, goitre or thick neck, and all diseases of the blood, are cured by this world-renowned medicine. Its properties are wonderful, its action magical. By druggists.

At Brattleboro, Vt., July 20th, Arthur Leonard, eighteen years old, was drowned while bathing in Whetstone brook. Two young ladies with their brother went into the stream and brought the body out, but too late to resuscitate.

Charles Cosgrove!

Who has not been able to attend to his business for years, was interviewed by our reporter yesterday, and says: For years I have been troubled with Bright's disease of the kidneys. The doctors gave me up. Through an eastern friend I obtained a bottle of Sulphur Bitters. I took five bottles and now I am almost well. Keith sells them.—San Francisco Call.

Four women and three men, in two teams, attempted to ford Walnut river near Douglas, Kansas, July 19th, and all were drowned except one man.

Three Reasons

Why every one needs, and should take, Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than at any other time. Take it now.

Fedor Berndt, for several years treasurer of the German Turnverein society of Manchester, has been arrested for embezzling $300.

John Frey was arrested at Reading, Pa., July 18th, for the murder of Jacob Walp, Mrs. Walp being arrested as an accessory to the crime. On the 20th Jacob was found at work for a farmer; he said his wife and Frey were no better than they should be, but denied that they were guilty of his murder.

We Caution All Against Them.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in the head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents, of druggists.

Little Six-Year-Old Bessie's Fortune.

Little 6-year-old Bessie Lillenthal, who, orphaned by the death of her father, became the pet of her grandfather, Abraham Leffer—is the holder of one-tenth of the $150,000 ticket in The Louisiana State Lottery. Last week her uncle Adolph bought three one-tenth tickets of The Louisiana State Lottery. Across of No. 51,106 he wrote Bessie's name. Two-tenths of the $150,000 prize had been drawn by Mr. Leffer. Mr. J. T. Dwyer was soon discovered to be one of the lucky winners; Bessie was another.—Savannah News, June 20th.

Missing a Grand Chance.

A despatch of the 20th inst. from Newport, R. I., was as follows:

Secretaries Whitney and Endicott, with the government board of inspectors, left the Dispatch about ten o'clock this morning and were received at the torpedo station with the appropriate salutes, a gun salute being fired from the New Hampshire and a torpedo salute from the station. After their visit to the training ship station they went aboard Herreshoff's steam yacht Stiletto, which took them to Bristol. They will return to New York to-morrow on board the Dispatch.

We grieve to notice that our democratic cotemporaries, which were so ready to fill the circumambient atmosphere with their shrieks about junketting, Bill Chandler's yacht, republican corruption and waste of the people's money, etc., when the late secretary of the navy used the U. S. S. Tallapoosa to transport him from one naval station to another, are missing their chance for a grand howl about junketting, Bill Whitney's yacht, democratic waste of the people's money, etc., when the present secretary of the navy, with his wife, and other secretaries and democratic officials and their wives, go cruising about and have a glorious time on the U. S. S. Dispatch! Was Sec. Chandler's error merely that he did not take the Dispatch as a yacht instead of the Tallapoosa? Or is it that the act which, done by a republican official, was outrageously infamous, when done by a democratic official is most admirable and meritorious! Will our democratic brethren explain?

Naval Intelligence.

Naval Constructor R. W. Steele has been detached from duty as a member of the board of inspection of foreign ships, and placed on waiting orders. Naval Constructor George R. Boush is ordered to duty on the board.

Ensigns Charles E. Sweeting, B. E. Thurston, John M. Ellicott and Henry A. Field have been ordered to duty in the coast survey.

Lieutenants Thomas C. McLean, William H. H. Southerland, and George W. Mentz, Surgeon A. F. Magruder and Assistant Paymaster L. C. Kerr have been detached from the Dolphin and placed on waiting orders.

Secretary Whitney has revoked the sentence of suspension of Paymasters Bellows, Cann and Frezier, who were tried by court-martial on the Pacific coast, on the ground of informality.

Barnum's large Asiatic elephant "Albert," who killed keeper James Sweeney at Nashua last Saturday, was taken to a ravine in the suburbs of Keene on Monday afternoon, and killed. He was chained to four large trees, and the location of his heart and brain marked with chalk. Thirty-three members of the Keene Light Guard were marshalled in line at fifteen paces, and at the word "fire" thirty-three bullets penetrated the vital spots. The huge beast fell dead without a struggle. "Albert" was thirty years old and had been used as a [illegible] forming elephant until the last [illegible] months, when he has shown such temper that he was drawn from the trained herd. He was valued at about $10,000. The remains have been donated to the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, D. C.

In Kentucky we have no law against murder. On the statute books can be found such enactments as are common among civilized nations, but these are nullified by a debauched public sentiment, by inefficient officers, by political necessities, by fraud, force, and terrorism.—Courier Journal.

The Kirmes—Italy's share: Here may be found some evidence of that lovely land, not only in jewelries, coral, amber and Venetian glass necklaces, silver bangles, rings, earrings and many other pretty ornaments, made in that land of grapes and maccaroni, but also in worthy representations of the lovely Italian matron and charming girl, as deserving of memory as ever Petrarch's divine Laura. So, friends of Garabaldi and the great Cavour, come and see the products of the cities they devoted their whole lives to free, as our Washington devoted his life for our land—Naples and Venice, now free cities of the red, green and white, as dear old Portsmouth is of the red, blue and white, all cities by the sea.

GRANVILLE C. SPINNEY.

On Saturday several men were riding on the Buckport branch of the Maine Central railroad when Mr. Royal, the fireman, suddenly fell from the cab. An examination showed that he had been struck by a bullet fired by an unknown person. A physician was called, who thought the man not fatally injured. The shooting was probably accidental.

PURE BLOOD IS THE ABSOLUTE NECESSITY OF HEALTH.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

THE marvellous results of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as seen by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitalizes the blood, and renovates and invigorates the whole system. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures scrofulous diseases that originate in the blood. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from disease that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

SCROFULA.

135 HOWARD STREET, LOWELL, MASS., Jan. 17.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—I have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in my family for scrofulous humor with wonderful success, and am happy to tell you that it is the best medicine we ever used. I do sincerely advise any one who is troubled with scrofula to try this valuable remedy a trial, and assure them they will not be disappointed. Very truly yours,

NEAR B. & R. R. DEPOT.

Having on hand the largest and best selected stock of this side of Boston, I would respectfully call your attention to the same, believing that in most cases it is better for persons about purchasing to see what they are buying than to buy of irresponsible agents with nice looking Photographs of Monumental work. Having a thorough knowledge of the business gained in the principal cities of the Union and still giving my personal attention, all will be satisfied who will give me a call, as to quality of work and prices.

Particular attention given to fencing cemetery lots with marble or granite posts or curbs.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 70 State St., opposite Kilby St., Boston.

Secures Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or assertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Dr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1860, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

ALABAMA CLAIMS.

Among the judgments announced by the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims on the 21st inst. were the following:

No. 2009. John Sise, executor, $4967; William H. Rollins, executor, $200; Leopold Haffer, $600; Thomas E. Call, $171; Marcellus Bufford, executor, $171; John E. Chase, administrator, $1944; Isaac Bell, $600; Joseph W. Peirce, Joshua R. Peirce and William A. Peirce, executors, $1200; John Sise, $50—all with interest at four per cent from April 29th, 1864.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

In one of the cottages at the beach four generations are enjoying the sea breezes, the grandmother and great-grandmother as well as their junior descendents. In passing we noticed, Rev. H. G. Pillsbury and family at the cottage of Geo. E. Leavitt; Stephen I. Dudley and family, of Exeter, at the south end, where there is plenty of good water; Geo. N. Austin and family, and Lewis Simons, of Manchester, are at their seaside homes. Several cottages have been purchased by new comers.

More painting of houses has been done than for many years; Col. Drew is putting "fancy touches" on his.

Mrs. J. J. Leavitt, and Curtis DeLancey, have had more guests than usual for July. Dr. N. C. Towle and family, and the family of Rev. Frederick Palmer, of Philadelphia, R. Averill, Esq., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Geo. D. Tufts and family, of Newport, John Hamilton and lady, four daughters and son, of Boston, who gave up their sixteenth summer trip to Europe owing to the sickness of Miss Ella Hamilton, after they had secured their passage tickets, also Mrs. Trull of Boston, Mrs. Spaulding and son of Dedham, and Edward L. Kelley, wife, two children and colored servant, of Amesbury, are among the guests at DeLancey place.

Dr. Swett and family of Jamaica Plain, formerly of Exeter, are happily domiciled in the fine large house of Edmund Mason, near the north beach, having the whole house to themselves, Mr. Mason and wife retiring to his brother's.

That field of corn planted July 1st came up in less than five days, and on the sixth day some of it measured two inches above the ground, showing three leaves. Quicker still! We planted a few hundred hills of sweet corn after sunset on the 13th inst., and on the fourth day, before dark, the green blades were peeping out of the ground! Next? * *

HAMPTON, July 21st.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., July 21st.

Colby C. Pettigrew of North Kittery sustained a shock of paralysis late on Monday afternoon, the 20th, depriving him entirely of the use of his right side and of the power of speech. He was unloading hay when it occurred.

Rev. Perry Chandler will move this week from his present residence at the village to the parsonage of the 1st M. E. church in North Kittery, where he will remain a few weeks, during which time repairs will be made at his village home.

Mr. Isaac H. Lambert of North Kittery has hired the blacksmith shop formerly occupied by Newell Armstrong, at York village, and is conducting the business of horse-shoeing on his own account. Mr. Lambert served an apprenticeship with Mr. Saulsbury Williams of Kittery, one of the best horse-shoers in this vicinity, and has for a number of years past been employed in the department of yards and docks at the navy yard, shoeing the horses and oxen belonging to the government. With strict attention to business we trust he will receive a liberal share of patronage.

The Pepperell house at Kittery Point is one of the pleasantest summer resorts in this section. Its surrounding views are unsurpassed; the ocean, Portsmouth harbor, forts, lighthouses and numerous islands comprise the foreground, while the inland views present city, village, woodland, river and valley scenery. The spacious harbor affords excellent opportunities for boating and fishing, and a convenient stream of salt water of a higher temperature than the immediate seashore is particularly adapted to persons of delicate health. There are many pleasant walks and drives, and numerous points of historical interest in the vicinity. The house is located on an elevation which was formerly a part of the estate of Sir William Pepperell, the hero of Louisburg; the birthplace of Sir William, the mansion erected by Lady Pepperell, the Sparhawk house and the family tomb are in close proximity. The hotel will accommodate about seventy-five persons, and there are rooms in cottages near by which accommonate twenty-five more, who can take their meals at the hotel, where the spacious dining hall has room to accommodate not only them but all transient guests. The table is well supplied with vegetables raised on the farm connected with the house, thus having them fresh and in abundance. The proprietor, Mr. Edward F. Safford, evidently studies the wants of his patrons and endeavors in all possible ways to make his house attractive and comfortable; he is very particular in regard to his employes, engaging only those who are orderly and polite. Mr. Fred Grace, the efficient clerk of the house this year, has served in that capacity for several years past. Mrs. Safford too does her part toward making those who sojourn at the Pepperell feel at home; she superintends all the work about the house, and on a recent visit we found her in the laundry as busily engaged as any of the girls. At present the house has about sixty guests, among whom are Mr. C. F. McCluer and family of Boston, (Mr. McCluer is building a cottage on Gerrish's island,) Admiral Taylor, U. S. N., and family, Prof. C. E. Shackford of Cornell university, Lieut. Doyen and Dr. Percy, U. S. N., Chas. E. Devlin and wife, Miss E. S. Tappan, New York, Miss M. S. Goddard of Brookline, Mass., Frank L. Cowles, manager of the Dartmouth street Art School of Boston, Prof. Juglaris and twenty others of the same institution, Capt. C. H. Brooks, Miss E. Brooks and Miss Elizabeth Jones of Boston. All the rooms are engaged.

Morrill Lodge of Good Templars will have a sort of reunion at their lodge room on Friday evening next; all the members of the lodge are invited, and expected to come; refreshments will be served.

Dr. Johnson's three-years-old Smuggler colt, that got a nail in one of his fore feet several weeks ago, is doing well, and is in a fair way to recover; the colt is a valuable one, and would have been quite a loss to the doctor.

A company of young ladies and gentlemen from Portsmouth and Kittery are contemplating going to York beach to pass a fortnight, hiring a cottage for their special use.

Rev. E. W. Hutchinson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at South Berwick, who dropped dead while riding with his wife on their way to Old Orchard beach on Monday last, was well known in this vicinity and throughout the state, being one of our most earnest temperance workers. SUB ROSA.

The great Kirmes opens to-night, and will exhibit its splendors from six o'clock onward through one evening. A delicious supper will be provided; the most delicate gruyere cheese will be found at the Swiss booth, and untold attractions will appear at the Gipsey tent.

Naval Constructor William H. Varney, who has been appointed inspector of paints for use in the navy, in place of Naval Constructor Samuel H. Pook, visited this navy yard in that capacity on Tuesday, the 21st inst.

The lasters employed by the Portsmouth Shoe Co. struck on Tuesday, it is reported because of the discharge of one of their number.

A party of twenty-eight persons came down from Great Falls on Tuesday evening, to go out on the schooner Wm. H. Russell and remain until Wednesday evening.

B. U. Simes of Milton Mills died at his residence in that town on the 15th inst., in the 85th year of his age. He had been in his usual health, active and vigorous for a man of his years, but on the evening of the 15th was taken with a severe pain in his heart, and died in about fifteen minutes. For forty years he was engaged in the dry goods trade in that town; he also carried on the grocery business, all with good success. He represented the town in the legislature, and was one of its most active and successful business men. He was a native of this city, but passed most of his life in Milton.

Two hundred and thirty trains daily arrive at and depart from the depots of the Boston & Maine railroad in Boston. This is a greater number than were ever before moved on both the Boston & Maine and Eastern roads, while under separate management. During 1884 both roads carried about 15,000,000 passengers. At the Boston & Maine headquarters last week it was stated that if the present rate of travel to the mountains continues until the end of the present summer season, the number of passengers who will have been carried at the end of the year over the various divisions of the Boston & Maine will approximate 20,000,000.

It was reported on Monday that Percival Downing of Eliot, the man who was kicked in this city so roughly as to break his leg one day last week, had died from the effects of his brutal treatment; but he was alive on Tuesday morning.

Details regarding the death of Rev. E. W. Hutchinson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at South Berwick, state that he was on the way to Old Orchard beach at the time, and not to York beach as stated in the first account. He started with his wife at four o'clock Monday morning, the 20th inst., to drive to Old Orchard, and had reached Wells Depot when the horse stumbled and fell. Both Mr. Hutchinson and his wife got out and were examining the carriage, which had been slightly damaged by the horse, when the gentleman gave a quick gasp, and fell back and breathed his last. The accident was some distance from any house, but some farm hands were attracted and rendered the necessary assistance. Mr. Hutchinson was on his third year as pastor of the South Berwick church, and was an earnest worker. He had been ill recently, but had sufficiently recovered to attend to pastoral duties.

Hon. William C. Endicott, secretary of war, consents to allow the town of Marblehead, Mass., to make a public park of old Fort Sewall, set out shades trees and otherwise beautify the place, subject only to use by the government when necessity shall demand. Benjamin W. Crowninghield has been appointed custodian of the fort, and the town will be asked to raise the necessary funds to put it in order.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any state meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other infectious disease so to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing occasioned by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flats or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

The Ranking Hostler.

Gen. Stannard's second Vermont brigade camp at Union Mills in the spring of 1863 was the gayest camp possible in the Army of the Potomac. It boasted of such representatives as Col. Hooker, chief of staff, Lieut. Schermerhorn, Hill, Prentiss, Perley Downer, George M. Clark, Hank White, etc., of which Col. Hooker was the recognized leader. In "foraging" some of the boys of the brigade had discovered an antediluvian vehicle, very costly and stylish probably in the days of its make in England. But it had been out of use for fifty years or more, and was kept as an heirloom.

The discovery of the carriage came to Hooker's knowledge, and he at once levied upon it. It was brought into camp, and with six mules in the hands of the brigade teamster, the members of Gen. Stannard's staff started to go the rounds of inspecting regimental headquarters. They were gone nearly the whole afternoon, and, of course, were obliged to stop everywhere on their rounds to "take something." The times were not so strictly temperate then as now. There was but little doing in camp, and Stannard was most aware of their absence or their mission, until this conveyance, with the party, drove up to his headquarters and called him out.

It is said that the general was very much chagrined at the predicament they were in, and considerably angered, too. Hooker sat with the driver on his "seat in the air," while Schermerhorn, Hill, Prentiss, and Downer were in the box below. Gen. Stannard did not intend the "rig" should depart, so he stepped to the mules on the lead and took one by the bit. Then he went for his boys at a furious rate, using more adjectives and expletives than Miss Cleveland, if possible, but not of the same sort.

Stannard had directed most of his conversation to Hooker, who, in turn, advised his comrades to go to their quarters. Finally Hooker came down; got down and went directly to Stannard and quietly said: "See here, general, I feel that I have been honored to-day as never before. I have been complimented beyond my expectations, because it is the first time in my life that I ever had a brigadier general for a hostler. Here is 25 cents; take it." The general took in the ridiculousness of the situation and closed his lecture with a hearty laugh. But the boys were slow to offend him afterward.—St. Albans Messenger.

Renovating Second-Hand Corks.

In a queer little room in a queer old house in Forsyth street at the end of an old-fashioned brick-paved alleyway, a snowy-bearded man, bubbling over with good nature, sat at a low bench yesterday clipping corks with a carving knife as keen as a razor. A little wooden sign over the alley-way had the single work "Corks" painted on it. "Corks" was scrawled with chalk on the door of the room in which the busy man sat, and he himself was enthroned on an old stool among great mounds of corks of all kinds and sizes. They were scattered in heaps on the bench, stored in great paper bags at his feet, and piled high in wooden boxes behind him. He strapped the keen blade of the knife against the edge of the bench every little while, and clipped the corks before him with the regularity of machinery, while he chatted with a visitor about the odd industry of making new corks out of old ones. He was old Pop Mackin, the pioneer of the trade of renovating second-hand corks.

"There are more people at the business now," he said, "than anybody would dream of. They go around buying up all the second-hand corks they can get at $5 a barrel. A barrel will hold from twenty-seven to twenty-nine gross of corks. They get the old corks from retail liquor stores, and then sort them out according to size. Then they're dumped into a big tub of cold water and soaked till the dirt is all rinsed out. After that they're tossed into a boiler of hot water and steamed. The steaming is done by covering the boiler tightly with a piece of heavy carpet. It keeps the steam imprisoned, and drives it through the cork. The corks are in all sorts of curious shapes when they are put in the steam-bath, but no matter how they have been crushed in by the neck of the bottle or by the wire and twine fastenings—and some of them are tough-looking corks, too—they come out of the bath perfectly shaped again. After the bath the corks are allowed to dry, and then we trim them with a sharp knife, and they are just as good as new."

"But how," the visitor asked, "can you hide the damage where a corkscrew has been bored through a cork?"

"Easy enough," the old man responded with a laugh, as he picked out a perfect little cork; "that trick was done with a cutting machine. The fact is that a corkscrew only damages, as a rule, the top and bottom of a cork. The damaged cork is sent through a cutting machine, and paired down until the damaged part is cut away. Sometimes it has to go through the machine two or three times before it is perfect, but after that it is as good as any cork that was ever made."

"How many corks can a man prepare daily?"

"It depends upon the corks; but an industrious man can sort, wash, steam, and trim about fifty dozen corks. They are sold by the gross again. Sometimes the profit is only $1 a barrel, sometimes more."

"Can you make it pay at that?"

"I guess I'm satisfied," Pop Mackin said, decidedly. "I used to work in a soda-water factory away back in '53, when I first caught on to the idea from a fellow who came on from Philadelphia to buy up all the old corks he [illegible] a day. I tried cork renovating, and I found that I could spend a lot of time chatting with friends that I met in daytime, and could make just as much and often more than when I worked steadily at the soda-water business. I went to the war for three years. A man who hadn't $50 to his name when I left took hold of the business while I was away. When I got home again I found him living in a house of his own in Twelfth street. He had made the cost of it by buying up old corks, and old bottles, too, and renovating them. He sold them again at a handsome profit, because it was war times, and business booming. I never was as lucky as that, but there's many a man at a more ambitious business worse off, and much less contented than I am, my boy, and you can tell them so from me."—New York Sun.

Blasted Hopes.

A New York correspondent writes that the most popular thing in the amusement line in that city just now is a song from a comic German opera. The verses are clever, and each one propounds a query which lead to the refrain: "Seek the answer in the stars." The song is sung says the correspondent, by three persons, and they do it with all the comicality which they can command; but, while the audience was laughing, it occurred to me that the successful performers must have felt more like weeping. Why? Because of their blasted hopes. They were Mme. Cotrelly, De Wolf Hopper, and Digby Bell. Neither was satisfied with being a clown. Cotrelly is a German, and for several seasons she played tragic roles in her own language, being the leading tragedienne of the Thalia theater. Her ambition was to become a Ristori or Rachel, but she is compelled to drop to farce. De Wolf Hopper went on the stage eight years ago full of the intention to excel in heroic characters. He played lovers to Lotta awhile, and expected to advance into legitimate parts. He was accorded a trial once with Edwin Booth. It was no use. His talent lies in grotesquerie, and he must be a buffoon or nothing histrionic. Digby Bell used to row on the Harlem along with a party of well-to-do New Yorkes, to whom he occasionally sang barytone songs in a voice which he, and the listeners, thought would be a boom to grand opera. He cultivated it, found that it was not good enough for the high purpose, and is perforce a comic singer of topical doggerel.

Cuticura

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for eleven years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as more are well known in this part of the country, it will benefit you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MATSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. M. KICK, Champion Comique Roller Skater
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am happy to get it to do my skin commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.
MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others.

ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

speedily cured by our new radical methods. Pamphlet, references and terms, two letter stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Tuesday, July 21st, was the hottest day of the year in many places. In Pittsburg, Pa., there were four fatal cases of sunstroke, and a number of mills shut down. In New York the thermometer showed 100 in the shade, and the mortality more than doubled.

The Beauty of Youth.

No matter how handsome or stalwart a young man may be otherwise, nothing can make up for a partially bald head. Shining talents are attractive, but a shining poll is not. The cause may be sickness or anything else, yet Parker's Hair Balsam will stop the loss of the hair and start a new growth of glossy and soft hair so quickly as to surprise you—restoring the original color at the same time. Not a dye, not oily, delicately perfumed. Only standard 50c. dressing.

Parker for hotel uses, since which time he has lived in retirement.

Little Six-Year-Old Bessie's Fortune.

Little 6-year-old Bessie Lillenthal, who, orphaned by the death of her father, became the pet of her grandfather, Abraham Leffler—is the holder of one-tenth of the $150,000 ticket in The Louisiana State Lottery. Last week her uncle Adolph bought three one-tenth tickets of The Louisiana State Lottery. Across of No. 51,106 he wrote Bessie's name. Two-tenths of the $150,000 prize had been drawn by Savannahians. Mr. J. T. Dwyer was soon discovered to be one of the lucky winners. Bessie was another.—Savannah News, June 20th.

Dyspepsia.

GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters, that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the Louisiana State Lottery Company and thought we would try them. The result is my wife and I began to improve at once, and I am now able to do more hard work than before in ten years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it, Godspeed.

English Opera in America.

Mr. H. B. Mahn, a well known manager of English opera, first introduced Miss Jeannie Winston to the American public. Mr. Mahn was formerly a coroner of Philadelphia, and, therefore, knows how dangerous cough mixtures containing morphia or opium are. He says that in the winter months the members of his company are much exposed to cold. Whenever he detects symptoms of hoarseness in any of them, he gives them Red Star Cough Cure, and by this means they never miss any of their engagements.

General Grant.

The dying hero at Mount McGregor was on Wednesday reported to be evidently nearing his end; at one o'clock P. M. his pulse was weak and fluttering, his strength failing, and his voice almost gone. It was thought doubtful by the physicians if he survived the night.

The War in the Soudan.

A despatch from Cairo states that a large body of rebels a few nights ago made a vigorous attack on Kassala, and attempted to take it by storm. They attacked the place at three points, but the garrison poured into their columns a destructive fire, and succeeded in repelling them at every point. The garrison then sallied forth, and pressed the retreating enemy so closely that they fled precipitately, leaving behind them 2000 oxen and sheep, 700 rifles and a large quantity of ammunition. The rebels lost fully 3000 in killed and wounded. The casualties to the garrison were small. It is understood that England is sanguine of making an arrangement with King John of Abyssinia to relieve Kassala. The Bosphore-Egyptien publishes a letter from an engineer named Bertie, who has just escaped from Berber, declaring that M. Ollivier Pain, the alleged French adviser of El Mahdi, and who, it was recently stated, had been killed by Arabs for a reward offered for his head by British officers, is not dead, but alive and well at Berber.

New Hampshire Patents.

The following list of patents granted July 21st to citizens of New Hampshire is specially reported by Franklin H. Hough, Solicitor of American & Foreign Patents, 925 F. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.:

No. 322,444. H. Handy, Fitzwilliam, egg-packer.

No. 322,600. F. R. Hazleton, Concord, umbrella-displayer.

No. 322,461. A. C. Lord, Northfield, eye-glasses.

The whole number of patents granted to citizens of the United States for the week ending July 21st was 456.

Mr. Cleveland's newly-appointed pension agent at Columbus, Ohio, is a man who was dishonorably dismissed from the army for resigning his command in the face of the enemy and on the eve of a battle; and the new pension agent at Philadelphia has appointed as his clerk one Col. Barbiere, who won his title in the confederate army, and three years after the war published a book in which he glorified the cause of secession, bitterly denounced the union cause and the union soldiers, and vilified Abraham Lincoln. It is galling to the pensioners in that district to have to receive their pensions through such an agency.

A London despatch of July 21st says intelligence has been received from West Africa that the king of Dahomey, with many followers, on May 10th made a raid on the villages under French protection near Porto Novo. His troops indulged in wholesale massacre of the inhabitants, and burned all their dwellings. One thousand youths and women were captured and carried back into Dahomey, to be sacrificed at the cannibalistic feasts. Another despatch says the captives were all put to death, roasted and eaten.

Active preparations are being made at the Saco Water Power machine shop, at Biddeford, to resume work, and in a week a portion of the establishment will be running at full blast. A large order that will consume four or five months in filling has been received, and work upon it will be commenced as soon as the material and machinery can be placed in readiness. The foundry starts up on Monday, and the other departments will start as soon as possible. About three-fourths of the full complement of hands will be given work.

All the lobster canning factories in the state of Maine have shut down, as the law forbids the canning of lobsters from July 15th to April 1st, under a penalty of $5 for every lobster canned. The lobster canners have a short season and are always in hot water. Several firms have been mulcted for having on hand too short lobsters this season; they find fault with the law, and this subject undoubtedly will be agitated in the next legislature.

Thomas Jordan concludes his papers on the Vicksburg campaign, and shows to his own satisfaction that all of Gen. Grant's movements were but lucky blunders, and that he should have been beaten; Leroy D. Thoman, of the civil service commission, discourses of civil service reform, and J. G. Rosengarten of the German soldier in the wars of the United States; Lieut. Shufeldt gives his fourth paper about Madagascar; the two serials, "One of the Duanes" and "Jack Hamlin's," are continued, and there are other articles in prose and verse, and the usual editorial notes. PURE BLOOD

IS THE ABSOLUTE NECESSITY OF HEALTH.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

THE marvellous results of Hood's SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as proven by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it. It eradicates the blood, strengthens and renovates, thereby restoring the whole system. Hood's SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures dyspepsia. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in Hood's SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

Check-List Notice.

THE Board of Inspection of Check-Lists gives notice that they have posted copies of all the check-lists of the city in the corridor of the city building, and also have posted a list of Ward One at the store of Cox & Newman on North street, and a list of Ward Three at the store of John Mitchell on Islington street, and a list of Ward Four at the store of John J. Leakey on Pleasant street, for the inspection of the voters of the city.

They also give notice that they will be in session at the city building on Thursday the 23d day of July, on Tuesday the 28th day of July, and on Friday the 31st day of July, 1885, from 9 o'clock A. M. to 12 M., and from 2 to 5 P. M., on each of said days, for the purpose of revising and correcting the list of voters.

They will also be in session at the same place from 8 to 10 A. M. and from 1 to 2 P. M., on the day of election, for the purpose of furnishing certificates to any persons whose names may have been omitted and who the Board are satisfied have resided in the ward one year next preceding said election. By Order of the Board.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Continued warm, generally fair weather.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 56 degrees above zero.

Sky clear.

THE KIRMES.

The Kirmes, or fair of all nations, at the Portsmouth Casino on Wednesday evening, 22d inst., was a great success in every respect. The attendance was very large, between 700 and 800 tickets being sold at the door; the hall was elaborately yet tastefully decorated, and the several booths were attractive in their arrangement, the articles offered for sale, and the ladies in charge, of course. The grand march of representatives of different nationalities was very effective, and was followed by a figure dance performed by twelve charming and graceful young ladies; this dance, which was perhaps the most pleasing feature of the whole pleasant affair, was arranged by Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Eastman. The use of the Casino was given by Dr. Potter, and a handsome sum must have been realized for the charity fund the affair was gotten up to benefit.

FISH HO!

At an early hour on Wednesday forenoon, the 22d inst., the attention of persons passing over the north millbridge was drawn to thousands of eels which were darting about in the water outside the bridge, under the old mill and around the tanyard wharf, and passing through the tide gates into the pond in vast numbers. To say there were thousands of them is no exaggeration, for a person leaning over the railing on the westerly side of the bridge, and looking down into the rushing water as it entered the pond, could see them by dozens at a time, and the procession was not only continuous, but was moving very fast. There were also to be seen a few cunners and small pollock, still fewer crabs and an occasional lobster, and numbers of small flat-fish, either plaice or flounders; but the eels many times outnumbered all the others put together. Mr. Alexander L. Rand, who ran the old grist mill for many years, and other persons who all their lives have been familiar with the pond and the bridge, never saw any such display of fish there before; many tons of them must have passed into the pond, though what in the world they were after is hard to conjecture, unless they aimed to commit suicide by smothering in its foul waters.

THE DRINKING FOUNTAIN.

The new drinking fountain on Market square is in position, and the big gas-light was burning brightly on Tuesday night of this week, though a good deal of work remained to be done ere the water could be turned on. The fountain is to be supplied with water from the ten-inch main on State street, which has eighteen feet more head than the old main on Congress street; a two-inch pipe is to be laid through Church street to the fountain, and the overflow from the drinking trough will escape through a waste pipe into the old stone drain which extends down the northerly side of Congress street from High street. The feed pipe will be led by the fountain to the reservoir on the square, so that in case of fire the full two-inch stream can be turned into the reservoir, a valuable supplementary supply.

The fountain itself is a well made and heavy piece of iron work, but the drinking trough or bowl appears at the first view to be too high up. How it will serve its purpose in actual use we shall have to wait and see; but the general opinion of teamsters and horse men as expressed on Wednesday was that but few horses in the city could drink from it unless the ground around the base was graded up, and that horned cattle, and country horses accustomed to drink from brooks and ponds, would be entirely unable to quench their thirst there. But we presume that similar fountains have been put up in other places, and hope it will turn out to be all that is required.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Col. C. E. Blunt, United States engineer in charge of river and harbor improvements in Maine and New Hampshire, has made his annual report to the chief of engineers. He reports that for the improvement of Portsmouth harbor there is $15,211 available; additional amount required for completing present work, $30,000; required for year ending June 30th, 1887, $30,000. Cocheco river, amount available, $9,804; required to complete present work, $19,000; required for year ending June 30th, 1887, $19,000.

THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

A despatch of the 21st inst. from Washington says:

It is learned that Secretary Whitney has decided that the eight-hour law shall hereafter be enforced in the different navy yards—that is, the employes shall receive ten hours pay for eight hours labor.

If this is not true, it should be. The law that eight hours should constitute a day's work was passed by congress and signed by the president, the same as any other national law; and it has never been repealed. Yet in spite of this, and of the special provision made by congress that there should be no reduction of pay on account of the reduction of the working hours on the navy yards, such a reduction has been made right along by every secretary of the navy since the law was passed, up to the present time. That the measure was introduced in congress by demagogues, in hope to make political capital with the working men out of the opposition which it was confidently expected the other party would make to its passage, is undoubtedly true; it was just the same way with the arrears-of-pensions act; and as in the latter case, the other party did not see the advisability of putting such a club in the hands of their opponents, so they all went for the measure and made it a law, and nobody made any political capital out of it. It is a law that should never have been passed, but it is the law, and until it is repealed it should be observed; the republican secretaries of the navy have persistently violated it, and if the democratic secretary proposes to obey it, it is to his credit.

The millpond surpassed itself on Tuesday night last, and compelled people living as far away as Pleasant street to close the windows of their houses and roast to death, the alternative being to keep the windows open and be poisoned. Gentlemen of the city government, please hurry up that twenty-eight-feet-deep cut through the ledge on Deer street.

The schooner Queen of the West, a fishing vessel of about fifty tons register, hailing from Tremont, Me., struck on the Eastern Sister, near the entrance to this harbor, about eleven o'clock in the forenoon on the 22d inst., and at low tide in the afternoon was lying in a bad position, having a heavy list, and ten or fifteen feet of her keel forward being out of water. It was then thought that if she did not fill with the rising tide she would float off at high water.

The republicans of ward one had a spirited and largely attended meeting in Franklin block on the evening of the 21st inst.

A committee of members of the legislature visited this city on the 22d inst., on business relating to the charter of Newcastle bridge, and were entertained by Major Urch. In the afternoon the party visited the navy yard, and after being courteously shown around by an officer detailed for the purpose, were set across the river by the Emerald on a special trip. As they came up Daniel street they were looked at askance by local candidates for jobs on the yard, it being supposed that they were men from inland who had been over to "pass" for foremanships; but so far as we can learn, they had a good deal better time on the yard than the office-seekers did.

The millpond, Wednesday night—Phew!

About twenty-five young ladies and gentlemen went from this city to Kittery Point by the steamer James Sampson on the 22d inst., on a picnic.

A Mr. Roberts, of Rochester, is building a steamer thirty-five feet long and six feet beam on Noble's island, in the building formerly used as a joiner's shop in connection with the shipyard there. Mr. Roberts is himself doing the carpenter work, and Mr. Benjamin M. Bailey has done the calking.

The Garrison house at Long sands, York, under the proprietorship of Messrs. Sanborn & Preble, was completed last season barely in time for the reception of company, but was well patronized, and this season has a large number of boarders. It is of the Queen Anne style of architecture, and erected upon a knoll at the extreme westerly end of the beach. It is capable of comfortably accommodating fifty guests, in airy and well-ventilated rooms. The tower rises to a height of eighty feet above the level of the sea, and affords a picturesque view of the surrounding scenery. The water for the house is taken from a living spring about two hundred yards distant, and is forced to a reservoir in the upper story of the house. Extensive bath houses have recently been finished, close to the ocean. The house derives its name from an old garrison house built for defence against the Indians in the early days of the settlements, the ruins of which were removed from a spot near by a few years ago.

Mr. Colby C. Pettigrew of Kittery, who had a shock of paralysis on Monday of this week while at work in the hay field, died about noon on Wednesday.

A spruce-looking young fellow of about twenty-five years, apparently, came into our sanctum on Wednesday of this week, and greeted us with strangely familiar manner and voice. A short conversation sufficed to convince us that our visitor was none other than our old and valued friend (we "rap" him sometimes, but of course that is always in a Pickwickian sense) "Admiral" E. C. Nealley of Kittery, who has just had his full beard shaved off for the first time in twenty-six years, leaving only the moustache, and looks twenty years younger, and pretty as a picture. We have decided to get a clean shave the first time we get the required specie.

P. S. Since writing the above we have been home, and have concluded to defer having our whiskers removed for the present.

—"Do you believe in woman's suffrage?" "Do I? Well, I guess I do. I don't keer how much they suffer. Young man, I am married."

—There never was a man so slow that he would not jump when his wife suddenly asked him: "Where did that hair on your coat collar come from?"

—You will seldom see a sadder face than the face of him who wears the anxious look of one who has loaned a lead pencil and is momentarily expecting that it will not be returned.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in the head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents, of druggists.

Mr. Alexander D. Bray, of Magnolia, Mass., died July 18th. He was sixty-seven years of age, and formerly was in charge of the lights at Thatcher's Island. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

CELEBRATED

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or premises over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

GLEANINGS.

New Orleans was founded by a company of French adventurers in 1743.

New Mexico spent $45,000 for churches and $6,485,000 for liquor last year.

The number of goats in Angora increased 199,810 last year, and the tax upon them now reaches 772,653 piastres.

Louisa M. Alcott writes a letter saying she reads no newspaper but the Woman's Journal—a very foolish admission.

An immense salt vein, 1,985 feet below the surface, and 164 feet thick, has been discovered in the suburbs of Cleveland.

San Diego county, California, contains a population of fifteen thousand and has a land area of fifteen thousand square miles.

The Atlantic and Pacific railroad, it is said, has offered $50,000 for Linden park, Los Angeles, Cal., as the site for a railroad depot.

A recently originated New York novelty is a glove store in the window of which four operatives are engaged in making kid gloves by machinery.

The old lady who asked for a gold ring sixteen parsnips fine was probably related to the elderly gentleman who said his daughter was attending the conservatory of music.

The owner of some tenement property in London was lately fined $150 for failing to keep it in proper order. He appealed, but only to be told that he was really liable to a fine of $700.

The population of California is about 900,000. The railroad has contributed materially to this total, though some of the net gain of 300,000 by rail in the past sixteen years has gone to swell the population in adjacent States and Territories.

Science has come to the aid of base ball players, and announces for the benefit of batsmen who are ambitious to make heavy hits that the ball should be struck at the angle of twenty-three degrees in order to send it to the greatest possible distance.

The farm king of Alabama is Bragg B. Comer, of Barbour county. He raised 2,250 bales of cotton last year, besides a large amount of corn. He has from 8,000 to 10,000 acres in cotton and corn this year, and says crop prospects were never better.

An inventive Australian has devised an arrangement by which the doors of railway carriages are closed and kept closed while the train is in motion by a lever worked by the motion of the carriage axle. When the train stops the device ceases to work and the door may be opened.

The pay of a Russian army officer is very small. A full General gets from $1,500 to $2,000 a year in our money, according to length of service; a Lieutenant General from $1,172 to $1,750; a Major General from $790 to $1,390, and a Colonel commanding a three battalion regiment, 2,400 strong, gets $594.

The Earl of Selkirk, whose title has become extinct by his death lately at St. Mary's Isle, Scotland, was son of the founder of the Selkirk settlement in Canada. Paul Jones once dropped down on St. Mary's Isle and carried off the family plate while the Earl was away. It was recovered, and the family have it to-day.

Robert Yergin, a one-armed ex-Confederate soldier of South Carolina, has, and 18-year-old daughter who cannot only run the engine to gin her father's cotton, but she has earned money enough to carry her through the Columbia female college and to come out with the valedictory—the first honor in the graduating class.

New York men have taken to wearing boutonnieres of late, and flower stands have sprung up from one end of the city to the other. Every other man wears a flower in his buttonhole, even when going up-town from his business, and at night even a large proportion are decorated with a rose, lily of the valley or some violets.

Did you ever notice a woman in a hurry? She goes along decorously for a little time. Suddenly she makes a spurt, runs about twenty yards, slows down panting, and if you watch the man walking leisurely on the other side of the street you will find he will get to the corner of the block before she does, and she is out of breath at that.

Senator Evarts' bon mot gotten off at Mount Vernon to Chief Justice Coleridge has been wrongly quoted. What he really said was: "Lord Coleridge, I do not doubt that General Washington threw that dollar across the Potomac. He was a man of great physical strength, and as you will remember, he threw a British sovereign across the ocean."

Operatic kisses are now agitating the country. The "Patti kiss," incident to Patti's embrace of Miss Nevada in Boston, is radiating from the Hub. The "Nevada kiss," attendant upon the singer's bestowal of 300 kisses upon 300 girls of San Francisco, is sweeping over the Rocky Mountains. The "Abbott kiss" has taken a new start in Richmond.

Every army has its particular mode of payment. In France, Italy, etc., the men are paid every five days; in Spain—seldom, and in Turkey on still rarer occasions. In China soldiers are paid monthly. Out of his monthly pay of 9½ taels, about 30 francs, he sets aside one-third for his keep; the rest goes for clothing, equipment and pocket money—should anything be left.

Anna Dickinson's donkey on which she made the perilous ascent of Pike's Peak before the trail to the summit of that mountain was completed, is kept on exhibition at Manitou Springs, and allowed to do pretty much as it pleases. Four years ago it fell from a ledge of rocks and broke its fore leg in Cheyenne Canyon, but speedily recovered, and is now as frisky as a Mexican parrot.

Oklahoma has become a generic term. As now used it refers to all the lands in the Indian Territory which have not been set apart as reservations for the different tribes which are located there. Strictly speaking, the name Oklahoma applies only to a comparatively small area of land located near the center of the territory. The territory itself is about 200 by 400 miles in extent.

How many of those who traverse the Brooklyn Bridge know that it goes over a spot which must ever have an interest for the readers of American history—the site of Washington's first residence in New York after he became President of the United States. The house stood at the corner of Franklin Square and Cherry street, a short distance from the site of the Messrs. Harper Brothers' great establishment, and there on the 29th of May, 1789, Mrs. Washington held her first reception.

It is the opinion of many eminent British engineers that the English coals will gradually cease to be sent to the Mediterranean, and even the Red Sea, as the use of petroleum refuse in engines becomes better understood. Already it is the only fuel in use on the Caspian, either in the mercantile marine, in the Russian gunboat flotilla, or on the railways, and in domestic stoves it is in favor throughout the Caucasus. At present in the countries of the east, much oil refuse is poured into the sea as the only way to dispose of it.

Dress is purely a matter of convention, says Labouchere. There is no real reason beyond custom, why a lady should show her arms and not show her legs. I remember on first landing in the west Indies I was somewhat surprised to observe a handmaid occupied in scrubbing who had pinned up her petticoat so as to show her naked legs. But I soon got so accustomed to this that I looked upon it as the natural order of things. In another country in which I was the ladies wore a slight band round their waists. In this case, too, I soon regarded these waist-bands as the natural order of things.

It is estimated that the base-ball clubs of this country will cost the people $16,000,000 this year.

DISFIGURING HUMORS, ITCHING TORTURES, AND LOATHESOME SORES.

I HAVE TRIED for eleven years to have my wife cured of a terrible skin disease. The CUTICURA REMEDIES (CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally) have done in six weeks what I have tried for three years to have done. You shall have the particulars as soon as I can give them to you, and as we speak well known in this part of the country, I will speak for you, and the remedies will cure all who use them.

MAYSVILLE, KY. CHAS. H. WHITE.

BLOTCHES CURED.

I used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for Blotches, and am completely cured, to my inexpressible joy. CUTICURA SOAP is the best I have ever used, and to the profession it is invaluable for cleansing the skin, thereby removing all "cork," grease, paint, and all the stuff used by them, leaving the skin pure, and white and soft. My greatest pleasure is in recommending such an article.

H. MACK, Champion Comique Roller Skater YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO.

BEST FOR ANYTHING.

Having used your CUTICURA REMEDIES for eighteen months for Tetter, and finally cured it, I am anxious to get it to sell on commission. I can recommend it beyond any remedies I have ever used for Tetter, Burns, Cuts, etc. In fact, it is the best medicine I have ever tried for anything.

R. S. HORTON.

MYRTLE, MISS.

NEVER A COMPLAINT.

Since I have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES I have never heard a single complaint, but on the contrary every one who has used them has been well pleased with them, and they outsell all others. E. B. CUBBERLY, Druggist.

ANDREWS, IND.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

I had a dozen bad sores upon my body, and tried all remedies I could hear of, and at last tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES and they have cured me.

At Menden, La., on the night of July 21st, 100 armed men forced the deputy sheriff to open the door of the jail, and then entered that portion of the prison where were confined two notorious negro desperadoes, Cicero Green and John Figues, and fired at them in their cells until they had filled the bodies of their victims with buckshot. The negroes were accused of murder, and of waylaying with intent to kill.

"Gentle Spring."

Among spring preparations, do not neglect that which is most important of all—your own body. During the winter the blood absorbs many impurities, which, if not expelled, are liable to break out in scrofula or other disease. The best spring medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It expels every impurity from the blood, and gives strength to every function of the body. Sold by all druggists.

Asa J. King of Lancaster, a brother-in-law of Oscar Stanley of Jefferson, the principal pecuniary sufferer by the recent mountain slide, has become a raving maniac, and has been conveyed to the insane asylum at Concord. He first exhibited symptoms of insanity about two weeks ago, and was being cared for at his father's home, one-half mile from Stanley's, when the slide occurred, and it is thought that the excitement of the occasion, followed as it was by the sad death of young Walker, who was fatally injured by the falling timbers of Stanley's barn, tended to aggravate the malady.

Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to cure asthma, catarrh, croup, colds, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For croup it is decidedly efficacious." [Mrs. Jacob Mellinger of Marion, Ohio, says the same thing.] S. S. Graves, Akron, N. Y., writes: "Had asthma of the worst kind, took one dose of Thomas' Eclectric Oil and was relieved in a few minutes. Would walk five miles for this medicine and pay $5 a bottle for it." Druggist C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "Cured an ulcerated throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. My wife insisted that I use Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first teaspoonful RELIEVED me." E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, N. Y., Thomas' Eclectric Oil is also a Tiger external application for rheumatism, cuts, scalds, burns, bites, bruises, etc. When visiting the druggist, ask him what he knows of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; if he has been long in the drug trade, he sure to will speak highly of it.

Death of Gen. Grant.

A despatch from Mount McGregor announced the death of Gen. Grant a little after eight o'clock in the morning on Thursday, July 23d. Since Tuesday his condition had been gradually growing worse, and it was reported that he was dying, and his family and friends summoned to his bedside, at two different times. During Wednesday his condition was so weak that his physicians dared not administer the usual doses of morphine, to afford the patient relief from the fearful pains in his throat. In the afternoon there was a slight rally, and the patient was able to converse in a whisper, but there was no real change for the better. During Wednesday night the beating of his heart was little more than a flutter, and his breathing was very quick; his little remaining strength gradually decreased, and at eight minutes past eight o'clock Thursday morning one of the most prominent figures in modern history ceased to exist.

As information of the patriot hero's death was spread abroad by the wires, bells were tolled, flags halfmasted, and emblems of mourning displayed in many places; the governer of New York issued a proclamation; the New Hampshire legislature adjourned for the day, as did the United States and state courts generally, if in session; and expressions of sorrow were almost universal.

British Maritime Victory.

A Washington despatch of the 22d quotes Postmaster General Vilas as saying he had "no intention of reconsidering his decision against distributing the $400,000 appropriated by congress for the transportation of mails in American steamships. In regard to the threatened termination of the Australian service by the Pacific Mail Steamship company at the expiration of the contract term, October next, he said while he disposed to favor American steamship lines where he could consistently, the department would have no difficulty in forwarding Australian mails on a schedule fast as that now in use, and moreover the service would be more frequent and cheaper. At present Australian mails leave San Francisco once a month, and letters written just after the departure of a steamer lie in the postoffice nearly a month. By the Suez service these letters could be sent at short intervals, and would reach their destination in less time than at present."

The freezing out of this line of American steamships will be another substantial victory for the British merchant marine over the American.

A new whiskey pool is to be organized at Chicago, with more stringent regulations governing production. The trade is reported to be in good condition, and that there is no cause for cutting prices.

Women's Work.

It can scarcely be too strongly urged upon girls who are growing up and who are smitten with the desire for or compelled by circumstances to work to choose their line and make it a serious study at once. There should be no dilettante playing with art or amateur efforts at instruction. If there is talent for drawing let the study of pictorial or decorative design be made seriously and severely if need be. To a girl of natural talent this study is so charming in itself that there is no hardship about it. If music be her talent let the girl not be content with learning a facile execution of the works of others. Let her study the science of her art, not necessarily so as to become a composer, but because thoroughness is necessary to success, and a half knowledge is almost worse than none. A smattering of art will do nothing for her when she comes into the struggle for existence and finds herself pitted against the better informed. If she has a voice let her not be content with warbling like a bird, without a bird's wild charm of freshness; let her know that the scientific use of the organs with which nature has given her will not only enable her to do the utmost with the gifts she has received, but will give her the power of teaching others intelligently and of taking a place in the universal scramble for a livelihood which she cannot otherwise expect.

If writing is supposed to be her bent—and one fairly shudders when one thinks of the untrained dodlings who are by the hundreds trying their hands at this so-thought easy work—let her not suppose that success is gained here any more than in any other careers by anything less than serious and protracted study—study of language, study of the style of the best authors in as many languages as are accessible to her. If she aspires to fiction, let her be well aware that as much study is required of art in construction of a story as in painting a picture. The same knowledge of skillful drawing, of light and shade, of balance of what we may call color, of correct representation, and, finally, of the artistic grouping of her scheme as any painter needs. Nor is this training less needed if she modestly aspires no higher than needle work, decorative or otherwise. Amateur work here is altogether outside the market. To be a producer of decorative needlework is no mean employment, but it must be of the best. She should understand design and the harmonious use of colors. She should have art training of the highest class as to the construction of her ornament, and be a trained worker with the needle as well. Then, and then only will her productions have a chance of giving her standing-room in the crowd.

It is a competition now, as we have said, of skilled laborers, and the unskilled and untrained have every day less chance of even a temporary success.

GRANVILLE C. SPINNEY.

The president told the Grand Army boys that he believed in appointing veterans to the offices when they possessed proper qualifications, especially to postoffices. It is now claimed that Major Urch would have been given the postoffice in this city had not the democrats from the interior of the state insisted that he must serve his term as a leader of the party in the present session of the legislature, and could not be spared for a federal office. The selection of such war veterans as A. J. Sides and John W. Caswell, shows a decided change in the sentiment of the party, and democrats who were loyal to the flag begin now to loom up, while those who pronounced the war a failure will not be likely to be required if better men are to be found for the places they seek.

It would seem as if the long contemplated, and often postponed, boat race, between J. W. Dixon of this city and T. F. Carroll of Manchester, would at last take place. They have signed articles to row for a purse of $200 and the championship of New Hampshire at Lake Massabesic on Saturday, August 1st.

PURE BLOOD
IS THE ABSOLUTE NECESSITY OF HEALTH.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

THE marvellous results of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as proven by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitalizes and enriches the blood, thereby restoring the whole system. Hood's SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures dyspepsia. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in Hood's SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

SCROFULA.
133 HOWARD STREET, LOWELL, MASS., Jan. 17, '81.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—I have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in my family for scrofulous humor with wonderful success, and am happy to tell you that it is the best medicine we ever used. I do sincerely advise any one who is troubled with scrofula to give this valuable remedy a trial, and assure them they will not be disappointed. Very truly yours,
(Coburn Shuttle Co.) C. C. PICKERING.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, July 23d, Mayor Page in the chair.

Present the full board.

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

Relay of sidewalk was granted J. Horace Kent.

Thomas Murphy's request for regrading of sidewalk at No. 36 Daniel street, was referred to committee on streets, with power.

Matter of widening Vaughan street at corner of Green, was referred.

Petition of residents of Christian Shore for a reservoir, was referred to committee on fire department, to report.

Repairing of road from James W. Emery's to Freeman's point, was referred.

In regard to twenty-seven sheep killed at Pest island by dogs, the committee reported that they were valued at $4 each; question of jurisdiction was referred to city solicitor.

Committee reported on alleged encroachment on sidewalk of portico of Halliburton house, and it was voted that the owners be notified to remove the obstruction in two weeks.

City marshal's report was accepted and filed.

George E. Hodgdon, Esq., appeared in advocacy of the extension of Mechanic street; and it was ordered done, at an expense of $250, the extension to be twenty-five feet wide.

Bill of Samuel Spinney, $5, for extra services as health officer, was ordered paid on a yea and nay vote, five to four.

Committee on accounts reported bills amounting to $1539.72; also bill of $425 for a horse; ordered paid.

Supervisors of elections were appointed as follows: Ward one, Abel Jackson and James R. Johnson; ward two, James L. Parker and Charles H. Downs; ward three, Franklin Cole and Simon H. Mills; ward four, Oliver H. Locke and Edward Smith.

Four members of the board of instruction were ballotted for, and the following were elected: Charles E. Batchelder, Helen C. Knight, Charles L. Garrett and Mercer Goodrich.

Adjourned for two weeks.

KIRMES QUILT.

The beautiful quilt which was so much admired at the Kirmes, will be raffled at fifty cents per share. Those who on account of the crowd were unable to gain access to the book on the night of the fair will find an opportunity of taking shares at Mr. Goodrich's bookstore.

THE BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD.

The policy of the Boston & Maine company, as outlined by President Lord, is as follows: "When the lease went into operation the notion prevailed that the Eastern road would be made subordinate to our own. We had no such intention, and to convince the public of their mistake we have meant to give the people on that division a little better service than they had before. The interests of the region traversed by the Eastern division are of just as much concern to us as those of the country served by the Western division, and money earned by the consolidated company on one is worth as much as on the other. For these reasons we have purposely refrained from taking off certain trains which seem necessary, and from abandoning one of certain duplicate stations; that is to say, the policy of economizing has not been pushed to the utmost. The consequence is that whatever distrust existed has disappeared, and cordial relations have been established all around to the advantage of the community and the road."

The schooner William H. Russell sailed for Mt. Desert on Thursday morning, the 23d inst., with a party of nine from Great Falls. They expect to be absent about ten days.

Capt. Bird, with the steamer Appledore, made four trips to the Shoals on Thursday, the 23d inst. The extra trips were for the Raymond excursion party.

There was no vessel in sight on the Eastern Sister ledge, Thursday morning, so it is to be presumed the schooner Queen of the West, which struck there the previous day, came off at the next high water.

Yacht Siren was in the lower harbor Thursday afternoon.

By order of the mayor the bells of the city were tolled from twelve to one o'clock P. M. on Thursday, and the flag displayed on the city building at half-mast, as a token of respect to the memory of Gen. Grant. The flags on the custom house, Liberty bridge and at other places, were also half-masted.

United States Attorney Burns is at the Wentworth.

The strike of the lasters at the Portsmouth Shoe Factory continued on Thursday. The strike was owing to the discharge by the company of a man who had left the Dodge shoe factory, saying he was going to Dover, and then hired with the Portsmouth company. The managers of the two companies some time ago entered into an agreement not to hire one another's help, in order that neither of them should be crippled by the other's need of extra hands; and the Dodge manager, learning that the laster had not gone to Dover, claimed that the agreement had been violated, and he was discharged. Thereupon the other lasters quit work, and refused to come in again unless the discharged man was reinstated. The managers say they cannot submit to have their business run by any protective union, and that the man will not be reinstated.

Mr. William C. Randall brought in from the Shoals on Thursday, the 23d inst., about six hundred good-sized mackerel, seined off the islands.

The Portsmouth bicycle club enjoyed a run to the Wentworth house Thursday evening, the 23d inst. Mr. Charles A. Hazlett, the noted bicyclist, is enjoying a run with a party of tourists through Maine.

The house of representatives at Concord has granted to William Ward, a representative from this city, a leave of absence for the remainder of the session. Mr. Ward leaves here on Friday evening, and sails from Boston at nine A. M. Saturday in the Samaria for Liverpool.

Some workmen engaged in putting new heating apparatus into the high school building, on Thursday morning in removing out of the way part of an old furnace which was in the cellar, turned it over, when a bottle fell out and broke, and instantly there was a burst of flame which astonished the men greatly and scared them not a little. Sand was thrown over the stuff, which put out the flame, but on turning the sand over it would start up again. The bottle contained phosphorus, sometimes used in the chemical experiments in the school, and was placed in the old furnace for safety, and to keep it from freezing. It had to be allowed to burn itself out.

There are seven lines of telegraph wires stretched along Lafayette road and in apparently good condition for the Western Union to purchase.

The Strafford Guards of Dover, with invited guests and ladies, to the number of about 300, passed through this city Thursday morning at eight o'clock on a special train for Point of Pines, Mass., for a day's recreation.

Jackson & Co.'s express have fitted up a stable on Vaughan street, just below hotel Flanders.

The eels made another invasion of the north pond on the flood tide on the afternoon of the 22d inst.

The members of the old Granite State base ball club of this city, who were, in 1879, considered the equal of any nine in the state, propose to hold a re-union in this city on Thursday, August 20th, when they will play a game of ball with the Red Stocking club of this city, at the Plains.

Among our great industries of New England is the manufacture of boots and shoes; and long ago the saying became trite: "There's nothing like leather." But there are shoes and shoes, and it is often difficult to decide upon the merits of the different makes. The W. L. Douglas $3 shoe is claimed by many to be the best shoe ever made, and equal to the ordinary $5 and $6 shoes in style, fit, material and workmanship. They are made in congress, button and lace balmorals from the finest selected stock, and are fast superceding all other makes. Bragdon, No. 24 Market street, will be pleased to show them to our readers. If they try them once they will continue to do so.

An attempt to burglarize a house in Kittery, near Portsmouth bridge, was made Monday night of this week. The would-be burglars forced an entrance through a window; an alarm was given by a dog in the house, and the inmates were aroused, but too late to take prompt action on the quickly-retreating intruders. The houses thereabouts are well supplied with firearms, and since the robbery of the Italian fruit-seller, not half a mile distant, considerable excitement has been felt in the community.

The directors of the Boston & Maine railroad at their regular monthly meeting on the 22d inst. voted to appoint a committee to examine the proposed line of railroad from Kittery to York, with a view of ascertaining the feasibility of the project.

An unoccupied house at Kittery Point, on the lane leading to Cutt's island, was burned on Tuesday night, the 21st inst. The house was formerly owned by James Allen, but was recently sold to a man named Wentworth, who lives in Boston; no one had been living in it since the 1st of the month, and the fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

The funeral of Colby C. Pettigrew of North Kittery took place from his late residence on Thursday afternoon last, and was attended by a delegation from St. John's Lodge of Masons, of this city, and many members of Naval Lodge of Kittery; Rev. Messrs. Wilson and Chandler were present, and both spoke feelingly of the worth of the deceased. The estimation in which Mr. Pettigrew was held was indicated by the very large attendance at the obsequies, nearly a hundred persons being present.

United States Marshal Patterson's family is at Kittery Point.

Four freight cars on the Boston & Lowell railroad were thrown from the track at Wentworth, July 21st, delaying other trains.

Life Preserver.

If you are losing your grip on life, try "Well's Health Renewer." Goes direct to weak spots.

An improvement is reported in the New York dry goods market.

"Rough on Piles"

Cures piles or hemorrhoids, itching, protruding, bleeding, internal or other. Internal and external remedy in each package. Sure cure, 50c. Druggists.

In a fight between boys at Stewart's, Va., on Sunday, July 19th, two brothers named Doddard were thrown overboard and drowned.

Pretty Women.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity. Don't fail to try "Well's Health Renewer."

While workmen were boring an artesian well at Hoffheim's brewery, Cincinnati, July 21st, natural gas was struck, which the firm estimate will save $1500 a month in fuel.

"Rough On Itch."

"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, ringworm, tetter, salt rheum, frost ed feet, chilblains.

At Sheepskin Hollow cut, South Pennsylvania railroad, an explosion on the 20th inst. killed one Hungarian and two Italians, and probably fatally wounded two others.

The combination, proportion and process in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla, are peculiar to this medicine, and unknown o others.

At Philadelphia, early in the morning on July 22d, Edward Motz was shot and instantly killed by Wm. Battersby. Battersby had about $400 in his stable to pay out to his employes. Motz attacked him and tried to steal the money and in the struggle the robber was shot.

Kearney says the Chinese must go: but before they go, we wish to inform them and everybody else that Adamson's Botanic Balsam continues to win the day in curing coughs, colds, and all difficult breathing. Price 10, 35 and 75 cents.

Wilbert Godfrey of Mystic, Conn., was run over and killed at Noank by a train on the 21st inst.

Read what Samuel G. Stiness, Supt. of Pawtucket Gas Co., Pawtucket, R. I., under date of Dec. 18, 1884, says: "I have used Dr. Seth Arnold's Couch Killer for several years and consider it the best as a positive cure for a cold, and possessing all the merit claimed for it."

The 20th annual convention of the Maine Dental Association was held at Brunswick, Me., July 21st.

We Caution All Against Them.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in the head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents, of druggists.

Aaron G. Wilson, residing in Salem committed suicide July 20th by hanging.

He Told The Truth!

I was troubled with liver complaint for years, and suffered terribly. Lake the druggist advised me to take Sulphur Bitters. I took three bottles and now I am a well man.—L. Fenner, Waterbury, Conn.

Somewhat of a sensation has been created in aristocratic circles in London by a report of a fistic encounter between Lord Lonsdale and Sir George Chetwynd. The fight took place in a well known fashionable resort in Rotten Row, and lasted ten minutes. A number of members of the nobility, and other "gentlemen," witnessed the contest. The trouble between the two men grew out of the attention each was paying Mrs. Langtry.

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic, given the little one, will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

—"Will you pass the butter, Mr. Fogg?" asked Brown. "Every time," replied Fogg. The landlady said it was the way Fogg said it that made her mad.

—This is the season when the small boy swims without wetting his hair, and dries himself by running about in the sun. But his mother's slippers awaits him all the same.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites As a Remedy for Consumption.

Dr. H. J. Pratt, Montello, Wisconsin, says: "After a thorough test of over two years, I voluntarily recommend your Scott's Emulsion to those afflicted with consumption."

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more upon this important complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Cleanses the Head. Allays Inflammation. Heals Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste, Hearing and Smell. A Quick Relief. A Positive Cure.

HAY-FEVER CREAM BALM

Has gained an enviable reputation, displacing all other preparations. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price 50c. by mail or at druggists. Send for circular.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall carry them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal at any time about the stalls or elsewhere over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any place, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within forty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person upon he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 18. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or over or on any land adjoining thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

Murderers as Heroes.

Our heroes in Kentucky are the murderers. They have pluck and bravery and admit no allegiance to the law. We pet them and humor them and strive not to hurt their feelings. The grand juries show them great consideration, and we make it possible to exclude from the petit jury all who believe a murderer is not something of a hero. By those who do not like to trouble themselves with matters of government it is said that the newspapers make too much of these murderers in Kentucky. They do not make enough of them. If the press and the public would each do its duty fairly between this and December the next Legislature would not dare to adjourn before giving us an effective system of laws under which murder could be punished. The publication of these facts give the state a bad name abroad, but unfortunately Kentucky deserves a bad name. Our people are stricken with a strange apathy and indifference. Murders grow apace; the victims are forgotten; the murderers become heroes to be protected by every imaginary legal contrivance. There is a limit to all this. There is certain to be a revolt. There is now abroad in Kentucky a spirit of defiance at war with the very existence of society. Deep down in the heart of every one of us there is a law higher and stronger than any yet appealed to, but the appeal will be made. If the state is impotent and helpless; if judges are incompetent and juries intimidated, a whole common-wealth will not long be overawed. If the leaders can not devise better methods, if the governor and the legislature can not secure a more effective administration of justice, society is thrown back on first principles, and it will organize itself on a different basis, animated with the firm conviction that justice without law is better than law without justice. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

Old Fogyism.

The rubs, disappointments and sorrows of a hard world make lotos land a necessity, and what most interests us is always seen through a lotos land mist. Youth looks forward, age backwards, through this magical haze. What is ambition in the one becomes old fogyism in the other, and both are living in air-castles and develop their best thoughts and actions in this unreal abode. Fashion has changed much, but it has not changed the deeper tissue of the heart, or the deeper nerve organization of the brain. It has written the ban against sentimentalism, but real sentiment remains untouched by its decrees. Fashion itself has its old fogy dreams, and the world-hardened cynical old dowager herself, who has closed her ears to praise or censure, nods paralytically before her fire, and finds her lotos land in the flaming coals. An old fogy is not old, though he be a patriarch as to years; age may have shriveled his flesh, robbed him of his teeth and distorted his joints with rheumatism, but the sap of youth is untouched in his heart. He is the real and only successful alchemist; he has discovered the virgin earth called "old fogyism," and by its aid is enabled to convert all the baser metals of life into pure and uncorrupted gold. Boston Gazette.

Habit Makes Decency.

What is it that constitutes decency in dress? Clearly nothing but habit. This seems strange to some people; but it is most certainly true that there is no absolute rule as to what drapery is or is not decent. Even in the same society the conditions vary enormously. Use and custom alone determine the becoming. A Turkish lady is shocked if a strange man sees her without a yashmak and a monstrous bundle of wraps. So conventional is this covering of the face that a Mussulman peasant woman surprised in the field will often veil it with her only petticoat.

Travelers tells us that a well-bred African woman blushes to be seen for the first time in clothes. The unusual use of clothing appears to her scarcely decent. Custom, habit, and convention decide the matter among ourselves. A pure cottage girl in Connemara, who sleeps in one room with men and never owned stockings, would feel uneasy in the ball-dress of a princess. The princess would almost suffer death rather than share her cottage for a week. If the daughters of Leonidas went to a drawing-room at Buckingham Palace in their Spartan tunics they would probably cause a great flutter as they would feel themselves.

How a Georgia Pond Was Drained.

Albany has been ingeniously relieved of what has long been a troublesome nuisance to her in the shape of a stagnant pond of water, which covered from one to two acres. The News and Advertiser says that it was all cleared off and the bottom made perfectly dry by Captain J. G. Stevens, the faithful and efficient chairman of the street committee of the present city council, who had a derrick and windlass erected near the edge of the pond, and put a force of hands to drilling a hole into the ground on the same principle that artesian wells are bored. His object was to find a subterranean stream or passage into which the pond could be drained. Such a passage was found at a depth of 33 feet, and then a square well was dug down to it and curbed all the way. Everything being ready, a ditch was dug and the water from the pond was turned into the well. It ran in through a 12-inch terra cotta pipe at the rate of about 600 gallons per minute, and disappeared as fast as it reached the bottom of the well.—Savannah (Ga.) Times.

A Curious Cave.

A man calling himself T. C. Pyle, who is teaching school in the mountains of Tennessee, in a letter to an Ohio paper, graphically describes the finding of a cave by a party of railway engineers. The cave was explored for a considerable distance. At the entrance was discovered an inscription in Hebrew characters. After passing some 300 yards into the cave it enlarged into a great amphitheatre. Still further in the cave was found an appalling sight that struck terror to the hearts of the explorers. There, on the right and left and in front, were thousands of grinning skeletons, encased in brass armor, with ponderous shields. Not less than 5,000 skeletons were seen, each of which was reclining on his shield. They presented the appearance of men killed in battle, who had been brought there for burial. A large brass box contained manuscript giving an account of their wanderings. According to this veracious chronicler, Tennessee holds the remains of the lost tribes of Israel.

Work for Women.

Telephonic business will act upon language and condense it. The caller will soon omit "Give me 4005 please," and the girl at the office-end will soon cease to say "What number do you want?" The caller will hear the words "What number?" and will answer: "4005." "Hellos," "If you please" and "Do you want" are doomed to pass away. Politeness on the telephone can be expressed by the tone of the voice. It seems that at six o'clock the girls retire and men and boys take up the office-work for the night. This brings in two kinds of night, particularly the night of barbarism. Some men or boys are polite, but generally they seem mad and scorn to own the world and to marvel at any poor soul that may dare ring them up. The telephone should be handed over to women. It is just their kind of art. They are fond of talking, they enunciate better than men, do not get out of patience, and never mistake a clerkship for an ownership of the whole concern.—The Current.

NOW IS THE TIME TO CURE SKIN HUMORS.

IT is at this season when the Pores open freely and the Perspiration is abundant that Disgusting Humors, Humiliating Eruptions, Itching Tortures, Salt Rheum or Eczema, Psoriasis, Tetter, Ringworm, Baby Humors, Scrofula, Scrofulous Sores, Abscesses, and Discharging Wounds, and every species of Blotchy, Scaly, and Pimply Diseases of the Skin and Scalp are most speedily and economically cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

IT IS A FACT.

Hundreds of letters in our possession (copies of which may be had by return mail) are our authority for the above. Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blood Humors, whether Scrofulous, Inherited or Constitutional, may NOW be permanently cured by CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, the great Skin Cures and Beautifiers, externally, in one half the time and expense of any other season.

GREATEST ON EARTH,

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case Salt Rheum in this county. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS, Newark, O.

GREAT BLOOD MEDICINES,

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

Year of Danger

With the threatened advent of cholera among us, it behooves every one to check at the outset those little ills which, neglected, become prostrating diseases.

Cholera finds its victims among the debilitated, worn out, and weakly, and those of sensitive stomachs and poor digestion.

SANFORD'S GINGER, compounded of Imported Ginger, Choice Aromatics, and French Brandy, convenient, speedy, and safe, is the quintessence of all that is preventative and curative in medicines.

The Intruders Must Go.

After mature consideration the president and cabinet have reached the conclusion that the leases of lands in the Indian territory held by cattlemen are invalid and it has been determined to take steps to have them set aside. General Sheridan has reported that no permanent settlement of the Indian troubles in the territory can be affected while the cattlemen are in possession of the best lands, and it is the intention of the president to remove the disturbing element and reserve the Indian territory for the exclusive occupation of the Indians. The method of procedure has not yet been determined.

It Astonished the Public

to hear of the resignation of Dr. Pierce as a Congressman to devote himself solely to his labors as a physician. It was because his true constituents were the sick and afflicted everywhere. They will find Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" a beneficent use of his scientific knowledge in their behalf. Consumption, bronchitis, cough, heart disease, fever and ague, intermittent fever, dropsy, neuralgia, goitre or thick neck, and all diseases of the blood, are cured by this world-renowned medicine. Its properties are wonderful, its action magical. By druggists.

The Root of the Evil.

To thoroughly cure scrofula it is necessary to strike directly at the root of the evil. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, by acting upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing it of all impurities, and leaving not even a taint of scrofula in the vital fluid. Thousands who have been cured of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, testify to its wonderful blood-purifying qualities. Sold by all druggists.

Col. Marvin, state agent of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, spent a day or two in Newport recently, and attended to seven cases of cruelty to animals. One case was prosecuted, and the offender paid a fine and the cost of prosecution. Proceedings were stayed in the other cases on condition that the accused parties should give up their hopelessly disabled animals to the society. Thus six worn out and suffering creatures were relieved of lives of excessive toil and misery. The prevention of cruelty to animals is a reform that has been vigorously and intelligently persisted in by the N. H. S. P. C. A. for ten years, and has now become a popular and powerful institution in our state. Long may it continue its work.

CONSTIPATION!

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by Constipation, and there is no other ill flesh is heir to more apt to be neglected, from the fact material inconvenience may not be immediately felt from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing piles, fistula, headache, impure blood and many other serious affections. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will immediately relieve, and one bottle positively cure or relieve any case of Constipation.

"Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable used BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. The first bottle revived me and the second cured me entirely."—J. S. Williamson, Rochester, N. Y.

THE DEAD HERO.

Ulysses Simpson Grant was born at Mt. Pleasant, Clermont county, Ohio, April 27th, 1822, and was appointed to West Point from that state in 1839 by Congressman T. L. Harmer. He graduated June 30th, 1843, standing No. 21 in a class of thirty-eight, and was entered on the army rolls as brevet second lieutenant and assigned to the fourth infantry, then stationed on the Missouri frontier. On Sept. 30th, 1845, just prior to the outbreak of the Mexican war, he received his commission as second lieutenant. In the war with Mexico Lieut. Grant served in the division commanded by Zachary Taylor, taking part in all the actions from Palo Alto, May 8th, 1846, to Monterey, Sept. 23d of the same year. He was then transferred to Gen. Scott's army, taking part in the siege of Vera Cruz, and the following spring was assigned as quartermaster of his regiment. At the battle of Molino del Rey, Sept. 8th, 1847, he was brevetted first lieutenant on the field by Gen. Scott for distinguished gallantry, receiving the full commission Sept. 16th, three days later being officially noticed for gallant conduct by Gen. Worth at the battle of Chapultepec. At the close of the war, as brevet captain, he was sent to the Pacific coast. He was commissioned captain Aug. 5th, 1853, and the following year resigned his commission to enter into business in St. Louis, Mo. In 1859 Grant removed to Galena, Ill., and in company with his father established the leather house of Grant & Son.

His glorious record during the civil war, his two elections to the presidency of the United States, his trip around the world, the pecuniary disaster which swept away his property, and his long and hopeless contest with a fatal disease, are familiar to the memory. Re-entering the army as a volunteer, June 17th, 1861, as colonel of the 21st Illinois regiment, after repeated promotions he was made general of the armies of the United States on the 25th of July, 1866. In 1868, and again in 1872, he was elected to the presidency, his military career ending when his political life began. But though twice chosen president, it is as the successful general in the war for the union that he will be remembered in history.

Immediately on receiving notice of the death of the ex-president, President Cleveland sent to Mrs. Grant a brief and appropriate message of condolence, as did also Sec. Endicott, Gen. Logan, the Japanese minister, Grand Commander Burdett of the G. A. R., Mr. Blaine, Mr. Evarts, Ex-President Hayes, Gen. Sheridan and other eminent men.

The president ordered all the departments of the government to be closed, and issued the following proclamation:

"The president of the United States has just received the sad tidings of the death of that illustrious citizen and ex-president of the United States, Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, at Mt. McGregor, in the State of New York, to which place he had lately been removed in the endeavor to prolong his life.

In making this announcement to the people of the United States the president is impressed with the magnitude of the public loss of a great military leader who was in the hour of victory magnanimous; amid disaster serene and self-sustained; who in every station, whether as a soldier or as a chief magistrate twice called to power by his fellow countrymen, trod unswervingly the pathway of duty, undeterred by doubts, single-minded and straightforward.

The entire country has witnessed with deep emotion his prolonged and patient struggle with painful disease, and has watched by his couch of suffering with earful sympathy.

The destined end has come at last, and his spirit has returned to the Creator who sent it forth.

The great heart of the nation that followed him when living with love and pride bows now in sorrow above him dead, tenderly mindful of his virtues, his great patriotic services and of the loss occasioned by his death.

In testimony of respect to the memory of Gen. Grant it is ordered that the executive mansion and the several departments at Washington be draped in mourning for a period of 30 days, and that all public business shall on the day of the funeral be suspended, and the secretaries of war and of the navy will cause orders to be issued for appropriate military and naval honors to be rendered on that day. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this twenty-third day of July, A. D., one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, and the independence of the United States the one hundred and tenth.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

By the President, T. F. BAYARD,
Secretary of State.

Secretary Whitney on the 23d inst. issued an order directing that the ensigns at each naval station and of each vessel of the United States navy in commission be hoisted at half-mast, and that a gun be fired at intervals of every half hour from sunrise to sunset at each naval station and on board flagships and on vessels acting singly, on the day of the funeral of Gen. Grant, where this order may be received in time, otherwise on the day after its receipt. Officers of the navy and marine corps will wear the usual badge of mourning attached to the swood-belt and on the left arm for thirty days.

Secretary Manning and Postmaster General Vilas will issue orders that the custom houses and postoffices of the larger cities of the country be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days.

International Copyright.

The question has made serious progress in one essential point. The assertion of the absolute and original right of an author to an interest in every copy of his book, wherever issued—whether the right be admitted or denied—is waived, and the demand is that such limited right as the law of one country protects shall be acknowledged and protected in another, whenever the right in the one country is conceded to the citizens of the other. This is, in fact, accepting the indisputable fact that the law, in England and America at least, regards copyright, not as the right of a proprietor, but as a bounty to the producer.

The strength of the copyright movement, however, lies in the general consciousness of a natural equity in the claim of the author to the advantage of his literary work within the realm of the language in which he writes, and as the literary guild in the United States constantly adds illustrious names to its roll, the distinctive literary interest of the country is becoming more and more important and powerful, and it will assert its demands more imperatively, and with increasing success.

In the absence of an international provision, an arrangement of courtesy had arisen among publishers by which a most welcome remuneration was secured to the foreign author. But as that courtesy has been made impossible to the publisher extent by the cheap and rival republication of every foreign work of importance, the interests both of the American and of the foreign author are seriously involved. Justice to one has become a question of justice to the other.—George William Curtis, in Harper's Magazine for July.

PURE BLOOD

IS THE ABSOLUTE NECESSITY OF HEALTH.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

THE marvellous results of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as proven by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitalizes and enriches the blood, thereby restoring and renovating the whole system. Hood's SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures dyspepsia. Hood's SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in Hood's SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

A POLITICAL LANDSLIDE COMING.

Hundreds of people visit the scene of the New Hampshire landslide every day. A political landslide that will clean out the Augean stables is what is needed now in that state. It will come before snow flies.—Boston Post.

The only chance for a political landslide in this state between now and the time for the snow to fly, that we know of, is the municipal election to be held in this city on Tuesday, August 4th. Portsmouth's city government is democratic 'way through, and the Post's prophecy, and the terms it is couched in, seem not flattering to our "democratic reform" administration.

The Post also displays most lamentable ignorance regarding the names of our stable keepers. Nathan Jones and several others run stables, but they are kept clean and neat, and need no special cleaning out. As to Mr. Augean, his stables must be located in some other city; we fail to find any record of his having ever been a resident of our ancient town.

A friend suggests that perhaps "Augean stables" is a poetical designation of the north millpond; if this surmise is correct, our citizens would welcome any political landslide, thunder storm, tornado or volcanic eruption that would clean it out before the snow flies.

THE SITUATION, VIEWED FROM A DEMOCRATIC STANDPOINT.

An esteemed correspondent, and earnest working democrat, in the eastern part of the state, desires space in our columns for an attack upon the administration, because of the apparent lack of zeal which it displays in the matter of supplanting republican office-holders with democrats for partisan reasons, merely. The democratic party, having emphatically denounced the spoils' system, and the republican party for its devotion thereto, and having nominated Grover Cleveland for president, with the full understanding that he had no sympathy with that system, it strikes us as a little late in the day for democratic newspapers or democrats, anywhere, to engage in any such demonstration as our correspondent proposes. We hope to see the republican rascals, generally, turned out of office, and good democrats put in their places; but it is absolutely necessary that some judgment and care be exercised in the selection of the men who are to succeed the republican rascals, else the democratic party will be brought into odium just as the republican party has been. In refusing to make indiscriminate removals and appointments on purely partisan grounds the president unquestionably has the best interests of the democratic party as well as the country at heart, and is faithfully living up to genuine democratic principles, as well as his own convictions of duty. We apprehend that time will demonstrate the wisdom of his course, and that a year hence the general soundness of the policy he is pursuing will be universally admitted among democrats.—People and Patriot, of Concord.

This is the most refreshing thing in dog days. We are at a loss which to admire most, the resignation, the bowing to the inevitable of our Concord cotemporary, who learns, first, that the president is in no haste about changing some of the officers in states where republican senators are supposed to remember something as to civil service professions on the part of the executive; and second, the realizing sense that when the changes do occur, a prominent democrat in the eastern section of the state will have the sway while the time-honored, life-long democrats at the capital will occupy seats in the back part of the hall, and not be invited to occupy the stage.

True, "some judgment and care should be exercised," but the party leaders whose occupation is gone will be called upon to exercise patience as their part, and at their next state convention they will be compelled to come up to the scratch, suppress their swear words, and endorse the administration which has the best interests of the country as well as their party at heart. Verily, the democracy have made a great advance stride in their political faith.

Rescuing Her Young.

Certain it is that when once seriously disturbed on the nesting ground the hen woodcock will remove her brood fledglings to a remote and secluded spot. But how their transportation was effected has been a mystery in the minds of many persons. There has been much discussion on the subject both in this country and in England; for while it was universally admitted that the parent bird did not carry her downy youngsters, yet the account of how it was done varied considerably. Some sportsmen maintain that the young birds are carried on the hen's back—"pick a back;" some claim that they are clutched, hawk fashion, by the mother's feet; others contend that the fledglings are held against their mother's breast by her bill, while still some others assert that the young birds dangle from the end of her bill, which holds them by the back of the neck. The following incident, related recently by a well-known New Jersey farmer, throws light on the method employed by the hen woodcock to carry her young:

"When yer see th' dogwoods in blossom yer can jest gamble that young woodcocks is 'round," remarked Uncle Kingsland, as he sat in his wagon by the market-house in Newark. "I seen one old dame woodcock this morn'en a carryen' her children up to my place. Come up on the Fourth an' git 'em; I'll save 'em fur yer. Don't hardly believe the carryen' story, eh? Don't yer? Well, it's as trew as gospil, an' a darned sight more so. Th' heavy rainstorm t'other night an' th' high tide in th' Passaic let th' warter in on-tu my paschure lot. It kinda raised old Harry; washed down four pannels o' line fence, hobliterated lan' marks an' sich. Cussed newsance is floods. Yer know my small strip bresh, where woodcock always is Fourth o' July? I was a wadin' knee deep cross th' lot when, fizzle-gee-bing, outer the bresh comes an old she woodcock. She were goen all fired slow, an' had somethen in her bill. I kinda looked quite hard thin, an' see she had a little woodcock, size black walnut, only bigger in her bill. She steered for th' hill by th' house, sot th' young woodcock down, come skuten back, highsted 'nuther little bird out o' th' bresh, packed it up onter the hill, come skyrooten back agin,' hollenen 'peek-e-te-week,' snatched up 'nuther, an' jined the others on th' hill. Saved 'em all from wartery grave. A mother's devosion to her young allers taps th' tears intu me. Say, don't yer forgit tu come up on th' Fourth an' clean out th' gang. No. I gess not; got six intu me now. Gee up, Mount'en Grouse, an' don't yer forgit th' Fourth."—N. Y. Herald.

"Rough on Catarrh"

Corrects offensive odors at once. Complete cure of even worst chronic cases, also unequalled as gargle for diphtheria, sore throat, foul breath. 50c.

Silas Adams, railway postal clerk between Brunswick and Rockland, Me., has been superseded by a democrat from the town of Starks.

The Hope of the Nation.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

Joseph L. Pomeroy of Boston has been sent to the reformatory prison for two years, for a brutal attempt to murder his wife, whom he stabbed six times.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Stinging, irritation, inflammation, all kidney and urinary complaints, cured by "Buchu-Paiba." $1.

Prince Henry of Battenberg and Princess Beatrice, youngest daughter of Queen Victoria, were married July 23d.

"Water Bugs, Roaches."

"Rough on Rats" clears them out, also bedbugs, ants, insects, rats and mice, 15 and 25c. boxes.

The Jersey Lily, who first came into fashionable notoriety as the "favorite" of the prince of Wales, is now fought about on the public streets of London by titled young fools.

Your system is now more susceptible to the benefit of a reliable medicine than at any other season. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Peter H. Watson, first assistant secretary of war during the rebellion, died July 22d.

Kearney says the Chinese must go; but before they go, we wish to inform them and everybody else that Adamson's Botanic Balsam continues to win the day in curing coughs, colds, and all difficult breathing. Price 10, 35 and 75 cents.

Thomas Smith, aged sixty-five, of Northampton, Mass., took morphine to overcome neuralgic pains, and is dead.

Read what Samuel G. Stiness, Supt. of Pawtucket Gas Co., Pawtucket, R. I., under date of Dec. 18, 1884, says: "I have used Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer for several years and consider it the best as a positive cure for a cold, and possessing all the merit claimed for it."

At Malden, Mass., Harvey Baker, aged eight years, fell from a grocery team and was fatally kicked by the horse.

We Caution All Against Them.

The unprecedented success and merit of Ely's Cream Balm—a real cure for catarrh, hay fever and cold in the head—has induced many adventurers to place catarrh medicines bearing some resemblance in appearance, style or name upon the market, in order to trade upon the reputation of Ely's Cream Balm. Many in your immediate locality will testify in highest commendation of it. Don't be deceived. Buy only Ely's Cream Balm. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price fifty cents, of druggists.

It is estimated by a Washington correspondent that Miss Cleveland's book will net her from $40,000 to $50,000, or as much as her brother's salary for a whole year.

He Told The Truth!

I was troubled with liver complaint for years, and suffered terribly. Lake the druggist advised me to take Sulphur Bitters. I took three bottles and now I am a well man.—L. Fenner, Waterbury, Conn.

At Yarmouth, Eng., a lifeboat manned with a crew of fifteen attempted to reach a vessel in distress, but struck a sunken wreck on the way, and eight of the fifteen men were drowned; all were married men.

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic, given the little one, will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

El Mahdi is dead again; died of smallpox this time.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites

As a Remedy for Consumption.

Dr. H. J. Pratt, Montello, Wisconsin, says: "After a thorough test of over two years, I voluntarily recommend your Scott's Emulsion to those afflicted with consumption."

—"Were you ever caught in a squall?" asked an old yachtman of a worthy citizen. "Well, I guess so!" responded the good man; "I've helped to bring up eight babies."

—A cyclone resembles a woman, because when it makes up its mind to go somewhere all earth can't stop it.

Capt. George Lockhart of Boston, whose schooner, the "Clara S.," foundered off Boon island a few days ago, has purchased for about $100 the schooner Express, of Machias, Me., which went ashore on Richmond island last winter, and was afterward attached and sold to pay salvage expenses.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

CELEBRATED

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

CATARRH

ELY'S

CREAM BALM

Cleanses the Head. Allays Inflammation. Heals Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste, Hearing and Smell. A Quick Relief. A Positive Cure.

HAY-FEVER CREAM BALM

Has gained an enviable reputation, displacing all other preparations. A particle is applied into each nostril; no pain; agreeable to use. Price 50c. by mail or at druggists. Send for circular.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require to be cleansed, cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any seller of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

THUNDER-STORMS.

Something About Their Actions as Learned from Balloon Investigations.

The form of the cloud-mass as we see it from the ground is not well shown, but as described by Wise, the aeronaut, from his balloon voyage made thirty or forty years ago, it has somewhat the shape of a great hourglass, the dark-shadowed clouds entering as they form at the base, and presumably rising through the central construction to supply the white, sunlit mass that is rolling out at the top with the appearance of a vast sea of snow, boiling and unheaving from internal convulsions. Zigzags of lightning dart from one cloud-mass to another, or blaze out in the gloom between the clouds and earth, or even flash from the clouds into the open, empty sky; but the origin of these violent electrical manifestations is almost as much a mystry as it ever was. The condition under which electric sparks, large or small, are discharged is fairly well determined, but the ultimate origin of atmospheric electricity is a question on which physicians are not yet agreed. When a lightning-flash is viewed at night through a narrow radial slit in a rapidly-revolving disk it is found to consist of several discharges separated by intervals too short to be noticed by the unaided eye, but discoverable in this experiment by the fact that the slit is commonly seen in several different attitudes when illuminated by an apparently single, instantaneous flash.

The apparatus may be easily constructed and used by any high-school boy or girl, and the fact that it discovers is a remarkable one in the physics of thunder-storms that need more explanation than it has yet received. Photographing lightning-flashes at night is another interesting experiment that may be tried to advantage in these modern days of amateur photography and instantaneous plates. Some very successful views have been taken, showing a composite flash to consist of several separate lines of light, every one irregular, but all closely parallel to one another; fine, thread-like branches are given off at different points and disappear as they divide into fainter and fainter fibers in the dark sky. Returning to the high cloud mass, if any venturesome balloonist ever ascends through the raging vortex to its massive summit he would have opportunity to prove or disprove the suppositions that have been made as to mechanism of the storm.

Supposing him bold enough to begin his ascent under the center of the storm, it is probable that he would rise slowly at first, for it is thought that the falling rain-drops cause a downward current of air here which would retard his upward flight; this current, chilled by the rain, is most likely the origin of the cool gust of wind that precedes and accompanies this heavy rainfall at the storm center. Mounting well into the clouds, further ascent would there be aided by the upward current, to which the formation of the cloud and storm is thought to be due. Only the larger drops of rain can fall through such an ascending current; the finer water particles may be carried higher until they are frozen into minute hail-stones, most of which melt before reaching the ground as they fall to one side of the up-draft; but if it happens that they grow to a considerable size by accretion, they may fall fast enough to reach us unmelted. Going higher still, the vapor that is condensed at these greater altitudes, where the temperture even in midsummer is below freezing, forms snow-flakes, and of these the boiling summit masses of the storm are supposed to consist.

The height to which these superb clouds ascend is not well determined, but it is very probable over five miles, and may be over ten; a little observation will settle the matter, for to take a practical case, if a thunderstorm passes centrally over Arlington, Medford, and Malden, as would be known by the drenching rain recorded by observers there, the angular altitude of its white cloud-tops could be estimated by observers in other towns to the north and south at certain hours—as is provided for in the plan proposed by the Meteorological society,—and then it would be easy enough to calculate the height. But it must be borne in mind that the explanation of the storm's action here given might not be generally accepted, and it is with the object of learning, if it is precisely what the facts of the case are that the observations above referred to are to be undertaken. The essential points of the method at first are the selection of a number of simple phenomena, such as time when the rain begins, the direction of the wind, and so on, which can be observed by any intelligent person, even without meteorological instruments; the undertaking is thus brought within the reach of that large class of our busy population who are interested and willing enough to give some assistance in such work, provided it does not require much time and need no special technical instruction or outfit.

Scholars in our high schools are abundantly prepared to do effective work in such a school as this. Second, when a thunder-storm appears in sight or bursting it is important to know the conditions of wind, rain, etc., and the same moment in a number of different places; and to gain this knowledge observations are to be made at certain even hours while the storm lasts. Of course observations at other times and in greater detail than here mentioned will be of no value, but these simple ones are the most essential. To accomplish the desired result, volunteer observers are to be appointed in the New England towns, the earlier, well-recommended applicants being given the preference when a number apply from one place.—Boston Journal.

Habit Makes Decency.

What is it that constitutes decency in dress? Clearly nothing but habit. This seems strange to some people; but it is most certainly true that there is no absolute rule as to what drapery is or is not decent. Even in the same society the conditions vary enormously. Use and custom alone determine the becoming. A Turkish lady is shocked if a strange man sees her without a yashmak and a monstrous bundle of wraps. So conventional is this covering of the face that a Mussulman peasant woman surprised in the field will often veil it with her only petticoat.

Travelers tells us that a well-bred African woman blushes to be seen for the first time in clothes. The unusual use of clothing appears to her scarcely decent. Custom, habit, and convention decide the matter among ourselves. A pure cottage girl in Connemara, who sleeps in a room with men and never owned stockings, would feel uneasy in the ball-dress of a princess. The princess would almost suffer death rather than share her cottage for a week. If the daughters of Leonidas went to a draying-room at Buckingham Palace in their Spartan tunics they would probably cause a great flutter as they would feel themselves.

Every Congressional district is entitled to one cadet at West Point Academy, and ten are appointed from the country at large. As each cadet graduates, dies or resigns, room is made for another in his place. It is the duty of the Representative in Congress of a given district to select a commission of three citizens, who shall meet at a place appointed and examine and report upon the proficiency of candidates offering; those best versed in arithmetic, reading and writing, including orthography, the elements of English grammar, of descriptive geography, particularly of their own country, and in the history of the United States, are awarded preferences. The appointments at large are conferred by the President; those from the district and territories by the Secretary of War, on the nomination of the Representative aforesaid.

NOW IS THE TIME TO CURE SKIN HUMORS.

IT is at this season when the Pores open freely and the Perspiration is abundant that Disfiguring Humors, Humiliating Eruptions, Itching Tortures, Salt Rheum or Eczema, Psoriasis, Tetter, Ringworm, Baby Humors, Scrofula, Scrofulous Sores, Abscesses, and Discharging Wounds, and every species of Itching, Scaly, and Pimply Diseases of the Skin and Scalp are most speedily and economically cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

IT IS A FACT,

Hundreds of letters in our possession (copies of which may be had by return mail) are our authority for the assertion that Skin, Scalp and Blood humors, whether Scrofulous, Inherited or Contagious, may NOW be permanently cured by CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, the great Skin Cures and Beautifiers, externally, in one half the time and expense of any other season.

GREATEST ON EARTH.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Skin Disease in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. Mr. Geo. E. Moulton, provision and produce peddler at York, took on the team with him Saturday morning his little bright-eyed niece Bessie, a daughter of Mr. Chas. H. Young, aged about nine years. On their return and when descending the Plaisted hill, near their home, the seat and awning tipped forward, frightening the horse and throwing Mr. Moulton and Bessie, and a little daughter of Mr. Moulton, violently to the ground. Little Bessie was so badly hurt that she died in a very short time; Mr. Moulton had no bones broken, but was very much bruised; the little daughter of Mr. Moulton received only some bruises. The heart-stricken mother of little Bessie is nearly crazy over the sad event, which has cast a tremendous dark gloom over "Cider Hill," where Bessie was so well and so kindly known. P.

The Patrons of Husbandry is an organization which has been of great benefit to farmers. Mr. H. O. Devries, the master for the state of Maryland, was completely cured of rheumatism by St. Jacobs Oil.

At Bedford, Iowa, Ida Kimball, fifteen years old, shot and killed T. M. Giles, a music dealer and married man.

Erysipelas and salt rheum was driven entirely away from Mrs. J. C. Anderson, Peshtigo, Wis., by Burdock Blood Bitters. No equal as a blood purifier.

At Rochester, last Thursday night, the Grange store was broken into and robbed; also the railroad station, and B. F. Hayden & Co.'s store. The amount of plunder carried off was small. The thieves are supposed to have been tramps.

ON THE DEATH OF AN INVINCIBLE SOLDIER.

O, what a sore campaign,
Of which men long shall tell,
Ended when he was slain—
When this our greatest fell!

For him no mould had cast
A bullet surely sped;
No falchion, welded fast,
His iron blood had shed.

Death on the hundredth field
Had failed to bring him low,
He was not born to yield
To might of mortal foe.

Even to himself unknown,
He bore the fated sword,
Forged somewhere near His throne
Of battle still the Lord.

That weapon when he drew,
Back rolled the wrath of men,—
Their onset faltier grew,
The Nation rose again.

The splendor and the fame—
Whisper of these alone,
Nor say that round his name
A moment's shade was thrown;

Count not each satellite
Twixt him and glory's sun,
The circling things of night,—
Number his battles won.

Where then to choose his grave?
From mountain unto sea,
The Land he fought to save
His sepulchre shall be.

Yet to its fruitful earth
His quickening ashes lend,
That chieftains may have birth,
And patriots without end.

His curven scroll shall read;
Here rests the valiant heart
Whose duty was his creed,—
Whose choice, the warrior's part.

Who, when the fight was done,
The grim last foe defied,
Naught knew save victory won—
Surrendered not—but died.

—EDMUND C. STEDMAN.

THE DEAD HERO.

It has been decided to bury Gen. Grant's remains in Central Park, New York, the authorities of the city tendering the family the ground for the same, with the condition that on the death of Mrs. Grant her remains shall be buried beside those of her husband. The following programme has been agreed upon: One week from next Tuesday, Aug. 4, the remains will leave Mt. McGregor at 1 o'clock and arrive at Saratoga at 2 in the afternoon; leave Saratoga at 2.30 o'clock and arrive in Albany at 4.40; leave Albany at 12 o'clock noon, Wednesday, August 5, and arrive about 4.30 in New York. In the interval from 4 30 Tuesday to noon of Wednesday, August 5, the remains will lie in state at the capitol, and from the time of arrival in New York on Wednesday afternoon until Saturday, August 8, the body will lie in state at the city hall. The public obsequies of the funeral will take place on Saturday at such time as the civic authorities may arrange and the interment will then follow in Central park.

Naval Intelligence.

Gunner J. M. Hogg is detached from the naval magazine at Craney island, and placed on sick leave.

Lieutenants Nathan E. Niles and W. H. H. Southerland are ordered to the receiving-ship Wabash.

Lieut. T. C. McLean is ordered to temporary duty at Washington.

George Smith of Lake Village exploded a package of dynamite in the lake at Weirs, Friday, and killed immense numbers of fish.

Shoes For Fast Nags.

"To shoe a fast horse takes as much care and precision as to fit a lady's foot," said Mr. John Murphy, the well-known horseshoer, to a Philadelphia News-gatherer recently. "The majority of race horses that come to this city are shod in this shop. John Splan was here early this morning with Belle K and another fast horse. He was the driver of Rarus, you will remember, and is the owner of some good horses on the track now. In this shop we have shod St. Julien, Trinket, Darby, Hopeful, Hannis, the noted stallion Edwin Thorne, and a score of others that I cannot remember."

"Is there much difference in the shoes of horses?"

"All the difference in the world. A big draught horse like the Percheron will take a shoe weighing two and one-half pounds, made of iron, with toe cork and heels. The toe cork is the piece of iron set on the head or toe of the shoe. A horse that travels in a business wagon or carriage will take a twenty ounce shoe, or a one and a quarter pound shoe. These shoes are made heavy, and are about an inch in width.

"A trotting horse's shoe is entirely different. They do not weigh more than from fourteen to sixteen ounces. The shoes on the hind feet are invariably made of steel, and those in front are often of the same metal. There is no toe cork on a trotter's shoes, and but a slight rise in the back part of them for a heel.

"The shoes of running horses are called plates. They weigh but four or five ounces, perfectly flat, and are only about half an inch wide all the way round, and as thin as possible. They are put on to strengthen the hoof and keep it from breaking, but they are an inch longer than the foot behind. This is to give power and support to the tendons of the leg.

Noticing a number of curiously shaped and uncommon-looking shoes, the News-gatherer asked in perfect innocence if they were for crippled horses.

The young man smilingly replied: "No, they are for trotting horses. There is a great deal of difference in the feet of fast horses, just as much as there is in the feet of men. Some horses' hoofs we have to cover with more weight on the outside of the shoe than the inside, some vice versa, some with the heaviest part of the shoe in front, others behind. Many horses spread their feet out in trotting, others work close with their feet, and unless they are shod perfectly they will go lame. There may be half a dozen fine thoroughbreds brought into the shop to-morrow and not one of them be shod alike.

"A pacer is most always shod light. We shod some fast horses for McCarthy, who drove Little Brown Jug, the pacer. A runner is the lightest stepping horse, a pacer and racker next, then a trotter.

"Do the fast horses stand the shoeing process well?"

"Oh, yes, quite as well as any of them. The fast horses are always brought to the shop in the cool of the morning. They are gentle horses generally."

California and Oregon are liable to occasional ravages of three species of locusts, the most dangerous of which is the great Rocky Mountain locust, whose ravages several years ago came near starving out the people of two or three Western states. This locust is remarkable for its power of flight, and travels in dense swarms high up in the air, darkening the sun or filling the sky with the glistening light of their wings. Observers have stood on the highest peaks of the Rocky Mountains and straining their eyes upward have seen the sky filled with clouds of these tiny, soaring insects, so high as to be barely discernible. These insects, after devastating one region, rise into the air to look for fresh fields and pastures new.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Works through the blood, regulating, toning and invigorating all the functions of the body.

Ringworm Humor and Salt-Rheum.

RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1873.
C. I. Hood & Co.: Gentlemen— * * * * I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, also, my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be cured of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.
I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

Biliousness, Sick Headache.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.
MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gents—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.
Yours truly,
HOMER B. NASH.

She was allowed to go.

GRAND ARMY ORDER.

Department Commander M. M. Collis has issued to the Grand Army posts in this state a general order in which, after appropriately referring to the death of Gen. Grant he directs that throughout the department "all flags on post buildings be displayed at half-mast until the remains of the illustrious dead be deposited in the grave; that all post colors and altars be draped in mourning; and all officers, while on duty, wear a knot of crape on the sword hilt for the period of thirty days from this date, (the 23d inst.) It is also earnestly recommended that on the day of the public obsequies every post in this department unite with the citizens of their localities, assemble at the post room or some other convenient place, and with appropriate ceremonies perform the memorial services for deceased comrades prescribed in the service book of the Grand Army of the Republic."

LAWN TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Knapp of Yale college, Taylor and Bresbrey of Harvard, Gillette and Barnes of Longwood, and Brinley of Trinity college, will be among the entries for the lawn tennis tournament of Wright & Ditson at the hotel Wentworth, Newcastle, commencing Aug. 4th. The prizes are the finest that have been offered at these tournaments, and consist of an elegantly designed cup for first prize, and a silver water-set for second. The first prize in doubles is a pair of shields, finely wrought; and the second, two smoking sets.

Pettit, the court tennis champion of the world, will play a special match with the winner of the Wright & Ditson lawn tennis tournament.

MARITIME NOTES.

Among the freight engagements reported last week was that of a schooner for 450 tons coal from Baltimore for this port, to discharge at Dover, at $1.40 per ton.

The schooner Fannie & Edith, which arrived at this port on the 24th inst., from Rondout, N. Y., brought 1150 casks of cement to J. Albert Walker.

The schooner Maggie Cain, with 600 tons coal to E. F. Sise & Co., arrived from Philadelphia on the 25th inst. The Charles H. Trickey, from Philadelphia with coal for Dover; the Franconia, from Hoboken with coal for Newmarket; and the brickers Triton and J. Chester Wood, from Boston, light, also arrived the same day.

The steamer Mystic, Capt. Rashe Trefethen, had about fifty passengers to the Shoals on Sunday, on her regular trip out with the mails and newspapers. Every letting boat on the river was in use, the intense heat being a great inducement to go afloat.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The board of examiners of candidates for foremanships on the navy yard examined a considerable number of applicants last week, including Charles W. Stimson, for foreman shipwright; Stephen W. Raitt, George W. Muchmore and Alfred S. Trafton, and Joseph N. Jones of Worcester, Mass., for foreman shipsmith; Augustus Stephenson of Kittery and Warren Keen of this city, for foreman boat-builder; (Jos. P. Paul of Newington and Ansel Staples of Eliot are also candidates for this position, but were not examined;) Augustus W. Odiorne for foreman black-maker. It was announced on Saturday that on Monday the candidates for foreman plumber, four in number, including a Mr. Donnelly of Manchester and Mr. John A. Cornelius of this city, would be examined; Tuesday, joiners; Wednesday, moulders, four candidates, including Wm. A. Leary of Dover and Thomas Watkins of this city. Tobias E. Burke of this city and Patrick Rossiter of Dover are applicants for the position of foreman boiler-maker. Only two or three of the present foremen have given notice of intention to compete. The results of the examinations will not be made public, but the appointments will convey the first notice to all applicants.

James W. Lefavour of this city and George Boulter of Kittery were called on the yard Saturday morning, to paint a lot of iron plates which are to be submerged in the salt water as a test of the several varieties of paint used.

On Saturday last Mr. Wm. W. Dennett of this city was notified to present himself at the navy yard on Monday morning, for duty.

Among the many tributes to the memory of General Grant throughout the nation, none seem more graceful and sententious than the poem of Mr. Stedman, written for the New York Tribune. We print the poem in this issue.

Saturday night was the most uncomfortably close and hot of any night this season.

That the board of mayor and aldermen, at their meeting on Thursday evening of last week, in the course of a session lasting about three hours could not find time to so much as mention the death of Ulysses S. Grant, is the subject of no little adverse comment among our citizens of all parties. The democratic president and vice president of the United States, and the democratic governor of New York, regarded the passing away of the great warrior and patriot as of sufficent importance to be officially noticed.

A man charged with committing burglary at Rochester, and another charged with theft at Biddeford, Me., were arrested in this city Saturday afternoon; the latter went east on the Pullman train that evening, in custody of the city marshal of Biddeford, and the other was taken away at midnight by officers from Rochester.

The number of arrivals at the beach hotels and boarding houses on Saturday was very large; the coaches and barges for the Wentworth, Rye beach and York were loaded down to their utmost capacity, and the Shoals steamer had large crowds on both trips out.

The general sentiment of our citizens, so far as we have heard it expressed, is that the remains of Gen. Grant should be buried at the national capital instead of in New York.

Rev. Adam A. McAllister, U. S. N., chaplain at the naval academy, temporarily attached to the practice-ship Constellation, now in this port, preached for St. John's (Episcopal) parish on Sunday. Rev. J. D. Waldron, pastor of the Pearl street Freewill Baptist church, preached in the Congregational church Sunday forenoon in the absence of Rev. W. A. McGinley, who is on his summer vacation. Rev. W. H. Alden, D. D., pastor of the Middle street Baptist church, on Sunday morning preached a sermon having especial reference to the death of Gen. Grant; he this week commences his vacation, to last until the first Sunday in September.

There was a game of baseball at Wallis' sands, Rye, Sunday afternoon, between the Red Stocking club and a picked nine of this city. A large party came down from Dover in barges, and proceeded to the beach; and the barges belonging in this city had all the passengers they could take down, at forty cents each for the round trip.

The attendance at the several churches on Sunday was much lighter than usual, many of the regular church goers preferring to swelter it out at home in shirt-sleeves and slippers that day.

The employes of the three breweries had a picnic at Rye beach on Sunday.

The row-boat "North End Charmer," with her regular crew and several invited guests, went on a trip up river on Sunday.

To man, horse or beast, nothing is more grateful on one of these hot days than the pure cold water from the pump on Miller avenue. Erected and maintained for the public benefit, both man and horse are grateful for this accommodation; but the beasts—the young hoodlum element—which forced Mr. Miller to cut down the overshadowing willows, is as bad as ever, and not a cup for a person to drink from can be kept there, chained or unchained. They have not even the spirit of a cur; will take a favor, and return an insult; always taking care that no one sees them. If one of the sensie laddies should be found in this business his case would probably not be referred to the police court. AQUARIUS.

George Law, son of the famous New York millionaire, is a liberal patron of sports, the demi-god of the sporting fraternity, a free dispenser of money among them, and it is an unwritten law to them that he shall not be molested. Fear has more to do with this than love. The thief who robbed him would be hunted out of town by his fellows. It is said that he spends $100,000 a year in purses for contests, materials for revelry, and direct gifts to professional athletes. That is his diversion. He is a gentleman in rearing, education, and instincts; the toughs with whom he comes in contact are merely the creatures of his pleasure. He would kick any of them out of the street railroad office in which he spends his business hours, but at night they may be convivially familiar with him.

A gentleman in Germantown, Pa., who was greatly annoyed by a colony of sparrows that had taken up their quarters in a mass of ivy covering one side of his house, got rid of them by a novel expedient. One day he purchased half a pound of red pepper, and going up to the third story, opened the windows and sifted the pepper down through the ivy. The alarm of the sparrows was evinced by the haste with which they left their hiding place. Every bird took its departure, and his premises are now clear of them.

Prof. Huxley, feeling the weight of long years of arduous labor, is under the advice of his friends, about to withdraw from many of his most active employments in order to recruit his strength by a prolonged period of rest.

American magazines pay four scales of prices for short stories. The first is $10 or $15 for a complete story, paid by the smaller magazines: the second is $10 a thousand words by the popular monthly publications; the third is $15 a thousand words to writers who have acquired some degree of reputation. The fourth varies with the fame of the author. Howells, or "Mark Twain," will produce no story or article of any kind for less than $500 or $1,000.

Frightful Whooping Cough.

Dr. Edward C. Hughes, Rockford, Ill., (Graduated N. Y. City 1866), voluntarily testifies:—"Some years ago my only son had an attack of the Whooping Cough, characterized by the most violent spasms I have ever seen in a practice of eighteen years. Had several consultations with eminent physicians, and all ordinary and extraordinary remedies were resorted to. The paroxysms were simply frightful. I believed the child would die. I reluctantly tried Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer and the effect was magical. Three bottles cured him."

Something for the Baby.

What a terrible affliction about the house is a cross, crying baby? A young man on the very edge of matrimony might easily be frightened from his purpose by having too much of that sort of music at the homes of his married friends. Yet babies cry commonly only when they are sick. One teaspoonful of Parker's Tonic, given the little one, will bring rest and sleep to the baby and all in the house. Only 50 cents, at druggists.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, as a specific for Indigestion, stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopœia have been exhausted, without, at least, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland the Bitters act with regular distinctness, regulating and invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of creating infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having vaults, cellars or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any state meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners and occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 15. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

MYSTERY OF A CAR-ROOF.

At the Railroad house, last evening, says a Pueblo correspondent of the New York Sun, Con Ferguson, an old brakeman, took his turn as a story-teller in a crowd of railroad men as follows:

"You've all heard of Tom Farrelly, who used to run on the Rio Grande. Well, he told me a yarn one night, about a month before he was killed, that I will remember as long as I live. He was on a freight going west, and when about ten miles the other side of Wagoner he went on top of the train to set some brakes for the grade there. The night was dark and chilly, but he ran along the cars until finally, in the middle of one of them, he stumbled over something and came very near falling off the train. Gathering himself up as quickly as possible, he leaned over and found a human body, still warm, but evidently dead. He had no lantern with him, but, running back to the caboose, he got a light, and, calling on the other boys to follow, he led the way back again, almost breathless with alarm. When he had got to the car where he had seen the body he stopped, looked vacantly around, examined one or two cars ahead, came back again, and in reply to the incredulous remarks of his companions, protested that he had seen and felt a body, but that it was now gone. Nobody could explain the mystery, and Farrelly said he could see that they thought he was a little off. When he got back to the caboose he told them all about the matter, and the next morning they examined the cars and found half a dozen blood stains on the car designated. On the way back the boys all kept a lookout when they passed the place where the body had disappeared, but nothing was to be seen. About three miles this side of that point a fellow signaled the train and was taken on. He had little to say, and on arriving at the switch at Wagoner he got off and walked away.

"Two nights later, on their trip down the road, Tom went out again as usual at the grade, and just as he was setting a brake he saw on the next car ahead of him a dark figure crouching over something lying on the roof. Tom got scared, but his experience of a few evenings before had made him ugly, and, drawing a revolver quickly, he yelled out:

"'Who are you? What have you got there?'

"Quicker than I can tell it, something shot off the side of the car, and the man who had been bending low breathed a curse between his set teeth and jumped from the train, which was going at a very moderate rate. Tom ran back, firing his revolver as he did so, until every chamber was empty, being responded to once or twice by the figure that had been left behind. The conductor stopped the train at the foot of the grade, but as he had to make time it was deemed impossible to institute a search.

After that Farrelly got all sorts of ideas and notions, and for a long time he would not take his run. He tried in various ways to get a change off, but, failing in this, he told me the whole story one night, and said he was going back on his old run, and that if anything happened to him I could have some sort of an idea what it was. I did not hear anything from him after that until I was told that he had been killed, and then I thought of his story.

"'Where did it happen?' I asked.

"'Down on the grade the other side of ——,' was the reply.

"'How?'

"'Nobody knows, except it is supposed that he slipped while setting the brake, and fell between the cars.'"

"I made up my mind that I would look into the matter, and I telegraphed them to hold the body until I got there. I found poor Tom sadly cut up, but on examining the remains I found a small red mark in his back just under the left shoulder-blade, and I pointed it out with the remark that that was a bullet wound. But the relatives would not believe it. We didn't have every facility for detecting crime in those days that we have now, and though nothing was done about it I knew that Farrelly had been murdered.

"Three months after that we got a party of officers to take the job, but, though they discovered some suspicious signs in the vicinity of the grade, nothing ever came of it. My own theory is that Tom caught some chap, probably a greaser, who was making off with a couple of his victims, and that it was the man's intention to get them out on the road a ways and bury them in the sand or gravel somewhere. I found out that the train stood on the siding the other side of Wagoner awhile, and that it would be comparatively easy for a man to carry anything to the top before the train started and then jump off when the grade was reached. We looked over the ground pretty well, but it was impossible to tell one spot from another. The earth was so dry and soft everywhere that a hundred men might have been buried there, and with the earth smoothed over a little the place would have looked natural enough. I never doubted that Farrelly was murdered, but I couldn't make anybody else believe it."

Ed Gillam, who has been on the road since it was first opened said: "I never had any experience with murderers on top of a train, but I've had lots to do with other folks. When the road was first put into operation I used to say that it would never pay, even for the renewal of the ties, because it seemed to me that everybody out here then wanted to get away, and about three out of five didn't have money enough to ride a mile. The times were hard then. Lots of fellows had got out here in the southwest in one way or another, and as there was little doing here, and not much money being invested, all those who were not well-fixed when they started soon came to want. As soon as the trains got to running you ought to have seen those poverty-stricken fellows try to get acquainted with us, and endeavor in one way or another to make arrangements for to ride east. It made me tired more than once. They'd come with tears in their eyes, and beg even for a lift of one or two hundred miles.

"When a train got ready to pull out for the east it was always necessary to go through it and examine every truck and car to see if there were any stowaways, but even that did not always work. They would go down the track and wait till the night train came along, and then board it, hanging on to the hand rails at the end of the cars, or laying flat on the roofs. We used to get sick of fighting them, and most of the boys made up their minds that the best way to make work a little easier was to let the tramps get out of the country. I have always thought that the company kind of winked at it, too. Of course our orders were not changed, but the thing became such a nuisance that everybody could see that it was best to have it over with. After that when three or four took their place on a freight we would make a bluff at them, and if that did not have the desired effect we would let them alone. In this way the country was soon cleared of the most helpless crowd you ever saw, and it got so after a while we could start a train out of Pueblo without hurting the feelings of the paying passengers by clubbing off a gang of non-paying ones. They would always make a determined effort to get on to a passenger train, for every little while there would be some passenger aboard who would take pity on one or more of them and give them a lift. Most of them seemed perfectly insane on the subject of getting back east. Nothing else would do them any good.

"One night, after we had gone through the train carefully, and made sure, as we thought, that nobody was hanging on, I was surprised, on going back to the caboose, to find a young fellow sitting on the edge of one of the boxes. He had a little bundle by his side, and as he heard me he grabbed it quickly, and then said, jumping up as he did so:

"'Don't you touch me, sir. I'm going home, and if you put a hand on me I'll kill you!'

"There was something so desperate, and, after all, such a pitiful tone in his voice, that I couldn't get mad, and as soon as I satisfied myself that he had no arms I told him to sit down again, and then I had a little talk with him. He was almost frantic with homesickness and despair, and the coming of the road had seemed like a godsend to him almost. He had been living on cold apples around Pueblo and adjacent towns for a long time; had been sick and well-nigh distracted, an was then twisted all out of shape with rheumatism. I found, on further questioning, that he came from my part of the country down east; that he knew all the old places that I did; that he had danced, driven, and frolicked where I had, and that he knew a good many of the folks that I knew. I couldn't do one of the old boys in that shape without thinking it might just as easily have been me, and, besides giving him a square meal, I introduced him to a brakeman at the end of the run, who promised to pass him on. We got him to the Missouri river in great shape, and there he managed to earn enough to get home. He is doing well now, and this little ticker here," said Gillam, showing a handsome gold watch with a box-car neatly engraved on the back, "is what I've got to remember him by."

NOW IS THE TIME TO CURE SKIN HUMORS.

IT is at this season when the Pores open freely and the Perspiration is abundant that Disfiguring Humors, Humiliating Eruptions, Itching Tortures, Salt Rheum or Eczema, Psoriasis, Tetter, Ringworm, Baby Humors, Scrofula, Scrofulous Sores, Abscesses, and Discharging Wounds, and every species of Itching, Scaly, and Pimply Diseases of the Skin and Scalp are most speedily and economically cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

IT IS A FACT.

Hundreds of letters in our possession (copies of which may be had by return mail) are our authority for the assertion that Scaly, Scaly and Blood humors, whether Scrofulous, Inherited or Contagious, may NOW be permanently cured by CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, the great Skin Cures and Beautifiers, externally, in one half the time and expense of any other season.

GREATEST ON EARTH.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case Salt Rheum in this county. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, internally, and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, externally. J. W. ADAMS, Newark, O.

GREAT BLOOD MEDICINES.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

A. T. WALKER & SONS

NO. 5 PIER STREET.

The following officers were elected in Naval Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Kittery; Samuel Taylor, W. M.; E. A. Duncan, S. W.; Horace Mitchell, Jr., J. W.; W. W. Locke, Treas.; L. L. Goodrich, Sec.; T. J. Billings, S. D.; J. H. Getchell, J. D.; A. Stephenson, L. B. Gerrish, W. S. Jackson, Com. on Finance.

It Should Be Generally Known

That the multitude of diseases of a scrofulous nature generally proceed from a typhoid condition of the liver. The blood becomes impure because the liver does not act properly and work off the poison from the system, and the certain results are blotches, pimples, eruptions, swellings, tumors, ulcers, and kindred affections, or settling upon the lungs and poisoning their delicate tissues, until ulceration, breaking down, and consumption is established. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will, by acting upon the liver and purifying the blood, cure all these diseases.

York Rebekah Degree Lodge, of Kittery, has elected and installed the following officers for the ensuing term: Lizzie L. Getchell, N. G.; Abbie Jenkins, V. G.; Annie E. Wilson, Rec. Sec.; Abbie P. Philbrick, Fin. Sec.; Octavia Remick, Treas.

Educated and Experienced.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass., who have a thorough knowledge of pharmacy, and many years practical experience in the business. It is prepared with the greatest skill and care, under the direction of the men who originated it. Hence Hood's Sarsaparilla may be depended upon as a thoroughly pure, honest, and reliable medicine.

Rev. John Arthur Simpson, a Baptist clergyman of Fredericton, N. B., was arrested July 25th on a charge of horse stealing. He had two horses with him when arrested. He drew a revolver and attempted to shoot the officer, but was overpowed and taken to the lockup.

I have been a periodical sufferer from hay fever (a most annoying and loathsome affliction) since the summer of 1879, and until I used Ely's Cream Balm was never able to find any relief until cold weather. I can truthfully say that Cream Balm cured me. I regard it as of great value and would not be without it during the hay fever season.

L. M. GEORGIA, Binghampton, N. Y.

Hugh Devere, a Bostonian, entered the residence of a gentleman in St. John, N. B., Friday night, July 24th, and before the inmates were aware, wandered into the chamber of a young lady. He attempted to force her to drink some stuff out of a bottle. Her cries aroused the family, and he was arrested and sent to the insane asylum.

The Beauty of Youth.

No matter how handsome or stalwart a young man may be otherwise, nothing can make up for a partially bald head. Shining talents are attractive, but a shining poll is not. The cause may be sickness or anything else, yet Parker's Hair Balsam will stop the loss of the hair and start a new growth of glossy and soft hair so quickly as to surprise you—restoring the original color at the same time. Not a dye, not oily, delicately perfumed. Only standard 50c. dressing.

Captain James Paterson, of Branford, Conn., has fled from that town under threats and alleged slanders by John P. Hopson, a rich farmer, who also, it is claimed, published Capt. Paterson's death notice in the local papers last month, stating that he died of fright. The captain has now left his farm and crops to waste, and fled to Bethany. He has brought suit against Hopson for $10,000.

They Are Liable!

The doctors are all liable to be mistaken. They were in my case. It cost me $200.00, because they said I had the heart disease, and then told me I must die. Grandmother said it was Liver complaint, and $2.00 worth of Sulphur Bitters cured me.—Jennie Poor, Rockport, Mass.

The Hartford Times says: "Miss May Hilda, a beautiful Italian girl from New York, came to New Haven Monday on a visit. Tuesday evening she was introduced to Angelo Charilla, a handsome Italian mechanic, and Wednesday night they were married. This is the quickest courtship on record in Connecticut."

A Boon to Housekeepers.

Washing day and house-cleaning time lose their terrors when the thrifty housekeeper uses James Fyle's Pearline.

A despatch of July 27th from Elvoy, Wis., is as follows: "A box was shipped by express from Black River Falls to Chicago on Saturday night. The messenger, Major Pierce, became suspicious of the contents and telegraphed to the authorities here. On the arrival of the train at this place yesterday the box was opened, and inside was found a man armed with a 38-calibre revolver, a billy, a razor, a bottle of chloroform, and a bunch of cord. He refuses to give his name. The box was shipped to Sidney L. Barnard, Chicago. Two more persons, supposed to be confederates, were arrested here and all three are in jail. It is supposed they had planned to rob the mail and express car. Nothing is known here regarding the identity of the men."

A Hotel Man's Discovery.

San Francisco, Cal.—Mr. George H. Arnold, proprietor of the Occidental hotel, says that as the air is purer as we ascend, a man should not object to being assigned to a room on the uppermost floor; that he shouldn't mind taking a roomattic, as it were, in view of the fact that St. Jacobs Oil so promptly cures the rheumatic. He states that throughout California it is regarded as the great pain-cure of the age.

Mr. Roach Overpaid On His Contracts.

The Chronicle, when Mr. Chandler was new in the office of secretary of the navy, cautioned him not to be deceived by wily contractors. We did not hesitate to say to Mr. Chandler, who of course was a trifle fresh in the wicked ways of naval contractors, that he must be cautious in his dealings with these sharp and not over scrupulous men. Now mark the result. The contract price for the vessels to be built by Mr. Roach was $2,196,000. By the law of congress, which the secretary was bound to obey, ten per cent was to be reserved until the vessels were completed, but Mr. Chandler ordered $2,082,230 paid to Mr. Roach, and nearly $200,000 ordered to be held was passed over only a few days before the present administration came into power.

It is said that Ex-Attorney General Brewster, whose knowledge of naval affairs is derived almost exclusively from his familiarity with water, advised these payments in excess of what should legally be paid. Perhaps Mr. Chandler yielded to Mr. Roach's importunities, backed by Mr. Brewster's "opinion," though in the matter of opinions of this kind it is perhaps understood that the law is to be construed very much as the cabinet minister who seeks advice desires it to be rendered. When we see how neatly Mr. Roach came it over Mr. Chandler we rather are inclined to believe that it was far better for the interests of the country to select a sharper man and better lawyer than Mr. Chandler for United States senator from New Hampshire. With all his experience at Washington, Mr. Chandler, it appears, has yet much to learn. This over payment would seem to explain the necessity for Mr. Roach's failure.

The Public Offices.

It is proclaimed with a flourish of trumpets that the administration has effected a great saving by the discharge of several clerks in the departments at Washington. Persons who have business with the departments complain that never in the history of the government, not even in the busiest days of the war, have been such delays in replying to ordinary business letters, requiring no reference to other departments, as is seen to-day; and then on the other hand, the constant reply to applicants is made that the present new officials cannot perform the requirements of their various positions if new clerks, unfamiliar with the duties of those places are admitted in too great numbers.

There are applicants for office who imagine that the government service is simply a soft place where the pay is good and the work easy and accomplished without any especial knowledge or training, but like the newly appointed postal clerk when he saw at a station between Bangor and Boston recently, eight tons of mail matter coming in to be carried carefully to its destination, and became astonished at the work in the postal service, so the men already in important positions at Washington begin to ascertain that not every man who turns up with a strong local or other endorsement for a position is fitted for the discharge of its duties.

The great advances made in the transaction of public business since the republicans came into power, the many safeguards for keeping watch over the public funds, and the new and enlarged duties of officials at Washington, make it requisite that the best talent which can be secured should be engaged in the service of the departments, and the fact that this administration is not intending to be made an asylum for decayed and superannuated politicians is fast dawning upon the clouded minds of the office-seekers, who no longer hope for a clean sweep, though they hopefully desire a few crumbs, if only gathered in a dust pan.

When James Russell Lowell was the United States minister to England, our democratic brethren of the press had a great deal to say regarding his "toadying" to British royalty and nobility, because he was everywhere received as an honored guest. Mr. Phelps, the new minister sent over by the democratic administration, at a reception recently given to Prince Victor, son of the prince of Wales, thus addressed the royal sprout: "I can cast no happier horoscope out of the stars that shine upon you, than that you follow in your father's footsteps." In view of the sickening expose of "upper class" immorality made by the Pall Mall Gazette, and of the complicity of the prince of Wales in the vile business, Mr. Phelps' speech appears very like a toadying to royal vice: but we do not hear any very loud denunciatory howlings from our democratic brethren.

A correspondent of the Boston Evening Record, writing from Concord, N. H., says: "It is stated on good democratic authority that Hon. Frank Jones, patronage dispenser for this state, has a letter written by United States Senator Blair, in which the latter in substance offers to support all the President's nominations in the United States senate in case Colonel T. P. Cheney, United States pension agent; Henry M. Putney, revenue collector; John L. Stevens, postmaster at Manchester, and one other republican officeholder in this state, are not disturbed."

The two leading journals of Copenhagen, Denmark, refer to a public scandal involving a professor in the university, the president of a leading scientific society, a most eminent author of Denmark, several wealthy merchants and some members of the magistracy. They are accused of having criminal dealings with young girls. Ten culprits have been arrested, and two have committed suicide. The exposure resulted from an attempt to extort money. It appears that the better classes of Copenhagen are as vile as those of London.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Works through the blood, regulating, toning and invigorating all the functions of the body.

Ringworm Humor and Salt-Rheum.

RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1878.
C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen— * * * * I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, also, my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I feel entirely cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.
I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

Biliousness, Sick Headache.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.
MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gents—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any other medicine since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.
Yours truly,
HOMER B. NASH.
